We are also advertising in farm papers, and foreign language newspapers, reaching people who may not read the daily newspapers.

This is our idea of service. We have the three biggest mills—we are large buyers of raw materials—and we advertise everywhere—because that is the cheapest way to sell our roofing.

We share the savings of our enormous volume with you who use roofing. We encourage jobbers and dealers to follow our example and sell on small margins and depend upon the large volume of business which is certain to result from the best service to users of roofing.

That building of yours which requires a roof—whether it's a factory, warehouse, business block, farm building, residence or any other structure—whether it's new or old—your first thought would be roll roofing, because Certain-teed has put roll roofing easily within your consideration from a price standpoint.

It has done more than that—it has put Certain-teed Roll Roofing first in your consideration from the standpoint of quality, durability and real roofing service on the roof.

LATIN BID FOR PEACE FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

But Our War Preparations Will Go on With Unabated Vigor.

Wilson Accepts from Argentine, Brazil and Chile a Formal Offer to Act as Intermediary to Co-operate With Washington in the Elimination of Huerta "If the Latter Consents."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Those officials who have studied Huerta's personality as it has been revealed to them, and his stubborn indifference to any plan which would eliminate him from the head of the Mexico City government, were skeptical tonight of the success of the peace plan.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Pan-American diplomacy tonight made its first attempt to solve the Mexican crisis by peaceful negotiation.

The United States government accepted from Argentina, Chile and Brazil a formal offer to act as intermediaries in the present situation, but reservedly pointed out that an act of aggression by the military forces or hostile demonstrations toward Americans might upset hopes of immediate peace.

The Brazilian, Argentine and Chilean envoys transmitted the United States' acceptance of their proposal to the Spanish Ambassador, who immediately sent it by cable to the Spanish legation at Mexico City for presentation to Gen. Huerta.

Gen. Carranza, head of the Constitutionalists, was informed of it through his representatives here.

The three diplomats later announced no further steps would be taken by them until replies had been received.

PREPARATIONS GO ON.

Coincidentally with the acceptance of the offer of mediation, administration officials announced there would be no cessation of preparations by the army and navy for future emergencies, and no orders would be issued to the naval forces now at Vera Cruz or the ships at sea changing original plans. No further steps, however, to secure reparation for the EXECUTION OF SEVEN AMERICANS PLANNED BY MEXICAN GEN. MAAS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—Wireless advices tonight from Vera Cruz reported that Mexican Federal Gen. Maas has found seven American prisoners guilty of certain charges and that he proposes to execute them.

There is no confirmation of the report.

Consul Canada, at Vera Cruz, the report said, has notified the State Department at Washington of Gen. Maas's alleged intention. It further was said that Gen. Maas has about 33 prisoners, including 14 women and seven or eight children. The Consul sent a messenger to Gen. Maas appealing to him in the name of humanity to release the women and children, the wireless report said. The nature of the charges brought against the seven Americans was not indicated by wireless, or whether they were given a trial.

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—Rear-Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, has recommended to Washington that Rear-Admiral Fletcher be kept in command ashore after the army arrives.

American naval officers on duty in the city became convinced, after an investigation of the sniping which occurred last night, that they had to deal with a secret organization which posts snipers after dark and at points where their fire is most effective.

Alberto Goodman, chief surgeon of the Mexican National Railroad, was appointed today health officer of the city under the naval organization of the municipality. The former city officials definitely refused to assume their duties, owing to fear of personal consequences.

The most drastic treatment possible will be administered to Mexican snipers caught operating at night. At a staff conference today the question of this kind of shooting was discussed and it was decided that the most severe measures would be the only simple and quick solution.

Lieut.-Col. T. P. Kane, commanding 500 marines with two hydro-aeroplanes, was ordered to advance to the source of the water supply at Tejeria, nine miles up the river. The supply has been shut off and it is reported that Gen. Maas's men have been seeking to damage the pumps.

Fighting between the Mexican Federal troops and the Constitutionalists was in progress at Tampico last night, according to a report received by Admiral Badger from the British war vessels there.

The British commander off Tampico said he had heard a Mexican gunboat in action, but was unable to learn the extent of the fighting. The American war vessels were lying a considerable distance out from the coast. Refugees to the number of 1950 have been removed from Tampico during the last few days.

At Puerto Mexico everything was quite last night. Rear-Admiral Badger is relying on the British vessels there, which are in charge of the situation. The American liners at the docks of Puerto Mexico have not been interfered with in any way. The American torpedo-boat destroyer Patterson, which is at Tuxpan, has been instructed to take on board twenty-five Chinese refugees and send them to Galveston at the first opportunity.

TAKES TAMPICO CEMETERY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) April 25.—The following report from Gen. Caballero, rebel commander at Tampico, to Constitutionalist headquarters at Matamoras under date of the 24th, was given out here today:

"It having come to my notice that the Federals in Tampico were offering further insults to Americans, I immediately reopened my attack at 4 o'clock this morning and already have captured the cemetery where strong Federal force resisted. Expect triumph by night."

CLAMOR FOR FIGHT IS GROWING LOUDER.

Climax Is Expected When Our Regulars Reach Vera Cruz.

Impelling Undercurrent of Feeling in Both Branches of Congress that the United States Should Take the Bull by the Horns Is Tempered by Mediation Proposal in a Lull Before the Storm.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Admiral Badger reported tonight from Vera Cruz he was extending his lines of bluejackets and marines farther beyond the city. The battalion of marines from the South Carolina is well entrenched two and a half miles west of the city.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Though the Mexican crisis has been under suppression in Congress for several days while the President and his Cabinet executed plans of reprisals against the defiance of Gen. Huerta, there is an impelling undercurrent of feeling in both Senate and House for a declaration of war, which was tempered somewhat tonight by the acceptance of offers of mediation from Argentine, Brazil and Chile.

Leaders in Congress had for several days been informally discussing the necessity for an unequivocal declaration of war, for a sweeping campaign in Mexico and for the ultimate establishment, by force of American arms, of peace and constitutional government in the battle-torn republic.

No swell from the undercurrent reached the surface today, however, but Congressmen in both houses had predicted a storm would break Monday or as soon as American troops reached Vera Cruz to support the naval forces there.

RESTIVE MEMBERS.

Members who were most restive over the situation believed tonight, after learning of the intermediation proposals, that no further aggressive action toward Mexico should be forced until it should become apparent that the good offices of South American nations to compose the situation would fail.

Although there was evidence of the feeling of dissatisfaction with present conditions in the Senate, probably the most remarkable evidence of unrest was given in the House. During a day devoted under the surface to a discussion of Mexico, most of the leaders were in conference and sentiment developed was strongly in favor of war.

In the conferences more than a dozen of the most prominent men on the Democratic side participated. Speaker Clark, Majority Leader Underwood, Chairman Flood of the Foreign Relations Committee, Chairman Fitzgerald of the Appropriations Committee and Chairman Hay of the Military Committee figured in all of them.

The discussion was so outspoken that there was talk for a time of the appointment of a committee to consist of Speaker Clark and Mr. Underwood, which should call upon President Wilson and inform him that the sentiment of the House was for war.

Developments of the day, however,

TRAIN AMERICAN GUNS ON FORCE AT MEXICALI.

Arrival of More Regular Cavalry and State Militia, With the Establishment of Camp in Commanding Position at Calexico, Inspires Feeling of Confidence Among the Residents of the Border.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CALEXICO (Cal.) April 25.—American guns were trained on Mexicali tonight at a distance of 800 yards. This was the result of the arrival of more regular cavalary and State militia today and the removal of the camp of a majority of the regulars to a spot a quarter of a mile east of Calexico and fifty feet from the border, within plain view of the Mexicali garrison. No homes of noncombatants intervene.

Two three-inch guns brought by the Coast Artillery company, which arrived here today, were pointed at the Mexican garrison. A heavy guard of gunners, considered among the regulars as crack shots, guarded the guns.

No explanation was offered by Capt. James G. Harbord, ranking officer of the United States regular forces here, for his action, which followed quickly upon his arrival.

It is believed, however, that with national and State forces numbering about 500 men, with two guns, the encampment east of the town, with no buildings or homes between it and the Mexicali garrison is the best location.

Camp was made directly behind an irrigation ditch, which forms a natural breastworks. Capt. Arthur Poillon's troop of cavalry and the militia are expected to move there also shortly.

The entrenchments of the Mexican Federals, who worked at night and stopped at daybreak, are plainly visible. They circle the garrison from the channel of New River eastward about Mexicali.

Mexican cavalry, which is said to consist principally of men recently forced to enlist at Mexicali, is reported active in night rides west toward Signal Mountain, the base of which is circled by the mountain trail leading from Ensenada eastward along the irrigation system toward Sharp's Heading.

Because information sent out of here by correspondents promptly reaches the Mexican commander at Mexicali, United States army officers discussed today the advisability of establishing a press censorship.

The American military forces here were increased to about 500 men, with two field pieces today by the arrival this morning of two trainloads of United States regular cavalry and artillery men. The reinforcements consisted of fifty men of the Coast Artillery, with two three-inch guns under Capt. Hilton, and Troop L of the First Cavalry, under Capt. James G. Harbord, who ranks Capt. Arthur Poillon of Troop D and who therefore assumed command of the United States forces here.

Information was received on the Mexican side of the international line today that eighty-five Mexican volunteers and conscripts were drilled all night at Mexicali.

Forced enlisting at Mexicali has stopped, because of lack of more men to draft. It is estimated the conscripts total 150, only half of whom the Mexican commander is able to arm.

RUSH THE GRADUATION OF OFFICERS FOR ARMY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) April 25.—A flurry was caused at Ft. Leavenworth tonight when orders were received by Lieut.-Col. W. P. Burnham, the commandant, from the War Department, decreeing that the army service schools be closed and that the student officers be graduated on Tuesday. The order was unexpected as in the only previous instance when the schools were closed—during the Spanish War—the action was not taken until after the formal declaration of war.

About 125 officers are affected by the order. They probably will proceed to join their regiments immediately after the schools are closed. Col. Burnham said he did not know the reason for the closing of the schools. Relatives of the officers said they believed the order indicated a widespread mobilization of the army.

VILLA FORTIFIES JUAREZ DEPORTS PRESS MEN.

Rebel Shows Real Hand When Hatred of Americans Crops Out.

Bursts Into a Rage When Asked as to His Relations With Carranza and Taunts Americans With Cowardice When He Is Told of Mediation Offer of the South American Countries.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JUAREZ, April 25.—Surrounded by a number of so-called advisers, all of whom were more or less under the influence of the native tequila, Gen. Villa consented to receive three newspaper representatives tonight apparently for the sole purpose of causing their arrest and deportation from the country as undesirable citizens. With a sneer on his lips that could not be mistaken, Villa declared that he was well assured that the American government was now ready to accept the good offices of Argentine, Brazil and Chile in bringing about peace owing to the fact, as he expressed it, that the "livers of some gringos were as white as their faces."

While Villa enjoyed venting his spleen in the presence of the foreign visitors, Federico Gonzales Garza, the rebel diplomatic counsellor, was sent to the American side to send telegrams to Constitutionalist agents in different parts of the world to the effect that there would be no war.

"I am anxious to send these messages from the American side, written on American paper," said Garza, as he left his chief to carry out his mission.

Gen. Villa was asked why the Mexicans were digging trenches and placing bales of cotton in front, if his intentions were as peaceable as he would have the world believe.

"We are simply following the example of the Americans in fortifying Sunset Heights in El Paso," he retorted, but a moment later he added: "Don't think for a moment I am fool enough to tell you what we are doing."

While the correspondents were in Juarez word was brought that Jesus San Martine, the man who is accused of having fired the fuse that blew up the Cumbre tunnel, had been arrested by the provost guard on the American side of the line. Almost instinctively the commander branded the American authorities as "sin verguenzas," but a moment later he caught himself and said that he trusted that the authorities knew what they were doing and that no innocent man had been thrust into jail.

When one of his questioners presumed to inquire into the report that there had been a break between Villa and Carranza, the former summoned a guard and ordered the entire party locked up until they had learned to be polite. On the way to the Police Station a corporal rode up and said that Villa wanted the strangers sent over the bridge "where they belonged."

This order was carried out without ceremony and with scant courtesy.

According to the American military authorities, Villa is not playing a fair game, inasmuch as he is declaring undying friendship for the gringos and at the same time is permitting military operations to proceed in his territory.

"The fact of the matter is that Villa's troops are quietly fortifying Juarez," said Capt. Cootes tonight

The Mexican people on this side have been told that the Yankees had planted cannon on the hills back of the city and that it was only a question of time when Juarez would be under fire.

So far the symptoms of real warfare have been lacking, but owing to Villa's pronounced antagonism to Americans, his words are considered in the light of an attempt to deceive some one.

About forty families have been allowed to return to rebel territory, but more are expected tomorrow.

Owing to the admitted split between Villa and Carranza, most of the latter's officers here not only show opposition to the stand than Villa has assumed, but openly declare that Carranza must be maintained at the head of the rebel party even if Villa has to "be eliminated."

It is expected that Villa will show his hand within a day or two.

Pressed by American friends to make a plain statement of fact and thus relieve the tension caused by false reports, Gen. Villa this afternoon admitted that he and Carranza had arrived at the parting of the ways and that he (Villa) would occupy the post of supreme commander in the future. As indicated in previous dispatches there has been a split between the two leaders, but those familiar with the facts assert that the present international crisis had nothing to do with the quarrel.

VILLA'S STATEMENT.

Upon being hectored into making some sort of a formal statement, Villa studied a few minutes and then said:

"I am not in sympathy with Gen. Carranza's policy, but it is indecorous to say anything at the present time. Gen. Carranza will obey the wishes of the Constitutionalist army or he will have greater matters to consider than the present crisis with the United States."

The Mexicans are secretly preparing for an attack of some kind. The American officials discovered this fact by peering through their field glasses and steps are being taken to keep in touch with the situation.

Intense excitement among the Mexican residents of Chihuahua was caused this afternoon by the appearance of Shrine patrol El Mada marching through the streets on parade. Most of the ignorant classes ran through the town yelling that the Americans were invading Mexico.

JOIN COLONY OF REFUGEES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NACO (Ariz.) April 25.—Two hundred Americans arriving here this afternoon joined the colony of refugees from Cananea. Fifteen Americans are still at the mine there.

The refugees reported insulting treatment from the customs clerks across the line. Irresponsible boys were employed, every trunk was searched to the bottom for arms and ammunition which, when found, were confiscated, and many articles were stolen. In the midst of the inspection the customs force adjourned for the afternoon, leaving most of the refugees to stand around for unnecessary hours.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, announced late today that the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh would reopen for business next Monday with a new management and new board of directors. The capital of the reorganized bank is $4,000,000 with a surplus of $950,000.

The First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh in deposits and total liabilities, was the largest national bank which has failed since the organization of the national banking system in 1863.

BRYAN DENIES HE'LL RESIGN.

Declares He Will Stick Even if War Is Declared.

Differences in Cabinet Are Said to Be Trivial.

Daniels Thinks Press Ought to Muzzle Its Reports.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Secretary of State Bryan today emphatically denied widespread and persistent reports that he would resign from the Cabinet. When informed of published reports that he would relinquish his post should war be declared against Mexico, Mr. Bryan said:

"The subject of my resignation has never been discussed with anybody nor thought of by me."

White House officials pointed to the general denial issued a few days ago of the story that Secretary Bryan would resign, saying that the statement was sufficient to cover all rumors of Cabinet dissension.

Outside of the White House there has been considerable discussion of the individual views known to be held by members of the Cabinet on the present situation. None of these is said to be serious or approaching any breach in the President's official family, but ther have been natural differences of opinion as to what aggressive measures would be pursued. The President himself, it is said, has invited the widest range of suggestions from his advisers and has steered a middle course between those who favor a quickly aggressive policy and those who believe war can be best averted by patient observation and carefully deliberated action.

Officials point out that the War Department is naturally anxious to take every reasonable precaution with its forces and the navy is bending its energies likewise to perfect its arrangements for actual warfare. They say also that the State Department, which is trying through diplomacy to prevent aggressive movements which might aggravate action by the Constitutionalists and the Mexican people as a whole, is occupied in friendly repression of the war spirit of its allied departments.

It is stated on authority that in no case has Secretary Bryan declared that he would resign his office in case it became necessary for the United States to engage in war, and he has let it be known to his personal friends that he could be relied on to do his full duty to the administration and to remain at his post under present conditions and any others that the thought could possibly arise. The rumors of Mr. Bryan's intention to retire from the Cabinet in various contingencies are ascribed by his friends to sentiments uttered by the secretary in the early days of his incumbency. He has spoken often on the subject of universal peace and has expressed the altruistic sentiments, and among other things, has declared in a speech delivered in the west, that there would be no war while he was Secretary of State.

The secretary's purpose, it is explained, was to emphasize his general conviction that the growing feeling of disapproval of warfare could be relied upon to prevent the country from drifting into war under any set of conditions that could be conceived of by those to whom he addressed himself.

It is further stated on the authority of members of the Cabinet that nothing has occurred in any cabinet meeting to develop any dissatisfaction whatever on the part of any individual. It is true, they state, that various cabinet members have viewed certain subjects from different angles, but that invariably has applied to the preliminary phases of subjects.

President Wilson has encouraged expressions of individual opinion. The secretaries themselves state that not one of them has ever left the semi-weekly conferences at the White House with any feeling of dissatisfaction with what had occurred. Secretary Daniels, discussing newspaper reports of Cabinet friction, said:

"There is not now and has not been the least scintilla of friction in the Cabinet. At a time like this, my private judgment, as a newspaper man, is that the press owes it as a patriotic duty not to spread such reports."

DOUBT REPORTS OF A MASSACRE.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—El Dictamen, a Vera Cruz newspaper, today says four Americans have been killed by mobs in Mexico City. It declares it has received this information from the Federal capital.

Three of the American victims were taken out of street cars and killed in the streets, while the fourth was killed in the Young Men's Christian Association building by members of a baseball team to which he belonged, according to El Dictamen, which made its reappearance today.

The information as to the massacre of Americans is not confirmed from any other source and considered doubtful in many quarters.

Vera Cruz was today isolated from direct communication with the interior, but the sparse news brought here by refugees indicates that the state of affairs is bad and rapidly growing worse so far as Americans are concerned.

The refugees arriving here bring word of intense anti-American feeling in all directions.

The American military authorities in Vera Cruz consider the situation of Americans in the capital and all over the republic grave.

U. S. AEROPLANE CIRCLES VERA CRUZ

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—An aeroplane from the American fleet made a flight over Vera Cruz shortly before noon today.

On attaining an altitude of several hundred feet the naval aviator circled the city and then passed over the outskirts and observed the position of the Mexican Federal forces.

SENDS MEXICANS FROM VERA CRUZ.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Admiral Fletcher tonight reported:

"At 3 p.m. Saturday a train under flag of truce left Vera Cruz at 1[illegible] a.m. with 350 Mexicans, proceeded ten kilometers to the break in the Mexican road, meeting a train there with about 400 foreigners, fifty of whom were Americans and all of whom were brought to Vera Cruz."

He said there had been no change in the situation there and that additional conferences with the city officials this forenoon resulted in a proclamation which was issued and ordered the disarmament of all inhabitants.

TO TAKE NEW MEN INTO THE ARMY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Wilson late today signed the volunteer army bill, which provides for the organization of volunteer forces in time of war.

Under the measure, bodies of State Militia would be taken into the Federal service with their officers, who would be commissioned by the President.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—Mexicans desiring to reach the interior from Vera Cruz are to be exchanged for American refugees who wish to reach the coast, according to an arrangement made today.

LAREDO OUT OF DANGER.

Rain Puts Out Most of the Fires. Damage Estimated at Half-Million Dollars.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LAREDO (Tex.) April 25.—Laredo awoke today to find that danger of immediate trouble from Mexican Federals had been passed. Most of the fires were extinguished by the rains of last night

The drug store of Shelby Theri[illegible], American Vice-Consul, suffered no damage, although buildings directly in front of it were destroyed. A conservative estimate of the damage is about $500,000. Some of the property owners who suffered the most had contributed large sums to the Federal cause, the greater part of which is said to have been forced "contributions."

Clamor For a Fight.

particularly the appearance of hope that mediation by South American republics might bring about a peaceful solution, interfered with this plan and the conferences ended without definite conclusion, but with most of those who participated convinced that it was only a question of time until drastic action must be taken.

FOR WAR.

Out of the many conferences the attitude of the House leaders became exceedingly clear. They said that war should be declared; that the United States should send the army into Mexico and "go through with what it had started;" that in this way only can peace be established on a sound and permanent basis.

They represented the sentiment of the House on their side and they prepared to tell the President that since the House took this position they believed it to be the position of the country.

Although the news of proffered mediation put a new aspect on the situation, it was the general understanding that the House leaders expect to make their representations to the President as soon as the army has been concentrated at Vera Cruz.

In the Senate there was no such concerted action as was evident in the House, but there were reports of dissatisfaction from individual Senators and evidence that the bond of silence which many Senators have observed for months will be broken on Monday and that war talk will flourish again.

Some members have impressed Cabinet officers that a declaration of war could not be long averted, asserting that Congressional action should have been taken. Representative Hay, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, conferred today with Secretary of War Garrison with reference to the situation.

"I wish I were as well satisfied with the strength of our land forces at Vera Cruz as I am of the naval strength there," said Representative Farr of Pennsylvania, in a speech on the naval appropriation bill today.

"Are our forces there protected against possible overwhelming numbers?"

Mr. Farr portrayed the international rivalry for South and Central American trade, declaring that it was the Monroe doctrine that brought on the Mexican complications.

"Can anyone," he asked, "foresee the trouble, turmoil and tragic history that would follow a surrender of the Monroe doctrine?"

Representative Padgett of Tennessee, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, in a tribute to naval officers, defended the navy from the attacks made on it in the House.

Representative Witherspoon, in the course of the debate in the House, declared that in the naval appropriation bill there is a "large amount of graft."

"In the face of the enemy's guns," Mr. Padgett declared, "we are willing to place our naval officers where they will cherish and maintain and protect the honor and good name of the American people. And yet when we come to the little question of how many ships we have, to the question of what is needed in the way of new construction, their motives are to be questioned, their honor torn down and they are to be branded as men moved by an unholy purpose and conspirators in an unholy cause. I repudiate it and bear my testimony to the men who protect our flag."

Some of the "small navy" men had criticised the personnel of the higher grades in the navy, and Representative Saunders of Virginia, in a speech, had suggested that if "Fighting Bob Evans," born in the northern part of Mr. Saunders's district, had not been appointed to the Naval Academy he might have been only the postmaster at Floyd, Va., instead of admiral of the navy. Mr. Padgett made frequent excerpts from speeches attacking the administration's naval programme and deplored what he called "preposterous attitudes of those men who forget themselves in the exuberance of their enthusiasm for their particular views."

JAPAN DENIES REPORT.

Ambassador Chinda Tells Bryan His Government Will Send No More Warships to Mexico.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25. — The Japanese Ambassador, Viscount Chinda, and the Chinese Minister, K. F. Shah, conferred with Secretary Bryan late today at the Secretary's request on the question of protection of Japanese and Chinese subjects in Mexico. It is understood Viscount Chinda stated to Secretary Bryan that Japan at present had no intention of sending more warships to Mexico, as had been reported.

JAPAN NEUTRAL.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

TOKIO, April 25.—The Japanese Premier authorized the statement today that Japan has no intention whatsoever of utilizing the present trouble between the United States and Mexico to secure from the United States a satisfactory settlement of the California difficulty.

cabinet members have viewed certain subjects from different angles, but that invariably has applied to the preliminary phases of subjects.

President Wilson has encouraged expressions of individual opinion. The secretaries themselves state that not one of them has ever left the semi-weekly conferences at the White House with any feeling of dissatisfaction with what had occurred. Secretary Daniels, discussing newspaper reports of Cabinet friction, said:

"There is not now and has not been the least scintilla of friction in the Cabinet. At a time like this, my private judgment, as a newspaper man, is that the press owes it as a patriotic duty not to spread such reports."

DOUBT REPORTS OF A MASSACRE.

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—El Dictamen, a Vera Cruz newspaper, today says four Americans have been killed by mobs in Mexico City. It declares it has received this information from the Federal capital.

Three of the American victims were taken out of street cars and killed in the streets, while the fourth was killed in the Young Men's Christian Association building by members of a baseball team to which he belonged, according to El Dictamen, which made its reappearance today.

The information as to the massacre of Americans is not confirmed from any other source and considered doubtful in many quarters.

Vera Cruz was today isolated from direct communication with the interior, but the sparse news brought here by refugees indicates that the state of affairs is bad and rapidly growing worse so far as Americans are concerned.

The refugees arriving here bring word of intense anti-American feeling in all directions.

The American military authorities in Vera Cruz consider the situation of Americans in the capital and all over the republic grave.

U. S. AEROPLANE CIRCLES VERA CRUZ

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—An aeroplane from the American fleet made a flight over Vera Cruz shortly before noon today.

On attaining an altitude of several hundred feet the naval aviator circled the city and then passed over the outskirts and observed the position of the Mexican Federal forces.

SENDS MEXICANS FROM VERA CRUZ.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Admiral Fletcher tonight reported:

"At 3 p.m. Saturday a train under flag of truce left Vera Cruz at 10 a.m. with 350 Mexicans, proceeded ten kilometers to the break in the Mexican road, meeting a train there with about 400 foreigners, fifty of whom were Americans and all of whom were brought to Vera Cruz."

He said there had been no change in the situation there and that additional conferences with the city officials this forenoon resulted in a proclamation which was issued and ordered the disarmament of all inhabitants.

TO TAKE NEW MEN INTO THE ARMY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Wilson late today signed the volunteer army bill, which provides for the organization of volunteer forces in time of war.

Under the measure, bodies of State Militia would be taken into the Federal service with their officers, who would be commissioned by the President.

TO SWAP MEXICANS FOR AMERICANS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—Mexicans desiring to reach the interior from Vera Cruz are to be exchanged for American refugees who wish to reach the coast, according to an arrangement made today.

LAREDO OUT OF DANGER.

Rain Puts Out Most of the Fires; Damage Estimated at Half-Million Dollars.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LAREDO (Tex.) April 25.—Laredo awoke today to find that danger of immediate trouble from Mexican Federals had been passed. Most of the fires were extinguished by the rains of last night

The drug store of Shelby Theriot, American Vice-Consul, suffered no damage, although buildings directly in front of it were destroyed. A conservative estimate of the damage is about $500,000. Some of the property owners who suffered the most had contributed large sums to the Federal cause, the greater part of which is said to have been forced "contributions."

BORDER BAND ON WARPATH.

Americans in Pursuit of the Armed Mexicans.

Los Angeles Agitator Caught by an Arizona Sheriff.

Alleged Agent of Huerta Is Held at Nogales.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) April 25.—A band of armed Mexicans started from Patagonia, Ariz., twenty-seven miles northeast of here, today, and while marching southward toward the border, have been robbing and firing on Americans.

Americans from Nogales and surrounding towns quickly armed themselves and started in pursuit of the Mexicans.

A long-distance telephone message from Duquesne said the Americans in that mining camp and at Patagonia had armed themselves and were prepared to fire on the Mexicans. Only eight armed Mexicans started from Patagonia, but they were said to have gathered recruits and were headed for the border at Lochiel. The Sheriff at Duquesne called for help and at 3 o'clock this afternoon two automobiles loaded with armed American civilians and a lieutenant of the United States army started from Nogales over the twenty-mile mountain road to the border in the hope of capturing them.

The orders of the Americans are to shoot if the Mexicans show fight. Americans in the copper-mining region west of here have been terrorized by the rising of the Mexicans.

AGITATOR ARRESTED.

Felipe A. Armenta, a Mexican, was arrested by United States government agents as he stepped off a train on his arrival here this afternoon. His arrest followed telegraphic instructions from Los Angeles, Cal., explaining that Armenta was coming to the border to incite the Mexican people to destroy American property. He was said to be a secret agent of the Huerta government, commissioned to induce rebel leaders to join the Federals. The prisoner was well dressed and apparently well provided with money. Other foreigners besides Americans are leaving the interior of Western Mexico. Emil Beraud, the French Vice-Consul at Hermosillo, wired the French Embassy at Mexico City today that he was leaving the country after turning French interests over to private individuals.

AT HERMOSILLO.

Conditions at Hermosillo and other interior points remained quiet today. There was a steady exodus of Americans toward the border, but it will be fifteen days before Americans in remote mining towns can be reached.

HOSTILE ACTS.

Hostile acts committed by irresponsible rebels against Americans in various parts of the interior of Northwestern Mexico became such today as to increase apprehensions that the demonstrations might assume more serious aspects.

C. L. Montague, American Consular Agent at Cananea, a rich copper-mining town, forty-five miles south of Naco, Ariz., telegraphed to Consul Frederick Simpich that at 5 o'clock this evening a mob of rebels was congregating about the consulate and speeches threatening Americans were being made.

All of the Americans except Montague, however, had reached the border safely. Montague had remained to pack up the consulate archives. His dispatch read:

"Am now in office attempting to pack up archives. Very large mob now congregating on all sides of the consulate. Strong speeches being made against Americans. Some advocate breaking into consulate, others to take down American flag. I have decided not to take down the flag until 1:30, the usual time, so as not to create excitement. Do not know what the result will be."

Consul Simpich immediately wired a vigorous note to rebel authorities at Cananea advising that American interests must be protected and deprecating any show of violence against the American consular agent.

Except for the acts of irresponsible Mexicans the exodus of Americans from Mexico continued quietly today. Louis Hostetter, American Consul at Hermosillo, wired he would reach the border Monday. Americans as far south of Hermosillo as Culiacan are to be brought north on a special train under protection of Gen. Alfaro Obregon, the rebel commander. Most of the jefes have shown a willingness to assist in the departure of Americans and fear for the safety of foreigners is centered only in possible acts of the more lawless elements, who have become outspoken in anti-American sentiment.

VILLA RIVALS JOHN BUNNY.

Rebel Chief's Purse Likely to Be Made Fat by "Movies."

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL PASO, April 25.—The "movies" may yet save the United States at least from having to fight all of Mexico, said a man today who is in the confidence of Gen. Villa, the Mexican Constitutionalist leader. Villa's determined stand for friendship with the United States in opposition to the expressed views of Carranza, his nominal chief, may be due to real good feeling for Americans, but this friend of Villa's thinks it just as likely to spring from the fact that Villa is financially interested in the success of a lot of Villa motion pictures that are to be shown throughout the United States. Probably his greatest single source of income for several years—if all goes well—will be the proceeds of his motion-picture posings.

MEXICANS QUIT VERA CRUZ.

Trainload Leaves and May be Exchanged for Americans Now Imprisoned at Cordoba.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—A train full of Mexicans is leaving today to go to the break in the line some miles from the city. Mexican passengers are there to be transferred to the equipment used by Nelson O'Shaughnessy when he came from Mexico City. On board this train they are to go to Cordoba and if possible the train is to take up there the Americans reported to be marooned in that place and bring them back to Vera Cruz. Efforts to effect such an exchange and other courtesies are now being made. The dispatch of a second train has been planned and it is thought probable that Consul William W. Canada will go out to Cordoba with it.

TIZ—A JOY TO SORE, TIRED FEET

"TIZ" for Aching, Burning, Puffing-up Feet and Corns or Callouses.

"How 'TIZ' does help sore feet."

Good-bye sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelling feet, tired feet.

Good-bye corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or drawing up your face in agony. "TIZ" is magical, acts right off. "TIZ" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. Use "TIZ" and wear smaller shoes. Use "TIZ" and forget your foot misery. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel.

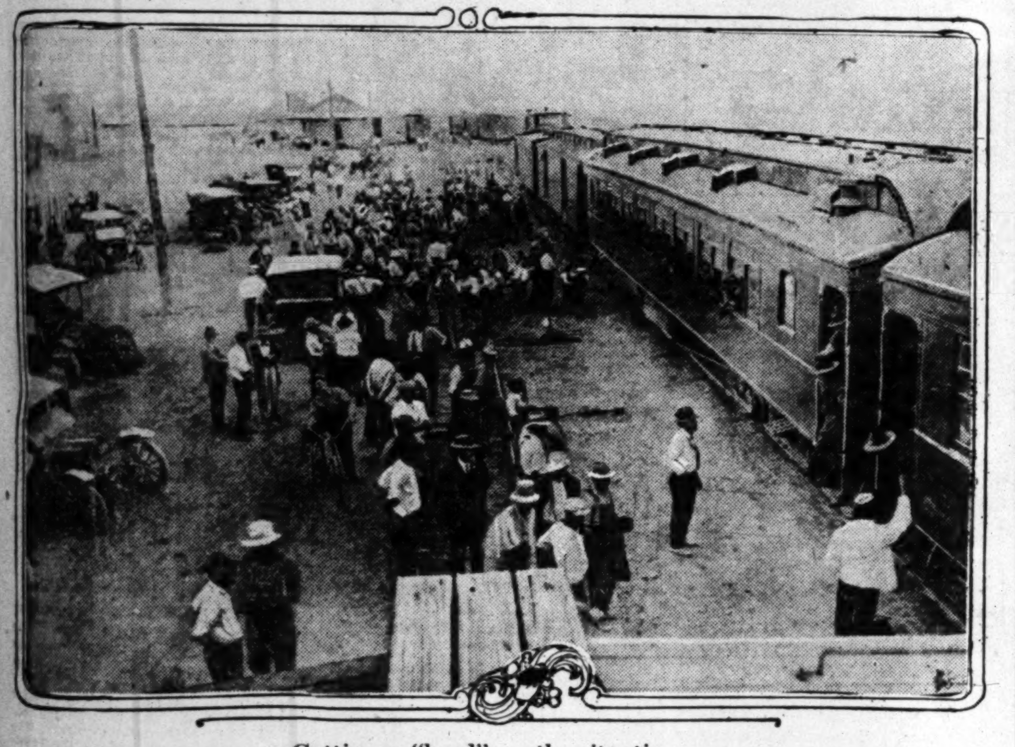
Get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" now at any druggist or department store. Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed or money refunded.

GIVE THE LIE TO GEN. HUERTA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—This statement later was issued by the Navy Department:

"In view of the erroneous impression reported to exist in Mexico City that non-combatants are not allowed to leave Vera Cruz, Secretary Daniels has called Admiral Badger to make every possible effort to spread broadcast information that such is not the case, but on the contrary every possible thing will be done to assist them in leaving Vera Cruz for Mexico City or elsewhere if they so desire."



Getting a "bead" on the situation.

Cavalrymen of Troop D, keen with excitement, "rubbering" from the car windows to get their first perspective of Calexico, Cal., opposite Mexicali, Mex., whither they have been sent to protect the greatest irrigation project in the United States.

By the Forelock.

ARIZONANS ORGANIZING TO RESIST INVASION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 25.—Gov. Hunt continued today to receive telegrams from all over the State, particularly the southern part, asking military protection as a precaution against disorder should Mexican rebels be brought into complications with the United States. Home guard companies have been organized at San Simon, Patagonia, Mesa, Winslow and many other towns. Four companies of militia probably will be sent to Bisbee tonight. Fourteen rifles and a quantity of ammunition, according to a report received by the Governor, have been found hidden near the international line in the vicinity of Yuma.

Gov. Hunt telegraphed to Secretary of War Garrison that he would pay cash for 1400 Krag rifles and 325,000 rounds of ammunition.

APPEAL FOR GUNS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—An appeal for government guns to arm citizens of Bisbee, Ariz., to repel any invasion from Mexican territory was laid before Secretary of War Garrison today by Senator Ashurst. Gov. Hunt, in a telegram to Senator Ashurst, asked that 1400 rifles be sent from the nearest army post. A telegram to Senator Ashurst from Capt. John C. Greenway at Bisbee stated that 900 Mexicans, said to belong to the Constitutionalist forces, were driving Americans out of Cananea, across the border.

Acquisitiveness.

"SEIZE BORDER STATES" IS ADVICE OF PHELAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, April 25.—Acquisition of the northern states of Mexico, including Lower California, by the United States, in the event of actual war with Mexico, was advocated here tonight by James D. Phelan of San Francisco, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Included in his remarks, made before the Wilson-Marshall Club here, was the declaration that a "nation from across the Pacific is seeking a foothold at Magdalena Bay, which should be controlled by this government."

"The acquisition of the northern Mexican states is of vast importance to the United States," said Phelan, "because it would give entire control of the Colorado and Rio Grande Rivers to the United States. His address was a defense of the policies of the Democratic administration.

THEY'RE GOING "FOR DUTY."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Secretary Garrison said today that the United States troops, which have been ordered to Vera Cruz, were going there "for duty" when asked as to the purpose of the military movement. He would make no further explanation.

SHRAPNEL SHELLS SENT TO BORDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FT. STEVENS (Or.) April 25.—Heavy shipments of war materials are being made from Ft. Stevens to the Mexican border. Shrapnel shells, field gun shells and primers constitute the bulk of the shipments so far made. Shrapnel is particularly effective in driving men out of entrenchments.

HUERTA DROPS AMERICANS FROM MEXICAN RAILWAYS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—At the office of the National Railways of Mexico the report from Mexico City that President Huerta had asked all the Americans in the employ of the railway company, with the exception of President E. N. Brown, to resign, was confirmed. Brown is in this city, but it is not known whether he will accede to the request of the Mexican government to continue in charge of the railway. The local officers of the road will continue to operate the property as best they can from this point.

Officials stationed here had no direct word from any of the operating officers of the company in any part of Mexico for the last three days.

THOUSANDS OF REFUGEES ARRIVING IN GALVESTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) April 25.—About 3000 American refugees are expected here by tomorrow night.

The battleship Connecticut is due in the morning with women and children from Tampico, and some married men. The American collier Cyclops arrived late today with 316 men, who slept on mattresses and on deck with rope for pillows, there being no cabin accommodations. Among the men on the Cyclops are D. E. Lamb, J. A. Osborne, Thomas Sharkey and G. S. Bradshaw, all of Los Angeles.

The tanker Trinidadian also arrived today with 364 refugees, including thirty-four women and twenty-six Chinese.

All refugees are compelled by the present quarantine regulations to be six days out of port before they may land here. This means two to four days on shipboard after arrival. When the quarantine boat approached the Trinidadian tonight some men shouted:

"Go back and bring us something to eat—we are hungry enough to eat anything."

The refugee vessels here and some still at sea had sailed on such short notice that it was impossible to get aboard sufficient food supplies.

Late tonight the Esperanza arrived from Vera Cruz with about 350 Americans aboard.

AMERICANS AT TAMPICO RESCUED BY GERMANS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) April 25.—The story of an anti-American riot at Tampico was told by Americans on the collier Cyclops, which anchored in quarantine here this afternoon.

The trouble started on Tuesday night, after the American warships at Tampico had left their positions near shore and steamed some miles out to sea in the afternoon.

After dark, bands of Mexicans began to parade the streets, shouting insults at Americans, who had withdrawn to the shelter of the principal hotels in Tampico.

About midnight a mob estimated at 600 began throwing stones at the Southern Hotel, where there were twenty or thirty American women and 300 American men. William Hanson, a former United States deputy marshal in South Texas, organized the men, who had a few rifles and pistols, for resistance.

The Americans, however, had so little ammunition that they did not dare open fire, fearing the Mexicans would kill them after their ammunition was spent.

The mob began pounding on the doors with clubs. One Mexican fired through a window, but no one was wounded. Capt. von Kohler of the German cruiser Dresden, the refugees said, sent officers ashore notifying the mob that unless they dispersed within fifteen minutes he would land marines. The mob withdrew.

The German sailors then took the women from the Southern and Imperial hotels in boats to the ships in the harbor. The men marched out.

STORE HUERTA'S AMMUNITION.

Several Hundred Tons Awaiting Shipment in Antwerp Held Up Because of Embargo.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ANTWERP, April 25.—Seven hundred tons of ammunition for President Huerta of Mexico, which is awaiting shipment, probably will be stored here until the end of hostilities, the steamers sailing for Mexican ports declining to carry contraband. The steamer Cayo Bonita has canceled her sailing on May 3 with 600 tons of ammunition already shipped. Mexican agents are known to be here and are endeavoring to arrange for the shipment, but money is lacking.

TIMELY WAR MAP.

On the first page of Part VI appears a carefully-drawn, correct map of the republic of Mexico, the present theater of warlike operations. It will be found useful and valuable in conjunction with the daily war news by telegraph, as it shows the scene of current military operations, both on land and sea.

The map has also been printed separately, on strong, thick paper, for use independently of the newspaper, and is suitable for preservation. Price 10 cents. For sale at The Times counter and branch offices. Also at Times agencies in the city and outside.

GERMAN EMBASSY DEFIES HUERTA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—A demand has been made on the German Legation in Mexico City to surrender the arms imported for the protection of German residents there, according to information reaching here.

Admiral Von Hintze, the German Minister, replied:

"If you get the arms you will have to fight for them."

The American Embassy in Mexico City saved 50 out of the 300 rifles in its possession when the order for their seizure came from Gen. Huerta.

The fifty rifles were hidden and Nelson O'Shaughnessy took a receipt for the rifles and machine guns confiscated.

PROTECTION OF AMERICANS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Americans remaining in Mexico City are entirely dependent on the Huerta government and the small guards maintained at the foreign legations for protection, it was stated at the State Department today. There are between sixty and one hundred men, it was said, attached to the various foreign legations in the Mexican capital armed with small arms and machine guns, on whom the Americans might depend. These, the department said, would be effective only against sporadic mob violence and would be practically powerless against any general movement or any mob attack the Mexican government might ignore. It was expected that the Americans in the event of an attack would take refuge in the other foreign legations.

The State Department said no official dispatches confirmed the report that four Americans had been killed in Mexico City. Consul Canada has reported nothing more serious from Mexico City than the pulling down of the Washington statue and stoning of the American Club.

RICH OIL FIELDS ARE ABANDONED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GALVESTON, April 25.—The rich Tampico oil fields generally have been abandoned, according to information reaching steamship agents here today. There are a dozen or more important oil companies in the Tampico field, including some foreign interests. A large portion of the refugees due to arrive here today and tomorrow come from Tampico.

The Tampico situation has continued so serious, according to a wireless message reaching here today, that two torpedo boats yesterday were sent up the Panuco River at Tampico to get Americans.

Refugees arriving here from Tampico today said they were saved from rioting Mexicans early Wednesday morning by German steamers.

From New Orleans they will proceed to Galveston by rail. The steamships were not under charter as transports by the government.

TEXAS MILITIA'S PAY.

Garrison Tells Gov. Colquitt War Department Has No Funds Available Just at Present.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Gov. Colquitt of Texas telegraphed Representative Garner that if the War Department would stand the expense of defense of the Mexican border by the Texas National Guard he would be glad to put the entire guard on duty there. Garner conferred with Secretary Garrison and telegraphed this reply to Gov. Colquitt:

"Secretary Garrison says he has no money out of which he can pay the Texas guards. He contends that sufficient troops have been ordered to the border, including Brownsville, to give every necessary protection. I shall insist that Congress pay the expenses of the guards you have already ordered to the border."

TO SEND HOME ALL REFUGEES.

United States Will Pay the Way of the Needy.

Half a Million Appropriated to Bring Them in.

American Missionaries Are Now Reported Safe.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Commissioner-General of Immigration Caminetti has been ordered by the State Department to take care of refugees arriving at Galveston. The destitute and needy will be clothed and fed and transportation from Galveston to their homes will be paid. The Commissioner-General has wired the Commissioner of Immigration at Galveston, Arthur Hampton, and the refugees will be provided for and sent home as soon as they arrive. Many already have arrived on the Cyclops and more are expected tomorrow on the Esperanza.

The State Department announced today that Americans in the vicinity of Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, opposite Eagle Pass, Tex., had been assured safe conduct by Gen. Guajardo of the Constitutionalist forces and arrangements were made for transporting such Americans as remained in the country. The department has also been informed that a Chinese colony at Guaymas, on the west coast, is anxious to leave Mexico. Though in no danger at present, the Chinese fear developments.

The President late today signed the bill passed by Congress appropriating $500,000 for the relief of and transportation of citizens in Mexico.

Secretary Daniels estimated that between 3000 and 3500 refugees either are on their way from Mexico or under protection awaiting departure for the United States.

MISSIONARIES SAFE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Apail 25.—Fears for the safety of its missionaries in Mexico were relieved today by a telegram from Vera Cruz, received at the headquarters of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Foreign Missions. According to this, seven of the thirty missionaries have arrived in Vera Cruz and all the others are safe in Mexico City, Pueblo and Guanajato.

Missionaries not heard from include the Rev. and Mrs. William Wallace, Rev. N. J. Elliott of Long Beach, Cal., and Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Malloy of Corsicana, Tex.

BOATS CHARTERED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

REFUGEES FROM TAMPICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORT ARKANSAS (Tex.) April 25.—The yacht Wackiva arrived in port today with 130 refugees from Tampico. Capt. Jollison said the Mexican Federals refuse to allow the Wackiva to sail, and a British admiral boarded her and hoisted a British admiral's flag. He then ordered her out to sea and they were not molested further.

Admiral Mayo requested Washington to have refugees released from quarantine at once, as there is no accommodation on board the yacht for them.

The refugees are officials and employees of the Huasteca Petroleum Company.

ALL OUT OF CHIHUAHUA.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

EL PASO, April 25.—With the arrival here today of ninety-seven American men, women and children, refugees from Madera, and twelve picked up by the train at Chihuahua, Americans who have been leaving the country since the Tampico incident are practically all out of the State of Chihuahua. The remnant in the city of Chihuahua, with the exception of a few who are determined to remain to the last, will leave tomorrow morning on the regular train. At Douglas and Nogales on the Arizona-Mexican border they are arriving daily by hundreds, and the State of Sonora is now practically cleared of them.

After four years of revolution, practically every American in Northern Mexico, invited into Mexico by every inducement Porfirio Diaz could offer, is now a refugee, and property worth anywhere between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000 in mines, ranches, factories and other industries has been left behind.

Eighty refugees, mostly from Torreon, but including a few from Chihuahua and Parral, arrived here at [illegible]. They reported that the exodus [illegible] general. They had not heard what had become of the party which started out from Durango with Consul Hamm, but thought the necessity of repairing the railroad might account for the delay.

ARRIVALS AT GALVESTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GALVESTON, April 25.—The vanguard of several hundred refugees from Mexico, headed for Galveston, arrived here today on the United States collier Cyclops from Vera Cruz and Tampico and the steamer Trinidadian from Tampico. The majority were Mexicans. Tomorrow 150 are due on the Esperanza from both Vera Cruz and Tampico.

Defense.

REINFORCEMENTS AT SAN YSIDRO.

MORE TROOPS ARE SENT ALSO TO TECATE.

Mexican Forces Opposite in the Mountains Have Strongly Entrenched Themselves and It Is Thought Preparations Indicate Hostile Action on Their Part.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, April 25.—The anxiety of residents along the border at San Ysidro and Tecate, as well as that of militiamen, was relieved today when the five companies of regulars from the north arrived to reinforce the border defense. At Camp San Ysidro, the American camp across the line from Tia Juana, where Capt. O. M. Condon has been stationed with sixty men from Ft. Rosecrans, it was known that the Mexicans across the line outnumbered them about 10 to 1, and late yesterday Lieut. Don M. Stewart, in command of a company of naval reserves, was hurried from Highland reservoir to Tia Juana. But this morning as the reinforcements arrived at Camp Ysidro and busy scenes were enacted, suggestive of actual wartime, there was evident anxiety and confusion among the soldiers at Tia Juana around the Cuartel, where some of the Mexicans are stationed. The majority of the Mexicans are in the mountains back of Tia Juana.

The One Hundred and Forty-seventh and Fivty-seventh companies, Coast Artillery and a detachment of field artillery from the Sixty-first Company from Ft. Scott and Ft. Barry, were dispatched this forenoon to Camp San Ysidro by Maj. W. C. Davis, commander of Ft. Rosecrans. Two field guns, wagons, twenty mules and provisions and ammunition were dispatched with them and hastily unloaded by the soldiers. During the day as the soldiers set up camp and prepared for warfare, hundreds of autoists visited the camp. Camp San Ysidro is on a hillside overlooking Tia Juana and is 2100 yards from the Cuartel. It is estimated that about 100 Mexicans are stationed at the Cuartel and about 450 in the mountains above. All day and all last night the Mexicans were busy digging trenches on their side. Their women and children have been sent from Tia Juana to this side and this, together with their preparations was thought to indicate intended action by them before the American reinforcements arrived today. Capt. O. M. Condon is in charge of Camp San Ysidro.

To cut off supplies to the Mexican camp, Capt. Condon has ordered that but one day's supplies be sold to the ranchers at Tia Juana from the store on the border. The Twenty-ninth and Sixty-sixth companies and the remainder of the Sixty-first Company arriving from the north were sent to Tecate this morning to join the command of Capt. J. M. Page. Maj. J. H. Knowlton is in command of the Tecate camp. The regulars and the two Coast artillery militia companies under Maj. Fay, guarding the water system, give a defense of nearly 1000 men along the border at this point.

Execution Planned.

tary Bryan said today that he has notified Ambassador Spring-Rice of the reported arrest of a British subject at Orizaba. He was one of twenty foreigners arrested there. Mr. Bryan denied reports that these prisoners had been executed and stated that the Brazilian Consulate has been appealed to for their release.

In an official report from Consul Canada at Vera Cruz the State Department was informed today that several Americans were placed under arrest in Mexico City after being taken from the refugee train that carried Charge O'Shaughnessy and his party to Vera Cruz. J. Starr Hunt and his family were among those arrested. Burton Wilson was taken from the train at the first station out of Mexico City.

NO WORD FROM HUNT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—J. B. Starr Hunt of this city, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Starr Hunt, who were reported in official dispatches from Vera Cruz as under arrest in Mexico City, sent messages tonight to Charge O'Shaughnessy and Admiral Fletcher, both personal friends of the Hunts, asking for more particulars concerning the arrests.

Mr. Hunt said tonight: "My father has been a practicing lawyer for nearly 20 years in Mexico City and is one of the very few Americans admitted to the Mexican bar. He has always been held in high esteem by the Mexicans. Until yesterday I received daily wires from him but for the last two days I have had no word."

MEXICAN PAPER IS SUSPENDED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAREDO (Tex.) April 25.—El Guardia del Bravo, a Mexican paper published here in the interests of the Huerta government, was suspended today by order of District Judge Mullaly and Mayor McComb.

For months Priscilliano Aldama, publisher, has been printing veiled attacks on the American government, which have been disregarded, but today he published a bitter attack on the American government as responsible for Mexico's troubles.

A committee informed the authorities that if the latter did not put a stop to the continued attacks the citizens of Laredo would.

TRYING OUT NEW GUN.

Army Officers Are Watching with Interest Tests of the New Benet-Mercier Machine Gun.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 25.—Army officers will watch with a good deal of interest the working out of the new Benet-Mercier machine gun in actual war. The gun uses the same ammunition as that used by the infantry in its new Springfield rifle, a shade less than a .30 caliber.

The heavier machine gun used previously had the disadvantage of requiring a half-dozen mules, where the same number of shots may now be packed on two.

With the new gun the gunner may register more shots and, it is believed, gain a higher percentage of hits. The feature of ammunition exchange between machine gun and the infantry along the firing line, also makes for increased efficiency.

The gun is served by an assistant, who feeds belts of cartridges containing twenty shots each, into the gun. The Sixth, Sixteenth and Twelfth Infantry, which left San Francisco for the front, are all armed with the new gun, which, it is believed, a regiment of Mexican infantry will be unable to stand more than a few moments.

MARINES FROM VERA CRUZ SENT FARTHER INTO MEXICO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Admiral Badger's telegram, dated 5 p.m., Saturday, said:

"Last night's firing desultory, and continued for considerable period. One private slightly wounded in forearm. Name not yet ascertained. Fletcher continuing efforts to have influential citizens unite and arrange for conduct of municipal affairs by people themselves. Quite certain that former officials will not resume office under present conditions, but possibly citizens' committee can be formed to influence city's affairs along lines of law and order and create confidence among inhabitants. Meeting of this kind will be held this afternoon.

"Question of food and water still giving anxiety, but up to present time no actual distress. Seems probable, however, that ultimately government will have to ration poorer classes of inhabitants. Customhouse is open and vessels ready to discharge, but much difficulty being experienced obtaining labor.

"Extending line of bluejackets and marines about two miles farther into country today. South Carolina battalion well entrenched about two and one-half miles from center of city. No contact has been made with Mexican forces and no attack expected at present. Mississippi's marines landed this morning. This morning aeroplane made flight over harbor. Will make another flight this afternoon. Ship's bands giving concerts ashore.

"Hawaiian-American steamers reported sailed from Puerto, Mex., 10 a.m. Saturday for Vera Cruz with about 200 refugees. Will transfer them to steamer Mexico. As soon as reasonably filled that vessel will proceed to New Orleans, land refugees and return.

"Jason and Paulding now at Tuxpan collecting refugees in that region. Rear-Admiral Craddock and commanding officers of the British ships Hermione at Tampico and Berwick at Puerto, Mex., have been untiring in their efforts to collect and forward American refugees to ships."

The Navy Department tonight received word that the American Consulate at Mazatlan, on the Pacific Coast of Mexico, had been stoned by a mob yesterday. Other anti-American demonstrations occurred there.

The auxiliary Celtic, with a cargo of supplies for the naval forces, arrived at Vera Cruz today from New York.

MUST OBTAIN MORE RECRUITS.

Militia Companies Ordered to Increase Strength.

Second Infantry to Get on Semi-War Footing.

Prepare State Fair Grounds for Mobilization.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, April 25.—On account of the possibility of the militia being mobilized for war, Col. Leon Bond of Chico, commanding the Second Infantry, has ordered all the infantry, including the towns of Sacramento, Chico, Redding, Oroville and Woodland, to recruit to a semi-war footing of eighty-four men to a company.

These recruiting orders were made necessary by the passage of a new volunteer army bill by Congress yesterday, which provides that three-fourths of the minimum strength of fifty-eight in each company must volunteer for war before that company can be taken over by the War Department as an organization.

A percentage of the men in the militia are married and have families dependent upon them and could not leave them to go to war.

A similar order for cavalry recruiting has been issued by Maj. S. W. Kay.

Preparing for the expected orders to mobilize the militia of California for war, the mobilization camp at the State fair grounds is being placed in order to receive the 10,000 militiamen, who would be concentrated there.

Majs. Thomas, Sherburn and Norboe are the officers in charge of laying out the camp.

Indians Eager to Enlist As Scouts: Preparations Made to Organize Troop of Cowboys.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 25.—Militia enlistments and organizations of volunteer regiments were being carried on throughout Oregon today in preparation for a possible call for troops to serve in Mexico.

At Pendleton, the reservation Indians are urging that they be enlisted as scouts. Preparations are being made to organize a troop of cowboys.

Polish Members of Massachusetts I.W.W. Resign and Offer to Go as Volunteers to Mexico.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WEBSTER (Mass.) April 25.—Sixteen members of Webster branch of the Industrial Workers of the World at a meeting last night, quit the organization, owing to the recent speech of William D. Haywood predicting a general strike in event of war with Mexico. All are Polish, but swore allegiance to the United States and offered to go to Mexico as volunteers if needed.

MARINE CORPS RECRUITING. RETIRED OFFICERS' ORDERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Secretary Daniels, through Maj.-Gen. Barnett, commandant of marines, ordered today the following retired Marine Corps officers to special recruiting duty at these stations:

Capt. F. M. Eslick of Gadsden, Ala., to St. Louis

Capt. R. C. Walker of Middleton, N. Y., to Boston.

Capt. D. W. Blake of Pass Christian, Miss., to St. Paul.

Capt. H. T. Swain of Saratoga, Cal., to Portland, Or.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Relief For the Kidneys

Improper kidney action causes more sickness, suffering and serious complications than any other organ. The kidneys are two large glands situated near the middle of the back and their function is to purify every ounce of blood in the body, and to do this they must be in a healthy condition. If they become inflamed, congested or otherwise weakened in their action, the poison remains in the blood, and the whole system becomes impregnated. The general symptoms are backache, loss of appetite, headache, torpid liver, constipation, indigestion, nervousness, drowsiness, sleeplessness, skin troubles, malaria, etc. If you have any of these symptoms, you should at once commence taking Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy, which for 37 years has been a standard remedy for the kidneys and liver, and today it stands without a rival in healing with certainty the frail tubular structures constituting these important organs. It is a sure antidote to poisons formed in the human body, owing to incapable action of the kidneys and liver, eliminating through the kidneys, bowels and skin all morbid and unhealthy accumulations from the system. It will help you from the very first dose. At all druggists in 50c and $1.00 sizes. Free sample and valuable information if you write, Warner Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 205, Rochester, N. Y.

WAR SPIRIT AT SOLDIERS' HOME.

VETERANS EAGER TO ENLIST FOR THE FRONT.

First Man to Be Enrolled Is a Son of a Veteran of the Civil War Buried in the Home Cemetery. Another Has Seen Service in the War With Spain.

When, after the destruction of the Maine sixteen years ago, war was declared against Spain, the Soldiers' Home seethed with excitement. Col. A. J. Smith, then governor of this branch, issued a circular calling upon all veterans of the Home, who felt equal to "performance of service in defense of the Coast" to enroll at once, with a view to forming a battalion for that duty, if deemed proper by his superiors.

In less than a week a battalion numbering nearly 600 men was organized. Companies regularly officered could be seen daily going through military exercises in every open space on the Home grounds.

Two Spanish War veterans were impatiently besieging headquarter officers yesterday in haste to obtain clearance papers from this institution. Having enlisted at Los Angeles day before yesterday in Co. F, Seventh Infantry, N.G.C., they are under orders to report for transportation southward. Others, it is rumored, will follow a few days later.

The first to enlist was William J. Kincaid, formerly of Co. B, Second United States Cavalry (Spanish-American War.) He claims the distinction of being the only member of the Home who can lay claim to the fact he is the son of a veteran of the Civil War buried in the Home cemetery. His father, James M. Kincaid, whose service was in Co. E, Sixty-third Pennsylvania Infantry, and in Co. G, Sixth Veteran Reserve Corps, died and was buried here in 1906.

The second Home member to enlist is Vanderbilt H. Sutton, whose service in the Spanish War was in Co. F, First California Infantry. He enlisted yesterday in Co. F, Seventh Infantry, N.G.C., and has already departed, under orders to entrain tonight for the south.

THREE REGIMENTS ON WAY TO FRONT.

REGULARS OF EIGHTH BRIGADE HURRIED TO EL PASO.

Twenty-five Hundred Infantrymen Handled by Railroads in Nine Long Trains—Brig.-Gen. Pershing, a Veteran of Philippines, in Command.

Two regiments of regulars, 1719 men and eighty-six officers, passed through here yesterday in six special trains over the Southern Pacific on their way to the border. Another regiment, 736 men and forty-one officers, was handled through Barstow by the Santa Fe.

The regiments are the Sixth, Twelfth and Sixteenth United States Infantry of the Eighth Brigade, commanded by Brig.-Gen. John J. Pershing, a Philippine veteran. The first two regiments went through here, the Sixteenth through Barstow. Pershing and staff accompanied the second battalion of the Sixth. His headquarters have been the Presidio, San Francisco.

All three regiments, with the possible exception of the Twelfth, will proceed to El Paso, where Pershing will report to Maj.-Gen. Bliss, commanding the Southern Department. The Twelfth has tentative orders to go to Nogales, but officers expressed the belief here that these orders will be countermanded and the regiment accompany its brigade to El Paso.

With the departure of the Eighth Brigade from San Francisco the Presidio was left manned by a company of coast artillery.

With six long soldier trains bearing down on it, dispatching orders flying thick and fast, and water and ice to be provided for the trains, the old River Station was a beehive of industry all day yesterday. As fast as a train came in, car inspectors swarmed about it to see that trucks, wheels, bolts, couplers and air-hoses were in good shape. At the same time, men were filling the water tanks and putting ice into the coolers. Nearly five tons of ice was used for the six trains.

The first train, carrying the first battalion of the Sixth, in charge of Maj. E. A. Lewis, arrived at 3:45 p.m. The second battalion, Maj. Hines in charge, arrived shortly after 6 p.m., and the third train, bearing the third battalion, in charge of Maj. Crowley, arrived thirty minutes later. Col. J. A. Arrasmith was with this train. Then followed the three trains carrying the Twelfth Regiment, commanded by Col. R. M. Blatchsford. Three trains came in at intervals of from an hour and one-half to three hours. The last train passed through after midnight. Under army regulations, no attempt at fast time was made by the railroad companies. In fact, fast time was impossible, as the trains were all heavy, consisting of from fourteen to twenty cars. There were standard sleepers for the officers, tourist sleepers for the men, kitchen and baggage cars, stock cars for the horses, and flat cars for the wagons. Every battalion carried two ambulance wagons, something not carried by the trains which went through the day before. The usual amount of provisions and forage was carried in freight cars, while one car of each train was loaded with ammunition.

Barstow, where nothing exciting has happened since the soda lakes were created, awoke yesterday to a fever of martial ardor with the arrival of the Sixteenth in three trains. Telegraphic reports to the Santa Fe here stated that business was at a standstill, while the trains were within the town limits and that everybody turned out to cheer the boys in khaki. Col. George B. Bell commands this regiment. He was in personal charge of the third train. The other two were in charge of Majs. Farnsworth and Bennett.

HOLD MEXICAN FOR TUNNEL CRIME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) April 25.—Jesus San Martin, accused of participation in the Cumbre-tunnel disaster, was arrested here tonight by the police and will be turned over to military authorities at Ft. Bliss.

He admitted his identity, said the police, but denied that he was present at the wrecking of a passenger train at Cumbre, Chihuahua, Mex., on February 4, when fifteen Americans were killed. San Martin admitted having been a follower of Maximo Castillo, held at the military prison camp here.

SPECIAL TRAIN FROM CAPITAL.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, April 25.—A special train carrying refugees from the capital arrived here tonight. The refugees, who left Mexico City at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, reported the continued destruction of American property there.

Up to the time of their departure no Americans had been killed.

Latin Bid For Peace.

indignities which gave rise to the present situation will be attempted while the effort is being made to bring about a settlement through diplomacy.

Although the offer made by the three South American countries did not reveal their plans, it was learned that they contemplate a broad settlement of the Mexican problem through the elimination of Huerta, upon which the United States has insisted from the beginning. Notification of the offer of mediation was sent not only to the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Chile and Brazil in Mexico City, but to Gen. Carranza and the Constitutionalists in Northern Mexico.

RAY OF HOPE.

President Wilson summoned Senators Stone, Shively and Lodge of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Chairman Flood and Representative Cooper of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs to discuss the new turn in events—the first ray of hope after a day of worry and anxiety over the scores of Americans held up in their flight from the Mexican capital.

THE EXCHANGES.

The text of the offer made by the Brazilian Ambassador and the Ministers from Argentina and Chile and the reply of the American government, transmitted by Secretary Bryan in person to the three diplomats late today, is as follows—first, the reply:

"The government of the United States is deeply sensible of the friendliness, the good feeling and the generous concern for the peace and welfare of America manifested in the joint note just received from Your Excellency tendering the good offices of your government to effect if possible a settlement of the present difficulties between the government of the United States and those who now claim to represent our sister republic of Mexico. Conscious of the purpose with which the proffer is made this government does not feel at liberty to decline it. Its own chief interest is in the peace of America, the cordial intercourse of her republics and their people, and the happiness and prosperity which can spring only out of frank, mutual understanding of the friendship which is created by common purpose. The generous offer of your governments is therefore accepted.

"This government hopes most earnestly that you may find those who speak for the several elements of the Mexican people willing and ready to discuss terms of satisfactory and therefore permanent settlement. If you should find them willing this government will be glad to take up with you for discussion in the frankest and most conciliatory spirit any proposals that may be authoritatively formulated and will hope that they may prove feasible and prophetic of a new day of mutual co-operation and confidence in America.

"This government feels bound in candor to say that its diplomatic relations with Mexico being for the present severed, it is not possible for it to make sure of an uninterrupted opportunity to carry out the plan of intermediation which you propose. It is, of course, possible that some act of aggression on the part of those who control the military forces of Mexico might oblige the United States to act to the upsetting of the hopes of immediate peace, but this does not justify us in hesitating to accept your generous suggestion. We shall hope for the best results within a brief time, enough to relieve our anxiety lest most ill-considered hostile demonstrations should interrupt negotiations and disappoint our hopes of peace."

The text of the offer made by the three countries, was:

"Mr. Secretary of State: With the purpose of subserving the interests of peace and civilization in our continent and with the earnest desire to prevent further bloodshed to the prejudice of the cordiality and union which have always surrounded the relations of the governments and the people of America, we, the plenipotentiaries of Brazil, Argentina and Chile, duly authorized hereto, have the honor to lend to Your Excellency's government our good offices for the pacific and friendly settlement of the conflict between the United States and Mexico.

"This offer puts in due form the suggestions which we have had occasion to offer heretofore on this subject to the secretary to whom we renew the assurances of our highest and most distinguished consideration.

WILSON'S VIEW.

From those at tonight's White House conference it was learned that while the President was not sanguine of the success of the intermediation plan, he felt it to be the duty of the American government to avail itself of the offer of the three great South American countries. It was suggested that the negotiations, even though they might be unsuccessful, might serve to repress anti-American outbursts and afford an opportunity for Americans to depart from Mexico.

The President had spent many hours during the day considering the offer with Secretary Bryan and other Cabinet officials. They gave particular attention also to the alarming reports sent by American Consul Canada at Vera Cruz about the safety of Americans in Mexico City and along the railroad to Vera Cruz. The detention of 125 Americans at Pachucah and Cordoba and nineteen Americans and a British subject at Orizaba worried administration officials especially because communication to Mexico City was subject to such frequent interruption.

CLAMOR FOR WAR.

Many members of Congress are clamoring for a more aggressive course, even to a declaration of war. Some Cabinet members favor a drastic course to end the anarchical conditions in the southern republic, while others think much can be accomplished by persuading the Constitutionalists to remain neutral.

Developments of the day centered chiefly in the receipt of meager reports about the American refugees, but important preparations for a long occupation of Vera Cruz were made. A postal agency is to be established there for the care of mail and supply ships are being rushed to Vera Cruz, carrying provisions for sixty days.

RETROSPECT OF THE DAY.

The most important happenings of the day were:

American Consul Canada's report that Americans were being detained in Mexico because it was believed there that Mexicans were being restrained by Americans from leaving Vera Cruz. Immediate steps were taken through the British embassy here and the British legation in Mexico City to correct the impression prevailing in the Mexican capital.

Unconfirmed reports of the killing of four Americans in Mexico City were called to the attention of the Brazilian embassy here with the request that its legation in Mexico City, now looking after American interests there, seek verification of them.

Consul Canada at Vera Cruz sent reports of anti-American demonstrations and general unrest in Mexico City. He heard that 125 Americans were put off a train at Pachucah by the train crew, but that another train had gone out from Mexico City to assist them in continuing their journey to Vera Cruz.

Secretary Garrison announced he had issued no orders for any further troop movements and that army officers were to use their own discretion in protecting international bridges on the border.

The German vessel Ypiranga, whose consignment of war munitions for Huerta caused the United States peremptorily to seize the Vera Cruz customhouse, was ordered back to Hamburg, Germany, without landing her cargo.

The Navy Department dispatched vessels up and down the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Mexico to take away American Consuls and refugees generally. Between 3000 and 3500 refugees already have been protected or are en route to the United States.

Secretary Bryan said today Charge O'Shaughnessy probably would leave for the United States on the first available ship.

Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, U.S.A., retired, senior officer commanding the army in the Spanish-American War, called on Secretary Garrison and Gen. Wood and it is understood offered his services should war be declared.

It was announced today that the interests of the Mexican embassy here and her consulates throughout the country would be looked after by the Spanish embassy and consulates.

The Costa Rica Envoy, Joaquin Calvo, ranking minister of the diplomatic corps, and Dr. Alberto Membrano, Minister from Honduras, joined the three South American plenipotentiaries while they were conferring on their plans for mediation.

It was thought other South and Central American diplomats might be called in for a general discussion.

Ignacio Calderon, Minister of Bolivia; Federico Alfonso Pezet, Minister of Peru; Eusebio Morales, Minister of Panama, and Manuel de la Vega-Calderon, Charge d'Affaires of Cuba, joined the conferees later.

The Latin-American diplomats spent an hour and a half in discussing the move for mediation.

"No plans for the future were considered," declared Peruvian Minister Pezet after the conference, "but we have the best hope."

Interchangeable.

GOOD OFFICES JUST ADVISORY.

AUTHORITIES CONFLICT AS TO MEANING OF MEDIATION.

John Bassett Moore, John Hay and The Hague Tribunal All Give Definitions Which Are Considerably at Variance as to What Latest Wilson Plan Really Means.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Wilson's acceptance of the good offices of Brazil, Argentina and Chile to compose the Mexican conflict, has centered the attention of international authorities on just what the procedure will be and what "good offices" are under the practice of nations.

The offer of the South American envoys speaks of good offices, and the reply of the United States government makes reference to intermediation.

MOORE'S VERSION.

John Bassett Moore, former counsellor of the State Department and an authority on international law, points out a distinction between the case of good offices and mediation and says:

"The demand of good offices or their acceptance does not confer the right of mediating."

HAY'S DEFINITION.

John Hay, when Secretary of State, said:

"The phrase good offices being somewhat elastic should be confined to two contingencies. In its first sense it corresponds to the French term 'officioux.' In its second sense it is allied to arbitral intermediation as an impartial adviser of both parties, and not only implies but requires the assent of both parties and oftener, a spontaneous invitation from each."

The Hague convention uses the two terms good offices and mediation interchangeably.

HAGUE PROVISIONS.

The Hague provisions follow:

"Article II: In case of serious disagreement or conflict before an appeal to arms the signatory powers agree to have recourse as far as circumstances allow, to the good offices or mediation of one or more friendly powers.

"Article III: Independently of this recourse the signatory powers recommend that one or more powers, strangers to the dispute, should, on their own initiative, and as far as circumstances may allow, offer their good offices or mediation to the states at variance.

"Powers strangers to the dispute, have the right to offer their good offices or mediation even during the course of hostilities.

"The exercise of this right can never be regarded by one or the other of the parties in conflict as an unfriendly act."

ACTION IS ADVISORY.

That the work of the three South American envoys in the present case will be purely advisory and not be of a binding character appears to follow from article VI of the Hague convention, which provides:

"Good offices and mediation either at the request of the parties at variance, or on the initiative of powers stranger to the dispute, have exclusively the character of advice and never have binding force."

The Hague convention also provides that "the acceptance of mediation cannot, unless there be agreement to the contrary, have the effect of interrupting, delaying or hindering mobilization or other measures of preparation for war. If mediation occurs after the commencement of hostilities it causes no interruption to the military operations in progress, unless there be an agreement to the contrary."

TRUST BILL DRAFTED.

Prohibition of Interlocking Directorates Included in the Administration Measure.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Drastic provisions for the control of "trusts," the prohibition of interlocking directorates and holding companies, which interfere with the free play of competition and the creation of a powerful trade commission are proposed in a final draft of the so-called trust bill which will be laid next week before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. The bill was understood today to have the approval of President Wilson. Administration leaders hope to bring the measure into the Senate early in May.

The subcommittee's draft provides for a trade commission of five members, with full power of investigation and the present Bureau of Corporations is to be legislated out of office. Interlocking directorates and holding companies are prohibited and the commission will determine whether there has been a restraint of competition through such means. SHIPPERS NEED FREE CANAL.

Angeleno Presents Case for the Pacific Coast.

States Western Fruit Men Would Be Benefited.

Low Water Rates to Stop Railway Overcharges.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 25.—This was Pacific Coast day before the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals. Willis Booth, on behalf of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who has just returned from a tour through Chile and other South American states, argued for free tolls. He said that if our merchant marine develops so that it becomes attractive to capital, we are going to get a freight rate between the east and west coasts that will be satisfactory, but that if the carriers tried to absorb the benefit granted in free tolls, the fruit interests of California would charter ships and put on their own line.

"In five years from now," he prophesied, "the fruit business will undoubtedly have at least 50,000 carloads to ship. The fruit men will not accept a rate that is just a little below the rail rate."

"I believe in free tolls for everything, coastwise, over seas, everything," said Senator Thomas of Colorado.

"We believe," said Booth, "that if we are allowed the free use of the canal in coastal business we can forestall combinations in rates."

Senator Thomas suggested that the government might establish a line of ships between the east and west coasts.

"If we can have the free use of the canal," replied Booth, "I think we can save the government that expense."

Senator Walsh wants to know if oil could be sent to the Atlantic Coast to compete with eastern coal, but Booth said he was not sufficiently familiar with the details of that subject to go on record about it.

Henry E. Chase of San Jose appeared for the San Jose Chamber of Commerce and spoke briefly. W. D. Skinner, a prominent lumberman of California and Oregon, also made a strong statement.

CANAL TOLLS AND LUMBER.

Seattle Man Declares Repeal of Exemption Would Put Embargo on Pacific Coast Business.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—A charge that tolls on American coastwise vessels passing through the Panama Canal would be an embargo on Pacific Coast lumber in eastern markets in the interest of Southern lumber was made today before the Senate Interoceanic Canals Committee by D. E. Skinner, a lumberman of Seattle, Wash. He asserted the situation should not be viewed from the standpoint that exemption from tolls was a subsidy to ship owners, but that imposition of tolls was an embargo on coastwise shipping through the canal.

Senator Simmons introduced, after Skinner's testimony, a letter from Robert Brookins, a Pacific Coast lumberman, who said the imposition of tolls would have little or no effect upon the Pacific Coast lumber trade. Skinner, in reply, said Brookins' mills were not located on harbors that would be used by vesels passing through the canal.

The committee probably will conclude its hearings on the bill on Monday.

The Test of Fire!

—We will pour alcohol over a fine Pittsburgh-Hickson brass bed and then set fire to it in our main display window Monday at 2:30 P.M.

—We make this remarkable test to prove to you that the wonderful "Hicksite" finish used on these beds will withstand the most rigorous tests and come forth unscathed.

—You will also see tests made with nitric acid, ammonia, muriatic acid or any other corrosive you may wish to bring or tell us about.

—these tests will prove beyond doubt and without question the wonderful, lasting qualities of the new "Hicksite" lacquer used on Pittsburgh-Hickson brass beds, making them give lifelong wear without tarnish and guarding them from rust caused by salt air or any of the imperfections that have hitherto made the purchase of a really fine brass bed impractical.

—rub some ammonia (the weakest corrosive we use) on your own brass bed and see the lacquer come off.

BERKELEY INDORSES BRIDGE.

City Council Also Offers Los Angeles Engineer Terminal Rights for Transbay Structure.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERKELEY, April 25.—The plan of Allan C. Rush, a Los Angeles engineer, to span San Francisco Bay with the world's longest and mightiest suspension bridge was brought at least one step nearer realization today when the Berkeley City Council gave its indorsement to the Rush transbay bridge bill now before the United States. This bill would grant to Rush the privilege of establishing the piers of the projected bridge on the solid rock of Goat Island in the bay, and on the government land at the edge of the San Francisco and Oakland channels.

The Berkeley authorities went still further by offering to Rush terminal rights having a prospective value of $6,000,000, on condition that if the bridge from San Francisco should become an assured fact, it should terminate at this city.

The bridge designed by Rush is patented in most of its features, being unique in most respects. Including terminals, it would have a total length of nine miles, being anchored in Telegraph Hill, on Goat Island and at the Berkeley (or Oakland) end. The cables, sixteen in number, would be the largest ever made and would support three tiers of traffic, one above the other and each divided into four lanes. The plans call for nine tremendous spans, each 2230 feet in length. The total cost of the bridge and its approaches is estimated at $48,000,000.

RUN GUNS INTO ULSTER.

"Volunteers" Land Big Supply of Rifles and Cartridges Which Are Distributed Quickly by Autos.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BELFAST (Ireland) April 25.—A consignment of about 40,000 rifles and half a million rounds of ammunition from Germany was landed at isolated points on the coast of Ulster last night and distributed by means of 200 automobiles to the various headquarters of the Ulster volunteers. The Ulster men who declare themselves determined to offer armed resistance to the introduction of home rule, were mobilized last night and guarded the landing places and roads. The police were powerless to interfere.

CABINET AROUSED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, April 25.—The gun running exploit of the Ulster "volunteers," stirred the British Cabinet into sudden activity today. Premier Asquith, who was on the way to his country residence for the week end, was stopped by telegraph and returned to London immediately. On his arrival he conferred with Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, and other colleagues in the Cabinet. Maj.-Gen. Sir Cecil MacReady of the War Office participated in the conference.

Owing to recent troubles in Mexico the Tehuantepec National Railway operating across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec has been forced to shut down. We are therefore obliged to announce the permanent discontinuance of our Tehuantepec Route sailings, and will, until the opening of the Panama Canal, operate via

STRAITS OF MAGELLAN

Shipments for United States Pacific Coast ports and Hawaii, now on hand and hereafter received at New York, will be forwarded via Magellan; the first steamer sailing from New York about MAY 1st, followed by a steamer about MAY 9th. Other sailings to be announced later.

Freight rates at present in force will apply. Insurance contracts issued by the Steamship Company and now in force will cover via Magellan, and on request, the Steamship Company will insure shipments at the present Tehuantepec insurance rates. If shipper or consignee prefer to place insurance elsewhere, the Steamship Company will then contribute the difference between the insurance rate charged and the Tehuantepec insurance rate, provided such difference does not exceed one-half of one per cent.

The time in transit from New York to Los Angeles, (Wilmington Terminal) will be about FIFTY (50) DAYS. There will be no rehandling of freight.

We are confident that the resumption of this Magellan service will meet the general requirements of our shippers and will prove more attractive, and just about as quick as the trans-shipment service offered by the Panama Railroad and connecting lines.

Dr. Homer with offices in the Orpheum Bldg., 636 South Broadway, says:

People who do not consider other spheres of reason or activity hinder themselves.

The Other World's Importance

Before the time of Copernicus the earth was thot to be the center of the universe.

Because of his love for truth he waited over 35 years, trying to decide the best way to correct popular ignorance without causing antagonism to modern astronomy which he founded.

Since then people are more disposed to listen to foreign ideas.

Experience has taught that most things deserve some consideration, and sometimes by investigating we find other ways of doing things superior to the customary routine of affairs.

For years people have allowed Pyorrhea to loosen part or all their teeth, having them replaced with mechanical substitutes with more or less success, experiencing a lot of pain and expressing no little condemnation for the profession that made more progress than any other in the last ten years.

This custom would be unnecessary if people would take proper care of their gums.

Every one should watch for receding or bleeding gums, teeth slightly sore or loose and a bad breath, as these are symptoms of Pyorrhea, which cause the loss of most teeth.

Where necessary extracting, crowning, filling or even removal of live nerves can be accomplished without pain by Homer's analagesic method.

Dr. Homer's specialties are: Treating Pyorrhea and making teeth without plates; giving a full set of teeth without plates or ordinary bridge work, if two or more roots remain in either jaw.

Associated with him are men who devote their time to making various forms of plates that restore natural expression and prevent shrinking of gums.

L. C. Jones of Martinez Says Mayr's Remedy Gave Him Surprising Results.

L. C. Jones of Martinez, Cal., suffered from stomach troubles for a long time. He tried many remedies. At last he took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. The results surprised him.

In a letter telling of his experience Mr. Jones said: "I took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy with most pleasing and surprising results. My trouble has been principally gastritis, with gas around my heart, at times so bad I though I was going to die. My wife is also taking your remedy with pleasing results."

From all parts of the country such letters come by the thousands. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is known everywhere. The first dose proves—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and poisonous matter. It brings quick relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations; many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to the Owl Drug Company's stores and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to George H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting st., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful effects.

CROSS, FEVERISH SICK CHILDREN NEED "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

A coated tongue means sluggish liver and bowels—Listen, mother!

Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has sour stomach, diarrhoea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills. Give a teaspoonful and in just a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food, clogged in the bowels, passes out of the system and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless fruit laxative and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on each bottle.

Mother, keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Don't be fooled.—[Advertisement.

Many Recoveries From Lung Trouble

Eckman's Alterative has restored to health many sufferers from lung trouble. Read what it did in this case:—

Wilmington, Del.

"Gentlemen:—In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, a leading practitioner, said that it was lung trouble. I got very weak. C. A. Lippincott, of Lippincott's Department Store, Wilmington, Del., recommended Eckman's Alterative that had done great good. I began taking it at once. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I now have no trouble with my lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alterative saved my life." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) JAS. SQUIRES.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold by The Owl Drug Co. and leading druggists. Write Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of recoveries.

Danger Signals for Color Blind.

[Engineering Record:] A new type of colored danger signal advocated for use in industrial plants consists of a blue circle within a wide yellow rim. Of the 4 per cent. of all men who are defective in color perception the majority cannot distinguish red, because red is evanescent, possesses relatively little luminosity and fades rapidly. Since yellow and blue are the only colors which excite a normal color sensation as soon as they become visible as colored, they can be seen at a greater distance in daylight and are more easily distinguishable in a poor light than any other color or combination of colors. Further all other colors appear either yellow or blue until they pass within the yellow blue area of the eyes, when they are recognized. Yellow and blue are also the most luminous colors of the spectrum and are more permanent than red. Finally, in the rare instances in which workmen are unable to distinguish yellow and blue, these colors will appear red or green to them, affording a protection a red signal could not give.

SECOND CALL FOR TROOPS.

Ammons Wants the Regulars Sent to Colorado.

Mob of Women Cajole Him to Make Demand.

"Do It Yourself," the Reply from Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, April 25.—Gov. Elias M. Ammons tonight at 9 o'clock by wire requested President Wilson to "send Federal troops into Colorado immediately" to handle the strike situation.

Several hundred women met in the capital today to present to Gov. Ammons a resolution adopted at a recent meeting of the Woman's Peace Society. Their demands were submitted by Mrs. R. W. Steele, wife of the late R. W. Steele, chief justice of the Colorado State Supreme Court. They included a request for Federal troops, the withdrawal of the State Militia, and investigation of charges against Maj. P. J. Mamrock and Lieut. Linderfelt.

The women were insistent that the Governor send a second telegram to President Wilson relatively to sending Federal troops into the strike zone with the result that there was an exchange of messages.

The Governor's message to President Wilson follows:

"Conflicting reports as to action of Cabinet meeting yesterday morning have been received here. What I would be greatly obliged to know is if we can not control the situation in the Southern Colorado coal field, can we have Federal troops?"

President Wilson's reply follows:

"Discussion at Cabinet meeting referred to was merely for the sake of information. I cannot conceive of the authority of the State of Colorado being ineffective and earnestly suggest that renewed efforts be made to prevent hostile action on either side, or any action that might provoke hostility. Congressional committee about to revisit State for conference on grounds."

PEACE OVER SUNDAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TRINIDAD (Colo.) April 25.—Peace in the Colorado coal camps will continue over Sunday if orders given by strike leaders to their followers are obeyed.

Following a conference late today between Adjt.-Gen. John Chase and officers of the United Mine Workers of America, John R. Lawson addressed a mass meeting of strikers here and urged them to abstain from any acts of violence until after a conference to be held in Denver tomorrow in which State officers and citizens will endeavor to effect a settlement of the coal miners' strike.

The outcome of the conference was practically a continuation of the truce arranged last night in Denver.

A party carrying a Red Cross flag and representing itself as being authorized to act for that organization, was ordered under military detention by Gen. Chase at the military headquarters and turned back to Trinidad.

Gen. Chase explained that he had been informed by Dr. S. P. Morris, Red Cross district representative of Denver, that the party was not authorized to represent the organization. The party had gone from Trinidad with the intention of making further search of the ruins of the Ludlow tent colony for bodies.

The union leaders asked that the present arrangement be permitted to stand and that no troops be sent to Trinidad.

"They asked that no attacks be made upon the strikers, and in return I asked that no attack be made upon a detail which will be sent to Aguilar tonight to get Supt. Waddell," said Gen. Chase.

Supt. William Waddell of the Empire mine was wounded during the attack upon that property Tuesday.

Gen. Chase added that John Lawson promised that no attack would be made upon the troops and said that the union leader had promised to send word to the Aguilar strikers not to molest the soldiers.

"I told the union leader further," said Gen. Chase, "that the militia was not seeking trouble and was making no attacks upon any one."

J. W. Siple, president of the Southwestern Fuel Company, who with thirty others, including a number of women and children, was a prisoner in the Empire mine from early Wednesday until late yesterday, arrived here today with a graphic story of his experiences.

According to Siple, blast after blast of giant powder was set off at the mouth of the main stope and at the fanhouse by the attacking party. The explosions caved the openings and filled the mine with dust. The powder was taken from the company powder-house.

Two bullets passed through his desk and a number struck the office before he finally fled to the mine stope.

Supt. William Waddell was shot after he had left the mine to look for his son, Matthew Waddell, who was missing. He fell with a bullet in his shoulder before he had advanced fifty feet. Siple and others rushed out and dragged him back into the stope. Young Waddell was found after the attacking party had left. He had hidden in the engine-room and was suffering with a bullet wound in his leg. The party was without food, but there was plenty of water in the mine. Two mine mules shared the prison with the refugees.

The funeral of Louis Tikas, leader of the Greek strikers, who was killed in the Ludlow battle of Monday, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow. Several hundred Greeks, including a large party from Colorado Springs, reached Trinidad today on foot. All were heavily armed. In lieu of cartridge belts, strikers had placed their supply of ammunition in flour sacks, which they slung across their shoulders. The Greeks stored their firearms in local union quarters on their arrival here, and have posted guards in front of the building.

AGAINST THE OSLER THEORY.

Experience in a Large Machine Shop Shows the Older Men to Be More Efficient Than Young Ones.

[American Machinist:] We are told that this is an age for young men, that shops want young blood, and in some it almost seems as if, after a man has stayed six months, he is looked upon as out of date and antiquated in his ideas. As a matter of fact, some shops do not want to hire men over 35 years of age.

A short time ago we spent a few days in a large machine shop, where a man is considered young until he reaches 65 or 70 years of age. We met a number who had seen from twenty to forty years of service with this company. When inquiries were made as to their work, we were told that it was as good and often better than that of many younger men in the company's employ.

In this shop was noticed the absence of waste motion; no "goose steps" were seen. Often much of the hurry and bustle exhibited by the younger man is useless motion and parade action.

To the superintendent who looks only at appearances, such action might indicate a live shop, but in fact, they do not get anywhere.

The engineering student is taught mathematics and the natural sciences in such a way that he believes that human knowledge is absolute. When he goes into the shop he carries with him this idea, that what he knows is so, not that he knows everything. He fails to realize that the cause and effect of natural laws as applied in engineering work are much more complex than any scientific or engineering theories made to explain them. The great work of nature is not covered by human knowledge.

Particularly in the field of management and in the handling of men is our knowledge far from absolute, and all of our theories are inadequate.

NEW LANGUAGE FOR NORWAY.

Attempt to Be Free From the Results Imposed by the Danish Conquerors Four Centuries Ago.

[Baltimore American:] Ever since Norway was conquered by the Danes it has been a bilingual, or two-language, nation, but now the people wish to be free from the language imposed upon them by their conquerors and to adopt in its stead the "Landsmaal, or modified native speech," says the Pathfinder.

Landsmaal is not a mere revision of the existing language—Danish—but it is an entirely different language. In it are embodied much of the ancient Norse of the sagas, and some of the dialects which have survived among the peasantry from the days of the Vikings. It was invented by the eminent Norwegian philologist, Ivar Aasen, about the year 1850.

Aasen succeeded so well in producing a musical, poetic language that it has found much favor with the people, who have adopted it in the schools, churches, songs, plays and vernacular. A large part of the popularity of Landsmaal seems to be due to its patriotic significance; it appeals to the pride of the people in the ancient port, when the Viking kings held sway over a vast amount of territory in Northwestern Europe.

On the other hand, the corrupted Danish, which, for more than 400 years, has been the official language of the country, recalls to the minds of the people the days of Danish oppression, when Norway was subject to the rule of an alien king who had robbed her of independence. For this reason it is extremely distasteful to them. Indeed, his Danish birth is said to be the only ground for the unpopularity of King Haakon's rule, wise and considerate though it is. Kink Haakon, it will be recalled, was a Danish prince. He was put on the Norwegian throne when Norway cut loose from Sweden.

The centennial anniversary of Norway's independence of Denmark will be celebrated early next year. At that time, it is hoped by many of the most patriotic people, Landsmaal will be adopted as the official language of the country and thus signalize the national rejoicing in honor of the occasion. The plan is heartily favored by the press and by the majority of the Storthing or Parliament, and of the people. Even now a commission is at work to the end that the new vernacular may be decreed at the very beginning of the centennial.

Numerous instances in which governments have forced a language upon a people have been recorded, but this, it is said, will be the first time in history when the people have compelled their rulers to abandon a language and adopt a new one. To Ivar Aasen will be accorded a distinction that has come to no other man in history, namely, that of constructing a language which appealed so strongly to his countrymen that they wish to have it substituted for the one which has been used for hundreds of years. Aasen was the son of a peasant farmer and was born just a hundred years ago. When he died, in 1896, a great public funeral was held in his honor at Christiania, where a national memorial will soon be erected over his tomb.

PLAN EASY WAY TO BUY TICKETS.

Fares to Exposition May Be Paid for Gradually.

Installment Idea Proposed by Chicago Railroads.

Many Persons Expected to Use the Scheme.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 25.—Buying railroad tickets on the installment plan may be a reality of the near future if plans in process of formulation by the Chicago and Northwestern in connection with the Union Pacific are perfected. The plan is being considered by S. A. Hutchison, manager of the tour department of the two railroads, to be used in connection with tickets to San Francisco for the exposition next year.

The plan, as outlined to date, is to permit those who wish to begin payment for tickets at any time between now and the date they wish to leave. A small amount may be paid weekly with amounts so graduated that the total payment will not be missed.

According to the present plan, a prospective tourist can pay down $5 and then $1 a week until June, 1915, when the ticket will be paid for. Proper arrangements will be made in cases where the ticket cannot be used after being partially or fully paid for.

The same plan is in operation by numerous touring agencies and in many of the fraternal orders of Chicago. Payments of small amounts are made each week to some authorized person by whom tickets will later be purchased, but the possible entry of the Chicago Union Pacific and Northwestern tours department into the field will be the first time that a railroad has given the matter any consideration.

"Nothing definite has been decided upon," said Hutchison, "but the idea is feasible and in line with other work we are doing. There are many persons in Chicago who will not get to see the exposition unless some such scheme is worked out and the idea backed by big railroads should prove the most popular plan suggested in years."

The tours department is also perfecting plans whereby hotel accommodations can be reserved in San Francisco. Tentative plans have been formed, which will mean a special train once a week or oftener on which all passengers will be given the same treatment by the railroad that they would receive from touring agencies.

"We plan to make them first-class passengers in all matters," said Mr. Hutchison, "and we are in correspondence with three hotels in San Francisco to learn what rates can be expected."

GEORGE F. BAER STRICKEN.

President of the Reading Railway Company Unlikely to Recover From Stroke of Paralysis.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railway Company, was stricken on the street here today with what physicians believe was a stroke of paralysis. He fell to the sidewalk and was carried to his home, five blocks distant, where physicians were summoned, and are now with him. It is believed that Mr. Baer's condition is serious.

The physicians gave out this statement:

"Mr. Baer had a severe gastric attack and shortly thereafter became unconscious with evidence of disturbance of the kidneys. The illness is very grave."

Mr. Baer became ill while walking from his home to his office. He became unconscious and was carried into a shop. Dr. Alfred Stengel said Mr. Baer's condition was serious and he was doubtful of the outcome.

Everybody in a position to give information about Mr. Baer was reticent. The doctors, it is said, have not determined whether the patient is suffering from apoplexy or paralysis. They admit, however, that he is gravely ill.

News of his sudden illness was a shock to the railroad and financial world. Although he is approaching 72, his associates considered him in the best of health.

Mrs. Minnie McClellan of Stockton Asks Five Thousand Dollars Damages for Alleged Deception.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STOCKTON, April 25.—Charging that the Superior Court of this county had been purposely deceived into signing a decree that deprived her of large property holdings, Mrs. Minnie McClellan today filed a $5000 damage suit against former Senator John T. Lewis.

The complaint bristles with sensational allegations against both Lewis and his attorney, Max Grimm, formerly Deputy District Attorney of this county.

It is averred that in April, 1911, Lewis filed an action against the plaintiff and F. E. McClellan for the enforcement of a contract wherein the latter had agreed to sell a certain piece of land to the Order of Druids. The court rendered judgment against McClellan, but decided, it is claimed, that it was not binding on the woman.

Lewis's attorney was ordered to prepare the decree and findings in the court. The plaintiff claims that Grimm in preparing the decree "corruptly" omitted all reference to her immunity and that the court innocently signed it, thereby giving Lewis the right to seize the property.

She claims that the property was hers.

VIENNA, April 25.—The official bulletin on the condition of Emperor Francis Joseph tonight says:

"The catarrhal symptoms are unchanged; appetite and heart action good."

The Emperor's daughter, Archduchess Marie Valerie, returned this afternoon to Wallsee which is taken as an indication that anxiety on the Emperor's account is diminishing.

Inconsistency.

MORE EXPORTED THAN PRODUCED.

Lucca Oil Adulterated With Inferior Grades.

California Olive Oil Purest in the Market.

Housewives Warned to Avoid Imported Brands.

The housewife in the future will be wise if she confines her purchases of olive oil to the best California grades and brands. In this way only will she be assured of obtaining exactly what she is paying for. Italian, French and Spanish oils of inferior and cheaper quality are now treated and mixed with the finer oils.

This is particularly true of the Italian Lucca, or Tuscany oil; always considered, heretofore, the acme of excellence by those willing to pay for, and anxious to obtain, the best for table use. Last year over 2,000,000 pounds more Lucca, or Tuscan oil, were exported from Italy to the United States than the total quantity available for the entire world. With but 1,000,000 pounds produced for export over 10,250,000 pounds were sent to this country; and the question naturally arises as to where the balance of the world was supplied from; for we are by no means the only people who mix salad dressing with Lucca oil.

It is not here suggested that this Lucca oil is not olive oil, but at the same time it is suggested that at least 35 per cent. of Lucca oil is not Lucca oil at all. It is Lucca oil adulterated with treated, inferior olive oil, imported into Tuscany and the Lucca olive oil district from other parts of Italy, from France and Spain, and then mixed with pure Lucca oil at Leghorn, in the Lucca district, or in Lucca itself, and the mixture sold as grown in Tuscany and manufactured in Lucca.

MIXED OIL.

This adulterated or mixed oil can then be sold much cheaper than the genuine article. The present Tuscan, or Lucca, olive crop is not over one-third of a normal crop, meaning not more than 2,750,000 pounds of pure Lucca oil for export this year. In spite of this great shortage the end of February saw an estimated total of over 2,250,000 pounds, over 90 per cent. of the total export production, already exported.

In Spain, where most of the olive oil produced has too much taste and carries too much odor to appeal to the average consumer in the United States—where the milder Italian and French oils are preferred—both the inferior grades and the best are now refined by modern processes of deodorizing, decoloring and neutralizing their acidity. These strong oils are now rendered mild, and in the Malaga district, the second largest olive-growing and the largest olive oil district in Spain, more olive oil has been exported this season to French and Italian olive oil districts and exporting points than to all other markets combined, where much of it is undoubtedly, when once treated, mixed with the milder oils of the best grades.

Spanish and Italian olive oil is obtained in three or four pressings, that from the first being hitherto the only one used as edible oil. While the oil remaining in the olive after the first pressing is in itself every bit as good as that obtained in the first pressing, subsequent methods of handling produce oils of far inferior quality.

The European presses are usually light ones, and for this reason more than one pressing must be made to obtain the whole of the oil, meaning several grades of oil, and large quantities of low-grade oil, to market. While the same or similar processes were used in the early days of the olive-oil industry in California, modern presses now express the whole of the oil at one pressing, with the result that but one grade is manufactured, and that the best, and the consumer is assured of obtaining exactly what he calls for when purchasing his favorite brand of California olive oil.

SERIOUS MENACE.

This mixing of high and low-grade oil at point of origin is a serious menace to the olive-oil industry of this State, for by enabling a supposedly high-grade article to undersell the home product it is liable to reduce or curtail the market for the American oil, the reduced tariff further aiding in this.

Some idea of the extent of the European olive industry can be gathered from the following data in connection with that of Spain alone, where over 1,500,000 acres of land are devoted to olive growing. Here in 1913 were produced 575,000,000 pounds of olive oil, 2,864,000,000 pounds of olives. The value of the Spanish olive oil produced in 1913—and this quite apart from the immense quantities of green pickled olives of which over 1,500,000 gallons were imported in this country in 1912—amounted to over $50,000,000, truly an industry of no mean importance.

In California conditions are ideal for the growth of olives. This is the only known section of the world where the olive is commercial grown that the ripe olive can be pickled. The best fruit only, however, is fit for pickling, leaving the balance for manufacture into olive oil. The cost of production, of labor in picking and handling, all are far heavier in this country than in the Latin countries of Europe: competition of the character above outlined is unfair not only to the olive grower and the olive oil manufacturer in this country, but is also unfair to the consumer: for while still selling olive oil misrepresentation is practiced and the purchaser has foisted on him an article for which he pays more than its true value and not what he calls for.

The olive industry has a great future in this State. California oil and pickled olives have won great favor and reputation wherever best known. They are a safeguard to the housewife, produced under the most sanitary conditions, and once she appreciates these facts there is little question but that the California products will have the call wherever the best is wanted.

WHEN MOUNTAINS BLOW UP.

The Japanese Cataclysm Recalls the Eruption of Mount Pelee and That of Krakatoa.

[Philadelphia Record:] The eruption of Sakura recalls that of Mt. Pelee, which destroyed St. Pierre, Martinique, the most beautiful city in the West Indies, with appalling suddenness. Like Sakura, the volcanic peak of Pelee had been quiescent for a long period, and was believed to be practically extinct. It smoked a little for a few days before it blew up, but it had previously sent up similar thin, vaporous clouds at intervals of ten or twenty years—so nobody paid attention to its seemingly harmless activity. Without warning a pillar of rock shot up from the crater of Mt. Pelee to a height of nearly 100 feet and a rent opened half way up the mountain's slope, from which blew a hot blast, stupefying and incinerating every organic thing in the path of its withering breath. In less time than it takes to tell St. Pierre, with nearly its entire population, was wiped out and buried in the rain of ashes which followed the explosion.

In its tremendous force, however, the eruption of Sakura more nearly resembles that of Krakatoa in 1883. This is believed to have been the greatest cataclysmic disturbance suffered by the earth in historic times and possibly within the more recent of the geologic eras. Krakatoa was a volcanic peak rising 2000 feet above sea level, in Sunda strait. After warning manifestations, which continued several days, the outburst came on August 27. The entire northern half of the volcano was blown away and the soundings subsequently showed a depth of 1000 feet of water where the mountain had stood. An eye-witness of some of the phenomena observed from the shore of Java processions of native boats, held by a current many times more irresistible than that of Niagara and sucked into the vortex caused by the great hole torn in the floor of the ocean. It is estimated that the column of stones and ashes thrown up by Krakatoa's explosion shot up to a height of seventeen miles. Nearby islands were covered with volcanic debris to the height of the tree tops of their forests. The dust particles left floating in the upper strata of the atmosphere encompassed the earth as with a belt 75 degrees wide, producing a deep red glow in the sky after sunset for months after the upheaval. On the day of the eruption and for several days thereafter lamps had to be lighted at Batavia at noon. The waves started by the explosion reached almost around the earth. They were distinctly observed at Cape Horn and were perceptible even in the English channel. The most remarkable fact, however, was the distance to which the noise of the explosion traveled. It was audible in the Philippines, 1400 miles, at Ceylon, 2000 miles, and in South Australia, 2200 miles away; and a sea captain claims to have distinctly heard it all the way across the Indian ocean at Zanzibar.

THE MINING OF ALUM.

Turkish Workings Have Been in Operation for Three Hundred Years in a Crude Manner.

[The Argonaut:] Alum workings in the province of Sivas, Turkey, have been actively operated for fully 300 years. Near the village of Goynyk there is a plentiful supply of the rock or raw material, as the operations so far have been primitive, and only the face of the hillside has been dug out and reduced. The alum-bearing rock is brightly colored, usually with a pinkish or red tinge, and the waste from the Goynyk workings flows down to a small stream along the roadside, to whose waters it gives a pinkish white and opaque color, incidentally killing all the brook trout that happen to venture into the stained water from the higher part of the stream. The rock of ore is first roasted and then broken into small pieces, which are very light because the chemical elements have been burned out. The broken rock is then placed in open pits and allowed to be exposed to the rain and weather for a whole winter, during which time it becomes something like slacked lime, crumbling easily and finely granulated. In this state it is boiled with water in a large cauldron, the stone and waste matter being gradually taken out as it is stirred. Having been sufficiently boiled, the liquid, now almost clear, is placed in cooling tanks made of masonry. In the course of a few days the alum crystallizes around the sides of these tanks to a thickness varying from six to nine inches. It is then ready to be broken into smaller pieces and sent to market. The small portion of alum that sinks to the bottom of the tanks is boiled a second time and yields a superior quality.

STERILIZED OIL.

Sterilized oil for cutting tools is now being employed in a number of the more progressive manufacturing plants. The purpose is the humanitarian one of protecting the workmen from infection, since their hands are constantly bathed in the lubricant while performing their duties, but it also has the advantage of doing away with both the time loss and inconvenience and liability of the employer that in the past have resulted on many occasions from the use of germ-laden oil.

AMIR OF AFGHANISTAN BECOMES A GOLF FIEND.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

KABUL (Afghanistan) Feb. 20.—This country, which has kept itself as free as any place in the Orient from western institutions, has finally succumbed to the charms of golf. The sponsor of the royal and ancient game is the Amir himself, who is rapidly becoming an expert player under tutelage of a Scottish mining engineer. This Scotchman came to Kabul looking for mining concessions. He brought with him his bag of clubs on the remote chance of finding golf links in a country which had cherished a prejudice against any game played with a ball since the time of Omar Khayyam, and soon discovered that the monarch was fonder of talking sport than business. When he spoke enthusiastically of the Scottish royal game the Amir lost no time in putting a corps of sappers and miners to work constructing a course under the direction of the visitor.

Since that time the Amir has become a devoted exponent of the game and he has attained a fair degree of proficiency. But no matter what his skill he bids fair to remain champion of the country, for it is not considered politic to defeat a man who enjoys the power of life and death over every one of his subjects.

The game has reduced the girth of the Amir and improved his health, but he is afraid of overdoing it, so at his winter capital he is having built a miniature links de luxe, limited in size and as smooth as a tennis lawn. Here he will play the game without any of the bunkers or hazards usually provided by the ordinary course.

INDIAN PROBLEM NEEDS SOLUTION.

Wants National Commission to Meet Condition.

Thousands of Indians Dying from Diseases.

BY WARREN K. MOOREHEAD,

Member of the United States Board of Indian Commissioners.

The average intelligent person in the United States is greatly concerned when some stranger appears in the pulpit or on the lecture platform and tells of the needs and the sufferings of the heathen in far-off India, South Africa or Australia. When Dr. Grenfell comes from Labrador he is received with acclaim and it is not a difficult thing for him to raise thousands of dollars for the support of his missions. Yet one may venture to state, without fear of contradiction, that the American Indian has upon us a moral and legal claim far exceeding that possessed by the natives of distant India or near Labrador. In spite of the fact that there is more poverty and suffering among 50 or 60 per cent. of the American Indians than in Labrador, it is almost impossible to raise large sums of money for protection of health and property, or for mission work among these people.

NO PARALLEL.

The government through its Indian office for twenty years or more has made educating and alloting of Indians its chief aim.

I suppose that in the entire history of the world there is no parallel between our country and others, for no nation has expended money as lavishly as have we in our efforts to educate the Indian. It is only within two or three years that we have realized that education is not the essential thing so far as the Indian is concerned.

One hears very little about the thousands of children who have contracted tuberculosis or trachoma, and who are, as soon as the presence of the disease is discovered, dismissed from the school and sent to their homes where proper medical attention is impossible. The many new graves to be observed in every Indian community in the United States tell their own sad story.

That common school education has benefited thousands of Indians, no man or woman will deny. While this is true, in recent years those two scourges of Indian communities, tuberculosis and trachoma, have increased by leaps and bounds, while there are thousands of Indians who enjoy educational advantages at this moment there are thousands from whose eyes the light is fading forever, and yet other thousands who are wasting away.

EDUCATION AND ABILITY.

The lines between the competent and incompetent Indians are not sufficiently clear cut. Many Indians have a little education, and yet are incompetent to manage their own affairs. There are full-blooded Indians, uneducated, who are sharp and shrewd and abundantly able to take care of themselves. Particularly is this true among the Navajo, and with certain of the Sioux. The mixed blood Indians, and especially those who are eighth or sixteenth—that is, who have very little Indian blood—are for the most part educated and should be permitted to shift for themselves. But while this is true, it is estimated that nearly 80 per cent. of our Indians are unable at present to manage their own affairs and therefore they need the protecting arm of the government, if we desire to save them from pauperism.

NAVAJOS EXCEL.

Just now the Navajo Indians are exciting interest on the part of educators and others. The Navajo are the best Indians in the United States, notwithstanding the fact that there are several thousand children not in school. Until we began the policy we have inaugurated elsewhere, they were free from disease. They have always been self-supporting and all they ask (and it is a reasonable request) is for us to let them alone.

If we are able to educate these Indians, without introducing trachoma and tuberculosis among them, by all means let us have education. There are very few doctors in the Navajo country, and once these diseases obtain a foothold, the bulk of the Indians will become affected before preventive measures are established. This is a phase of the subject which most of us, interested in the welfare of the Navajo, have not sufficiently taken into account.

The platform adopted by the 1913 Lake Mohonk conference at the conclusion of its session emphasizes a number of essential and very important things. Truly, some of these are vital to the Indian. These recommendations should have an effect on Congress and upon the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. There is nothing either superhuman or impossible in any of the recommendations. In fact, the platform may be said to be the summing up and presentation in condensed form of all the wisdom and knowledge possessed by competent men and women with reference to Indian affairs.

PERMANENCE NEEDED.

Under our peculiar form of government, and the frequent changes in office, it is practically impossible for us to satisfactorily administer the Indian trust imposed upon us. We have had four commissioners of Indian affairs in six years. Indian committees in Congress change frequently. The Secretary of the Interior no more enters upon his duties and learns what he should do for the Indians, than his successor is appointed. The conference realizing the gravity of the situation, recommends as worthy of serious consideration a suggestion to establish a national commission. The present Board of Indian Commissioners has not sufficient appropriation at its command, it serves in an honorary capacity, its men are all busy, and it is a physical impossibility for them to investigate conditions in Indian communities thoroughly or satisfactorily. If a national commission were appointed to take over entire management of Indian affairs, and the best available men in the United States were appointed to serve, we would soon have a happy and just solution of the vexed Indian problem.

CONFERENCE POINTS WAY.

The Navajo of New Mexico and the Pueblos of the Southwest have been, and are, self-supporting and capable Indians. If we take to heart the lesson from the past, we will see that these industrious people are properly protected, and the platform offers certain important recommendations looking to that end.

The expose of Indian scandals during the past three or four years has been an unpleasant task to those concerned, but if it will result in the accomplishment of all that the distinguished men and women of the conference hope, it will not be in vain. The conference has done its part and it is now up to Congress, the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to see that the recommendations are put in force.

BRAVERY OF THE ARABS.

Will Risk Death on the Desert Rather Than Kill Their Camels and Otherwise Show Great Fortitude.

[London Chronicle:] A thrilling story of the bravery of the Arabs, our allies in Egypt, is told by Capt. Earl Percy of the Grenadier Guards in the current issue of the Army Review, which is the official organ of the imperial general staff. Earl Percy is writing of the Egyptian Army Camel Corps, and he tells of a disaster that occurred to one of its companies in the desert west of Dongola.

"A column which was to supply them with provisions," he explains, "having failed to arrive at the appointed time, the Egyptian officer in charge of the detachment decided that the risk of remaining there was too great, and set out to march to Dongola. The party lost its way in the terrible sandstorms. The women and children were discovered by the belated convoy and rescued in the last stage of exhaustion, but of the men who had scattered in the hope of finding water twenty perished, including one officer.

"The incident revealed the extraordinary courage and endurance of which the Arabs are capable. Many of them refused to kill their camels, though the only hope of prolonging their lives lay in the course always taken in such circumstances of opening the camel's stomach and drinking the water inside it. The animals, they said, were the property of the government, and they were responsible for them.

"The most remarkable feat was that of a sergeant who eventually reached water alone, the small party that accompanied him having lain down to die. Having refreshed himself and his camel, he returned to his unconscious comrades and revived them by pouring water into their ears, their tongues having by that time swollen to such an extent that they could swallow nothing. The inquiry subsequently showed the marvelous fortitude and calmness which these men display under the most trying circumstances."

Earl Percy also writes of weird underground fighting, where savage tribesmen had hidden themselves, with their cattle and other belongings, in a burrowing that he described as a "vast rabbit warren."

This district, he explains, is the home of the Baggara, or cattle-owning tribes, the remnants of those fierce warriors who formed the main fighting strength of the Dervishes. At Southern Kordofan is the country of the Nubas, remnants of the original negro inhabitants of the country, who have been driven into the isolated rocky hills, rising 2000 or 3000 feet above the swamps and forests.

"In these mountain fastnesses," Earl Percy continues, "honeycombed with caves, this strange race builds its villages, grows its corn and tends its herds of sheep, cattle and goats. Generally speaking, they are peaceable enough, but some of the clans have an evil reputation for raiding the neighboring Arabs, murdering isolated parties that may happen to stray too near, or carrying off their women. Most of the fighting done by the camel corps has been against these tribesmen, but its details, however thrilling, are hardly of interest to the student of military science. The tribesmen invariably retire, with the greater part of their personal property and live stock, to the bowels of the earth, whence they maintain a hot fire on any troops who may happen to come within range of their Suiders or Remingtons.

"The unsatisfactory nature of this fighting may be understood if the reader can imagine himself walking over a vast rabbit warren composed of enormous bowlders piled to a height of some 1000 feet or 2000 feet and covering several square miles in area, with an invisible enemy beneath him whose whereabouts it is impossible to ascertain.

"Officers naturally hesitated to engage in underground warfare in labyrinths where whole battalions might be swallowed up, and where all the advantage lay with the enemy. Latterly, however, the problem has been tackled in a systematic manner by the camel corps and in recent expeditions extensive cave-clearing operations have been carried out.

"Parties preceded by torch-bearers have explored these recesses with great success, and though some loss has been sustained, the Nubas now know that their immunity is gone, and that the arm of the government is able to reach them."

A BRASS BRAIN.

Ingenious Machine Used for Predicting the Tides for Years Ahead Both as to Time and Height.

[Scientific American:] Roger Bacon, man of letters and of science, who lived in the thirteenth century, is supposed to have manufactured a brazen head or android, which spoke and revealed "dreaded secrets of the past and future." But no brass brain has come down to the present day from antiquity which can even think, let alone articulate through a brass mouth.

But a mechanism, built for these United States of ours, can truly be called a brass brain, in that it does the mathematical calculations which would otherwise require a hundred flesh and blood brains to do; and if it does not actually articulate its results, at least it indicates them plainly enough, not only by dials, but by writing them down. Still more does it claim kinship with that ancient and fabled brass brain of Bacon's, in that it, too, foretells the future, though no "dread secret" does it make known.

This introduction may seem fanciful—it is sober fact. The machine is known as the United States tide-predicting machine No. 2. It is in daily operation in the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey at Washington. Its work is nothing less than the predicting of the times and heights of high and low tide, a year in advance. Its mechanism is of brass and steel, its house a huge mahogany and glass case, and its tender one observer, who does but sit and turn a crank until it stops, then copies off on paper the reading of several dials, and later removes from the machine a roll of paper on which is plotted the tidal curve for the particular spot along the coast, the tides of which have been predicted.

Every year the United States issues a fat book of tide tables, primarily for the use of its navy, and secondly for the use of all who go down to the sea in ships. This book of tide tables gives the time to the minute and the height to the nearest tenth of a foot of every high and low tide during the year for seventy of the great world seaports, and by means of an auxiliary table, the same information for 3000 other places.

It is essential for the mariner to know when tide is high and when low, and the magnitude of the tide. The safety of his ship and the lives of all on the vessel may depend on that information being accurate and reliable.

SECOND-HAND CORKS.

Champagne Stoppers Are Saved by Waiters and Sold to Be Used a Second Time as "Wafers."

[Pittsburgh Gazette Times:] The Manhattan Waiters' Association of New York occupies the second floor of the Sixth-avenue building, and one of the first objects that greets the visitor is a barrel filled to overflowing with champagne corks. Henry Clarke is English, affable, and chairman of the House Committee. He replied to the inquiry that the cork barrel impelled:

"Bless you, we don't drink it all. What you see in that barrel there represents what is consumed in cafes and restaurants in Broadway. We keep 'em and we sell 'em.

"That barrel," said Mr. Clarke, "and that one over there," indicating another, filled full as the first, "contain about 12,000 corks. We'll sell them tomorrow, and the money will be expended on the works of Shakespeare, Byron, Moore, Shelley, Keats, Longfellow, etc. It took only a few weeks to collect those corks."

The idea of saving the corks occurred to Mr. Clarke about six months ago. He proposed the idea at a meeting of the association, and prizes were offered for the man who brought most in a month. Only the champagne corks were salable, so the pickings were limited.

The first batch, 9000 corks, brought 65 cents a gross, netting the thrifty waiters something like $56. Then another cork dealer heard what the waiters were doing and offered a better price. The association set the two dealers to bidding, and finally one agreed to take all their collections at 85 cents a gross.

In the future when you order wine watch what the waiter does with the cork. He probably will put it in his pocket, knowing that it will add a little more than half a cent to the library fund. On the wall of the club yesterday hung a blackboard, on which the waiters chalk up their additions to the barrels.

Members of the association—all English-speaking men—do not work in all the hotels. The principal sources of the cork income are Jack's, Shanley's, at Forty-third street and Broadway; the Tokio, Pekin, Cavanaugh's and the Garden restaurants, the Arrowhead Inn and Faust's. Such entries as 578, 505, 682—indicating the number of corks brought in at one time—were frequent. New Year's, after the revelry of the night before, more than 2000 corks found their way into the barrels.

The two barrels of corks in the room were heaped upon a pool table and made a mound three feet in height and six feet in diameter. Computation placed the number at 10,000 corks, according to Clark's figures.

Reckoning 3000 as pint corks, each representing about $2.50; 6000 from quarts at $4.50 to $5, and a thousand from wines costing from $5 to $10 the heap of corps represented an expenditure in the neighborhood of $50,000. The association has netted $150 from the sale of corks, which means that something like $140,000 was spent by the public.

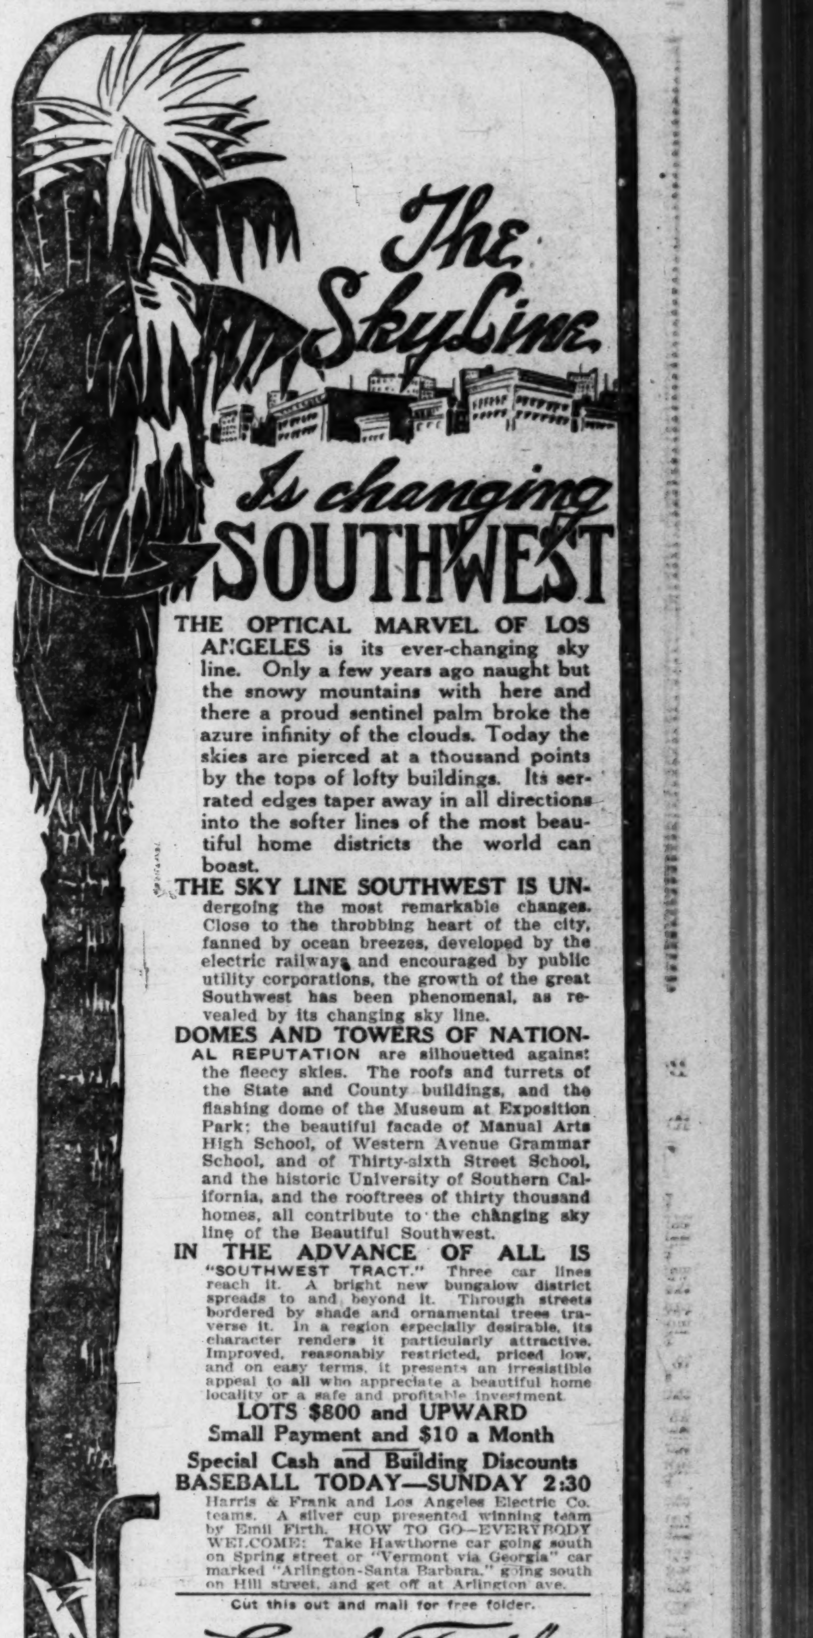
What good are champagne corks? Mr. Clarke and Charles Renshaw, secretary of the organization, explained. Only the finest grade of cork is used for champagne. Placed in machines, they are cut into wafers the size of a 25-cent piece and are used inside the metal caps on mineral water and beer bottles.

INFLUENCE OF BIG DINNERS.

British Judges Used to Cut Short the Hearing of Cases After They Felt Contented.

[London Chronicle:] The subject of judges sitting late recalls the curious custom which was long the rule at the Old Bailey. In all criminal cases of great gravity three judges sat together, and they sat right through till 5, and then went to a gorgeous dinner provided by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen. Here they consumed prodigious quantities of wine, "thoroughly relieved their minds from the horrors of the court, and returned in solemn procession, their gravity undisturbed by anything that had previously taken place and looking the picture of contented virtue." Another dinner was provided by the Sheriffs for the recorder, common sergeant and others who had replaced the judges while they dined. But the chaplain had the exceptional privilege of taking part in both dinners.

An old observer of the ways of the central criminal court remarked that the chief feature connected with these dinners was the extraordinary celerity with which trials were conducted when their lordships had dined. He cited a case in which a prisoner had picked a pocket of a handkerchief. Two witnesses were called, the man robbed and a constable, who stated the facts in a few words. Then the judge addressed the prisoner. "Nothing to say, I suppose?" The summing up was as follows: "Gentlemen, I suppose you have no doubt? I have none." Jury: "Guilty, my lord." Judge to prisoner: "We have met before—we shall not meet again for some time—seven years' transportation." Time for trial, two minutes fifty-three seconds. It was said that these after-dinner trials did not average more than four minutes each.



The Sky Line Is changing SOUTHWEST

THE OPTICAL MARVEL OF LOS ANGELES is its ever-changing sky line. Only a few years ago naught but the snowy mountains with here and there a proud sentinel palm broke the azure infinity of the clouds. Today the skies are pierced at a thousand points by the tops of lofty buildings. Its serrated edges taper away in all directions into the softer lines of the most beautiful home districts the world can boast.

THE SKY LINE SOUTHWEST IS UNdergoing the most remarkable changes. Close to the throbbing heart of the city, fanned by ocean breezes, developed by the electric railways and encouraged by public utility corporations, the growth of the great Southwest has been phenomenal, as reflected by its changing sky line.

DOMES AND TOWERS OF NATIONAL REPUTATION are silhouetted against the fleecy skies. The roofs and turrets of the State and County buildings, and the flashing dome of the Museum at Exposition Park; the beautiful facade of Manual Arts High School, of Western Avenue Grammar School, and of Thirty-sixth Street School, and the historic University of Southern California, and the rooftrees of thirty thousand homes, all contribute to the changing sky line of the Beautiful Southwest.

IN THE ADVANCE OF ALL IS "SOUTHWEST TRACT." Three car lines reach it. A bright new bungalow district spreads to and beyond it. Through streets bordered by shade and ornamental trees traverse it. In a region especially desirable, its character renders it particularly attractive. Improved, reasonably restricted, priced low, and on easy terms, it presents an irresistible appeal to all who appreciate a beautiful home locality or a safe and profitable investment.

SMILES WITH CIGARS.

Attractive Women Clerks Substituted for Men at Chain of Downtown Hotel Tobacco Stands.

Is the feminine personality an aid to the tobacco business? A company which owns a chain of cigar stands in the leading downtown hotels is trying an interesting experiment.

Attractive women clerks have been substituted for male clerks at the Clark and Hollenbeck Hotels and officials of the company are watching the cash registers at the stands to learn if the change is good business. If the young women succeed in increasing trade, clerks of the gentler sex soon will be seen behind the counters of all of the hotel stands of the company.

The company has been in business in Los Angeles since 1885 and employed only male clerks until recently. Reports have come from other cities that women clerks of pleasing appearance increase business.

Some of the hotel clerks believe that the experiment will not be a success and that the male clerks will be restored behind the cigar counters. One of the hotel employees explained his belief in this way:

"Many of our male guests are accompanied by their wives. Few of the men would care to have their wives see them snaking dice with a beautiful blonde and thus they would be timid about hanging around the cigar stands. The married men have confided to me and I know I am talking facts. Without the restraining presence of the wives I believe that the feminine cigar clerks would be a great success, but under the circumstances I am convinced that the experiment will result in a decrease of business."

HONORED BY EMPLOYEES.

A. B. Fothergill, former manager of the Buffalo Baking Company, was tendered a banquet at Christopher's last night by the new owners, the Pacific Baking Company. Fothergill was presented with a very handsome silver loving cup by his former employees, and Mrs. Fothergill was tendered a watch. Seventy-five were present.

CATTLE TRADE HALTED.

Texas Dealer Says Conditions on the Border Have Put a Stop to Importations from Mexico.

One of the results of the Mexican crisis has been to check the importation of cattle from the northern part of the republic. The suspension of the cattle business is resulting in loss to both the American buyers and the Constitutionalist leaders, who received the duty, according to C. P. Pitman, a cattle dealer of El Paso, who is a visitor in the city.

"The extensive cattle business with Northern Mexico has been completely paralyzed," Pitman said yesterday at the Hollenbeck. "I was in Juarez one week ago and talked with Gen. Villa on the subject. He said that under the circumstances he thought it best to check the exportation of cattle since a scarcity of beef animals would increase the problem of obtaining rations for the Constitutionalist army.

"The cattle business reached a confused condition which made the American buyers afraid to invest on account of disputed ownership. When I was in El Paso ten days ago Terrazas filed an attachment on 850 head of cattle which had been sold to Americans by persons friendly to Gen. Villa.

"We had to pay both an export and an import duty on cattle coming from Mexico. The Mexican customs officials charged a duty of $2 to $6, gold, a head, and the American customs officials from $1.50 to $4 a head. The destruction of the cattle trade with Mexico is resulting in discomfort to dealers who have been depending largely on that market for their supply."

PAUPER PLUNGER ARRAIGNED.

EAT NEW BREAD, CABBAGE, SAUSAGE AND DIGEST IT. "PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN."

No indigestion, no sour, gassy stomach or dyspepsia. Try it!

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered, you get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear. Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Diapepsin is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Put an end to stomach trouble by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless t is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.—[Advertisement.

SOLDIERS' HOME DEATHS.

Veteran of Mexican and Civil Wars Dies—Only a Few of the Old Fellows Are Left.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, April 25.—The burial of Robert T. Wright lately, one of the few survivors of the Mexican War at this branch, was held here today. After having served in Co. D, Fourth Kentucky Infantry, in the Mexican War for exactly one year, Veteran Wright settled in California, and on a second call for troops in the Civil War, enlisted in Co. M, First California Cavalry, and served three years and two days, making a combined service of four years. Wright was a native of Indiana, admitted to the home in 1894, and was aged 94.

OTHER RECENT DEATHS.

Joseph Hobbs, formerly of Co. B, Twentieth Illinois Infantry, a native of New York, admitted from Los Angeles in 1914, died April 22, aged 69.

William D. Carr, formerly of Co. I, Second California Cavalry, a native of Ireland, admitted from Shasta, Cal., in 1891, died April 23, aged 94.

John Cavanaugh, formerly of Co. C, Seventh Wisconsin Infantry, a native of Pennsylvania, admitted from Los Angeles in 1908, died at Spokane, Wash., while on furlough, April 18, aged 76.

Francis A. Hunt, formerly of Co. F, First Battalion California Mountaineers, a native of Massachusetts, admitted from Arcata, Cal., in 1904, died April 20, aged 68.

Charles Scholten, formerly of Co. E, Fifty-fourth New York Infantry, a native of Germany, admitted from Sawtelle, Cal., in 1900, died April 18, aged 79.

STANDING-CAR SPACE.

In the loop district of Chicago it is estimated that there are 1500 cars drawn up at curbs during business hours. This number of cars occupies more space than the mere dimensions of the cars, the width of the space used being eight feet wide and fifteen feet long, average, or 120 square per car, allowing a foot of clearance on every side. This makes 180,000 square feet occupied by standing cars in the crowded loop district of Chicago, equal to .8 mile of street area.

FLEECES MANY; WIRES A TAUNT.

CLEVER POSEUR REAPS HARVEST OF GOLD HERE.

Theater Usher Represents Himself as Millionaire's Son, Uses Checks and Unpaid-for Pianos to Get Victims' Money, Then Wire from New York: "I Should Worry."

It was the gentle art of persuasion that made Charlie Grossman a gentleman of leisure in Los Angeles and a most costly person to have for an acquaintance, according to many reports made to the City Prosecutor yesterday. The police are searching for the man, who yesterday telegraphed to his victims the consoling slang, "I should worry."

As a theater usher in Kansas City Grossman, it is alleged, conceived the idea of becoming a poseur that he carried out in Los Angeles. His father was very rich, he said, one of the wealthy men of the nation, but it was just a little trouble between him and the pater, you know, a mere misunderstanding, that made it necessary for him to earn money for the present time. Most embarrassing it was, to be sure..

As an advertising man, Grossman secured a wide acquaintance and ingratiated himself by the liberality with which he scattered theater passes throughout the city. But it always happened that he was in need of ready funds shortly afterwards, and would ask the recipient of his courtesies to kindly cash a check.

Of course, they did.

And women, too, felt his persuasive guile. He became their ardent friend, they allege, many of them. It was a favorite ruse, they said, for him to suggest that a woman acquaintance had a most artistic temperament and that he, too, was blessed with the same gift. Would the woman kindly accept from him the gift of a piano that she might cultivate her wonderful capabilities in music, he would ask.

Always, the police allege, the women had some funds and about three weeks later Grossman would appear at the home of the woman to whom he had given the piano and relate a gigantic deal that would net him millions, but he needed $500 more to complete the transaction. Of course, again, the sympathetic woman would accommodate him with a loan for a short time.

And then she found that her check had been used and a few weeks later the agents would come and demand the second installment on the piano; the first installment of $5 having been paid by Grossman.

The telegrams received by his victims, it is reported, were sent from New York, collect in each instance, and each contained the same philosophic remark, that Charlie Grossman "should worry."

PROSECUTORS TO MEET.

Topics of Interest Will Be Discussed During District Attorneys' Convention in North.

The convention of the District Attorneys' Association, which convenes at San Jose tomorrow and continues for five days, will be attended from this city by District Attorney Fredericks, Judge Willis, who was formerly in the District Attorney's office; Deputies Keetch and Hammon. The programme as announced by Secretary Keetch is as follows: Address of welcome, V. A. Scheller, president of the Bar Association of Santa Clara county; response, Clarence F. Lea, District Attorney of Sonoma county; address, "Juvenile Offenders," Calvin Dirrick, superintendent Preston School of Industry, Ione; "Probation—Does It Pay?" Judge Frank R. Willis; "The Penitentiary, the Prison and the Parole," Col. D. M. Duffy, president Board Prison Directors; "Asexualization," Dr. F. W. Hatch, superintendent State Hospital; "Crime and Criminology," Percy V. Hammon, Deputy District Attorney.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday subjects to be discussed and acted upon include: "That a verdict of three-fourths be adopted in criminal cases, with the exception of capital offenses; to amend section 964 of the penal code to combine offenses of larceny and false pretenses; that equal number of challenges be accorded to the prosecution and the defense; indeterminate sentences for first offenders; to amend the law regarding the testimony of accomplices; to amend the law regarding passing of fictitious checks; to frame a new system of bail and making bail bonds a lien upon the property of the persons giving bail.

CHARGE LAND SWINDLE.

Gardena Ranchman Arrested as Fugitive Wanted for Using Mails for Fraud in Oregon.

Sidney L. Sperry, a Gardena ranchman, was arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Bassett on a fugitive complaint, charging him with using the mails to defraud.

Sperry was brought to the city and arraigned before United States Commissioner Williams. He was allowed to go at liberty on $3000 bail.

Sperry, with J. W. Logan, B. F. Fairchild, D. J. Conners, W. A. S. Nicholson, Fred Brantner and Norman D. Cook, were indicted by the Federal grand jury in the district of Oregon for complicity in a land scheme, that, according to the complaint, was worked out of San Francisco in January, 1913.

It is alleged that the defendants represented themselves as agents of the Oregon and California Railway Company and fleeced numerous persons of money, in some cases as much as $600, through their account of an equity suit brought by the government to force the railway to sell a large area of land. It was represented, according to the complaint, that the railroad admitted it would lose the suit and wanted to dispose of the land under such terms as to retain the timber rights. It was declared that not more than 160 acres would be sold to any one purchaser, at a price not over $2.50 an acre. The buyer, on securing title to the land, which was to be within six months of making the sale contract, was to reconvey the standing timber to the railroad company, but would secure land of value much above the purchase price.

It is alleged that the defendants knew it was the intention of the United States to acqire all of the land involved in the suit by a decree of court; that they never were the agents of the railroad company and that it was the intention of the railroad company to vigorously contest the suit.

Advices from the North state that much money was cleaned up by the scheme.

Sperry indicated that he expects to prove he was innocent of any fraudulent intent.

CHILD CONSERVATION.

Superintendent of Children's Home Society Tells City Club of Work on This Line.

"Conservation of the Child" was the theme of Herbert W. Lewis, superintendent of the Children's Home Society of California, yesterday before the City Club. The speaker told of the work being accomplished and outlined the necessities for further protection of helpless children.

The statement was made that there are now more than forty asylums in California that receive State aid in housing children and that more than 7000 children are being cared for. With the exception of New York and Pennsylvania, California spends more money on the care of dependent children than any other State in the Union. Lewis estimates that the total cost to the public, through State and private aid, for caring for dependent children is about $1,250,000 per year.

The speaker urged that what California needs at this time is concentration of energies in this line of work. The great necessity of placing children in permanent homes, where they will be surrounded by the best influences, was set forth. The speaker, in this connection, declared that there is need of good work in the way of getting rid of ill-advised or fraudulent and commercial disposal of little children, and paid a tribute to the services of Health Commissioner Powers of this city and his assistants of the health department for their wise and sympathetic work on this line.

Restraint.

WOULD ENJOIN MOOSE LODGE.

SUPREME BODY SEEKS TO PREVENT USE OF NAME.

Files Suit in United States Court for Damages, Charging Misrepresentations Made by Cregier Following—Petition for Access to Mails Started by Old Members.

While members of the old Los Angeles Lodge, No. 386, Loyal Order of Moose, were asking Judge Morrison yesterday to name a court commission to receive and handle its mail, the Supreme Lodge was filing in the United States District Court a petition for injunction to restrain the local lodge from using the name of "Moose" and asking $5000 damages for alleged misrepresentations made by the lodge against national officers.

Mrs. Georgia P. Bullock, attorney for the old Moose lodge, headed by N. Banks Cregier, dictator; filed suit against Postmaster Harrison and Ira K. Cummings. It is alleged that the postmaster, on order of Cummings, has tied up the mail of the old lodge. Acting Presiding Judge Morrison yesterday entered an order to show cause, returnable before Judge Finlayson Monday afternoon. The postmaster and Cummins, who is attached to the new Moose lodge, are sought to be enjoined from interfering with the receipt of mail by the old lodge.

Cregier attaches an affidavit to the complaint, asserting that many destitue families are suffering, because their wants are prevented from becoming known, through the tie-up in the mails.

The Supreme Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose, is plaintiff in the suit filed in the Federal Court. Los Angeles Lodge No. 386, Loyal Order of Moose, a corporation; N. Banks Cregier, J. C. Hagy, J. K. Renshaw, John R. Heflin, J. F. Crocker, S. Bernard, H. E. Dupue, C. D. Pike, Dr. R. N. Culver, E. Pelot, R. H. Edmunds and P. J. Peters are defendants.

It is alleged that the parent organization has been injured to the extent of more than $5000 by the alleged misrepresentation of the local lodge, and an injunction is asked restraining this old lodge from the use of the word "Moose." The old lodge has been "outlawed" by the supreme body.

It is alleged that the order was first organized in Louisville, Ky., in 1888, as the Social Order of Moose, reorganized as the Loyal Order of Moose in 1908, and incorporated under the laws of Indiana, as a fraternal and benevolent organization.

It is asserted that the order has 1500 lodges with a membership of 500,000; and that in California alone there are forty lodges with a membership of 20,000. The defendant lodge headed by Cregier, has 3000 members, it is claimed.

THE PERNICIOUS DOOR KEY.

Its Loss or the Failure to Find It Emphasizes the Greater Convenience of the Old Latchstring.

[Indianapolis News:] A door key is an inconsistent if not an altogether senseless affair. It may be all right in itself, but it is often used to lock doors, and a locked door is a very foolish thing. Some doors, you may remark, lock themselves, and a door key is necessary to unlock them. That might be a reasonable excuse for the existence of the key, but such a key, if it is not lost or on the wrong side of the door, frequently gets stuck and refuses to open the door. If there were no door keys, there would in all probability be no locked doors, and that would be a very enjoyable state of society.

With the door locked and the key inside, it is difficult for anybody except a burglar to get inside, and, of course, a burglar is the only person we want to keep out. Burglars can get in just as easily with the door locked as with it unlocked, but the rest of us are not so clever. You know yourself how it is. You have carried ladders and climbed into upstairs windows or have dropped through basement windows into the coal bin or have tried to go through transoms and been rescued by neighbors from an embarrassing if not a dangerous position. Everybody knows all about getting into a house without a key.

Sometimes you cannot get in at all. One morning a woman followed her husband to the front steps and the door slammed and the night lock was on and the key was inside, and her husband had caught the car. She was canning pears and had put them on the stove to cook while she was getting breakfast. They were still cooking and would soon be burning. The baby was crying for his breakfast. She could not get in. None of the neighbors could get in. Somebody telephoned to her husband, and perhaps it was not more than an hour before he got home with his key. An hour is a long time, and the pears and the baby were in a terrible state. It would have been better if there had been a burglar in the house. He could have turned off the gas and have fed the baby, and he might have opened the door. A good old-fashioned latchstring, always out, would relieve us of so much responsibility and would be so much safer.

BIG RATE WAR MAY SPREAD.

Insurance Hustlers Slashing Down to Nothing.

Board of Underwriters Back of the Old Liners.

Large Premiums Saved to Quaker Town.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, April 25.—The local insurance war started yesterday went merrily on all day today, and this evening no one would venture an opinion as to when the low rates would be withdrawn. The nearest guess was that the rates would be raised to a standard when all possible insurance here had been written up for three years. An immense amount of insurance was written today with little changing of money. Rates as low as 10 cents on $100 for a three-year period were reported as common.

The war was precipitated by the decision of the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific Coast at a meeting in San Francisco earlier in the week. Complaints had been going to this board for some time that the non-board companies were cutting rates here and that the board companies were not getting their share of the Whittier business. In view of these facts, the San Francisco meeting cancelled all Whittier rates, which action left each company absolutely free to write insurance at whatever rate it desired.

Thursday about fifteen representatives of the board companies were here in an effort to get local representatives to agree to a uniform rate and to get agents who handled both board and non-board companies to handle only board companies. Local agents refused to do this and the rate war was on. Some new business was written, but the main business consisted in the cancellation of policies now in force and the reinsuring at almost any old rate. In the scramble each company got whatever rate and whatever business it could

A representative of a well-known old-line company said today: "The companies that belong to the Board of Underwriters of the Pacific Coast have incurred vast expense in making maps and surveys of cities and in the establishment of fair rates, as well as in the dissemination of all map, rate, and survey facts. The board companies are in no sense a trust.

"The non-board companies have taken advantage of all the information obtained by us at great expense, an expense to which they contributed nothing, and cut these fair rates. This matter has been brought to the attention of the Executive Committee and when the condition in this local field became known the committee decided to permit a rate war. We will stay by it to the end."

None would venture to say just what that end would be nor when it would come. It is estimated that the annual premiums paid in this city aggregate $30,000. For three years this would make $90,000. With this war on, 50 per cent. or perhaps even 75 per cent. of this amount is saved to the property owners of this city. Apparently this is a case where the average, every-day citizen is the gainer.

Representatives of the non-board companies say that the board rates for Whittier have been manifestly too high, and that the non-board companies have been acting the part of benefactors in giving good insurance at a reasonable rate.

"Will this rate war be extended to other communities and eventually to all cities of the State?" was asked of representatives today. "It is purely a local war," said one old-line man, while another said, "No one can tell; the war may spread."

CITY MAY SELL POWER CURREN

VOTE NEEDED IS SAME AS TH FOR ISSUING BONDS.

Attorneys in Report to Club Women Say the People Have the Final Decision, While Alternate Proposition of Power Companies Would Not Require Casting Vote.

In reply to a request for information made by members of the Friday Morning Club as to the power of the city to sell current at wholesale under State Railroad Commission rule to the local power companies, a report by the attorneys of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, the Southern California Edison Company, and the Pacific Light and Power Corporation has been compiled. This report will be filed with the organization interested. It reads as follows:

The charter of the City of Los Angeles requires an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the votes cast on the proposition before it can issue bonds.

The charter does not prohibit the sale of power at wholesale, but requires exactly the same vote before the city can sell power to the power companies as is required to vote bonds.

The people have the final say whether they will incur bonded indebtedness or sell power and gather the profit.

The alternate proposition of the companies does not require any vote of the people, inasmuch as the city would itself sell the power to consumers, retain all of its rights, and in addition have equal representation on a board of control supervising the use of the companies' distributing properties, instead of supervising the companies alone.

SAFETY LECTURES.

Active opening of an intensive safety-first campaign in the public schools of New York City is to take place shortly, under the auspices of the Safety First Society. Lectures are to be given in all the schools and it is planned to organize safety patrols among the pupils, the patrols to be composed of older boys selected by the teachers. Each schoolroom is to be provided with a large wall calendar, having a sheet for each month illustrating some form of street accident to which children are liable.

BIG RATE WAR MAY SPREAD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, April 25.—The local insurance war started yesterday went merrily on all day today, and this evening no one would venture an opinion as to when the low rates would be withdrawn. The nearest guess was that the rates would be raised to a standard when all possible insurance here had been written up for three years. An immense amount of insurance was written today with little changing of money. Rates as low as 10 cents on $100 for a three-year period were reported as common.

BODY IS FOUND IN LONE WASH.

Identified as Man Who Long Ago Disappeared.

Chicken Thief's Conscience Harks Away Back.

Figuring on Plans for New Maryland Hotel.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, April 26.—The dead body of Louis Hermann of No. 72 West Walnut street, who disappeared from his home the afternoon of March 23, last, was found yesterday by J. W. Brown in a small canyon west of Linda Vista as Brown was searching for ferns.

No weapons were found near-by, but the undertakers and members of the family believe that the man committed suicide. He had been melancholy for some time. Investigation is expected to determine the cause of death.

Hermann was 60 years old and for many years was a partner of A. Meacham in a novelty shop at No. 14 West Union street. He was one of the oldest residents of the city and was well known by all of the pioneers. Some time ago he sold out his interest to his partner and from that time until he disappeared he had done nothing.

It was the suspicion of his family at once when he could not be found that he had become despondent because of lack of employment and killed himself. However, he was not in want. A search for him was started the day after he disappeared. Parties were organized and the mountains for many miles about the city were searched, but no trace of the missing man was found.

Hermann leaves a wife and four children. The body is now at the morgue of Ives & Warren. The Coroner was notified last night and the inquest will probably be held today.

RESTITUTION IS MADE.

Henry Newby, a prominent Pasadena banker, yesterday received an anonymous letter addressed jointly to his brother, Luther G. Newby, and their sister, Mrs. Emma Bell, written by a conscience-stricken man, whom they estimate to be an octogenarian, and in which he incloses $1.50 as his share in payment for a chicken stolen from their father. The elder Newby has been deceased for forty-four years and the Newby brothers figure that it must have been about sixty years ago that the hen in question changed ownership. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear friend: I write that I may settle an old account with thy father's estate, as follows:

"When I was a young man, with three or four other boys, one of us stole a chicken from thy father's flock. All are guilty. I send $1.50 to pay my share. If this is not enough, please let me know. If thee choose to divide with thy brothers, then do so.—Jesus saves. Nice weather here. Fruit has set heavy."

The letter came from Oregon, under date of the 11th inst.

NEW PLANS ARE MADE.

Though nothing new has yet been announced in the way of financial arrangements to facilitate the building of a new Hotel Maryland, Myron Hunt, the architect who has been working on the plans for one since the fire, yesterday gave an idea of what it will be like if constructed.

The new building is to be five stories in height. The main lobby will be 112x50 feet in dimensions and there will be a ballroom 104x74 feet. An immense sun porch is another important feature. Lobby, ballroom, dining-room and sun porch are to be so arranged that they may be thrown into one large room. There is to be a court in front of the building similar to the old one, but larger. The hotel will also have a roof garden.

The entire space occupied by the building is to be 257 feet long and 185 feet wide. There will be a sixth story in the main part of the building, though the wings will be but five stories in height.

The insurance adjusters are now at work on the ruins of the hotel. It will probably be several days more before they will have completed their task.

CITY BRIEFS.

The City Commissioners yesterday went to Riverside to inspect the municipal swimming pool there, after which the one to be constructed here will probably be patterned.

It was announced yesterday that the annual reunion of the Pasadena pioneers will take place May 29.

Riverside Chosen As Headquarters for Additional Plant Bureau Representative.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, April 25.—With the placing of another representative of the Department of Agriculture here, additional recognition is given the importance of this city as a center for the operations of the department in the field of special investigation.

Levi P. Chubback, an expert in the office of farm management of the Bureau of Plant Industry, has been assigned office quarters in the new Federal building. His district includes Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico, in addition to California, and the work is now such that it has been found impracticable to handle it with headquarters so remote from the field as Washington.

Brooding Over Financial Trouble Starts It.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, April 25.—William Miller of No. 1812 West Main street shot and seriously wounded his wife at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and then killed himself.

Mrs. Miller was shot three times, one bullet going through the shoulder, one lodging in the shoulder and one in her head. Physicians at the Alhambra Hospital attending her consider her recovery doubtful.

Miller shot himself three times in a straight line with the heart, expiring about twenty minutes later. He was about 45 and his wife is perhaps 40 years old.

Domestic discord resulting from property and financial matters was the cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller resided in Alhambra about twelve years and were known and esteemed by a large circle of acquaintances. It is believed that constant brooding over his financial troubles caused a temporary aberration and that Miller was insane at the time he committed the deed.

There are no children or relatives in California, except Edward Paine, a brother of Mrs. Miller, in Los Angeles. Other members of the family reside in Owensboro, Ky.

INVITATIONS TO MANY MAYORS.

LOCAL EXECUTIVE TO BE GUEST OF FOOTHILL CITY.

Twenty-seventh Birthday Anniversary in May to Be Gala Affair at Monrovia—Elk Delegation to March in Pageant—Youths Victim of Practical Joker.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, April 25.—Invitations to the Mayors of all Southern California cities have been sent out by the committee in charge of Monrovia day, and it is hoped that a goodly number will be present to head the monster parade in the morning of May 16, when Monrovia will celebrate her twenty-seventh birthday anniversary.

Mayor Rose of Los Angeles has already promised to head the list of municipal executives, and will be the guest of the city at the all-day carnival. A banquet at noon will be given the Mayors and the newspaper men at Hotel 'Leven Oaks, after which all will be escorted to a reserved section of the grand stand for the big afternoon performance.

Plans for the celebration are progressing with unusual speed and the dozen sub-committees in charge of Rev. Ray D. Welch, general chairman, have lined up the varied "stunts" in excellent shape. Many out-of-town organizations are planning to take part, notably six military academies of Los Angeles and the vicinity. These include the Los Angeles, Page, Urban, Harvard, California and Santa Monica academies. All promised to send a company each, and today word was received that the Page Academy will send three companies and the Los Angeles Academy two companies and a full military band.

Yesterday a delegation from the Pasadena Elk Lodge was in Monrovia and completed arrangements for the Elks' part in the parade. In addition to marching in the pageant, the Elks will rent a building here Monrovia day and establish headquarters for visiting "Bills."

In all the entertainments of the day comedy will be king, and dozens of "stunts" of a ludicrous nature have already been provided for.

In connection with the rest of the celebration preparations, voting for Monrovia's queen is going forward briskly. The preliminary contest will be closed April 28, and the five highest contestants will then be entered for the finals. The young lady elected queen will receive much courtesy on the big day, including dinners, dances, theater parties, etc. The final queen's ball, to be held at Hotel 'Leven Oaks in the evening, will be the social event of the season.

THOUGHT ORDERS REAL.

Yesterday when Stanley Constans and George Allison, two young Monrovia men, received telegrams ordering them to report to the regimental headquarters of the Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., they were very much disturbed in mind, and at a loss exactly how to act. In the first place they did not belong to the National Guard of California or any other military organization, but on the other hand the messages were signed by a Monrovia man, who was formerly lieutenant in Co. C of the Seventh, and sounded official. The mystery was finally explained when it was found that the messages were sent by a practical joker who succeeded in giving his victims a bad half-hour.

Last night before the Brotherhood of the Methodist Church Dr. Lyman B. Sperry gave the last of a series of fifty addresses in Los Angeles county, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Dr. Sperry talked on "Social Hygiene" and gave his audience some excellent advice on the physical requirements of boys at the growing age, from 15 to 18.

REDLANDS HAIL STORM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, April 25.—This city was visited by a severe hail storm, beginning at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and lasting ten minutes. Hailstones as large as marbles fell until the streets were covered. Damage to the orange crop remaining on trees seemed imminent, but was averted by the short duration of the storm.

SALINA CRUZ REFUGEES SAIL FOR LOS ANGELES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN PEDRO, April 25.—News was received today that the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company's big steamer Nebraskan had sailed yesterday for this port with refugees from Salina Cruz. The Nebraskan will be the last steamer of this line to sail from Salina Cruz as long as conditions require war risk on cargoes.

The steamer Columbian sailed for Salina Cruz yesterday for Balboa with balance of cargo of sugar from Honolulu. This means that the Tehuantepec route has been abandoned for the present and freight from New York will be received over the Panama Railroad by both the Luckenbach and American-Hawaiian lines.

News received here from Salina Cruz is that service over the Tehuantepec Railroad has been demoralized on account of labor conditions rather than actual warfare. There was a general exodus of Mexican laborers when the trouble broke out on the east coast. The cruiser Denver is at Salina Cruz.

The steamer Virginian is expected tomorrow or Monday from Salina Cruz with New York freight. She sailed April 19 before the trouble began. Wireless instructions have been sent to the steamer Nevadan, which sailed from here last Sunday to proceed direct to Balboa with her cargo for New York and make no attempt to land freight at the Mexican port. This will save war risk insurance of 1½ per cent.

TEETOTALER COMPANY SOUGHT IN PASADENA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, April 26.—Members of the Pasadena Camps of the Spanish War Veterans of America are already making preparations to organize a Pasadena company. Dr. T. Malaby will probably attend the meeting to be held by the Spanish War Veterans in Los Angeles tomorrow, and if a Southern California regiment is formed he says there is little doubt that Pasadena will have a company of about fifty or sixty men, so that, should it be called into service, it could within a few hours' time be recruited up to a full company. The Pasadena Spanish War Veterans stand ready to offer their services if called on.

C. M. T. Lesslie, one of the veterans most actively interested, has conceived the idea of organizing in Pasadena a unique company in that he wants no men recruited who are not teetotalers.

"My experience in the Philippines was a sad one," he said yesterday. "One-half of the company was always doing the other half's work, as well as its own. If a company is recruited here I would favor that strict temperance be made the rule and that no men who drink at all be enrolled.

"I want to offer my services if they are needed and I did go so far as to draft a night letter to the President. I thought, however, that such action might be a little too hasty and so I have instead written to Congressman Bell telling him of the steps we propose to take in the organization of a company."

Lesslie served two years in the Philippines and was for six years a member of the National Guard of the State of New York.

Pacific Corporation to Take Over System—Board of Trustees Has Granted Franchise—City Officers Organize by Electing President and Making Appointments.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDORA, April 25.—The stockholders of the Glendora Light and Power Company at a meeting held today, passed a resolution petitioning the Superior Court for the dissolution of the company and empowering the board of directors to distribute, pro rata, the proceeds of the sale of the electric light and power plant. The distribution is to be made as soon as it can be legally done.

The Glendora Light and Power plant was taken over the first of April after an agreement of purchase by the Pacific Light and Power Corporation. After the order of dissolution by the Court, the plant will become an integral part of the general system of the Pacific Light and Power Corporation.

The franchise granted by the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendora to the new owners of the system for the distribution of electrical energy, calls for the extension of the service over the city as rapidly as demanded by the growth in population. The rate for lighting service was reduced, after the change of ownership, from 12½ cents per kilowatt hour to 8 cents per kilowatt hour. The reduction for power purposes was proportionately as much.

CITY ORGANIZATION.

The new Board of Trustees organized this week by the election of Dr. A. E. Englehardt, president. F. G. Dessery was reappointed city engineer and street superintendent; R. B. Bidwell, city attorney, and O. R. Long, city marshal and deputy city street superintendent.

COSTLY WATER WELL.

Fisher Oil Company Abandons Deep Well Drilled at Large Expense—Now Used for Water.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, April 25.—After being drilled to a depth of over 5000 feet, without encountering oil in commercial quantities, the well of the Fisher Oil Company in this field has been sold to Dr. Davidson of Brea, who will use it to supply water for his ranch, on which the well is located. The well was disposed of for the price of the casing, and is said to have cost nearly $75,000 to drill. Work was in progress over two years.

Davidson has pulled out the inner pipes, thus getting a good supply of water for irrigation. The water rises in the pipe to within ten feet of the surface, and it promises to furnish his pumping plant with an inexhaustible supply.

The Fisher Oil Company is headed by Walter H. Fisher, the well-known capitalist of Los Angeles.

The St. Helens Petroleum Company has just brought in a new well on the lease of the Anaheim Union Water Company in La Habra Valley at a depth of about 3500 feet. There is over 150 feet of oil sand in the hole and the well is reported to be flowing at the rate of 1500 barrels a day.

S. McMahon, representing the William Grover Tank Company of Chicago, has arrived at Brea with a force of eight men and has commenced the work of constructing two steel tanks for the Birch Oil Company. The tanks are to be thirty-five by thirty feet in dimensions and each is to have a capacity for 200,000 gallons.

SOUTH PASADENA SEWER.

Construction Work Begun on Diamond Avenue—Big Dredge to Operate on Huntington Drive.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, April 25.—Construction work on the sewer was begun this morning, Contractor Nickevich putting a gang of men to work on Diamond avenue just below Monterey road. Another gang will go to work Monday morning. On May 1 the company's big dredge will be brought here and will begin operations on Huntington drive. The work will be pushed through to completion as early as possible.

Contractor Nickevich will open an office in this city during the course of the sewer job, so that the work may be kept well in hand. Contractor Andrew Holloway, who will pave Huntington drive, Monterey road and Fair Oaks avenue, will follow up the sewer construction with several gangs of men so that his work will be completed soon after the sewers are laid.

The members of the art-history classes of the Huntington Hall school for girls gave a dramatic exhibition this evening at the school, in which the masterpieces of the famous European artists were portrayed in living poses. English, French, Italian and Dutch artists were included. Between the principal numbers, musical selections were given by the members of the music department. A short reception followed the programme.

Halstead Stiles, one of the two remaining members of the Jesse James' gang of highway and bank robbers, who has spent most of his life in prison, will speak in the Calvary Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. W. E. McVey, vice-president of the German American Bank of Los Angeles, and Jarette Aycock, assistant superintendent of the City Rescue Mission, will also speak at the service.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AZUSA, April 25.—Miss Carrie Newell, aged 43 years, who made her home with the two Neeley sisters of this place, disappeared on March 5, leaving a note, saying that she was going to see friends. She was seen at Monrovia on that day and then dropped entirely out of sight.

The Neeley women rested easily for a week, supposing her to have gone to her uncle, E. K. Pierce, in Azusa, when it was learned she had not been there.

On the evening prior to her departure she received a check for $15, drawn on the Glendora bank, and that check has never been cashed.

Miss Newell has been a devoted member of the Baptist Church and talked a great deal of going to a foreign field as a missionary. With this in mind, her relatives have made diligent search in all directions, including religious institutions of Los Angeles.

E. K. Pierce of this place will be thankful for any information concerning her.

GIRLS! GIRLS! YOU MUST TRY THIS! DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR.

For 25 cents you can make your hair lustrous, fluffy, and abundant.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.—[Advertisement.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic condition in my office.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.

WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line, I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,

ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., L.L.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

President of a Prominent College Cured.

For more than ten years I was a sufferer from a painful affliction, which nearly ruined my usefulness as an organizer and teacher. Dr. C. H. White of Los Angeles has completely cured me by a process that was painless and rapid, and I desire to go on record as recommending the Doctor in diseases in his specialty.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After a Few Doses Are Taken.

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Croxone, overcomes all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate cases.

It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for restoring the lifeless organs to health and strength and ridding the system of every particle of uric acid, and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly cure such conditions.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.—[Advertisement.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Safe in Mexico City.

A telegram was received on Friday from Mrs. C. E. Payne and her daughter, Mrs. L. F. Shaford, announcing to their friends in this city that they are safe in the City of Mexico and consider themselves in no danger.

Pennsylvania Society Ball.

A grand masque ball will be given by the Pennsylvania Society on Tuesday evening, in Fraternal Brotherhood Hall, to which all Pennsylvanians are invited to come in costume. The ball will be preceded by a short programme.

Killed the Serpent.

The seven-foot python which escaped from Grant Allman about a week ago, and which he valued very highly, was killed yesterday by several boys, within a few blocks of the house of Allman. The serpent was harmless and he was very anxious to get it back unharmed.

For Machine-Gun Recruits.

The machine-gun company will move to the new Armory in Exposition Park today. Fifteen recruits are needed and Lieut. Wortley will be on hand today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to receive applicants. Applicants must be not under 21 nor over 45 years old.

High School Orators.

James DeCamp won first place Friday night for the Los Angeles High School, in the oratorical contest, with Victor Kendrick of Lincoln High School, in the finals of the City Oratorical League. These two will now enter a contest with the winners of the county High School finals, for the county championship.

Military Ball Postponed.

The military ball planned by the drill team and band of Los Angeles Council No. 473, Y.M.I., scheduled for next Friday evening, has been postponed to Friday evening, May 8. It will be held in the new auditorium of the Knights of Columbus clubhouse, No. 614 South Flower street. The change was occasioned by the absence of Capt. James L. Irwin, organizer and drill leader, who was to be the guest of honor. Capt. Irwin is with the Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., at Calexico.

Ohioans Picnic.

With 200 members present, the East Liverpool Association of this city, composed of persons who formerly lived in or near East Liverpool, O., yesterday held a picnic at Sycamore Grove. The officers were re-elected as follows: Harry Beach, president; Charles T. Hard, vice-president; Edward Hassey, secretary; Mrs. Alice Bucher, treasurer. Talks were made by the president, the Rev. J. M. Houston and the Rev. L. F. Laverty. C. A. Schreiber, Mayor of East Liverpool, telegraphed his congratulations and the East Liverpool Booster Club furnished literature and a letter of felicitation.

Works for Sanatorium.

In the interests of a large sanatorium maintained at Denver by the Jewish Consumptive Relief Society, Rabbi Abraham Elman is in this city, visiting yearly subscribers, who include some of the most prominent Jews of the community, and enlisting new subscribers. He spoke yesterday before the congregation Beth Israel and is being assisted in his work by Los Angeles Jews who accompany him on his visits. The sanatorium is conducted on a non-sectarian basis, receiving patients of all nationalities and creeds and persons in all stages of the disease. Situated in the midst of fifty-six acres of land conducted as a farm, it is being developed into a large institution, and is said to be doing splendid work to forward the purposes of the society.

POWER ADVOCATE NETTLED.

Pertinent Question From Audience Regarding Part of Earl in Campaign Goes Unanswered.

A bonfire proved a greater magnet than a power-bond debate to residents in the vicinity of the Los Angeles High School last night. As a result, but a hundred members of the Northwestern Civic Association met there to hear Lorin A. Handley speak in favor of the bond issues and Col. H. V. Richardson and H. J. Goudge give reasons for voting "no" at the polls May 8. But those who attended fired many inquisitive questions relative to the part E. T. Earl is playing in the power-bond campaign.

"Isn't this power-bond question merely one as to whether a power company owned by a certain political boss and newspaper owner in this city shall gobble up the local power companies for his own benefit or whether they shall continue to be owned by the present companies?" was one question which F. C. Finkle, vice-president of the Property Owners' Protective and Improvement Association of West First street, wished to have answered. Finkle is still waiting for his answer.

Attorney Goudge pointed out that the ordinance calling the election did not specifically state that $1,250,000 should be set aside for completion of the aqueduct power plant, or for the completion of any municipal improvement. Once voted favorably, the city could use the money for purchasing water rights and many other things not contemplated in the present issue.

Several persons in the audience expressed concern over the proper handling of the funds if voted. Handley assured them there would be no "perversion," as he termed it.

AUTO WRECKS KITCHEN.

Driver Under Arrest, Pleads Engine in Lunch Wagon He Demolished "Went Dead."

Ralph Boyce, a lunch-wagon waiter, was injured, "Mike's Chili Kitchen" at Sixth and Flower streets is a wreck, and C. R. Reed, a salesman of No. 5800 South Main street is under arrest following a smash-up shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

Reed was coming east along Sixth street in an automobile, which was running at about thirty miles an hour, according to witnesses. He ran head-on into the lunch wagon, wrecked the place completely and knocked down Boyce, who was inside and behind the counter.

Boyce was taken to the Receiving Hospital for treatment for a badly-bruised leg and hand. Reed, after an examination at the hospital by Dr. E. A. Roome, was booked for running an automobile while intoxicated.

The cause of the whole accident, according to Reed, was the fact that the engine in the lunch wagon "went dead" and stopped the thing. He failed to adjust the brakes on his car, he states. He is certain he had had only three drinks.

MADERO RELATIVES HERE.

Arrival of Party Diverted from Saltillo by War Cloud Causes Factionists Excitement.

Report of re-entrance of the Madero family into Mexico politics, occasioned by the presence of several relatives of the late Francisco Madero in Los Angeles, yesterday aroused considerable interest and some excitement among the local Mexican factionists. Two members in the Madero party, which arrived in the morning from New York and departed in the evening for San Francisco, were Mrs. Jesus Madero de Ampudia and her daughter.

Shortly after reaching here they were in consultation with Adolfo Carrillo, Consul for the Constitutionalists. He absolutely repudiated all report of their interest in present warfare, save as spectators and observers.

"They were on their way to Saltillo, Coahuila, at the outbreak of the trouble with the United States and merely changed their plans in order to remain out of the danger zone during hostilities," he said.

"They are not in any way connected with political intrigues or promotion of warfare, having retired from all of these things with the murder of their cousin, the late President Madero."

BEAR VALLEY ROAD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, April 25.—Six members of the Tower family, four women and two men, in charge of A. E. Sterling, Jr., as guide, have returned from a trip to Bear Valley begun last Monday. They went on horseback over the Clark grade and encountered a number of big snow drifts. Snow fell Tuesday afternoon and early Wednesday, six inches in the valley and ten inches on the summit. According to Sterling it will take two weeks to get the roads into the valley into good condition. There are two gangs at work, one at Clark's and the other at the other side of the summit.

MAN OF MONEY SUED BY WIFE.

SAYS SHE WAS LEFT STRANDED WITH FORTY CENTS.

Millionaire Miner Defendant in Sensational Action for Divorce. Trip to Europe Causes Rupture. Idle Mexican Caused Excitement and Fears of Blow Up.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, April 25.—Suit for divorce was begun today by Mrs. Minnie N. Taylor against Charles D. Taylor, millionaire mining man. Desertion and failure to provide are the grounds of complaint. This action follows three years of sensational litigation in which charges and counter-charges have been made.

Taylor made his pile at Goldfield. He married in San Francisco. About five years ago the family moved here and property worth $60,000 was bought. Plans were made for a big country home on the banks of the Santiago Creek. Taylor and his wife took a trip to Europe and while there they separated. Mrs. Taylor declared that her husband deserted her in Germany, leaving her with but 40 cents in her pocket. This was indignantly denied by Taylor.

Returning to Santa Ana, Mrs. Taylor brought suit for separate maintenance, asking for $2500 a month alimony. Before that time deeds were recorded here transferring the $60,000 property to Russell T. Joy, a friend of Taylor. Mrs. Taylor declared the transfer was made to defeat any attempt she might make to get support. Joy deeded to his daughter. An action to set aside the deeds has been in the courts for three years.

Mrs. Taylor is now seeking to secure a legal separation. Three years ago Taylor got a divorce from her in Oregon. The woman declared she had never been served with summons, and the Oregon court set aside the divorce. Judgment in that case gave her no alimony. She now seeks divorce on her own hook, and she asks $2500 a month alimony.

It is understood here that Taylor is now a citizen of British Columbia. Clyde Bishop and Williams & Rutan are the attorneys filing the divorce complaint that appeared here today.

UNDERMINES TRACK.

For a little while last night Santa Fe officials here thought there was danger of a trainload of United States regulars being blown up. E. C. Martin saw a young Mexican digging a hole between the rails. Martin informed the Santa Fe men, and an investigation was made. The hole was found filled up with soft earth. This earth was removed and in the bottom of the little hole was a cigarette stub, and nothing else. Either the Mexican was idling away time or he did not want to leave the cigarette stub burning on top of the ground.

A Santa Fe detective and F. T. Smith, the local agent, examined the hole carefully. It is six inches across and eighteen inches long, reaching under a tie. A small, round hole was made into the soft earth. The de- was experimenting with an idea of wa sexperimenting with an idea of determining if some explosive put in the hole could be set off by a passing engine.

However, nothing was found except the cigarette stub. The hole was dug near the McClay-street crossing. The Mexican rode a bicycle. E. C. Martin, who reported the matter, says he will know him if he sees him again.

HERMOSA BEACH PIER.

Celebration Planned for Middle of May—Auto Trip Inland Arranged for Advertising Purposes.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HERMOSA BEACH, April 24.—The big pier celebration will be held May 16 and 17, and all arrangements have been completed by the committee in charge. The festivities will be held at the beach celebrating the completion of the handsome concrete pleasure pier, the ornamental lighting system and the strand walk.

A. L. Walton will manage the celebration, assisted by a committee composed of G. S. Thatcher, W. R. Andrews and John Sommerville. A programme of fireworks for both evenings, a mammoth choir, high-class races and a band from Los Angeles are favorably considered among other attractions. Nearly $1700 has been subscribed for the celebration and much of this has already been collected.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce representing the major portion of Southern California will participate in the festivities. The beach will don a gala day attire, streamers of various descriptions and banners galore waving in the ocean breeze.

The Hermosa Beach Auto Club has perfected plans for a two-day trip inland, probably on May 9 and 10. It is their intention to have about twenty-five machines in the parade and cover all towns of importance, scattering literature concerning the celebration.

POLICE ARMY READY AT THE PLAZA TODAY.

Chief Prohibits Agitators' Meeting and I.W.W. Appear Defiant.

No More Outdoor Mexican Gatherings in Los Angeles Until Relations of the Two Countries Shall Have Become Normal Is the Order, Strongly Backed. Sharp on the Trail of Intending Dynamiters.

A FORCE of 250 policemen will be mobilized at noon today to squelch the gathering of vicious I.W.W. and Mexican agitators scheduled for 3 p.m. at the Plaza. Chief of Police Sebastian announced yesterday that no outdoor congregating of Mexicans will be allowed in Los Angeles until the relations of the United States with Mexico shall have become normal. The anarchistic I.W.W. appear inclined to defy the authorities.

Upon the heels of other orders cautioning saloon-keepers regarding the sale of liquor to Mexicans and to pawnbrokers to withdraw displays of firearms and other weapons in their windows, the Chief yesterday afternoon flatly prohibited the meeting of the Latin branch of the I.W.W. called for this afternoon to "protest" against America's stand in Mexico.

The City Council, following the Christmas riots, set aside a space north of the Plaza as an "open forum." No meeting of any kind will be allowed there today, the Chief holding that to do so would jeopardize the peace of the city. Sunday, he says, will be the crucial day of the local Mexican situation. This day will find the Mexicans thronging the Plaza district, and only a spark is needed to inflame their impulsive patriotism, the Chief adds. The pernicious activity of the I.W.W. to take advantage of the national pride of the Mexicans and incite them to violence is the greatest menace the police have to watch.

When the Chief's order reached the I.W.W. headquarters at No. 335 Aliso street yesterday afternoon the big blackboard announcing the meeting was pulled in and set back of the bare lounging benches which constitute the principal furnishings of the hall.

MAY ATTEMPT IT.

But, regardless of the police order, it is possible that the meeting will be attempted.

"We will meet here tomorrow afternoon," said the spokesmen for the crowd of swarthy loafers. "We will hold our meeting here and then decide whether we shall go to the Plaza and demand our right to free speech. Yes, then I will speak. The invasion is not economically right. Why? Oh, I don't know. The Socialists and the Labor Temple held protest meetings. Why not us? We want to go up there and talk to educated people and show them what slaves they are."

The branch at Aliso street is the one to which the Mexicans belong. It was stated there yesterday that 300 members are "affiliated."

If this gang moves toward the Plaza it will find police there almost man for man. The Chief made his final arrangements last night. In addition to the twenty-five policemen in Sonoratown, the traffic squad numbering fifty will patrol the Plaza under Lieut. Butler. At the Central Station there will be 175 special officers under Capt. Home. The Chief will be in his office all day ready to take personal charge. At the first sign of trouble the emergency men will be rushed to the Plaza in special machines, in addition to the police cars. All the policemen will be equipped with clubs and heavily armed.

ORPHANS FIND A FAIRY HOME.

Boys' Plea Touches Hearts of Childless Rich.

Pasadena Palace Opens for Brother and Sister.

New Mother Weeps at Sight of Their Poverty.

One week ago Roy and Gertrude Stone, brother and sister, 10 and 8 years old, were in the big world, fatherless, motherless and homeless. A sad misfortune had taken away all love and protection, leaving them stranded in childhood with no opening in the blank wall of the future.

Roy and Gertrude were at the headquarters of the Childrens' Home Society of California, No. 2414 Griffith avenue, waiting for the door to somebody's heart and home to open. The Times printed their pictures and their prayer that they might not be separated.

A week ago Gertrude wore a faded blue frock. Her hair was tied with a bit of black ribbon. She was barefooted. Just then life did not seem to have much for her, but her blue eyes were bright and hopeful.

Roy's clothes had been generously patched. With freckled hands in trousers pockets, with bare, brown legs and tousled hair, he showed to the world a face alight with vigor and intelligence.

The story of the brother and sister without a home unlocked the hearts of a childless couple and yesterday the door of a rich man's mansion in Pasadena opened to receive Roy and Gertrude. The man and his wife called at the Childrens' Home in a motor car for the boy and girl.

WEEPS AT POVERTY.

After the children had been received in their adopted parents' big car, an attendant of the home ran out with a little bundle of clothes.

"Here are the children's things," she explained.

The new mother looked at the worn garments and tears came to her eyes.

"We won't take them along," she said. "I'd rather not see them."

The children were taken direct from the Griffith-avenue institution to a downtown department store and a complete wardrobe was purchased for each.

Then Roy and Gertrude were taken to their new home. The car passed between rows of pepper trees, up a long driveway and there before them was the fairy palace that was to be their dwelling place. They saw a great lawn, bordered with flowers, and in the center a silent house that had not known the patter of little feet.

The faded blue frock and the trousers with the patches are no more. They have faded into the past. Last evening Gertrude was dressed as befits a daughter of the rich. A soft, white frock with a blue sash clung to her slender body. A wide hair ribbon stood high on her head and she wore dainty slippers and hose. Roy was dressed in a becoming blouse. Once he forgot and tried to put his hands in his pockets, but there were no pockets. He looked down at a pair of new shoes and tried to wiggle his toes as he did when he was barefoot.

"TAKE A ROMP!"

"Take a romp over the house, children," their mother said. "Please make a little noise and be happy. I haven't heard either of you laugh yet, but I think you will pretty soon."

The adopted parents did not wish their names to be known.

"Just say for us," the woman said, "that over in Pasadena there is somebody who loves God and little children."

Two other children, both boys, at the headquarters of the Children's Home Finding Society found homes this week. George, 4 years old, whose picture was shown in The Times with those of Roy and Gertrude, was adopted by a prosperous rancher in Laurel Canyon. Another boy, 7 years old, was adopted by a local business man and his wife.

CARRY FLAG ON YOUR CAR.

In pursuance of the patriotic proclamation of the Mayor, requests were issued yesterday by Secretary S. L. Mitchell of the Automobile Club of Southern California that all club members and automobile owners in general display American flags on their cars today, in sign of fealty to Old Glory. General compliance was indicated in responses from club members yesterday.

BURIED UNDER SAND.

Workman Suffocates When Twenty Tons of Dirt Pour Over Him in Sewer Ditch—Rescue Efforts Fail.

With his head in a sewer pipe and twenty tons of dirt on his breast, Charles Bronson suffocated in a cave-in of a sewer ditch at Santa Fe avenue and Sacramento alley yesterday before rescuers could supply air. He was employed by W. J. Eggert in laying sewer pipe along Sacramento alley.

He was on his back, with his face half hidden in the end of the sewer pipe inspecting connections, when the earth tumbled upon him. Not a sound was heard. The sand trickled down, constantly increasing its tragic weight, while the laborers above toiled terribly to throw the dirt away before death should come to their comrade.

As fast as the shovels tossed the sands away they kept returning to the attack, rolling back too fast for the shovelers to cope with the uncontrollable material.

After more than fifteen minutes the men reached their comrade. They looked at him, and notified the Coroner that a tragic death had occurred.

A Neighbor's Protest.

UNREST CAUSED BY REST HOTEL.

LEGAL FIGHT TO OUST SIERRA MADRE ASYLUM BEGUN.

Complainant Names Boy Who Imagines He Is a Brass Band and Women Patients Who Pose as September Morns as Some of the Annoyances He Is Subjected to.

A legal fight to oust the Rest Hotel Company, characterized as a haunt or asylum for lunatics, at Sierra Madre, was started yesterday with the filing of a complaint by George H. Woodruff, an attorney, and resident of that city.

Woodruff, whose property adjoins that of the alleged asylum, asserts that his wife and children are terrified by the peculiar antics of the inmates. He sets out at length these alleged vagaries, specifying particularly one man who attempted to enter his home and when barred out, kept guard in Woodruff's orchard for four hours.

When the asylum authorities were appealed to by telephone, Mrs. Woodruff was advised to lock up the house until the patient could be captured, the complaint alleges.

A boy named Earle, who imagines he is a brass band, annoys Mrs. Woodruff by dancing and loud singing. Women patients who have a mania for appearing unexpectedly as September morns are cited by Woodruff as samples of the strange things his children are subjected to.

Formerly the abode of the asylum was a tourist hotel. It was abandoned for hotel purposes and later occupied by the Rest Hotel Company. The suit, it is intimated, will bring out disclosures during the trial. The defendants named, beside the hotel company, are C. B. McCartey, Lyman A. Mills, Mary E., Charles E. and James Lyman.

GRAND GOTHIC PILE FOR EPISCOPALIANS.

COMPLETE plans for the grand edifice to be reared by the parish of St. Paul's Episcopal Church on the site of the present frame Pro-Cathedral on Olive street between Fifth and Sixth have been received by Bishop Johnson and Rev. William MacCormack, dean of St. Paul's. The architectural firm of Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson of New York has the undertaking in charge. Accompanying the drawings are perspectives of both the front elevation and the interior of the great new Pro-Cathedral, designed to be the most beautiful church building on the Pacific Coast.

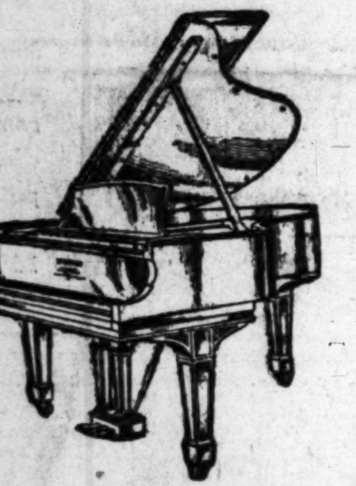
Approximately $150,000 will be expended in the building, according to the present plans of the vestry and the diocese. Some details yet remain to be perfected, but the parish hopes to have the church completed and ready for occupancy in 1915. The architectural designs and specifications are now practically in shape for a call for construction bids.

The parish and diocese having definitely decided early last year to undertake building on the present site, Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, generally recognized as the leading ecclesiastical architects of the country, were commissioned to prepare plans of a design, preferably Gothic, to occupy eighty feet of the 140 feet of frontage owned by St. Paul's on Olive street. The instructions were to plan a strictly downtown church, an edifice that, while laid out on the practical lines demanded on account of the enormous value of the ground to be occupied, would, in its environment of great business blocks, offer the contrast of a quiet dignity and beauty of design and constitute a restful retreat for worshipers and all others who might wish to leave the thronging streets and enter.

The architects have planned a structure which, according to the churchmen, possesses all the qualifications named. Occupying the south eighty feet of the church property, the pro-cathedral is to extend back to the line of the present parish house, which, being a brick building and of more permanent construction than the old church in front, will be left intact. The front of the new building will be attractively faced with stone and will have effective ornamental features. The interior will be practically one great open room with cloisters along the sides and an open ceiling of unusual height. Substantiality, impressive dignity and an air of permanency will characterize the whole.

The vestry plans to lease the north sixty feet of the plot for a term of fifty to ninety-nine years to a corporation that will agree to build on the site an office block following in its street front design lines somewhat in keeping with the church itself. In this building the parish and diocese hope to reserve offices for their own use, thereby making it possible to confine the uses of the church itself to purposes of worship alone.

Bishop Johnson and Dean MacCormack are jointly in charge of the building enterprise, as the structure will be a diocesan as well as a parish institution, serving both as a church and a cathedral.



STEINWAY

The Piano of the Past the Present and the Future

MASTER musicians, past and present, achieved their greatest successes upon the Steinway Piano and have pronounced it the ideal Instrument. The Art Ideal of a Master in his Craft gave birth to the Steinway Piano.

This Ideal has been maintained through four succeeding generations, with the result that today the STEINWAY has attained a perfection unapproached and unapproachable, and is recognized the world over as the Standard Piano by which all others are measured and judged.

This assuredly proves that the STEINWAY is the Piano of the Past, the Present and the Future—and it is one of the strongest arguments why YOU should buy a STEINWAY.

Exclusive Agents

Steinway Pianos are represented in Los Angeles and the Southwest exclusively by the George J. Birkel Company. New STEINWAYS can be purchased nowhere else. We will take your present Piano in exchange on a STEINWAY, and arrange convenient Payment Terms.

SMART WOMEN DON TROUSERS.

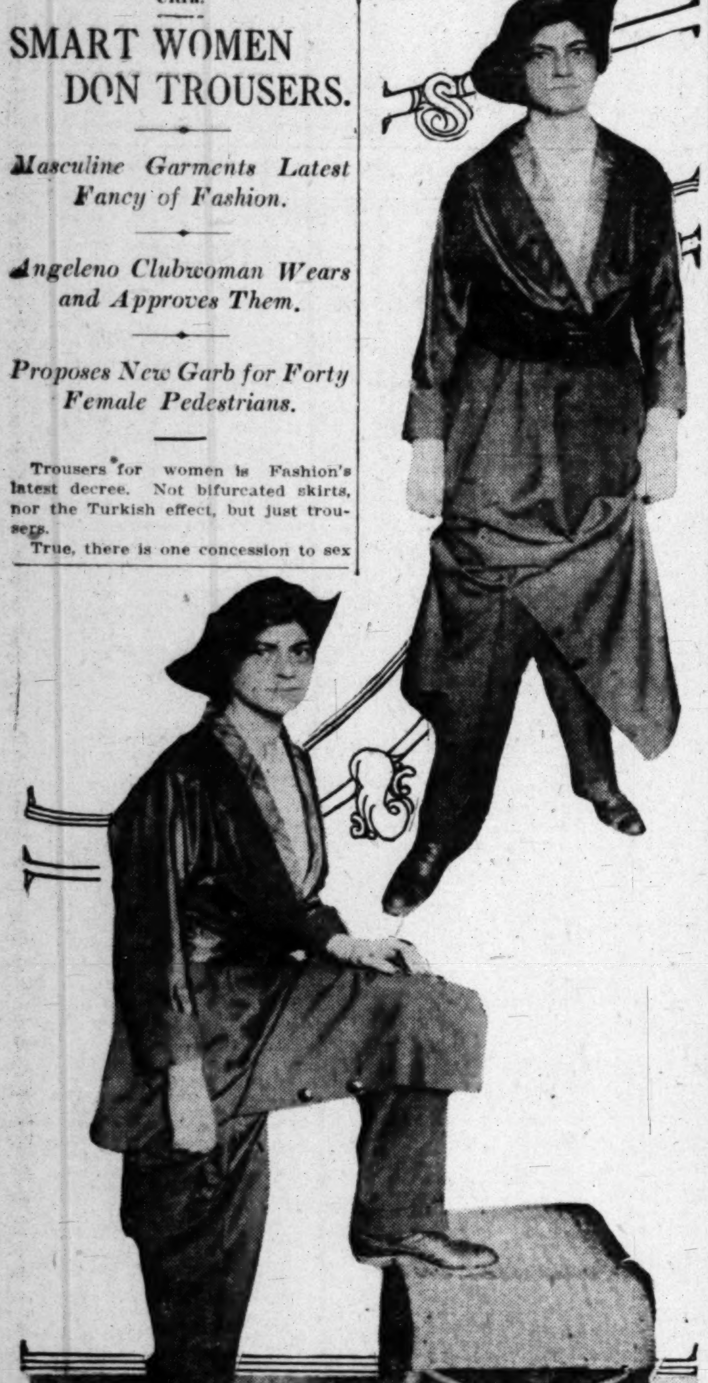
Masculine Garments Latest Fancy of Fashion.

Angeleno Clubwoman Wears and Approves Them.

Proposes New Garb for Forty Female Pedestrians.

Trousers for women is Fashion's latest decree. Not bifurcated skirts, nor the Turkish effect, but just trousers.

True, there is one concession to sex difference in dress, since over the masculine garment will be worn a divided skirt of the same material.



Yes, women are to wear 'em.

How the trousers anad the divided skirt over them look on Miss Mabel Haller, their advocate in Los Angeles. When raising the skirt or taking a high step the trousers become conspicuous.

But revealed rather than concealed by the skirt are trousers, cuffed, creased fore and aft and cut on the general lines of the peg-top affairs that men wore before they began squeezing their extremities into the narrowness of English patterns.

The new garment masks under the name of the trouserette skirt. It is to the woman pedestrian what riding trousers and boots, with a long-skirted coat, are to her equestrian sister. It is the antithesis of the hobble skirt, an opposite mode of Fashion's caprice.

However, the question in point is whether the women like them. Will any be willing to discard the draped and the pagoda effects for another their brothers have rendered familiar?

If in doubt, ask Miss Mabel Haller, the Los Angeles exponent of the innovation, who luxuriated for an entire afternoon in the freedom of the trouserette skirt.

"This is the best ever," she says, enthusiastically. "You can't realize just how much freedom in walking men have until you yourself have worn a trouserette skirt. I will recommend that the forty girls of the walking club to which I belong adopt the trouserette skirt uniform for their long 'hikes' out in the country. In this suit I can walk ever so far without becoming fatigued. I am going to wear a trouserette suit this summer if no one else does. I think all the girls of the club will, too, after they have tried walking with one of them on.

"The ordinary narrow skirt makes 'hiking' impossible. Wear a wide one, one might suggest. This is just as impracticable, since the wide skirt is in the way and the additional fullness adds to the weight.

"The girl who shops instead of tramping may wear a trouserette skirt and step the highest steps on street cars without fear of rending her garment, and tread the rounds in ever so many shops without fatigue."

Tells Secrets.

"THE TIMES" SCHOOL OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

THERE are tricks to every trade, and yesterday The Times class in domestic science learned one of the head baker's pet tricks, or for that matter, several of his tricks, for the class was taught how to make quick icings. All sorts of hurry-up frostings—chocolate, vanilla, maple and all flavors.

Confectioners' sugar was the base of the quick frosting and if every one knew how easily the sweet covering is made, there wouldn't be much chance for a frostless cake to disport itself in public undraped.

Mrs. Bertha Haffner-Ginger, who is in charge of The Times class, demonstrated westerday how the various sorts of icings were made and then served them on lady fingers or macaroons, and the members of the class declared quick frosting a revelation.

"First, one must see that all the lumps are smoothed out of the sugar," said Mrs. Haffner-Ginger, and she suited the action to the words, "then have about two tablespoonfuls of boiling water to each large cup of sugar, be careful not to use too much water. Add it slowly to the confectioners' sugar and keep the water boiling. It is surprising how quickly and easily you can beat up a nice icing."

Making the icing at home, Mrs. Haffner-Ginger says, is such a saving if one has to purchase bakery goods. If the price one pays for a fancy cake is put in a good plain loaf cake, the quality of the cake is so much better and the icing can be so easily and cheaply added to the plain cake.

At the last lesson one of the members brought a small glass of preserves for Mrs. Haffner-Ginger to sample and criticize and when the Cook Lady proceeded to "sample" the fruit very freely, various members of the class promised to bring her other samples as she seemed to enjoy them so much.

"There is nothing like tasting someone's else cooking," said Mrs. Haffner-Ginger, as she smacked her lips over the delicious preserves, "and the wise wife will keep this in mind and see that her husband has an occasional meal downtown, so he will more fully appreciate the home cooking, and likewise if more husbands would always arrange for "wifie" to have a restaurant meal each week, she would be more contented to cook the other part of the time."

Mrs. Haffner-Ginger, has traveled much and has spent many days dealing with the problems of the housewife, so she is more than wise in the ways of the average woman's mind, and her advice is well worth with quaint bits of philosophy and some times some very pointed remarks on men, women and affairs, so the talks always have an added spice regardless of what part of the menu the lesson happens to deal with.

The cooking class meets each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. The lessons are free to all.

SCHOOLS COMPLIMENTED.

Board of Education Invited to Exhibit High School Room at Panama-Pacific Exposition.

A high school room, furnished entirely by students, will be the Los Angeles contribution to the educational fine arts building of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, if the invitation of Robert Harshe, assistant chief of the fine arts exhibit, is accepted by the city Board of Education.

High school students, according to Mr. Harshe's request, will make the furniture, weave the rugs and fashion art pottery for the room, as well as decorate it with their drawings and paintings.

It is suggested also that a portion of the Los Angeles exhibit may be sent to Paris for the 1916 exposition. School authorities consider this invitation a great compliment to Los Angeles schools, as such a room would be a leading feature of the educational exhibit. The matter has been referred to Supt. Francis for report as to practicability and cost.

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER

The progress of registration clearly shows that, as formerly, the Republicans are dominant in California. It is certain that the "Progressives" will not be able to elect any candidate for State office. It is morally certain that they will be unable, together with the other minor parties, to divert naturally Republican voters in sufficient numbers to let in the Democrats. The Johnson-Eddie-Earl party is nothing more nor less than a Democratic Aid Society. Real Republicans are leading the Johnsonites over 160,000 in the registration returns to date. The Democrats are far ahead of the "Progressives," who are trailing in the third hole. The registration returns show that the Republicans have reassumed their dominant position in the State. Thousands who register as Democrats will vote the Republican ticket. Sound-thinking Democrats fully realize that "Progressive" success at the polls would be a calamity. The Democrats are as anxious to smash the fake reformers as are the Republicans. Old Republicans who temporarily allied themselves with the hosanna shouters are returning in droves. The registration shows it. The vote in November will find them back in the ranks of the Old Guard. There is no reason why they should not be back. What can be alleged in the interest of progress or patriotism against the Republican party? What step forward in the line of what it is the fashion to call "social justice" (an expression which really has no definite meaning) has not been first taken by the Republican party, whether in State or National affairs? What is there now which any true patriotic citizen desires which is not favored by the Grand Old Republican Party? No Republican need apologize for the deeds of the Republican party since the day of Abe Lincoln. And the sane, loyal, level-headed men and women of this great State, who are tick and tired of "Progressive" legislation and theories, which have nearly wrecked the business and farming interests of the State, are going to vote the Republican ticket. California must rid herself of the freaks and pests who are retarding the onward march of California with their insane statutes and high-sounding clap-tap.

The underhanded attempt to induce the Grand Parlor of Native Sons, just adjourned in this city, to adopt a resolution indorsing the administration of Gov. Johnson met with the prompt and emphatic rebuke it deserved. The very effort to slip such a resolution through the highest council of a great fraternal organization was in itself a political trick of the cheapest kind. And the bosses of the Armageddon outfit of near saints are built just that way. Charlie Murphy, Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall, in his palmiest day never attempted such a trick to shove over one of his henchmen. It is through cunning of this kind that the "Progressive" party has managed to exist as long as it has. Is the "Progressive" cause so sadly in need of bolstering that its job-holding emissaries must resort to tactics of this kind? And the man who tried to put it over is a former secretary of Gov. Johnson's and later appointed to the Superior Bench by the same Johnson. And they shout "reactionary." Bunk.

Gustave A. Brenner, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, called on the Watchman yesterday. Chairman Brenner has just completed a tour of the State and is confident that the entire Republican ticket will triumph next November. Mr. Brenner declares that the Northern Republicans are willing to step aside in favor of the Southland in the selection of a candidate for Governor. The south has not named a Governor for sixteen years and Brenner and the Northern Republicans think it about time for us to do so.

"The straight Republican ticket will come down to the Tehachepi at least 50,000 ahead of the 'Progressives,'" said Brenner. "If Southern California stands fast by the party (which it undoubtedly will) Johnson and his mates will be snowed under an avalanche of votes. The Young Republican movement throughout the State is splendid and means victory. We are far ahead of the 'Progressives' in registration in San Francisco, in fact, the 'Progressives' are behind the Democrats. There are more Republicans registered than Democrats and 'Progressives' combined. Alameda is the only county in the State where the 'Progressives' lead, and the Republicans are steadily gaining. Mike Kelley, the Johnson boss of Alameda, is a cunning politican and has, with the aid of Johnson's pie-counter and the taxpayers' money, built a powerful machine. Alameda will be found in the Republican column the morning after election. The women Republicans are doing a splendid work throughout the State. The women are just as active as the men, which is saying a good deal. The laboring men and women are enrolling under the Republican banner. The Republican party has done more for the working people of the country than all other parties combined and the cheap buncombe and glittering promises of Gov. Johnson cannot swerve them. Every county in the State has a good working organization in addition to the young men's clubs and women's leagues. It looks fine and when the voters pick their candidates—and they will pick the strongest and best men in the party—all the tearful bellowings of Johnson will be unable to stem the rising tide that is headed his way." Chairman Brenner called on Vice-Chairman Robert Sweeny and a number of other leading Republicans yesterday and discussed matters of importance.

William Prendegast, Comptroller of New York City, and the man who nominated Theodore Roosevelt at the Chicago Bull Moose convention will deliver an address on "True Republicanism" at the Lyceum Theater in Los Angeles, the evening of May 7. Prendegast is back in the G.O.P. ranks. He frankly admits he was bamboozled by the Perkins-Hanna-Flinn-Earl gang. And he was not the only one. Prendegast is now touring the country in the interests of the party that has made this country the foremost nation of the earth. He believes, with Senators Cummins, Borah, Bristow, Works and other statesmen that the Republican party should be reformed, if necessary from within and not by tearing down and destroying the most beneficient political organization of all time. He's dead set against a third party, first and all the time, especially when such third party is founded on personal ambition, passion and malice. Prendegast is a great orator and thinker. He was some great gink, in the type of the Express and Tribune, those heralds of holiness when he placed T. R. in nomination, but now they yowl "He's a bandwagon politician and really a reactionary at heart!" Can you beat it?

County Assessor Ed Hopkins is a candidate to succeed himself, and unless all signs fail he will succeed. Assessor Hopkins has made good. He is efficient and understands his job every way. He is his own boss, which means a whole lot in these boss-ridden days. He has lived in Los Angeles a quarter of a century. He was appointed Assessor in 1907 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ben E. Ward, whose chief deputy he was at that time, and afterward elected for the succeeding term of four years, expiring January 1, next. He is president of the State Assessor's Association and is prominent in city and county affairs. Under his personal supervision and methods the assessed valuation of all classes of property in this county has been made as nearly uniform and equitable as is possible under the present laws and conditions. This was fairly proved at the session of the County Board of Equalization last year, when less than 500 revisions of values were asked out of more than 750,000 valuations. He was then publicly commended by the Board of Equalization for the equitable results obtained by his office. City Assessor Walter Mallard may run against Hopkins.

Congressman Knowland of Alameda, Republican candidate for the United States Senatorial nomination, left Los Angeles last night for Washington, D. C. Knowland will fight it out with Samuel Shortridge for the G.O.P. nomination and the winner will go to the mat with James D. Phelan, Democrat, and the victor of the famous Rowell-Heney mess-up. Even the "Progressive" bosses admit Knowland or Shortridge will be the next Senator from California. Rowell and Heney aren't vote-getters in any sense and the winner of this pewee scrap at the primary is in for a fine lacing. Knowland is an aggressive campaigner and very popular. He is only 40 years of age and has served sixteen years in Congress. Before going to Congress he was a State legislator.

"Republican victory is at hand in California," said Mr. Knowland yesterday. "The would-be destroyers of the Republican party are doomed. When they disfranchised over 200,000 Republicans in this State last year they sounded their death knell. Real Republicans never forget and many Democrats will join with us in administering the punishment due the tricksters. It was the most outrageous act ever perpetrated in the history of this country."

Judge Gavin W. Craig, candidate for presiding judge of the Appellate Court in the Second District, will address the Women's Republican League tomorrow afternoon in the Coulter building at 2:30 o'clock. He will talk on "Republicanism." The public is cordially invited.

These weekly meetings are largely attended, and instructive and interesting addresses are delivered by popular speakers. After Judge Craig's address the women will hold a regular business meeting.

Members of the State and County Central Committees in the eight counties south of the Tehachepi will hold a joint meeting at the State headquarters in the Coulter building on May 7 at 2 p.m. Important business will be transacted. After the meeting the committeemen will attend the Prendegast rally in a body.

POISON BREW FAILS.

Woman Who Sought Self-Destruction Restored in Spite of Deadly Mixture Prepared in Caldron.

In her kitchen yesterday Mrs. Bertha Weinrother stirred a tragic brew in an old-fashioned caldron for more than an hour. Poison of many sorts she poured into the boiling water, and then that it might be lethal beyond all antidote, she added a box of sulphur matches.

Around and around she stirred them until the bubbling water got from the heads of the matches all that was deadly. With a skimmer that she used in separating cream from milk, she withdrew the sticks and then continued the brew for several minutes.

Time and again she tasted it, until finally the correct consistency had been reached. She drained away the top water, and the deposit in the bottom she poured into a glass. This she drank.

Her husband, Hans, was home at the time. He heard her screams and called the police ambulance. The woman's life was saved at the Receiving Hospital.

In a letter that she had written to her husband the woman reported that her conduct with another man was such that she didn't care to live further.

Tells Positive Cure For All Foot Troubles

Science has proven that nearly all foot troubles originate from a common cause; that of injured tissues. The following information will be welcomed by thousands of victims of daily foot torture. No matter how many patent medicines you have tried in vain, this treatment, well-known to foot doctors, will do the work. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet for a full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effects are marvelous. All pain disappears instantly and the feet feel simply delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Bunions, aching feet and sweaty smelly feet get immediate relief. Use this treatment a week and your foot troubles will be a thing of the past. Calocide works through the pores and removes the cause. Don't waste time. Get it at once. Any druggist has Calocide in stock or will get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent box is said to be enough to cure the worst feet. Don't be persuaded to take something else instead. Calocide is prepared only at laboratories of Medical Formula Co., of Dayton, Ohio, and Chicago, Ill.

Fashion Play at Midwick Is Gorgeous Success.

Prominent Society Women Out in Force.

Dinner Served While Actors Entertain.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The Midwick Country Club was a scene of unrivalled gaiety all day yesterday, which reached a grand climax when two dozen charming society women from Los Angeles and Pasadena presented a gorgeous fashion play in the evening.

Being modest and diffident they decided that the audience would bear up more bravely if they viewed the play and ate an epicurean dinner at the same time, so a stage was erected at the end of that large artistic dining-room. There was such a rush for tables that they had to be crowded into every available corner of the room and overflowed under the archways—just like New Year's Eve at the Alexandria. Nearly 300 members and their friends sat down to dinner, hosts and hostesses including nearly all the well-known society people from both cities.

Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner was originally responsible for the idea and Mrs. Brackenbridge stage-managed things. It was certainly a huge success and the audience was infected with the utmost good spirits, witty and caustic criticisms being freely exchanged as the performers appeared in their wonderful creations of la mode.

The scene was a dressmaker's establishment of luxurious standards, Mrs. Brackenbridge playing the modiste with inimitable cleverness—an American of low caste who had "got on," been to Paris and discovered how things were done over there, and imitating them with shrewd business acumen. This gave her a chance to be sumptuously slangy in her altercations with the "Buttons" and magnificently Frenchy in her dealings with her clients. Mr. Avery McCarthy ably assisted as a tailor, haughty and servile by turns. Mr. Dartworth achieved glory as the "Buttons," and Miss Dorothy Bailey as a French maid with a passion for dusting.

To this establishment come the shoppers, Mrs. McGowan in the guise of a Madame Malaprop, a virulent climber, intent upon fitting herself out with a really stylish wardrobe for all occasions; Mrs. Miner, an aristocrat, carrying a long French cape and lorgnettes; Mrs. Barham, Mrs. Ralph Williams and Henry Davis. The latter as a wily old aristocratic roue.

That gives the opportunity for parading the models on ravishing manikins, whose parts were performed by Mrs. Earl Anthony in adorable negligе, cream charmeuse, with gold brocaded coatee and gold lace cap; Miss Emily McBride in the daintiest of cotton tub frocks, blue and white, and Mrs. McClure in a similar morning dress in yellow cotton crepe with a black sash.

Then came Mrs. Avery McCarthy in a fascinating tennis frock of white and pink, and Miss Elizabeth Sherk, the golf girl in white, with yellow sweater, etc. Mrs. Pierre Letchworth showed us how to be irresistible riding astride—in brown suede and a pongee East Indian helmet—and Mrs. Watson dressed for ide-saddle in broadcloth breeches and a black and white check coat was the esence of chic.

The Ramsey sisters exemplified the charm of the tailored suit in its more dressy and ambitious phase—Miss Katherine in dull blue and Miss Marjorie in green, with lots of lace.

Trotteur dresses were likewise of elaborate make and texture, but not in colors—Mrs. Harrison Guthrie in black charmeuse and hat, with white chiffon vest, and Miss Sally McFarland in black taffeta, with touches of white, black hat, escorted by a pure white Pekingese dog.

Mrs. Earl Armstrong and Miss Jane Stimson showed off the reception dresses, each more wonderful than the other, and Miss Eileen McCarthy was quite fascinating in a garden party dress of white with pink roses. Mrs. Howard Huntington's garden party dress was of white net, ruffled to the waist, the edges of pale blue satin. She wore a crushed strawberry pink hat and a blue parasol, which proved to be a delightful combination. Mrs. Robert Sweeney in white chiffon and crystals and long streamers to a ravishing pink hat and a pink parasol was another lovely model.

Miss Helen Jones in a debutante dress of white lace, with gold embroiderd lace draperies, and Mrs. Rufus Spalding in velvet of rich yellow made a pretty contrast, and Miss McCarthy also showed off a lovely evening wrap in blue and silver brocade.

Mrs. Sam Haskins in an evening dress of flesh-colored satin, white tulle, a touch of turquois, and ropes of handsome pearls gained much applause, and Mrs. Montague Ward had a great reception in a blue wig and a gown of cloth of gold brocaded in soft colors.

Hosts and hostesses of the evening who entertained from half a dozen to thirty friends each at the various tables were Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mr. and Mrs. Jardine, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Evans, Lee Guyer, Mr. and Mrs. Blankenhorn, Dr. and Mrs. Barnwell, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Forrester, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Washburn, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Macy, Mr. and Mrs. William Ramsay, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Armstrong, M. Hodgman, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Murray, Mrs. Laurence Burck, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harris, Russell Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. N. Wigton, Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott Ormsby, Miss Florence Dwight, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hook, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Seaver, Mr. and Mrs. McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sweeney, Dr. and Mrs. R. P. McReynolds, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Braly, Mr. and Mrs. Franc O. Wood, Dr. and Mrs. Kaathoven, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rogers, Roger Topp, Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Carpenter.

Each host decorated his own table and floral adornment was luxurious and beautiful. After the play the actors and actresses descended to the dining-room and had dinner at two large tables presided over by Mrs. Brackenbridge, amid the unmerciful chaffing of the gay company. Of course the evening ended up with the inevitable dance.

Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. William Ramsay will entertain at the clubhouse with a dinner dance for about a hundred guests—an affair which will be very exclusive and charming from all accounts.

FINE EXHIBIT.

Elementary School to Show Indian Room With Furnishings Made by Pupils—Circus Also.

An Indian room, containing Indian baskets, blankets and pottery, a wigwam and canoe, all made by the youngsters, is a feature of the Sixty-second-avenue school exhibit, to be held on Thursday.

Also a circus wagon, constructed by the sloyd boys and containing such of the children's pets as can dwell in harmony and not eat each other up.

A room in the school basement will be fitted up for animal exhibit, consisting of pigeons, chickens, dogs, cats and a pet pony and a goat or two.

A dramatization of "Evangeline" by the ungraded room will be given, and the glee club and orchestra will play throughout the day.

May Day.

SPRING BECKONS FOREST SPRITES.

PAGEANT TO WELCOME BIRTH OF GLADSOME SEASON.

Hundreds of Pretty Girls to Participate in Festival Breathing of Woodland Glen With Elfs and Fairies and Queens and Music and Dances.

With thousands of tiny lights, blinking forth from garlands of flowers, and hundreds of pretty girls in a spectacular pageant, the student body of the University of Southern California will this year celebrate May Day with an elaborate programme.

Screened from the public gaze by spreading canvas the young people and their friends will join in a festival that has been planned to compete with similar pageants of the eastern colleges.

Beginning at noon with a box lunch which is to be served to the students and their gueses, the faculty and wives, the day will be one long to be remembered. The box lunch will be served by twenty attractive Dutch maids, who will transport the boxes in wheelbarrows gaily festooned with gold and red roses—the college colors. During the lunch hour the Spanish Club of young men and women will give several songs and dances and a double stringed quartette, which the faculty has promised, will make the scene a festive one.

The May Day carnival will begin at 7:30 p.m., when the campus will be thrown open to the visitors. An hour will be allowed for the guests to enjoy the various attractions of the campus, such as the fortune-telling booth, the the various refreshment booths, when te various refreshment booths, when the entertainment proper will be given.

Thousands of tiny lights have been strung and a score of young men and women have been busy for a week perfecting plans. There is to be an elaborate stage setting, representing a woodland glen, into the dusky shadows of which a tiny brown elf wanders. He strikes a stone and the myriad lights blaze forth; then come the trumpeters to announce the May Queen, who appears escorted by her four maids of honor. She is crowned, and the fairies of the breezes dance in her honor; then the Grecian maids dance the May pole dance and with intricate steps entwine the magic wand with ribbons; then the woodland violinist comes forth enchanting the forest sprites with his music and tiny poppies dance a spring song to his music, and when the fun is at its height, the elf waves his wand and the enchanted scene melts into the darkness.

After the programme the guests will be entertained by the Ukulele Club, who will present a Hawaiian scene, and by the University of Southern California orchestra.

Miss Gertrude Pentland is general manager of the May-day festival, Miss Mildred Finch chairman of the Entertainment Committee, G. Trevor chairman of the Advertising Committee, Miss Edna Cox dancing instructor and Miss Mary Wilkes is in charge of the May-pole dance.

For the first time in the history of the University of Southern California May festivals, the Queen is to be selected by vote of the student body. A secret committee is to select five of the most queenly girls attending the university. From these five the student body by vote elects a queen and the other four are selected as maids of honor.

The following will take part in the poppy dance: Jefferson Hauser, Ruth Weinenger, Lenore Ong, Laura Rowe, Mary Church, Fay Kirk, Rita York, Widney Watson, Rosemary Tenneson, Agnes Barnhart, Hazel Wilkenson and Mildred Cowdery.

In the dance of spring breezes: Phyllis Brick and Lylah Hall.

In the May pole dance: Mary Wilkes, manager; Rita York, Fay Kirk, Dorothy Dyar, Nellie Wybark, Leonore Bredull, Myrtle Bailey, Queen Masters, Marie Buck, Dorothy Betts, Margery Hoffman, Bertha Bond, Lily Kincaide, Mildred Cowdery, Margaret Snowden, Mary Church, Widney Watson, Camille More, Rosemary Tenneson and Helen Clarke.

Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, who was the Democratic leader in the House before Underwood, says:

"The poor, dear, old foolish Democratic party is going through the same game that she can be generally trusted to go through soon after she gets into power.

"That is the Democratic party, true enough," he continued. "That is its history. That is what led Speaker Tom Reed to say in 1894 and 1895: 'You can't last long because you are not accustomed to governing anybody or anything; you cannot govern the country because you cannot govern yourselves. You are incompetent.'"

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Board of Public Works yesterday determined upon a policy regarding such members of departments under its jurisdiction as may go into military service. It desires to carry such men on the city's pay rolls if possible while they are absent in service.

Tomorrow is the last day within which to pay city taxes without the addition of a 5 per cent penalty. More than $1,000,000 remains to be paid in out of the $5,623,363 on the assessment rolls.

It was announced at the City Hall yesterday that if the Council decides to take a fifty-foot strip north of First street instead of south of the street, for the proposed new connection with the hill district when the tunnel is built, a thirteen-story hotel building will be erected at the southwest corner of First and Broadway.

Nicholas L. Rigby, once owner of a valuable business corner, brought suit in the Superior Court yesterday against the American Baptist Home Mission Society to recover annuity money which he alleges is due him as a part of the contract under which he turned over his property.

Charles W. Gaston, who asserts that he is the smartest man in the world, was sent to Patton yesterday by the Lunacy Commission.

At the City Hall.

FIRST-STREET BORE DEMANDED.

CITY COUNCIL ASKED TO RUSH ONE TUNNEL.

Association's Executive Committee Gives Reasons for Pushing Half of Work Now and Contends that Objections to Such Procedure Are Not Well Founded.

The Executive Committee of the First-street Tunnel Association yesterday presented to the City Council a demand that proceedings be instituted at once for the construction of one of the bores for the proposed two-bore First-street tunnel. The communication was referred to the special Tunnel Committee. It is signed by John I. Dillon, J. M. Snodgrass, R. D. Mining and E. S. Todd, and says:

"The undersigned members of the Executive Committee of the First-street Tunnel Association, being deeply interested in bringing into closer connection sections of the city now separated by Bunker Hill, and sincerely desiring to aid, in a humble way, the Council in its onerous task, offer the following suggestions and petition.

"We are persuaded that a tunnel with two bores should be constructed on First street, beginning at Broadway, one bore for pedestrians and general traffic, the other for the use of the street cars. We believe that the tunnel for the general traffic might and should be begun at once, leaving the street car company to build later as in the Hill-street tunnel the street car company built first and the city afterward.

"On examination the objections urged against immediate prosecution of the work seem to disappear.

"It is urged that right of way for street cars and pedestrians from Broadway to Hill must first be obtained and that condemnation proceedings are often prolonged.

"By the amended Vrooman Act (1913) it is made optional with the City Council to defray the expense of boring a tunnel and of securing a roadway, by a single assessment or by two assessments at different dates. Separating the two, the actual boring of the tunnel could proceed while the legal proceedings were under way.

"It is objected that all communication between Broadway and Hill streets would be closed during this condemnation proceedings.

"Building a bore for traffic on one-half of First street leaves the other half, including the sidewalk, undisturbed for traffic and pedestrians.

"The street car tracks must be provided for.

"The tracks with little expense or trouble can be pushed over to the undisturbed half of the street.

"The plans for the First-street tunnel are not ready.

"We are in receipt of information that the plans for the First-street tunnel are in substantial readiness, and have been for some years, owing to the action of a former City Council.

"In view of the above facts, we respectfully petition your honorable body at an early day to institute proceedings for the construction of one of the bores of the First-street tunnel."

FIRST FRUITS. FROM TUNNEL PROJECT.

One of the first movements for a great development to be inspired by the construction of the proposed tunnels through Bunker Hill was disclosed at the City Hall yesterday, when Councilman Snowden announced that contingent upon the city deciding to take a fifty-foot strip from the north side of West First street, between Hill and Broadway, instead of from the south side, for the new connection with the hill district, a thirteen-story hotel building will be erected at the southwest corner of First and Broadway by C. C. Moore, president of the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Newman Essick is the representative of Moore in Los Angeles and he has now gone to San Francisco in connection with details of this proposed hotel project.

Snowden stated yesterday that this is but the first of a number of large projects that are being planned for the north end, incident upon the starting of work on the tunnels.

FINAL CALL. LAST DAY FOR TAXES.

Tomorrow is the last day on which taxes can be paid without the addition of a 5 per cent. penalty. At midnight tomorrow the penalty will attach. All of yesterday forenoon there was a rush of taxpayers at the City Tax Collector's office, and this will continue all day tomorrow. Undoubtedly the mails will also bring in a very large grist of tribute payments.

The original charge on the assessment rolls turned over to the Tax Collector was $5,623,863.01. At the close of business on Friday night there had been collected $4,522,592.88, leaving uncollected the sum of $1,100,770.13. Yesterday there was paid over the counters $64,603.94, leaving to be settled tomorrow $1,036,166.19. The office, however, has a large amount of mail containing remittances that have not yet been checked up, and tomorrow's mail will probably bring in close to a half-million dollars.

Pacific Electric Objects.

An ordinance of intention has been passed providing for the improvement of portions of Los Angeles, Commercial and other streets. This calls for the repaving of Los Angeles street from First to Commercial streets with hydraulic concrete base and asphalt wearing surface. The provisions would require the Pacific Electric Company to relay its trackage with grooved girder rails. The company objects and in a communication to the Board of Public Works yesterday it stated that the tracks are in good condition and usable for probably five years yet, as the major portion of its northern-division cars are now routed over San Pedro street. It is stated that the improvement proposed would require the relaying of 1115 linear feet of tracks at a cost of from $18,000 to $20,000. The company asks that the proceedings be balanced. The board has no jurisdiction and the subject will be referred to the City Council.

Municipal Notes.

The Civil Service Commission will hold an examination May 9 of candidates for the position of solicitor for the Municipal Employment Bureau's women's department. The position requires a woman of good address to interview employers and obtain places for women making application. The salary is $90 a month.

Some members of the Council, Board of Public Works and the City Engineer have made a tour of inspection over the route proposed for the projected outfall sewer. The City Engineer's department is working on plans for the sewer, which it will be necessary to start soon.

Proceedings have been abandoned for the improvement of Allesandro street, from Elsinore to Los Feliz road, based on protests by a majority of property owners.

Opening and widening of Hoover street have been provided for under two ordinances of intention passed by the Council. One of these covers Hoover street from Vernon avenue to Fifty-seventh street, and the other from Slauson to Manchester avenues. Property owners have until May 16 to protest.

An ordinance is being prepared for a conduit district on Sunset boulevard, between Main and Marion streets, that the conduits may be laid before the paving is done.

North Park avenue will hereafter be known as Serrano avenue. The change applies to the street from Santa Monica avenue to Fountain avenue.

Although the legal department of the city rules that Los Angeles is not legally bound to pay taxes on its property in Inyo county, the Council has given authority to the Public Service Commission to pay this year under protest.

At the Courthouse.

SUES CHURCH FOR ANNUITY.

AGED PARISHIONER FORMER OWNER OF VALUABLE SITE.

Lot Deeded, He Alleges, to Mission Society With the Proviso that He Should Be Paid Five Per Cent. of Its Value at that Time Every Year Thereafter.

Nicholas L. Rigby, now old and practically penniless, owned, twenty years ago, the southeast corner of Second and Los Angeles streets, worth at that time $37,500. He deeded it to the American Baptist Home Mission Society for a life annuity of 5 per cent. on the value of the property, and within a year the society sold a portion of the lot for $22,000.

Rigby, then a mission worker and having every confidence in the alleged agreement to pay him an annuity of $550 a year, felt that he had provided for himself as well as doing a good turn for his church.

He alleges in a complaint filed against the society yesterday to compel the organization to pay him the balance of $7450 now due, that he was paid the annuity for two years and paid part of it in 1907, but that since then he has received nothing.

The society, it is alleged, will set up that there was no such fund and repudiates the agreement which Rigby says was made through W. W. Tinker, an agent of the society and local missionary, now deceased.

The suit is in the hands of Stewart & Stewart, who propose to vigorously press Rigby's claims. Proof will be produced, the attorneys say, to show that Rigby deeded his valuable property to the society on the annuity basis and that he expects to receive it as long as he lives.

NO RECONCILIATION. DECREE GRANTED.

To assist them to get together and live happily Judge Jackson continued until yesterday the divorce suit of Martha M. Huff against John G. Huff. Two boys comprise the family, and whenever there are children Judge Jackson never fails to seek a make-up.

His efforts failed this time. Huff's attorney stated that his client apparently had disappeared and that his mother was grieving over it. The decree was granted on the ground of non-support, the mother given the custody of the boys and Huff ordered to pay $20 a month for their support.

ATTORNEYS LECTURED. MUST BE PREPARED.

Judge McCormick read a lecture to attorneys yesterday who come into court without first preparing their cases. The lecture was the result of calling the quiet title suit of Luciel Bolden against James A. Ryan, administrator of the estate of Martin J. Ryan, and Roland C. Swaffield, special administrator.

Recorder Logan had been asked to bring in certain information covering a few years, but his investigation went back twenty-five years with the result that he discovered the plaintiff had owned the property that length of time and had not, as it was set up by the defendants, homesteaded before filing a deed. In view of this discovery Judge McCormick continued the case until tomorrow.

SENT TO PATTON

The smartest man in the world was sent to Patton by the Lunacy Commission last Friday. He is Charles W. Gaston, who made the assertion himself, and who everybody at the commission agreed was a smart man.

Gaston admitted there were two things he did not know. One was how to solder aluminum. The other was to transmute brass into gold. He is an inventor. He is also, as he asserts, the only atheistic Spiritualist in captivity.

NO INJURY DONE. The suit of the Merchants & Insurers Reporting Company against Hugo Schroeder, Joshua E. Youtz and J. C. Belton, to compel them as directors to return dividends amounting to $34,000, paid to stockholders, was decided in favor of the defendants by Judge Smith yesterday. It was alleged that the dividends were not paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the capital stock. The court found that no injury had been done the stockholders and that it did not impair the value of the stock.

DECIDES SUIT. A quiet-title suit to a triangular strip on San Pedro street between Sixth and Aliso streets, in extent only six inches wide by seven feet long, was decided by Judge Shenk yesterday in favor of J. W. Watson as to ownership, but in favor of I. D. Dehail as to the right under agreement with the former owner to construct his building six inches on the strip. This agreement acted as an estoppel. The strip was the result of the widening of San Pedro street.

INCORPORATIONS. Consolidated Orchards Company, incorporators E. F. Pinkham, F. B. McKevitt, J. R. Pinkham and Edward G. Kuster, capital stock $250,000, subscribed, $500; Pacific Reduction company, incorporators Charles D. Crouch, James W. Gridley, Sidney J. Parson, Fred C. Fenner and Howard J. Potter, capital stock, $1,000,000, subscribed, $500; Hawxhurst Manufacturing Company, incorporators James S. Bennett, Charles Greenberg and R. E. Wilson, capital stock $100,000, subscribed, $30.

GIVES MILLION ROSES FOR MAY-DAY FETE.

Miss Boal, her dog, and her roses,
In the wonderful garden at Glendale.

MISS MARGARET ELLEN BOAL of No. 510 Rockglen avenue, Glendale, will furnish 1,000,000 Cecile Brunner rosebuds for the celebration which the Million Club has arranged for May Day at Washington Ball Park as a benefit for the Humane Society for Children. Miss Boal made the offer yesterday.

A million baby roses to make several thousand little tots happy. That doesn't seem like a very big undertaking for the tiny pink buds that everybody loves, but the growing and gathering appears at first thought like a stupendous undertaking. It takes a trip out to the Boal home to realize how huge the clusters of blooms hang and that hundreds of buds can be gathered with one cut of the shears.

"It does the roses good to be cut," explained Miss Boal in answer to the thanks of the club members. "I wouldn't think of accepting money for something that would make the youngsters happy," and she drew a long branch of buds toward her with a caressing motion.

It is this real affection for the roses she grows that has helped make Miss Boal's garden a success; this and the sheltering hill under whose protecting slope the tiny home with its big rose garden is situated.

The small frame house which Miss Boal had built on her two-acre tract is unpretentious, but comfortable, but the garden without flaunts thousands of blooms that would cost almost a fortune in the downtown shops. There are 600 American Beauty rose bushes in full bloom and huge hedges of wonderful pink baby roses—Cecile Brunners.

"When I was a girl," Miss Boal told the club members, "I used to long for all the roses I could carry. Now I revel in the hundreds of blooms. At night I wake and find the air heavy with their fragrance and it has made me take a new lease on life."

Miss Boal says that she bought the little place in Glendale just two years ago with money which came from the settlement of an estate. The entire sum which she received was $5000, only a small part of what she had expected would be her share of the estate. She was discouraged and disheartened and ill from worry—a woman close to 50 years of age with only the small nest egg to provide for her future life. Then it was, she says, she gambled for the first and only time in her life.

A penny was tossed up to decide whether she would buy a large house and a small plot of ground or a tiny house and a large piece of land. Fate decreed that the frame house should win. It has proved to be a very attractive dwelling with its background of splendid live oaks, and Miss Boal, who was an invalid at the time the cottage was built, is now in perfect health, thanks to the open-air life she has led.

"I don't play bridge, nor tango," said the owner of the rose garden yesterday, "unless my dancing up and down the path watching my roses bloom comes under the head of the hesitation waltz, but I am enjoying life to its fullest. I guess I never really lived before." This from one who has traveled in every part of the United States and Europe is a broad recommendation for rose culture.

Miss Boal says she finds her days crowded so that she hasn't time for any excitement except the study of law. Her Blackstone, Lassie, a beau- tiful white collie, and the wonder roses which she brings to perfectio occupy her hours.

Lassie, the collie, has the intel gence that marks the thoroughbr She follows her mistress everywh and helps carry in the cut flow whenever she is allowed to do Miss Boal puts a small piece of pa around the stems, then Lassie w ingly carries up the path to th house all the roses she can get in h mouth. S then she has suffered the loss of h property through several lawsu and two years ago she found th $5000 was all she could count on the remainder of her life. Then turned to the roses.

"I haven't made much yet," confided, "only expenses, so far, I have 10,000 new rose plants 600 bearing bushes and a fortune enjoyment in my other flowers. I going to make this a specialty f and when I have become "Judg Boal, I will settle down to enjoy age. You see I'm only 50 now, look for many happy years more."

CONSOLATION OF FOLLY.

Many a man guilty of wrongdoing takes heart by saying that he has learned that much. This might be false self-forgiveness. Supposing knowledge were meant for life and not life for gaining knowledge?

DISTRUST OF VILLA.

In old McGuffey's Fourth Reader little boys learned that "truth itself is not believed from one who often has deceived." Gen. Villa is a hard fighter, but he does not enjoy a reputation for veracity. Indeed, few of the Mexican leaders have won fame for their ability to stay put. Villa's protestations of friendliness for America must be proved one day at a time, and he will be under watch every one of those days.

MASTER OF THE CANAL.

Col. Goethals is business from the word go. His prompt action in placing the Canal Zone on a strict war footing was the best of judgment. The danger to the locks does not lie upon concerted action of an enemy, but in the deviltry of a few, perhaps of only one, and the guards should have the right to shoot on sight if it takes that severe action to protect the Canal. In a disturbed situation nothing is so peaceful as martial law.

GHASTLY WASTE.

The Mexicans wilfully destroyed Nuevo Laredo by fire. Property loss amounts to half a million. Their soldiers did not do this, perhaps, and that is exactly why every border town should be protected to the fullest extent by United States troops and the militia. The bitter waste of Laredo is a fair sample of what has been going on in that country. Worst of all, there has been a tragic waste of children's lives. The little people have died by the thousands because they have had no milk.

WAR AND PANICS.

The war with Mexico, and the local, commercial and financial problems that will grow out of it, offer an additional reason for not voting for the power bonds at present. To vote to issue the bonds and then not be able to sell them would not improve our credit or enhance our prosperity. The financial systems of Europe and America are so knotted in sympathy that a disturbance in one city affects a far-distant city. Witness the fact that the war against Mexico produced a panic on the Berlin Bourse.

NIGHT LIFE.

It is interesting to note that an effort will be made on the part of one or two societies to study the night life of Los Angeles. We suppose this will include contiguous territory, for if our friends of honorable intentions intend to follow in the wake of some of the joy riders they will have to cut their trail at many points between nightfall and dawn. City people who follow the night life usually ride away from home for their merrymaking. We doubt if much of the dangerous night life of any city appears on the surface. Its gambling and light lovemaking do not seek cafes and public resorts.

NASTY, BUT HARMLESS.

One of the Buenos Ayres papers says: "The policy of the United States will revive the distrust of Latin-America." Bless their feverish little hearts, their suspicions need no revival. They have always been in a state of active disturbance. Latin-America never rests. It never takes a vote of confidence in anybody, least of all in a friend. They are good down there when they have to be, and they have not and never will have the strength to let them be anything else. The trouble with a small enemy is that he can be so annoying without being dangerous.

NURSING AN AMBITION.

It is a curious fact that children are likely to be exactly what their parents are not. The reason is that a child often entertains the unexpressed ideas of the parents. Your child is likely to be what you wanted to be—not what you thought you could be, or what in your day-dreaming you pictured lightly that it would be good to be, but what, down in your heart of hearts, you most longed to be and the thing from which you were turned aside by circumstances you thought you could not control. In this way grown-ups go around wishing vocation upon their offspring.

THE FATHERS KNOW.

From the beginning of time the mother of the home has done most to nourish the moral nature of the children. Every man remembers with profound gratitude the instructions in right living which he received from his blessed mother. As for daughters, they have been almost wholly dependent upon the word of mother for their knowledge of life ahead of experience. It might well be the reverse. Surely it is the father's privilege and duty to talk to his children out of his broader experience in the world of men and action. He knows where the pitfalls lie as the wife and mother never could. He knows the danger signals all along the line. Not a day goes by that he does not witness on the streets evidences of moral depravity which hurt the heart and shock decency. Mother knows nothing of all this. She knows how to plead for the good, but she cannot understand the evils that are to be warned against. The father who is remiss in this duty is failing a precious opportunity to spare his children pain.

THE TREASON OF LAWLESS LABOR UNIONS.

A bloody war between officers of the law and members of labor unions is now being fought in Colorado. The strikers are entrenched, armed and murderous. It has been necessary to call out the militia and for them to fight. This is one of the shocking situations such as have been paralleled in Colorado before, and the war at Trinidad is not less frightful than was the strike at Cripple Creek some twelve years ago. Now, as then, agitators and professional trouble-makers, seeking to establish a unionized monopoly in labor, are responsible.

The trouble began and developed in this manner: The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, generally known as the C. F. and I., controls the mines and Trinidad and vicinity and owns the great steel works at Pueblo. The C. F. and I. employs many thousands of men, and it has consistently maintained that men should be hired with regard for their ability to do the work and not for any regard to their union membership. Some time ago the miners asked for an increase in wages. The company gave an increase. Then, instigated by the agents of Gompers and Moyer, the miners demanded that the company employ none but union men. The company refused, and the miners went on a strike. The company brought in other miners, whereupon the strikers resorted to the usual methods of the unionites and began a campaign of violence. The militia was called out to protect property and lives and establish order. The lawless strikers have declared open warfare, and the entire region about Trinidad is terrorized.

The C. F. and I. managers have announced that they will maintain their right to hire what men they please. They have said that if necessary they will close down the mines and mills of the company, sacrificing every dollar of invested capital, rather than to submit to the tyranny of the unions. The C. F. and I. is making a stand for its liberty, for its constitutional rights, for its very existence.

Its action in this trouble has been entirely negative; it has made no move that was not for the protection of its property and the right of its workingmen to be independent and free from the tyranny of agitators and union bosses.

Experience has taught the big employers of labor that when such men as Gompers, Moyer, McCarty, Tveitmoe obtain control of a plant, a factory or a mine, that the workingmen are kept in a constant turmoil. It has been learned from experience that it is better to make the firm stand against the first encroachments of lawless unionism than to allow it to get a foothold.

So at Trinidad it has come about that the lawless unionites have been willing to take to arms and kill their fellow-men. They have set up an armed rebellion against the government. They have driven out families and threatened lives. They have turned peaceful mining towns into communities of terror and have shot at the officers of the law. They have tried to abrogate the individual liberty of workers to make them the slaves of union boodlers, the tools of dynamiters. Such is the treason that lawless union bosses have always been guilty of; such is the treason that they are engaged in at Trinidad; and such is the treason that they will never cease to stir up until all the workingmen of the nation come to an understanding of their rights and liberties and crush these professional trouble-makers and anarchists.

GOD BLESS OUR SOLDIER MEN!

"Gentlemen may cry 'Peace, peace,'" as said an American patriot three half-centuries ago, but it is war—unless mediation puts a stop to hostilities— and war is exactly today what it was when another American patriot said it was hell.

Our brave soldiers are marching to the front; some of them are already there; some have already fallen. We are in; and, if war goes on, how many more shall fall and when we shall come out, God Almighty only can foresee.

These brave American soldier men are going, if the war continues, where bayonet-thrust and saber-stroke fall thick and fast and heavily, small arms hiss like poisonous serpents and where bullets fall like hail upon a roof, where great cannon belch forth flames and pour out their shot and shell with the irresistible impetus of thunderbolts. Too bad! Too bad!

They are going into a country full of tropical diseases, a country of deserts and mountains where the torrid sun pours down with the heat of Tophet. If the war—which should have been avoided—continues, we shall have to send an army of 300,000 brave Americans, and tens of thousands of them will never return to their native land. Other tens of thousands will come back maimed and wounded, broken in health. While they are in the war they will suffer from excruciating fatigue, from griping hunger and from burning thirst. The agonies of war for dying and for those who escape are incomprehensible and indescribable.

American citizens one and all, fellow-countrymen, let us bend before the throne of grace this Sunday morning, and pour out from hearts full of patriotism and pity our prayers to Almighty God on behalf of these brave soldier men who have gone to uphold the dignity of the country!

Let no one with mind befogged by too fine theories be ashamed to pray for God's consolation and strength to our brave soldier men in the field. God is the God of peace, and peace reigns everywhere where God's laws are obeyed and where His spirit controls. War is always made in rebellion against God, and yet He is the God of war as well as the God of peace. He is the Lord of Hosts and the God of Battles.

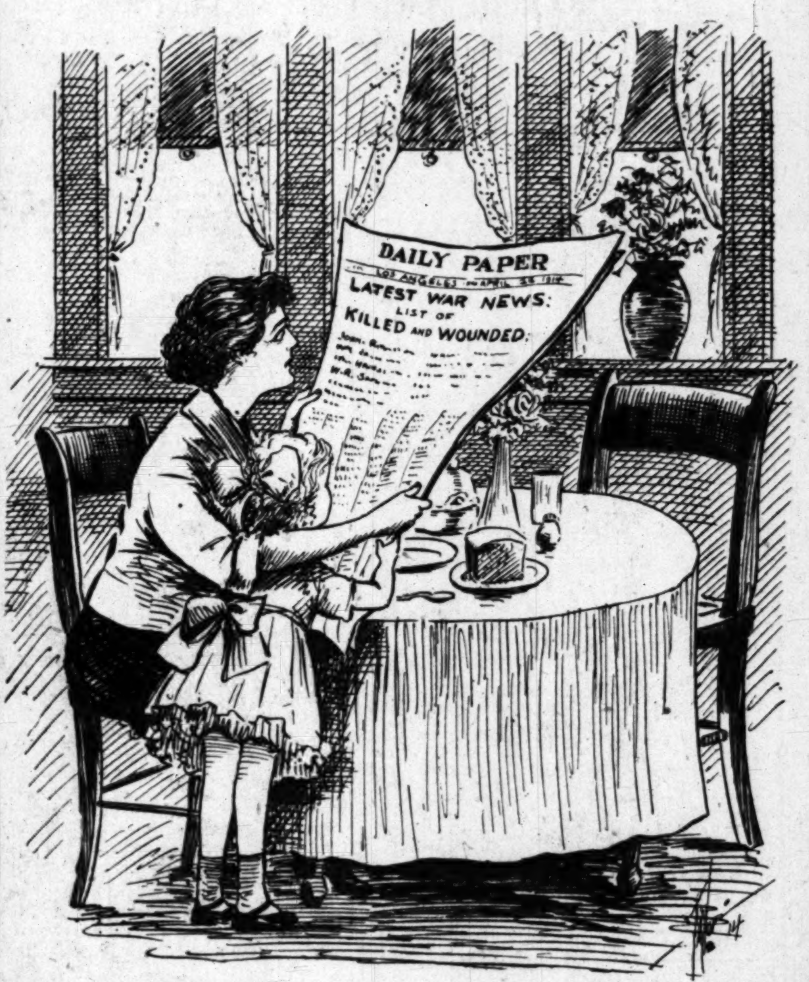
How fitting it would be that in every church in the country today Kipling's grand Recessional should be sung! It expresses the thought that is inspiring these words:

"For heathen heart that puts its trust
In reeking tube and iron shard,
All valiant dust that builds on dust,
And guarding calls not Thee to guard,
Lord God of Hosts be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!"

We say soldier men, but fellow-citizens, do not forget the sailors on the fleet and the marines on shore, "soldiers and sailors, too."

A doubter has said that God is always on the side of the heaviest battalions and the biggest guns. History points in a thousand instances to the falsity of this statement—where in battles God's promises to His people have been kept, running like this: "One of you shall chase a thousand and ten of you shall chase ten thousand."

The Heroism at Home.



PROBLEMS OF THE WAR.

The conditions which environ and control our war with Mexico are peculiar and unprecedented. We are not fighting with a recognized nation which acknowledges obedience to either international law or any law of humanity, but with bodies of bandits held together by the cohesive power of their expectations of plunder.

Huerta, Carranza, Villa and Orozco are leaders of banditti. They do not fight for the existence of a nation, for the honor of a flag or for the maintenance of a principle. They are engaged in a contest in which they have absolutely nothing to lose and everything to gain.

Along a border of more than 1000 miles there are many rich cities, including Galveston, El Paso, Nogales, Calexico, Yuma, Tia Juana and San Diego. The Mexicans can concentrate their forces for a secret and sudden dash upon any one of these cities with a view of looting the banks, stores and warehouses, while we will be compelled to heavily garrison our frontier towns at great cost, and there are in Mexico no corresponding border towns for us to attack. Nor will the enemy be likely to give us a pitched battle of any importance anywhere, but will content themselves with guerrilla warfare. Vera Cruz we have taken; the City of Mexico we will doubtless take with less resistance than Santa Ana offered to Gen. Scott.

And when all this shall have been accomplished, what next? There will be no government with which we can treat, no commander-in-chief whose surrender will mean anything. Conquest will bring us new problems and fresh perplexities, and no man, not even Woodrow Wilson, is quite wise enough to tell what it will be best to do, or even predict what there will be to do.

WHY OUR SHIPPING SUFFERS.

Great Britain and her colonies pay nearly $10,000,000 a year in subsidies to ocean vessels. In 1908 France paid $13,423,737; Japan paid $5,413,700; Italy, $3,873,917; Spain, $3,150,612; Austria-Hungary, $2,984,530, and Germany $2,301,029. In addition Germany and some other countries give preferential rates on their railroads to merchandise for export, while United States roads give preferential rates to imported goods. Then the great difference in wages between the United States and other nations, the more stringent requirements of our laws for accommodations and food to seamen, the higher cost of constructing vessels here owing to higher wages and higher rates of interest, explain why this country does not carry even 10 per cent. of its ocean-borne commerce.

The Democrats in Congress, under the leadership of Oscar W. Underwood, put a provision in the tariff law to differentiate in favor of American vessels to the extent of 5 per cent. in tariff rates on imports. This would have lowered duties 5 per cent. on goods brought in American ships and would have stimulated a demand for ships under the American flag. But, says the Protectionist of Boston, that provision of the law was obnoxious to foreign shipping interests, and the administration, led by President Wilson (was it and he English-ruled and English-led?) endeavored to nullify it.

The provision in the law in regard to the American Panama Canal, exempting American coastwise shipping from tolls, was said to be for the purpose of aiding American shipping. Secretary Redfield, Secretary Wilson, Mr. Harrison, now Governor-General of the Philippines, and many other administration leaders, voted for that clause, but President Wilson wants it repealed.

Some foreign governments repay the tolls paid by their merchant vessels passing through the Suez Canal and may do the same at Panama. The United States ought not to do so, according to British ideas, because of the treaty with that country. American shipping in the foreign trade has been declining for a great many years for lack of protection. It will continue to decline, notwithstanding the enormous expenditure on the Panama Canal, for the same reason.

Ambassador Page was nearly technically right in saying that this country had dug the canal, unwittingly, for the benefit of British shipping. That was not the intention, however, of the United States. Our coastwise shipping, protected from foreign competition, has expanded more rapidly than that of any other nation and freight rates have accordingly declined. That shows the benefit of protection. But if our coastwise shipping must, as President Wilson wants, pay Panama Canal tolls (our own canal, built with our own money) our shipping will suffer more from the competition of the subsidized Canadian and foreign vessels. They can bring goods from both Canadian and Mexican Pacific ports to the United States and can take from their ports of Montreal, Quebec, Halifax, St. John, etc., American goods to the Pacific Coast. It is a national calamity that this country refuses to help its shipping in the same way that foreign nations do, but such is the fact, and we suffer accordingly.

New York and Philadelphia importers have begun a suit to compel the government to enforce the clause in the tariff act of 1913 which grants a reduction of 5 per cent. in the rates of duty on imports in American vessels. The board of United States General Appraisers granted the demand and an appeal was taken to the United States Court of Customs Appeals. There can hardly be a question that the decision will be upheld, but President Wilson, no doubt, will use his power to have the clause repealed by Congress.

Although he spoke as a friend of American shipping during the Presidential campaign, President Wilson takes advantage of the first opportunity since election to overrule the attempt on the part of Congress to do a little something toward the upbuilding of our merchant marine.

THE GIVERS.

WALT MASON IN THE TIMES.

The great, fine men are oft obscure; they have no wide, resounding fame, that experts warrant to endure until the finish of the game. Old Clinkenbeard is such a man, and though he has no store of yen, he's always doing what he can to help along his fellowmen. He has no millions to disburse, but when he meets a hungry guy, he digs a quarter from his purse, which buys the sinkers and the pie. The gifts of bloated millionaires mean nothing of a sacrifice; they sit around in easy chairs and count the scads they have on ice; if Croesus gives ten thousand bucks to help some college off the rocks, he still can have his wine and ducks—he has ten million in his box. The widow's mite, I do not doubt, in heaven made a bigger splash than shekels Pharisees shelled out from their large wads of ill-gained cash. And so the poor man, when he breaks the only William in his pants, to buy some widow tea and cakes, is making angels sing and dance. In fertile soil he's sowing seeds, and he shall reap a rich reward; for he who gives the coin he needs, is surely lending to the Lord.

Reducing Cost of Living.

[Chicago Record-Herald:] "It is costing me three times as much to live as it did five years ago. I tell you it isn't right. Our whole economic system is wrong."

"Perhaps you have more expensive tastes than you had five years ago."

"Not at all. We are being robbed, that's the long and short of it. They tell us the farmers are not getting it. The packers say it isn't their fault. The railroad people claim that they are not overcharging us, and whenever you try to fix the blame anywhere you are solemnly told that it must be somewhere else. Nevertheless, prices keep going up right along, and they try to make us believe that it is nothing but our own extravagance that makes it so hard for us to get ahead. Take your own case. Don't you find that it is costing you a lot more to live than it did five years ago?"

"No. It isn't costing me as much."

"For heaven's sake explain yourself. Tell me how you manage it."

"It's very simple. One of the women to whom I was paying alimony got married again about three years ago."

Her Kind Offer.

[April Lippincott's:] James K. Hackett, the actor, tells the story of a merchant who had been traveling some months and upon his return was informed of the death of a valued friend.

A few days later he called on the bereaved widow to offer his expressions of sympathy. During the visit he remarked:

"I was a good friend of your late husband. Is there not something of his which I could have as a memento of him?"

She raised her velvety brown eyes to his, which a few moments before were moist with tears, and said:

"How would I do?"

Hints to the Militants.

[Chicago News:] If the militants must slash something they might at least practice on those cubist paintings where the innocent bystander cannot tell the difference.

AISY COME AND AISY GO.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

As the German barber deftly secured a strangle hold with a Turkish towel on the bronzed neck of Dennis Casey, the retired plumber, and prepared his cutlery for the usual treatment he genially remarked:

"Id looks like Chonson."

"Aisy there, Karl; ye got me where I can't squeak, and thin shoot that at me? I'll be after taking gas if ye have any in the place. Av coorse it looks like Johnson, ye dachshund. Whin a rig'lar Progressive sees anything from a hoptoad to a brewery chimney it looks like Johnson to him. He sees Johnson whin he hangs up his pants and hits the hay; he hears him crow in the middle of the night, and he tastes him with his ham and eggs f'r brikfest in th' moornin'. If ye hang up a wall map of the impyreal kingdom of California y'r Progressive frind will cross himself and say: 'Tis a foine likeness ye have of our imminent hayro, Hiram Johnson.' D'ye smoke? Thry one of these Johnson seegars. They're made from th' foinest alfalfa, by a mon that wore a union suit. Ar're ye hungry? Thry Johnson oats. They make min strong. Have ye had your Johnson toddy? Sure three of thim will make ye crazy enough to kiss your own wife. Is your liver unaisy? Thry Johnson's peerless pills. They slape while ye ate."

"Chure! I know dot," exclaimed Hofmeister. "I have alretty yet der Chonson champoo. Id maigs your hair come oud."

"Av coorse it makes it come out," interrupted the ex-plumber. "Wan application will give y'r dome thay refined and intillictual appearance of a biled egg and if ye take two ye can hear th' wheels whirr on th' inside."

"Vell, anyvay, it iss dot Herr Chonson is a goot man. He vas had a great hett."

"Av coorse he has the big head. He has thot to save th' rist of ye fr'm thinkin'. If ye're a Progrissive ye don't have to do a dommed thing excipt make a noise like moose in a bear trap. Y'r principles are all laid out for ye on th' dresser like a set of brushes. Ye don't have to vote, but if ye do your ballot is already made out for ye and mayhap 'tis already counted. If there's a phrimary illiction to selict th' candidates for th' people th' Progrissives are ready for ye. Six months befure th' phrimary day they say: 'We prisint to ye our rigular candidate, that bould and fearless thribune of the masses, Hiram Geewhizz Johnson.' Th' dirict phrimary is so-called because it is diricted by Hiram Johnson. If ye should lose your brains by th' explosion of a premachoor blast th' doc will maybe pour in a noggin of chopped feed or spaghetti and sew ye up. 'Twill do y'r thinkin' for ye just as well. All that's nicessary is to be a goat n' follow th' blazed trail of th' grand bucko, Hiram Johnson—in the absence of th' imminent explorer, Theaydore Von Rosenfeld, who is thrappin' parrots in Brazil—where th' nuts come from."

"Py gracious!" exclaimed the barber, enthusiastically, "I bed you he comes back to go mitt der fight. He should be a cheneral yet."

"There won't be any war till he does come back," said Casey. "It's not a real war until Theaydore gets in th' midst of it with his gleamin' teeth and bloody fountain pen. But, hivin' be praised, until he does return we are proticted from invasion by that thrue pathrite, Hiram Johnson, who will now favor th' audience with a chune on th' solo cymbals. Tur-rn on th' gas, Mike. On with the dance, let joy be unconfined!"

"Chust the same, unser Chonson is a chiant. He iss a man vat maigs der gorporations bay der taxes," remarked the German, insistently, as he whisked some lather out of Casey's eye with his thumb.

"Sure he makes 'em pay. He makes everybody pay. There's a tax on everything but whiskers now and he'll be after having that soon. He needs the money. He's costing ye millions more than any other mon that iver had th' job and yet he laves his desk to stump th' State and tell th' defincelss voter he's worth the money. It's a case of aisy come and aisy go. Ye hand him forty thousand yellow simoleons on a goold platter and say: 'plase take it, Mr. Johnson.' 'Sure,' says he, 'but therill be no book-keepin'.' And there isn't. Ye never know what he spent it for. It's not that way with yersilf, Hofmeister. If ye should take me out and blow yersilf for tin cints' worth of th' foaming brew that inebriates and gives three cheers y'er wife would know it whin she got your invilope and would fall on your neck and cry, 'Karl, ye have another woman!' But if ye happen to be a Progressive Governor ye can go to th' market of a Saturday night and buy everything from soup to nuts and nawbody can pinch ye. Ye know how it is now if ye take th' can-opener and crack th' childers' bank for th' price of a seegar, but y'r man Johnson can ride on horseback through th' State threasury with a sack on each arm and take what he wants.

"And if he happens to be tired from too much thravelin' or talkin' he can whistle for a commissioner or a bood of uncontrol to bring it to him. Sure, if ye are a Progrissive Governor ye have a saycret sarvice fund of five thousand bucks a year and no foolish book-keeper to bother ye. Ye can spind tin dollars a day for red neckties or bury it all in a hole in the barn flure and there's nivir a wan to say a wur-rd. 'Sure 'tis for th' good of th' State,' says Hiram, as he slips a thousand-dollar bill into the pocket of his ould vest and hangs it up in th' closest. 'It looks for rain,' he says, as he sits at his window. 'Tony, step over to th' threasury and get me seven thousand dollars in yellow boys.' There's no tellin' what may happen. Some careless voter has spit on the flure,' he says. 'Tell Jawn to take the measure for a new set of rugs and bring me four thousand dollars' worth of goold spittoons.' And so it goes. Sure it's a nice aisy life, running up and down th' State listenin' to your own beautiful voice and tellin' th' dear people what a daisy ye are. 'Tis me idea of a plieint time, Karl, to have nawthin to do but spind other people's money and not even give them a resate for it."

"Id looks like Chonson," insisted the barber, phlegmatically, as he dusted the powder off of Casey's ear with his towel.

"Ye'll be paying youi taxes tomorrow, maybe, Karl," said Casey, "and for the love of hivin' have your fotygraft taken at the collector's windy n' sind it to your frind Johnson."

"I bed you," replied the Teuton tonsorialist, with a genial smile.

Welding Copper.

[Indianapolis News:] A process of welding copper with the oxyacetylene flame has been developed by a German inventor. He has found it necessary to use larger torches than for iron welding, but in general the process is similar, except that he employs a liquid welding paste and a special copper welding wire. The paste prevents the formation of oxide. The process has been used for welding copper plates up to an inch in thickness. The process is being used in the principal copper works of Germany with great success.

The Monroe doctrine is doing pretty well, thank you!

Fling your colors to the breeze! Hang out Old Glory!

A peso for the thoughts of bluff old Porfirio Diaz now.

These be perilous times for the Carnegie and Bryan dove of peace.

Our idea of a life of ease would be to fill the job of pastor emeritus of the I.W.W.

After all, Congress is a handy thing to have in the house, eh, President Wilson?

The prayers in the churches today will be for peace—but with the addenda that it must be peace with honor.

A million Americans are ready to spring to the front in defense of the flag. It is only a question whether they are needed.

It may soon be necessary for Huerta to drop around to the postoffice in the City of Mexico and leave a change of address.

With Walter Johnson performing in his accustomed way, President Wilson is having much trouble keeping in the spotlight.

Col. Roosevelt will return to civilization early in May. Where is the Bull Moose party? Button, button, who's got the button?

Destiny is playing the game in the present Mexican situation. It would require a seer to tell us what the final outcome is to be.

There is this to be said to the credit of the "insidious lobby," it did not oppose the passage of the $50,000,000 in either branch of Congress.

Of course, the women of Supervisor Norton's district will be just crazy to vote for a man who left a wife and a dozen children. Yes, they will—not.

King George is back from his trip to Paris. And Queen Mary is taking an account of his funds to see if he spent more than his allowance.

Gen. Fred Funston is in evidence on the border. He will swim the Rio Grande with a rope in his teeth as he did in the Philippines, if the occasion requires.

President Wilson refuses the Carranza proposition that this government withdraws from Vera Cruz. As well make terms with Robin Hood or Jesse James.

The killing of foreigners by the Mexicans, whether under the jurisdiction of Huerta, Villa or Carranza, is likely to embroil other nations in the Mexican trouble.

Congress is so busy discussing the Mexican situation that the administration has no time to perfect any measures looking to the further hamstringing of business.

Twenty brave young Americans have given their lives a willing sacrifice so far upon the altar of Mars. Tears and flowers for them. They will not be forgotten.

The California National Guardsmen are on the border to do their duty, whatever befall. If their places are taken by seasoned regulars and they are sent home, they will obey orders without a whimper.

The coming week will be big with the fate of war in Mexico. Will Carranza and Villa join Huerta? Will Huerta salute the American flag? Will the American troops start from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico? All of these questions will be solved in the mighty near future.

Richard Harding Davis's description of the summoning of the officers of the Fifth Brigade at Galveston recalls Lord Byron's famous poem, "There Was a Sound of Revelry by Night," depicting a state ball in the city of Brussels, when Lord Wellington and his aides were called from the ballroom to the bloody field of Waterloo.

Secretary Daniels quoted the famous letter that President Lincoln sent to Mrs. Bixby when he learned that she had sacrificed five sons on the altar of freedom in sending his condolence to the mother of the Cambridge boy, who was killed at Vera Cruz. That Bixby letter has stood the test of fifty years. It is the highest expression of graceful, eloquent sympathy and pity.

THE UNITED STATES MARINES.

Suppose we get word of a rumpus
The consul's unable to buck;
That the Greaser is trying to bump us,
Or the Boxer is running amuck;
That the Cuban falls down on his solo;
The Liberian's caught in a jam;
That the Moro is out with his bolo,
And it's up to your Uncle Sam.

What then?
Oh, just send the Marines;
Give 'em their guns and a handful of beans,
Back out the transport and turn her around—
And the divil a cheer for the outward bound,
Panama to Peking—it's all on their beat,
Sweating in sunshine or shaking in sleet,
It's just part of the job for the doggone Marines,
Always the first on tumultuous scenes.

You don't see a lot in the papers
About the historical corps,
But when foreigners start cutting capers
They learn that its living—and more.
Whether a cutter can land 'em—
And if it is too shallow they'll wade—
They go, and few try to withstand them,
For they've learned that it's safer to fade.

A frolic? A fight?
Oh, just send the Marines;
Give 'em their guns and a handful of beans,
Back out the transport and turn her around—
See the Leathernecks grin to be outward bound,
It's the doggone Marines that land the first punch,
Panama to Peking—afloat with the fleet—
The World is all they patrol for a beat;
And whenever there's trouble you'll find the Marines,
For they start with the bell for tumultuous scenes.

Miles of Blossoms.

ACRES OF ROSES, MORE TO COME.

Gardens Promise Big Show for Next Year.

New Plants Add to Glories of Old Collections.

Contestants for "Times" Prizes Working Hard.

The wealth of beautiful roses now in bloom in Southern California presages a glorious spectacle next year when all the Southland will be decorated with green foliage and bright-colored flowers to greet hundreds of thousands of visitors from all parts of the world.

There are more roses in bloom this year here than ever before, but there is good reason to believe that next year's production will far exceed it in quantity and quality. Added to the plants now blossoming will be the hundreds of thousands of new bushes recently planted and hardly yet arrived at the blooming stage. The Times gave away to its subscribers 40,000 strong, 2-year-old plants, including some of the best varieties of the recent introductions from Europe. These will be insplendid condition by next spring and many of them are already beginning to flower.

In Los Angeles dooryards, in suburban communities and all through Southern California the spirit of floral decoration has spread among the people. Dooryards are being cleaned and beautified and rose bushes have been set out in greater profusion than ever before. Nurserymen say the demand was never so great as last winter and that the supply of many varieties was exhausted early in the season. Next fall and winter more will be planted and most of the new bushes will be recent varieties of superior type.

Visitors next year will be greeted by millions of roses of all hues and the superior form, color and size will emphasize the advantages of Southern California climate equally as much as the great quantity of blooms.

FOR NEXT YEAR.

Most amateur rose growers are working and planning for 1915. Many a rose garden which now presents only a few blossoms is a potential prize-winner in The Times rose-garden contest which will be decided next spring. One contestant writes that her garden has not begun to make much of a showing yet, but that she has sixty fine plants in the ground and proposes to set out more this fall.

Among the entrants fully 50 per cent. have new collections, although in the list are many with some fine old collections of bushes that have attained great size and producing power.

The prizes will be awarded toward the close of next spring's flowering season and in accordance with the verdict of a committee of competent judges. The first prize will be $200 in gold; second prize, $75 in gold; third prize, $50 in gold; fourth prize, $35 in gold; fifth prize, $25 worth of choice rose bushes; sixth prize, $20 worth of choice rose bushes; seventh and eighth prizes, $15 worth of choice rose bushes; ninth and tenth prizes, $10 worth of choice rose bushes.

Following is the list of contestants, including growers from many cities and towns in Southern California. There is no entrance fee and nobody is barred except persons directly connected with The Times and commercial growers. Entries should be made on the form printed in this issue of The Times or otherwise. Each entrant should give full address, plainly written.

Collision With Car Follows Merry Parting.

Off to a week-end outing, with an old man piloting the machine as he read a book of directions, an auto load of people was struck by a street car at Washington boulevard and West avenue yesterday and Newell S. Hitchcock, 71 years old, Ocean Park Heights, was killed.

Those injured are Mrs. W. H. Allured, 47 years old, Collita and West avenues, four ribs crushed, severe injuries about head and back; her daughter, Mildred Allured, 17 years old, concussion of the brain, painful injuries to body; Mrs. P. D. McCulloch, Belleview Terrace Hotel, a tourist from Hot Springs, Ark., crushed ribs, concussion of brain and minor injuries.

It was a joyful parting that had a tragic end. The women had assembled at the Allured residence, to await the arrival of Hitchcock, who was coming from his Ocean Park Heights home to take the party to a ranch in La Crescenta, in which all were interested. They were to be gone for the week-end.

As they rode away, many jests were passed about the ability of Hitchcock to handle the car. Old, he was unfamiliar with the working of the machine, and was enjoying the experiment keenly. He remarked flippantly: "Oh, you'll all get killed if you go with me."

All laughed. It was then ten minutes past eleven o'clock.

Farewells were said. Good-byes were waved. On the porch of the Allured home stood Scott Allured, 19 years old, bidding his mother and sister adieu. So merry had been the leave-taking that he stood on the porch, smiling as they started away. Up to the last they had continued to treat Hitchcock's ability with the machine, lightly. So Hitchcock got out his book of directions, half in earnest, half fun, to continue the joke.

The son stood there and waved three times, as his sister and mother waved to him.

Then he stood, anchored in anguish, unbelieving, shocked into muteness. The motor car had swerved into the path of the street car.

He heard the crash two blocks away. He saw forms hurtle through the air. The screams of a woman came to him, and the heavy groans of terrible pain.

Unconsciously he looked at his watch. It was twelve minutes after eleven o'clock.

When Hitchcock was taken to the Receiving Hospital, he was already dead, his skull having been fractured.

The women were removed to the hospital in three ambulances that were dispatched to the place of tragedy.

Motorman Reynolds and Conductor Christsen of the car that struck the light machine were taken to the Central Police Station for interrogation. They were not placed under arrest.

Hitchcock was a retired ranchman and owned considerable property.

DISTRICT APPEAL SESSION.

The April term of the District Court of Appeal will convene tomorrow, and three days will be devoted to disposing of the thirty-five cases on the calendar. The attention of the court the first day will be largely devoted to criminal cases appealed from the superior courts. The consideration of the calendar will take three days. There are no especially important cases to be argued or submitted on brief.

GARDEN SAGE DARKENS GRAY HAIR SO NATURALLY NOBODY CAN TELL

Restores Its Lustre, Prevents Scalp Itching; Dandruff and Falling Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. When it is a mussy, tedious task it well repays those whose hair is turning gray, faded and streaked.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and luster of your hair and is the best thing known to remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody chooses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time, which requires but a few moments. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair has disappeared and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. It certainly helps folks look years younger and twice as attractive, says a well-known downtown druggist.—[Advertisement.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

End Itching Scalp and Stop Falling Hair—At Once.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Selling Out!

The Nation's Largest Piano House Annihilates Prices On the Nation's Most Famous Pianos

Every Piano Must Go at Once!

I must sell out. I came here to take personal charge of the big Los Angeles Eilers Music House. But conditions beyond our control have arisen that make it necessary for us to quit altogether. I must immediately return to Oregon. I ought to be there now. I have offered this store, with fixtures, furniture, everything, including stock and good will, to several different music houses, but I couldn't find any man or set of men with capital enough to swing the deal.

I could send the pianos North, but if I did that I would have the expense of boxing and hauling them, besides freight and insuring them. And even after I got them North they would still have to be sold. So I prefer to pocket my loss, sell the pianos as they stand, for what they'll bring, and give Los Angeles homes the benefit of the greatest drop in piano prices that has ever been offered here.

Note the illustration above.

I'm putting pianos in hundreds of homes that had never dreamed of being able to own such beautiful instruments. Not only that, but lodges, clubs, associations, have sent their representatives to us to get the benefit of these literally smashed and slaughtered figures.

Note the Prices

The best made Player Pianos, ordinarily priced at $700. I'm selling for $320. For plainer styles I'll take $265, $900 and $1000 fanciest Players pianos are reduced just the same as the less expensive instruments. Upright pianos, brand new and warranted makes are only $95, $115 and $135. Several used Kranich & Bach, Ivers & Pond and other pianos tomorrow are only $85. Also numerous more elaborate styles at $130.

Here's the Necessity

Can't you see the position I'm in with a great big store and clientele that depends on me, and a stock of the world's most beautiful instruments, including the famous Bush & Gerts, Decker, Hazelton, Kimball, Kimball-Acmelodic, Smith & Barnes, Steger, the famous Bungalow-player Pianos, and also the best of all the fine ones, the Player Piano de luxe, and scores of other well-known makes and here I'm compelled to sell out for whatever prices I can get.

You don't need to pay all cash. I'll take as little as $1.00 a week on any number of these pianos. You can take your choice from dozens of the most beautiful brand new Player Pianos for $15 a month. Almost any terms will buy a piano now.

See How You Save!

Tell me the price you wish to pay and I will give you a piano at that price. Tell me the terms you wish to make and I will let you have a piano on those terms. This is no time for argument. My necessity is great. And if you have any possible use for a piano or a player piano you will do well to come here at once and to make your selection immediately. No such opportunity as I am now presenting has ever before, or will ever again, come to Los Angeles.

Remember, when you consider buying a piano that no matter what other stores may offer in the way of alleged inducements on new or damaged or slightly damaged instruments, this store, my store, because of the great necessity of immediately closing out, offers you the greatest possible inducements on brand new, fully guaranteed pianos, backed not only by the manufacturer's warranty, but by the famous Money-Back Eilers' guarantee.

Gets Quick Help for Stomach Pains

Uses That Time-tried Remedy Fruitola and Obtains Desired Relief.

People who are subject to severe cramps and pains in the pit of the stomach and along the margin of the ribs on the right side should make up their minds that they have something serious the matter with them that calls for immediate attention. They should be careful, of course, to distinguish between an acute pain due to a temporary indigestion, which usually passes off and seldom comes back, and these more serious pains that are often accompanied by chills and fever.

No ordinary laxative or constipation remedy is of much value in these severe pains, for the trouble is probably due to the bile hardening in the gall bladder, and this requires an entirely different remedy for relief. Mr. C. M. Williams of No. 134 East Congress street, St. Paul, Minn., had symptoms of this kind and had made arrangements, on the advice of four doctors, to have an operation performed. A friend, however, suggested that he first try Fruitola, a California remedy which is well and favorably known for these symptoms. Now Fruitola, unlike most other remedies, is taken in one dose, as quick and positive action is necessary in such cases. Mr. Williams took a dose of Fruitola and passed sixty small stones which he believes were gall stones. He has never had any doctors, to have an operation per of these cramps or pains since.

Fruitola is also invaluable to people suffering from persistent constipation, as what they usually need is a thorough cleaning out, and Fruitola will give that. It is also a great preventive of jaundice, which so often follows these colicky pains. Fruitola, which is prepared only by the Pinus Medicine Co., Monticello, Ill., for whom this is published, can be obtained at any drug store, and the booklet accompanying each bottle gives full directions and tells its uses and purposes.

of the conspirators that threatened to dynamite the Federal Building and the International Bank Building yesterday brought to light evidence showing that the hasty policing of those buildings by armed guards was not a useless precautionary measure. That the plot had been formulated and ready for execution but for the providential "leak" by one of the members was established by special agents of the Department of Justice.

The identity of the man who telephoned to Adolfo Carrillo, representative in Los Angeles of the Constitutionalists, and asked him whether the destruction of the Federal and bank buildings would be pleasing to the Mexican cause is suspected.

This man is a Mexican and apparently well-to-do. His arrest is expected at any time. In fact, Washington has been officially notified to that effect. It is believed that his arrest will divulge the identity of his co-conspirators.

The Federal Building was still guarded last night.

The Southern Pacific and Santa Fe yesterday employed a large extra force of officers and sent them to vital points on the lines, such as tunnels and bridges. They carried blankets with them prepared to camp on the spot.

SONG OF THE MARINES.

From the halls of Montezuma,
To the shores of Tripoli,
We fight our country's battles
On the land as on the sea;
Admiration of the nation
We're the finest ever seen,
And we glory in the title of United State Marine.

From the hell-hole of Cavite
To the ditch at Panama,
You will find them very needy
Of marines—that's what we are;
We're the watch dogs of a pile of coal
Or we dig a magazine,
Though our job-lots they are manifold
Who would not be a marine?

Our flag's unfurled to every breeze
From dawn to setting sun,
We have fought in every clime and place
Where we could take a gun;
In the snow of far-off northern lands
And in sunny tropic scenes,
You will find us always on the job—
The United States Marines.

Here's health to you and to our Corps
Which we are proud to serve,
In many a strife we have fought for life
And never lost our nerve;
If the army and the navy
Ever look on heaven's scenes,
They will find the streets are guarded by
The United States Marines.

THEY HIT QUICKLY AND THEY HIT HARD.

American Marines, the First in Vera Cruz, Always Ready to Jump in Where There's Trouble and Shoot Their Way Through—How They Have Fought for the Nation from Pole to Pole.

TO STRIKE one dizzying, blinding, skull-cracking blow almost before the enemy realizes that the fight is on, is the object of the United States if the use of force becomes necessary in dealing with any other country, far or near. To this end it maintains the Marine Corps, an organization of versatile, all-round fighting men whose business it is to hover in the offing of any trouble zone ready to be catapulted into the midst of any action at a moment's notice, as they were at Vera Cruz a week ago. They are the mighty punch up Uncle Sam's sleeve, such as always rests in the biceps of the trained boxer, inconspicuous in times of quiet, but sure to draw first blood when the melee is on. They are the riot squad of the nation, always ready for instant action on any of the lands and seas of the whole world.

There are 10,000 of these marines and just now most of them are in or near the port of Vera Cruz, where they met the emergency with characteristic energy. They were ready, and what they did and the way they did it is history.

These marines can do many things. They are entirely competent to operate railroad trains. It is a part of their business. If bridges and tracks have been torn out, they are again competent to rebuild them. They restore telegraph communication as they go. And they leave a clear path behind them anywhere.

THEY CAN SHOOT.

The marines are armed with army Springfield rifles of the latest type, as their primary means of warfare. With these they are highly trained as marksmen. Half of their number can hit a man half a mile away eight times out of ten. The Mexicans are notoriously poor marksmen and their guns are inferior to those of the marines. The invaders carry many field pieces, the three-inch navy landing gun, their own three-inch semi-automatic and a five-inch, and the deadly fast-firing machine gun. These again are effective at a much greater range than are similar pieces of the Mexicans. The marines figure they are able to defeat a Mexican force four times their size before that force can get near enough to be in range with the inferior arms. The deadly fire of the small arms of the marines gives their enemies, accustomed to battle with most ineffective antagonists, the surprise of their lives. With these advantages and the love of a fight which swells in the breasts of all these youngsters from the States, they and the bluejackets and the army may be depended on to go to the very heart of Mexico City, if necessary, and perform whatever task awaits them.

The War College at Washington has every detail of their handling worked out. It has figured on every man, every ration is provided for his sustenance, every detail of his journey inland arranged. Topographical maps of every inch of land to be traversed are in readiness. So exact are these maps and this information that the force could be halted ten miles outside Mexico City on a dark night and the big guns of the invaders so trained as to drop shells on the President's palace or the arsenal or any other point in the city. The guns would be aimed by mathematics, the shells thrown over the intervening hills and dropped in the darkness upon marks that had never been seen by the gunners.

POWER IN EMERGENCY.

The marines do the emergency work of the nation from pole to pole. They have been doing these very things in many expeditions into many climes through the last two decades. It was a similar situation which they handled when they pushed to Peking during the Boxer uprising. The difficulties overcome were as great as when Waller's battalion made that astounding march across the hitherto impenetrable Island of Samar in 1901. There was an expedition to Panama in 1902 and in 1903 there was another and one to Abyssinia, one to Guantanamo and one to Korea. In 1905 the marines poured oil upon the waters in Santo Domingo and in Panama by showing the mailed fist. In 1906, 2500 marines were thrust into Cuba, where they disarmed the rebels, brought about peace and sat on the lid until all was secure. They saved the city of Bluefields, Nicaragua, in 1910, and the foreigners residing therein. In 1912 a brigade of 2800 men was again thrust into Cuba, where they quickly terminated a serious uprising of the blacks in Oriente province, where 3000 men had been killed and where the germ of a long civil war was already planted.

IN NICARAGUA.

The most recent active duty of the marines, aside from their present work in Haiti and Mexico, was in Nicaragua, where a brigade was sent in August, 1912, under command of Col. Joseph H. Pendleton, to put down a revolution. This force included the battalion commanded by Maj. Butler, at that time stationed in the Isthmian Canal zone and now at Vera Cruz. After several skirmishes by detachments of this force, the relaying of railroad tracks and repairing of bridges was completed between Corinto, Massaya and Granada; the engines were overhauled and communication by rail was reopened, the railway being operated by marines. The rebel forces refused to surrender and evacuate their strongly fortified position at Coyotepe. An attack was therefore made on October 31, 1912, by two batallions of marines and one battalion of sailors, under the immediate command of Col. Pendleton, and this was followed on October 4 by an assault. The effectiveness of the fire of the marines and their business-like manner of executing the job may be summarized in the statement that in forty minutes the "soldiers of the sea" took from a superior force a position which had been for many years believed to be impregnable and was commonly called the "Gibraltar of Central America. But four Americans were killed in this brilliant assault.

In these days of high-powered, long-ranged rifles hurling their missiles of destruction almost as far as a man is visible, such decisive victories as that at Coyotepe do not come without the most careful and persistent preliminary schooling of the marine in all that pertains to his profession. The recruit of today is not the hero of tomorrow. There must be many days of grinding preparation before he is "turned over for duty."

ON THE RANGE.

The final stage of preliminary training is given on the target range after the young marine has mastered the care and nomenclature of the rifle and has had aiming and sighting drills and gallery practice. The actual range work includes firing over distances of 200 to 1000 yards at targets with bullseyes varying with the distance from eight to thirty-six inches in diameter; rapid fire at distances of 200 to 500 yards, five shots

CLOSE WATCH ON CHAUFFEURS.

Passenger - Conveyance Law Is a Stringent One.

Ship-Like "Sightseers" Must Wait at the Park.

Ordinance Now in Force, but Grace Granted.

Secretary McKeag of the Police Commission is now ready to issue permits under the new ordinance regulating public passenger-carrying vehicles. The ordinance is now in force. It is the intention of the traffic department to allow a reasonable time within which to secure the necessary permits for operation of public vehicles and then to rigidly enforce the ordinance, which is similar in its provisions to that now in effect in the State of New York.

It requires a sworn description of each machine used in the public passenger-carrying business, and that these be filed with the Police Commission. It also requires all public chauffeurs to file applications—a new feature of the business in this city. Chauffeurs will receive numbered badges which must be worn on the right breast of the outer garment at all times while engaged in driving public machines, and must also carry an identification card upon which is a personal description of the holder, with his photograph, a duplicate of which is on file with the Police Commission, bearing his signature. Also the signatures of the secretary of the board and the City Clerk, and stamped with the official seal of the city.

WOMEN GET THEM.

Over 300 such applications have already been issued, two of which are for women drivers. Permits have also been issued to date for nearly 400 machines to be used in the public passenger-carrying business.

Under this ordinance no public passenger machine may stand upon any street in the business or congested district without obtaining a permit to do so, which permit can only be granted upon written consent of the tenant occupying the premises where the stand is desired. The securing of desirable stands is a matter of considerable rivalry among men engaged in this class of business, the policy of the board being to give preference to the men longest engaged in the business, to married men over single men, and to those with no objectionable police record relating to previous misconduct of this business. Heretofore there has been no adequate check on public drivers who continually violated the traffic ordinance.

Not more than ten such vehicles will be allowed to stand in any block, no stands at all being issued for the side streets, First, Second, Third and others being considered as too narrow for such purposes. Stands must be at least fifty feet apart.

"SIGHTSEERS" OBJECT.

A feature of this new ordinance is that vehicles having a carrying capacity of more than seven persons will not be allowed to stand as various stations as heretofore, but will be compelled to line up along Central Park on Hill street between Fifth and Sixth, or get outside of the business district. This has caused considerable resentment among the owners of this class of machines, (sightseers) as they consider themselves discriminated against.

The Board of Police Commissioners has the right to revoke any permit, which it is expected will have a decided tendency to reduce the number of public machines engaged in nefarious work, this having caused the police department considerable trouble in the past. Practically all crooked work, wherein automobiles have featured, has been traced to public passenger-carrying machines.

It is the intention of the traffic department under Lieut. Butler, to allow a reasonable time for the securing of these permits, and then to rigidly enforce the law upon those failing to comply with requirements.

A BOOK THAT SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOME.

The remarkable offering of The Los Angeles Times of the famous song book entitled "Heart Songs" should interest every Times reader. The book contains 400 of the world's greatest songs, and never before has sold for less than $2.50 per copy. For a limited time, however, this splendid book can be obtained by Times readers for 98 cents (by mail, 10 cents extra for postage,) the bare cost of distribution, and one coupon clipped from the daily or Sunday Times. One of the coupons is printed elsewhere in this issue.

"Heart Songs" is not a mere collection of music and words, but it is a song book with a soul. Every song in this wonderful book has had some sacred memory, some touching experience, some sweet and hallowed association connected with it in the hearts of thousands. It is their song of joy—of sorrow—of thanksgiving—of love—of bereavement—of all the tender sentiments that lift the human heart in worship to its maker.

It is for this by inspiration that this unique volume is entitled "Heart Songs."

Already more than 100,000 copies of this unique volume have gone into the homes of the people of the United States at the publisher's retail price of $2.50 per volume. The merits of the book are such that the sales are steadily on the increase, and in the ordinary course of business the book will obtain an enormous circulation.

"Heart Songs" is one of the great books of the century. It will charm, entertain and instruct every member of the family. It has 500 large pages including over 400 selections, words and music, and is now being distributed by The Times to its friends and readers at a nominal price.

The book is now on display at The Times main and branch offices, First and Broadway and No. 619 South Spring street, where additional information can be obtained relative to this splendid offer.

PROTECTION FOR THE CANAL.

Chamber of Commerce Representative Assured of Governmental Vigilance in Imperial Valley.

Willis H. Booth, who is in Washington representing the Chamber of Commerce with reference to protecting the Imperial Valley water system, has been given assurance that adequate precautions against depredations on Mexican territory will be taken.

A telegram received yesterday by the chamber from Booth says that Gen. Marshall, acting for the Secretary of the Interior, has left Yuma for the Imperial Valley to supervise work on the Alamo River and to aid in safeguarding the system.

being fired in twenty seconds; skirmish fire, in which the targets are silhouettes, representing kneeling and prone men, starting at 600 yards and advancing on the target with a fixed number of rounds to be fired at each halt, those at the 200 and 300-yard firing points being five rounds in twenty and thirty seconds respectively.

So are established the grades of efficiency in marksmanship, these being, first, expert riflemen; second, sharpshooters, and third, marksmen. The expert riflemen consist of men who have successfully completed the marksman's and sharpshooter's courses and have finally passed the most difficult test of all. The Marine Corps is proud of its present remarkable showing in having 44 per cent. of its personnel qualified in one of these three classes.

The Marine Corps was organized in 1775, is the oldest branch of the military service, and has an unbroken record of continuous victories on land and sea in every war in which the United States has been engaged.

AN OLD-WORLD MARCH.

As early as 1803, the marines made an astonishing march from Alexandria across 600 miles of the desert of Northern Africa, stormed the fortifications of Derne, and, for the first time in history, unfurled the Star-Spangled flag of the new republic over a fortress of the old world. In commemoration of this brilliant achievement, the word "Tripoli" was inscribed on the banners of the Marine Corps and its officers still wear the coveted sword of highest honor, the Mameluke hilt with the ivory grip and its golden guard, the sword of the Mamelukes, those fighting men of Egypt, who supported them in this dire campaign.

The Atlantic fleet has recently been engaged in winter maneuvers in the West Indies. This has been advance base work with particular reference to the defense of Panama and the meeting of a powerful enemy in those waters. Two regiments of marines have taken part in it and have demonstrated their ability to meet difficult situations. On the island of Culebra, for instance, that advance base farthest to the east at the end of Porto Rico, they landed an expedition in the surf, scrambled up precipitous cliffs where there was not even a bush, drilled holes in which were placed bolts as a basis for the attachment of blocks and tackle, and pulled their field guns over the cliffs and were ready for an expedition inland. These maneuvers called forth particularly hearty approval from Admiral Badger, who was commander-in-chief of the forces in West Indian waters. It also called attention to the commander of the marines, Col. George Barnett, and, largely because of the showing he made, he has since been raised to the grade of Major-General, commandant of the Marine Corps, the highest rank in the service.

"WAR POLICY" OF WORKS BOARD.

SOLDIERS TO GET LEAVE OF ABSENCE WITH PAY.

Indefinite Conge Granted Col. Schreiber in Order that He May Perform Military Duties—Similar Action to Be Taken on Other Department Employees Who Go.

The Board of Public Works yesterday established its "war policy" in regard to what steps shall be taken in the cases of employees of departments under the jurisdiction of this board who go to the front for military service. Such men will be given indefinite leaves of absence and will be continued on the pay rolls, subject to approval of the Civil Service Commission.

The precedent was set when the board granted to Col. W. G. Schreiber an indefinite leave of absence. Schreiber was called a few days ago to take National Guards to Calexico. No action providing for his leave of absence was taken at that time.

Later, Secretary Dee of the Civil Service was called into conference with the Board of Public Works and the proposed policy was discussed. This was followed by yesterday's action. Col. Schreiber is to be continued on the city's pay rolls during his absence.

There are eight men in the departments under control of the board who are subject to military call. In case there is a call for volunteers, it is probable that many others may respond. President Handley and Commissioner O'Brien yesterday declared themselves as being in favor of continuing every one of these men on the city's pay rolls during their absence, if possible, and having their places open for them when they return.

"I feel that it is little enough for the city to do to carry these men on the rolls while they are offering their lives to the country," said Commissioner O'Brien. "They do not get large salaries here and certainly the pay they receive as soldiers will not compensate them for the offer of their lives for the sake of their country."

Col. Schreiber is the head of the Bureau of Opening and Widening. His chief deputy is Maj. R. I. Follmer, who is chief of staff for Gen. Wankowski, and subject to call at any time. Should Maj. Follmer be called to the front, the chief deputyship would devolve upon Ernest E. Day.

The subject will be before the Civil Service Commission next Tuesday, at which time it is also probable that the same proposal as applied to the police department will be considered. It is also probable that the Council tomorrow will consider the subject of making these provisions applicable to all city employees.

O Corn-Less Joy! "GETS-IT" for Corns

Nothing in the World Can Beat It for Corns and Callouses.

Now try the different way, the new way, the absolutely sure way, the painless way of getting rid of those corns that have pestered the life and soul out of you for such a long time. Drop everything else and use "GETS-IT." A few drops applied in a few seconds does the work. Useless junk, like flesh-eating salves that make corns swell, cotton rings that make corns stand up like pop-eyes, razors, corn diggers, scissors and files that make corns grow faster, are all done for. "GETS-IT" is a new principle; makes corns shrivel, vanish! It can't stick to the stocking, or hurt the flesh.

"I Feel Like Hugging Somebody. My Corns Are Gone At Last. 'GETS-IT' Did It."

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"GETS-IT" is sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Co.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

ADROIT COMBINATION.

Los Angeles High School Boys Do Military Drill With Their Clean-up Rakes, Hoes, Shovels.

An unusually skillful combination of the two principal local points of interest of the week—the war against the Mexicans and the war against the dirt—is that of the Los Angeles High School, where the boys are going through a sort of modified manual of arms with their hoes, rakes and shovels for muskets.

Armed with their clean-up implements, a large squad of boys marches about the grounds in column of fours, those of the rear rank dropping out to fall upon weed patches and debris at the command of their leader, Brigade Commander Will McCune. As a result of their efficiency the "school on the hill" is in an absolutely spotless condition.

A great part of the work took place in the old city cemetery, behind the school, where immense piles of brick were removed in the twinkling of an eye by the zealous soldiers.

Books were forgotten that the looks of the school might be improved and from the appearance of things studies will progress the more rapidly because of the betterment of the students' environment.

No Alliance.

WILL NOT JOIN WITH HUERTA.

CARRANZA SO TELEGRAPHS TO LOCAL CONSUL.

One of Two Messages Says Constitutionalist Chief Is Negotiating With Washington and Has Declared that He Will Not Fight Against United States.

Gen. Carranza, chief of the Constitutionalist army in Mexico, does not intend to fight the United States, according to the cipher messages he has been sending his local representative, Consul Adolfo Carrillo. Three telegrams were received here yesterday from the first chief of the Constitutionalist cause.

The first of these announced that Gen. Carranza is negotiating with Washington regarding the present fighting between the United States troops and the forces of Huerta and declaring that he will not take sides with that dictator.

In the second telegram he absolutely disclaims all hostility that has been reported between himself and Villa because of differences in personal opinions on matters pertaining to the campaign of the Constitutionalists against the Federalists.

The final message is directed to the Constitutional troops along the border, demanding that they refrain from all exhibition of hostility toward the United States soldiers or citizens, and they use utmost care in not infringing on American property rights. Further than that, he asks that Consul Carrillo call upon all Mexicans residing around and in Los Angeles to remain law-abiding and friendly, declaring that there is no war between this nation and the "real" Mexico.

Consul Carrillo used every possible means of dissemminating this advice among the constituents yesterday afternoon, sending messengers to various parts of the city to speak to the Mexicans.

To Determine.

WHETHER GUARDSMEN SHALL BE WITHDRAWN.

BRIG.-GEN. ROBERT WANKOWSKI, commander of the First Brigade, N.G.C., left last night for Calexico to inspect the Southern California border and assist Adjt.-Gen. Forbes in determining whether the State troops now on duty there shall be withdrawn.

Gen. Wankowski arrived yesterday morning from Sacramento and passed the day at brigade headquarters, making arrangements for occupation of the Exposition Park Armory and bringing up details connected with the recent movement of troops to the front.

No further movements of State troops are contemplated at present, as far as Gen. Wankowski is informed of Gen. Forbes's intentions, but the inspection of northern organizations, just completed, shows that they are in readiness.

Maj. Follmer, brigade adjutant, accompanies his commander on the trip of inspection. The party may go direct from Imperial Valley to San Diego, following as nearly as possible the international boundary, or may travel by rail, according to developments.

No length of stay is assured, but conditions seem to presage an early return of local guardsmen to their quarters, the regular troops being now gathered in some force along the line.

Gen. Wankowski expresses no opinion upon this point, however, stating that he is entering upon no argument with the regular officers, but is expected to help decide for himself and Gen. Forbes the apparent necessities of State use of the militia.

Approximately 900 regular troops are now stationed along the lines of Imperial and San Diego counties.

GUARD ACTIVE IN RECRUITING.

RAISING ORGANIZATION HERE TO WAR STRENGTH.

Troop D Commander Ordered to Secure Options on Horses—Only Experienced Men Picked for Cavalry—Naval Militia Agog With Rumor They May Soon Be Active.

Recruiting to war strength is being carried on by Capt. James Gunn of Troop D, Cavalry, and by the Seventh and Eighth divisions, Naval Militia, N.G.C., under command respectively of Lieut. Ray W. Clark and Lieut. George E. Link.

Commencing with this week, practically all official work is to be conducted at the Exposition Park armory, the old armory at Eighth and Spring streets being vacated for delivery to the owner on Wednesday.

Capt. Gunn yesterday received orders from Maj. S. W. McKay, squadron commander, to recruit his troop to war strength and locate horses in full preparation for service, the new enlistments to be on the understanding that the men may be dropped from the roster if not called into service.

Capt. Gunn has 110 head of horses under option and is receiving previous service men as recruits. No inexperienced men are accepted and ex-cavalrymen are preferred to soldiers of other arms.

Sixty enlistments may be accepted for the troop, if applicants are of perfect qualifications.

Both divisions of the Naval Militia are to be brought up to 108 men each, raw recruits being acceptable if they meet all other requirements.

While the cavalry preparations are merely precautionary, there is a current of comment whispered among the naval militiamen that they may soon be on the water.

Guns for the machine gun company of the Seventh Regiment are expected tomorrow via the Santa Fe. The lack of this equipment kept a platoon at home while their comrades went to the front last week.

FLAG PRESENTATION.

Veterans of Stanton Post Give Handsome Flag to Daughters of American Revolution.

Stanton Post, G.A.R., and Woman's Relief Corps, at a meeting held Friday night and attended by many of their friends, presented to the Hollywood chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, a handsome flag, a delegation of the chapter being present to receive it. The presentation address was made by Willis M. Sapp, commander of the post, and the response was by Mrs. H. T. Wright, on behalf of the complimented organization. Among those who made brief addresses following the presentation, were A. S. Shafer, Johnstone Jones, J. S. Wilson, Dr. G. C. Somers, J. W. Dolan and Sydney Butler.

TO SAVE EYES

Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try It If Your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles, because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist who would, any way, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use:

5 grains Optona. (1 Tablet.)
2 ounces Water.

Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription keeps the eyes clean and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation. Weak, watery, work-strained eyes, granular lids and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many who wear glasses have discarded them after using it for a few weeks. It is good for the eyes, and will not injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. The Owl Drug Company or any other druggist can fill this prescription promptly. Try it, and know for once what real eye comfort is.

ITCHING ECZEMA SOMETHING FIERCE

Covered Face. Ashamed to Go Away from Home. Broke Out as Rash. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Etna Green, Ind.—"When but a young girl my face broke out with eczema and kept getting worse. I was ashamed to go away from home. The trouble broke out as a rash and covered the most of my face, especially the chin and cheeks. The itching and burning were something fierce causing me to rub it which caused it to spread. When out in the wind the burning was worse than ever.

"I tried ——— and Ointment without the desired effect. I had suffered with it for several years until finally I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them for a month or more I could feel a great change in my face. I continued using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for a year and was entirely cured." (Signed) Mrs. Ruby Sponseller, June 13, 1913.

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

☞Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

The Home Beauty Parlor

by Betty Dean

Mrs. A. T. B.: You are not shampooing often enough and may not use the best shampoo. Try my favorite, which is canthrox—just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and rub briskly as you pour it on the hair and scalp. This makes an abundance of rich, cleansing lather that is very soothing to tender, itchy scalps. Rinsing leaves the scalp immaculately clean, and each strand of hair will be soft, shimmery and full of health. Canthrox shampoos are splendid for correcting unnatural conditions, such as excessive oiliness, dryness or profuse dandruff. I like its drying qualities too.

Mrs. G.: The symptoms you describe, pains and aches in the limbs and small of back, loss of appetite, lack of strength and ambition are danger signals—warnings your blood is laden with poisons which will cause serious sickness if not eliminated from the system. The kardene tonic of grandmother's day is excellent to use and can be prepared at home at little cost by dissolving ½ cupful sugar and 1 ounce kardene (which you can get at your drug store) in ¼ pint alcohol (not whiskey) to which is then added hot water to make a full quart. A tablespoonful before meals is the dose. The timely use of this tonic frequently saves serious ills.

Mazie: Yes, you can cure you weak, watery eyes with a soothing, healing, strengthening eye tonic which can be made at little cost by dissolving an ounce of crystos in 1 pint clear water. If you will put 2 or 3 drops in each eye daily, it will relieve the inflammation and soreness and reduce swelling. This crystos tonic is especially fine to make the eyes sparkle and give them expression.

Society Girl: Here is that weight-reducing treatment which she told you would work without danger or inconvenience: Put 4 ounces parnotis (which you can obtain at any drug store), in 1½ pints hot water. Strain when cold, take 1 tablespoonful before meals. Keep up treatment until weight is sufficiently reduced. Parnotis is gentle in action and positive in results and leaves the flesh and skin firm and smooth.

Girlie: It is easy to make an inexpensive hair tonic at home by mixing 1 ounce quinzoin with ½ pint alcohol, then adding ½ pint water. The scalp should be massaged once or twice a week with this quinzoin tonic. Its regular use will quickly banish the dry, scaly condition and correct excessive oiliness, and when this is done the natural color and silky softness returns and the hair will grow in long and thick and have a beautiful sheen.

Marge: Friends tell me I have every reason to be proud of my complexion, which is the result of discarding powder and using spurmax lotion. This is inexpensive and easily made at home—I just dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel or hot water, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, and it is ready. I apply this lotion sparingly and rub lightly for a moment until it dries and seems to become a part of the skin, to which it gives a velvety smoothness and refined color that is delightful.

O. T.: The wrinkles of which you speak will soon vanish if you apply almozoin cream-jelly and massage the long way of the creases. This simple treatment tends to vivify the dormant tissues, causing the creases or lines to fill out. To prepare the cream-jelly, put 1 ounce almozoin (which you can get at your drug store) in ½ pint water and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Let remain over night before using. As a skin-cleanser and beautifier this greaseless cream-jelly is not equaled.

We Will—We Must Sell Pianos—Surely Those Are Piano Bargains!

SALE

Closing-out Sale of 100 beautiful Pianos and Players starts tomorrow morning at the PLATT MUSIC CO. store, 312 West 7th, near Broadway.

Piano prices turned topsy-turvy—$10 cash down and as little as $5.00 cash down will take a piano to your home. But we need the money—yes, we do.

Listen—

We Want Our Money Back

We want the money back for these pianos on good contracts, one or the other within a very short space of time. We are not going out of business, dear friends—no indeed! quite a long ways from it. We hope to be in business at least half a century longer or more—but there is a reason why we want our money back. There is a reason why, beginning next Monday morning there will be placed on the market one hundred beautiful pianos at prices hewed down lower than you ever dreamed of paying for guaranteed quality pianos. These pianos must be sold regardless of profit. Profit is not an important item with us now. We will—we must sell pianos. The President of our Company has just returned from a special trip to Chicago, and while there closed a deal at the mammoth Kimball factories for a solid trainload of artistic Kimball pianos—player pianos—baby grand pianos and Kimball pipe organs.

Our warerooms in the future will be the home of Kimball products and in order to make room to take care of the new acquisition to our already well-established line.

We Will—We Must Sell Pianos.

Cash is an object to us now—We need the money and will cut still deeper to those who can pay all cash.

Go straight to the Platt Music Company's store next Monday morning.

These are happy piano harvest days for you, Mr. Piano Buyer—you cannot afford to wait—the time has come when we must sell. The time has come for you to buy. Bring along $5.00—$10.00—$15.00 or $20.00 to pay cash down, if you cannot pay all cash just now. Remember, every piano and player must be sold without reserve and includes the entire assortment, of new and used pianos, embracing Bush & Gerts, Weber, Steinway, H. P. Nelson, Mason & Hamlin, Fisher, Wagner, Chickering, Hardman, Straube, Haines Brothers and Ellington makes at closing-out prices—Beginning at $62.00, $92.00, $114.00, $127.00, $143.00, $168.00, $198.00, $239.00, $256.00, $298.00, etc.

"California 1915."

SHRINERS TO CAMPAIGN FOR STATE IN THE EAST.

Splendid Special Train Will Carry Party Armed With Raisins, Oranges, Fruits, Flowers and Literature Through Fifty-seven Cities—Will Work to Bring the Imperial Council to San Francisco Next Year.

CALIFORNIA Shriners are eager to start on their campaign of fifty-seven cities of the United States April 30, when four steel special trains from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland and San Diego will carry Islam, Al Malaikah, Aahmes and Al Bahr Temples across the continent in a siege of the hearts of men and women who have never been to the land of golden opportunity and a future.

A carload of raisins, another of oranges, another of fruit and flowers and another of a booklet in three colors presenting without advertising the advantages of the fifty-seven counties of the State, will be carried on the tour for free distribution at the concerts given by the $10,000,000 band, four patrols, chanters and soloists in each of the American cities, where receptions are being planned for the Californians.

The tour will cost over $15,000.

Two objects of attack are planned by the Shriners. First, to win the 1915 session of the Imperial Council of Mystic Shrine for San Francisco, fair year, when they arrive at Atlanta for the 1914 session, with Seattle a strong rival. Second, to interest the country in "California 1915."

It will be the first time that the Californians will mass together from the different cities with one purpose and one slogan, "California 1915."

It is estimated that the 1915 session of the Imperial Council will bring 50,000 additional visitors to the State fair year who will spend over $2,000,000, to say nothing of the many who will return later to make their homes here or start industries of a nature favorable in California or, in other words, all lines of industries.

SPLENDID SPECIAL.

Clarence Haydock of the Illinois Central Railroad, master of transportation, states it will be the largest and best-equipped special train that has ever crossed the continent.

Each section will carry a dynamo and baggage cars, diners, observation car, Pullmans, publicity car and a specially-appointed entertainment car.

The great special steel train will leave California in four divisions.

In the day, each section will play "I Love You, California" on its steam calliope, while at night, besides the calliope, "California 1915" will blaze out in electricity through the night's blackness here and there, speaking a welcome to some lonely, farm-weary traveler returning to his home along the country road.

It is understood that the $10,000,000 band of 120 pieces, with its half-a-million-dollar horn player, million-dollar cornetist, and one of the most brilliant lawyers in the State beating rhythm on a bass drum, is the wealthiest, as well as largest, musical organization that has ever been in tour.

It will be under the direction of George Bennett, band master of the Spanish-American War, unless he again goes to the front, in which case William Deeble, Al Malaikah Temple, will assume the direction.

The Al Malaikah chanters of Los Angeles are a company of male singers recently organized and at the conclave of America's Shriners in Atlanta will come in sharp competition with the Moolah chanters from St. Louis for first honors. Its officers are J. W. Jump, president; R. A. Forsyth, secretary; E. W. Reider, librarian; W. D. Deeble, director.

ZOUAVES TO DRILL.

The famous crack zouave patrol of Islam Temple, San Francisco, under the captaincy of Capt. Wilside, will give a spectacular military drill at all of the Shriners' entertainments with the Al Malaikah chanters, monster band and soloists.

Of the three-color, sixty-four page booklet on the fifty-seven counties of the State, Marco Hellman of the 700,000 Boosters' Club, has spoken very highly. And H. E. Huntington states, "I like it because you have eliminated all advertising, because it is impartial in its descriptive matter, covers our industries and products of every section and because it has devoted so much space to our historical landmarks, the old California missions. Surely tons of this printed matter placed in the hands of intelligent people will bear fruit." Fifteen tons of this booklet, which is pocket size and on elegant stock, will be given to those interested in the fifty-seven cities of the trip.

The "California 1915 Executive Committee" in charge of the tour are: Director, F. B. Silverwood, Al Malaikah Temple, Los Angeles; Motley H. Flint, vice-chairman and past potentate, Al Malaikah Temple; Casmir J. Wood, secretary and treasurer, Islam Temple, San Francisco; Potentate George Filmer, Islam Temple; Potentate Leo V. Youngworth, Al Malaikah Temple; Potentate George S. Meredith, Aahmes Temple, Oakland; Potentate Carl Heilbron, Al Bahr Temple, San Diego; Past Imperial Potentate Charles L. Field, Islam Temple, San Francisco; Past Imperial Potentate Fred Hines, Al Malaikah Temple, Los Angeles; Clarence Haydock, master of transportation, Islam Temple, San Francisco.

ENTERTAINMENT PLANNED.

At Kansas City 15,000 people are promised by Kansas City Shriners to fill the great convention hall for the California Shriners' concert after a banquet is given there.

A boat ride and luncheon on board is promised by Moslem Temple of Detroit, with a spectacular drill at Belle Isle, a concert by the Western Shriners, and the day is set aside in Detroit as "California Day."

Moolah Temple of St. Louis will give a Dutch luncheon, banquet, grand military parade and in turn enjoy the musical treat from California at the huge Coliseum.

May 6 will see the Shriners' four steel sections steam into the station at Niagara Falls, where they will stay during the morning and be taken to Buffalo for a dinner and concert in the afternoon.

Gov. Glynn will meet them at Albany in the Executive Mansion.

Parades and concerts and receptions are to be the programme at Rochester.

Mecca Temple, the mother Temple, will unbutton the welcome of the metropolis for them, and present them to the Mayor of New York at the City Hall on May 8. A grand military parade along Fifth avenue and a military concert in Columbus Circle at night will be given.

The California Shriners will march down Pennsylvania avenue escorted by the various organizations of Washington, D. C., and serenade President Wilson and Admiral Dewey with F. B. Silverwood's song for the State, "I Love You California."

Richmond will greet them in a way appropriate on May 10 and a little while later Atlanta will extend her greetings to the Shriners, who will be given the places of honor at the great conclave of American fezzes.

Drugless Physicians Now Want to Amend the Law and Make Themselves Doctors.

Dr. George D. Gillespie of San Francisco, State president of the American Association of Drugless Physicians, is in the city in the interest of the referendum to amend the law passed by the last State Legislature, prohibiting drugless physicians from practicing in the State. He delivered an address in the interest of the movement last evening at Mercantile Hall.

"Aside from the Chinese herb doctors and other quacks, there have been nineteen men arrested in California under the new law," Dr. Gillespie said last night. "More of us have not been arrested for the reason that the State found that it was too expensive to convict us. We think that the law is unjust and unconstitutional. We are making a strong effort to have it modified."

Beverly Hills Takes Legal Steps Against Continuing Work on Pipe Line Through Cold Water Canyon.

Alleging that the city is constructing and maintaining its Franklin Canyon pipe line through Cold Water Canyon Road without a franchise, the city of Beverly Hills filed suit against the city, the Board of Public Service Commissioners and Chief Engineer Mulholland yesterday, asking the court to issue a restraining order and later a perpetual injunction.

O'Melveny, Stevens & Millikin, who filed the complaint, applied to acting Presiding Judge Morrison for the restraining order, but he refused, as to do so would in effect tie up several hundred men who are employed on the work.

Judge Morrison issued an order to show cause, returnable before Judge Works tomorrow morning.

SCHOOL HOLDS EXHIBIT.

A brilliant bazaar was Main-street school Friday, with its exhibit of dainty garments and spring hats made by the sewing classes, its groups of bright-hued water colors adorning the walls, its huge nosegays of flowers decorating every possible nook and corner and swinging from the ceiling in the dainty hanging baskets made by the crafts class. Interesting also was the collection of artistic objects made by the wood sloyd classes. All day a stream of visitors poured through the rooms, and in the evening the school orchestra played, Miss Butterfield sang and E. J. Lickley spoke on "The School Bonds." Miss Blanche McCormack superintended the sewing exhibit, Miss Mabel Johnson led the orchestra and Mrs. Shea supervised the crafts work.

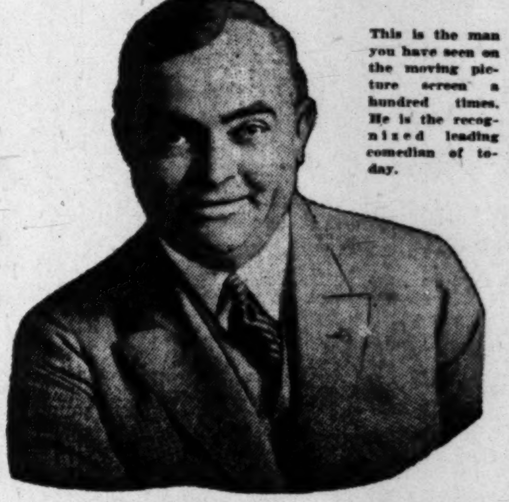
Mr. Fred Mace "doffs his hat" to you in this announcement and tells you how to make a real moving picture of himself to amuse the children with. Read the instructions—

The border of this advertisement is a reproduction of a short film for which Mr. Mace posed yesterday. To make an actual moving picture of Mr. Mace, first get some strong paper and cut it in pieces 1½ inches wide by 2 inches deep. Then cut out the border, take picture No. 1, paste it at the top of a piece of paper, then No. 2, and so on until you get to the last picture. When all the pasting is done set the pictures one behind the other and fasten them at the bottom over the plain paper with a stiff rubber band. Hold the pack in your left hand and with your right hand snap back quickly. In this way you will see Mr. Mace take off his hat and replace it.

Fred Mace, whose fame as a moving picture comedian is world-wide, offers to you an extraordinary investment opportunity—



This is the man you have seen on the moving picture screen a hundred times. He is the recognized leading comedian of today.

While business statisticians tell us that the moving picture business is today fifth among the world's industries, they also say that it is only just begun to find itself. In other words, men who know tell us that the moving picture industry has only just begun its real growth. Now, the time to put money into a new form of investment is at the beginning—so that you can realize all the profit which accrues from it. We believe this new company enters upon its career at a most opportune moment. We believe that within a short time we shall be numbered among the greatest film-producing concerns in the world. We sincerely believe that in offering the general public an opportunity to participate in our future activities we are putting a stupendous money-making chance in their way.

Here are the reasons why the FRED MACE FEATURE FILM CO., INC., desires to sell a small amount of its treasury stock to a wide circle of small investors. You will be interested

But a small amount of our stock will be sold—as soon as the necessary money is obtained not another share will be offered.

This is not a stock selling campaign where the subscriptions go to promoters—but an honest endeavor to raise a small amount of money that will be used in the interest of every stock holder. We invite the most searching investigation of our methods.

Mr. Fred Mace, one of the foremost comedians in the film business, has been incorporated under the name of Fred Mace Feature Film Company, Inc. Mr. Mace is now the head of the company that is actually producing pictures right now. But in this business, as in every other, an amount of capital is needed to tide over the development period. Several weeks must be devoted to producing the first films without any financial returns, and to those who are willing to provide money to meet our present operating expenses a limited amount of stock will be offered. Remember, we are not asking you to invest in a concern that has not yet begun operations. We are right now producing two pictures a week that are being sent to markets that have already been developed. We have orders for 20,000 feet of film per week from London, England, and we are now negotiating with many other exchanges to be supplied in the near future. We have leased a splendidly equipped studio and work will go forward with all energy and progress. We need money in order to increase the output. We need money to finance our operations until we begin to get returns on films that are actually sold to responsible exchanges and in course of production.

This Picture Shows Fred Mace in His Great Comedy Character, "One-Round O'Brien"—a Film Estimated to Have Made $70,000 For Its Producers.

If you have ever seen Mr. Fred Mace in his great comedy conception, "One-Round O'Brien," you will think yourself fortunate in being asked to come into this business with him. "One-Round O'Brien" has been made into 600 separate reels or 600,000 feet of film. We estimate that the producers have already received $70,000 in cash and it is still selling. We want you to have a financial interest in every one of Mr. Mace's future pictures.

This is a going concern; remember we are making and marketing films right now. We need more money for expansion.

This Company is headed by one of the most successful, versatile and accomplished film artists in the world. Mr. Fred Mace has been connected with many of the leading producers and all will admit that his personality has been the largest factor in their success. Pictures in which Mr. Mace appears and directs are in demand not alone in the United States, but all over the world. There is no question about finding the market for our pictures—that is already secured. Our problem now is to raise sufficient money to fill these orders and to increase our facilities in anticipation of a still greater demand. We want it distinctly understood that this is a going concern, headed by a motion picture artist and manager of international reputation, whose success is your success.

The motion picture industry stands at the top as a money maker.

—A bid of $4000 was recently made for a single share of the stock of one company.

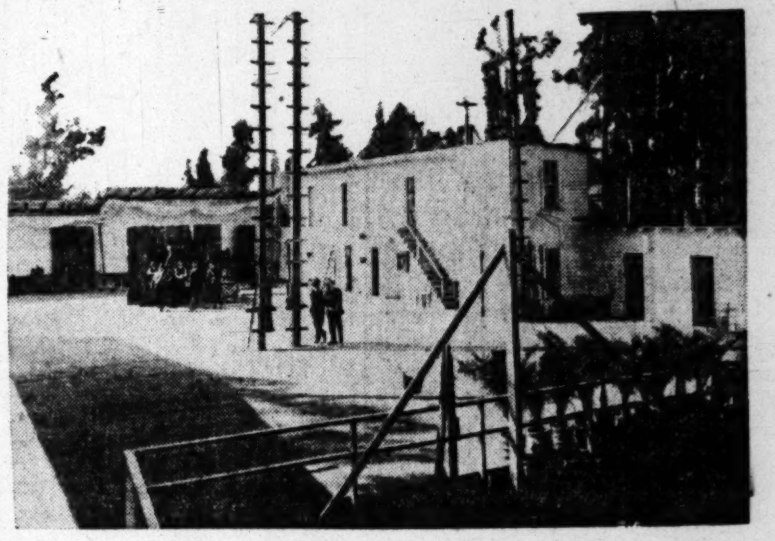
When you realize that the American public is paying five hundred million dollars a year for admission to the moving picture theaters you will appreciate why shares in the various producing companies have reached such enormous values. Read these two clippings:—

"The gross takings of the General Film Company last year were over $30,000,000. The major portion of this sum was paid out to the various manufacturers releasing through the G. F. Agency. (A bid of $4000 was recently made for a single share of stock.")—From "Variety" of April 3rd.

"Stocks of some of the companies are understood to have sold higher than $2000 a share. Dividends at the rate of 12 to 24 per cent. are being paid on a number of the stocks. The Mutual Film Corporation, when organized a few years ago, earned $300,000 a year. It now earns $7,000,000. The common stock is on a 12 per cent. yearly dividend basis. The preferred pays 7 per cent., payable quarterly."—From "New York Financial Bulletin."

Shares Now $1 — Par Value

We are now offering to the general public a very limited quantity of our Treasury stock at $1.00 per share. These shares may be taken in blocks of fifty or more. While we have set no limit on the amount any person may purchase, yet at the same time we greatly desire to make as wide a distribution of the stock as possible.



A View of the Stage at Our Big Plant.

This picture shows a section of the large stage at our thoroughly equipped plant in Los Angeles. We believe this to be the most thoroughly equipped motion picture plant in America. We shall greatly appreciate an opportunity to show you over this plant—you will find the experience extremely interesting and instructive.

As we have set a very low limit to the amount of stock we shall sell, we urge you to see us immediately.

So successful has been our efforts to sell the stock of this company that it can only be a short time when this opportunity will be withdrawn. If you have some ready money—even as little as $50—you should consider investing with us. Our entire scheme of operations is yours to investigate. We want you to come and let us tell you all about ourselves—what we have done and what are our plans for the future.

CROOKED MEASURES USED BY PEDDLERS.

Fruit Inspector Finds Cheating Popular With Wagon Men Who Retail Fruits and Vegetables, and No Law to Prevent Practice of Fooling Housewives — How Fakery Is Carried on Openly.

BEHOLD the battered bucket in the hands of the "buzzard" peddler. It is filled with oranges, big ones on top, small, blighted oranges on the bottom, maybe, but nevertheless oranges. And the whole bucketful for 10 cents!

Think of a heaping bucketful of oranges for a dime! Take this same heaping bucketful of oranges, dump them into a new, undented bucket of the same size, and instead of a heap of golden fruit rising from the rim of the bucket, what do you see?

Nothing! The oranges, transferred from the battered bucket to the new, sound bucket, do not fill the latter at all. The reason is that the battered bucket held up for display by the huckster to invite sales has been purposely dented inward. And every dent reduces the cubic contents of the bucket. The more dents, the smaller the interior of the bucket, and the smaller the interior the less number of oranges required to fill it.

But to all appearances, there is a bucketful of oranges. Housewives don't ordinarily notice the dents in a galvanized bucket belonging to someone else. If they insist in future that their oranges be measured in undented buckets they will get more oranges.

The battered bucket is one of the oldest tricks in the trade of the peddler, but the American people dote on being fooled and the oftener they are tricked the better they like it. Indeed, it is an established fact that housewives aid and abet the practice of obtaining money under false pretense by being so lax in their acceptance of any old thing the peddler wants to get rid of.

HOUSEWIFE LOSES.

The housewife is an amateur bartering with a professional of long experience. She knows not the significance of the dents in the bucket, she is unfamiliar with the "stove-piping" of potatoes, the "facing" of strawberries and cherries and other fruits; she has not been schooled in the art of placing cleats in lug boxes, nor does she understand the meaning of a hastily-sewed rip down the side of a sack of potatoes. If some one started to explain to her the theory of the "pony" orange box she wouldn't understand.

But the peddler understands all these things and more, and he makes a margin of profit from his knowledge.

The large wholesale markets at Sixth and Alameda streets and at Ninth and San Pedro streets are distributing centers for practically all the fruits and vegetables sold in Los Angeles, including the municipal markets and the different cities and towns in the southwest. At certain seasons of the year every State in the Union receives produce of some kind from these markets.

ECONOMIC WASTE.

It is conservatively stated by dealers and growers that $30,000,000 worth of produce is handled on these two markets each year.

Now, it is calculated that 95 per cent of the produce consumed in Los Angeles is shipped in by rail from outside points, while 90 to 95 per cent. of the produce grown nearby is shipped through the city to other points for consumption. Can you beat that for economic waste?

It all means a loss owing to careful selection of first-grade produce for shipment and sorting over of produce received after being in the market for some time. Much inferior grade produce goes to waste owing to limited commercial demand, which if used in time would make good, wholesome food. Here is a lass early estimated at 20 per cent.

In other words, only .5 per cent. of the produce grown in and near Los Angeles is consumed here, while the remaining 95 per cent. of the consumption comes from elsewhere. This is the calculation of Frank W. Mefferd, city fruit and vegetable inspector, and he is backed up by leading produce men.

One thousand wagons each morning pass into the two public markets, load up with fruits and vegetables and pass out to various parts of the city, where the bell, the horn or the unintelligible voice of the huckster starts housewives from their washing or breakfast dishes to an inspection of the day's offerings. Mrs. Housekeeper of Los Angeles daily buys ten cars of potatoes, twenty cars of green vegetables, five cars of apples, four cars of bananas, twenty cars of deciduous fruits in season, five cars of citrus fruits and three cars of eggs, with other produce in proportion. Not all of this, of course, is peddled by the "buzzard" from his queer-looking wagon. This includes sales at groceries and other markets, but it all goes through the public markets, where it passes under inspection.

TRICKERY AND INJUSTICE.

To subject the biggest part of all this fortune of fruit and produce to a system of trickery and deception on the part of peddlers, seems to be a howling injustice. Yet inspection doesn't reach the situation. In fact, there are so many ways of beating inspectors, either before or after the produce passes through the market, that it is impossible to lift the peddler out of his habit of putting it over the dear public.

If the housewife cared to exercise her right and refuse to buy a bucketful of oranges if the bucket is dented, she would soon put a stop to this practice. She would show the "buzzard" she is wise.

The Japanese gardener is said to be the originator of the scheme of "stovepiping spuds." He sets a stovepipe in the center of an empty burlap sack. Around this pipe he fills big, solid potatoes, so that all sides of the sack show the actual size of the "spuds" within. Then he dumps potatoes ranging from the size of a pea to a good-sized marble into the stovepipe in the center. Having filled the center of the sack with tiny potatoes, he pulls out the pipe, places a layer of large potatoes on top and sews up the bag. It is sold for "sorted" potatoes and the fraud is never detected until the bag is ripped open by the retailer or by the housewife.

"PONY" BOXES.

A buyer who is not wise in the arts and crafts of the men, who make a living handling fruits and vegetables could not distinguish an ordinary orange box from a "pony" box, unless he happened to be schooled along that particular line. The ordinary orange box holds 126 oranges of fair size. Small oranges run about 150 to the box. Manufacturers make "pony" boxes that hold 126, instead of 150 of the small oranges and about 100 instead of 126 of the larger ones. This deception is hard to detect, and for that reason "pony" boxes are in demand.

Inspector Mefferd tried to bring about a conviction of a dealer who "faced" his cherries in such a manner that a palpable fraud was worked on the public. This dealer, who has a fruitstand, purchased four cases of cherries at the market. Three of them were the very small cherries. The fourth box was large, selected fruit. The dealer built a pyramid on his stand of the small fruit and then dumped the box of luscious, large, inviting cherries over it. This veneer attracted buyers, but the dealer merely raked the small fruit from the bottom of the pyramid at every sale. He was arrested and beat the case in court.

Take a "lug box" and empty it of its contents. If this box doesn't contain cleats about the rectangular sides, interior, it is probably an honest box. These cleats, supposedly set inside to strengthen the box, are actually put there to reduce the contents of the receptacle.

"I wish to call your attention to the strawberries that are now coming into the market," writes an irate subscriber. "The growers of same should be oliged to put the same quality of fruit in the bottom of the box as on top."

Now, there is no law that will reach this habit of obtaining money by false pretense. If it so happens that the strawberries underneath the inviting veneer are spoiled, then the dealer may be prosecuted for the sale, but how many housewives take a 5-cent box of strawberries back to her grocer or to her peddler with the complaint that a few of them were rotten? The housewife expects to be cheated with "faced" strawberries if she does not have the shrewdness to inspect the fruit all the way down to the bottom of the box, which she has a perfect right to do.

The dealer who caters to the discriminating never sells poor stuff more than once to the same purchaser.

Until the American people being fools and suckers in the of buying food, all the argum favor of drastic measures to the high cost of living is Big oranges on top.

"Storepiping potatoes.

Fruit Inspector Mefferd

How the "buzzard" peddlers cheat.

The huge dents in the tin bucket reduce the cubic contents and fool the housewife. The oranges are "faced" in the wagon, with the big ones on top, the small ones at the bottom, and the deception catches many. The small "spuds" are packed in the center of the sack and surrounded with big potatoes. This is a trick pretty widely practiced.

The Week.

NETHERSOLE, OLCOTT, ROCK AND FULTON AND CRANES.

Enough Stars in Town to Make a Brilliant Constellation—Mason and Majestic Reopen—Brand-New Show at Burbank—Popular-Priced Houses and Movies Also Promise Sensations.

THE Burbank is to give another "first performance on any stage" production. Beginning with the matinee this afternoon, "My Shadow and I," a comedy-drama in three acts by Adolf Philipp, will make its bow to the Los Angeles public with Jess Dandy and the entire strength of the Burbank stock company in the cast.

Adolf Philipp, the author of "Alma Where Do You Live?" "Adele," "Auction Pinochle," and a host of other successes, has given his personal direction to the production of this new play.

The first and third acts are placed on a little farm in Ohio during spring and later, during the autumn months, which afford a fine opportunity for scenic investiture of which Robert Brunton of the Burbank has taken the greatest advantage, creating really remarkable stage pictures. The second act shows a cobbler's shop in New York, the time being Christmas eve.

Jess Dandy has a highly entertaining role in the new play. Forrest Stanley will appear in one of the most lovable characters that this popular leading man has presented for some time.

Beatrice Nichols, Grace Travers, Thomas McLarnie, Donald Bowles, Florence Oberle, Winifred Bryson, Walter Catlett, H. S. Duffield, James K. Applebee and the full strength of the Burbank company, and the added attraction of Master Bobby Short and Gertrude Short will have good parts. The regular Burbank prices will prevail for this production.

Mason.

Chauncey Olcott and his plays have a strong hold on that class of theater patrons that stand staunchly by the Irish comedy drama. Rarely is an acceptable successor found to Boucicault's "The Shaughran" or "Colleen Bawn," in these modern days of silk tights and skirts of thinnest lace and vexed problems of human life. But Mr. Olcott promises at the Mason Operahouse this week an honest successor to these honest plays of the homely Irish class.

It is called "Shameen Dhu," written by Rida Johnson Young and staged by Henry Miller, and in it are all the characters of three decades ago.

The settings are described as being most artistic, while Mr. Olcott's supporting company is amply equipped to bring out the quaint Irish humor and the pretty story of love and war that the play embraces. And, above all, the production permits Mr. Olcott to introduce five songs, all new, that are sung as only he can sing this class of Irish ballads. They are called "I Never Met Before a Girl Like You," "Dream Girl o' Mine," "Peggy Darlin'," "My Little Dhudeen," and "Too-ra-loo-ra-loo-ra-ry, That's an Irish Lullaby." Mr. Olcott plays Dare O'Donnell, the young Irish hero in question, whose aim it is to help Washington "lick" the Britishers and win the winsome young American heroine for his very own.

As usual, Mr. Olcott will be assisted by Mrs. Jennie Lamont, the finest impersonator of the homely Irishwoman on the stage today, who has a most congenial role in the new play, while the two heroines (think of an Irish play with two heroines,) are in the capable hands of Constance Molineaux and Beth Franklyn.

Majestic.

Mrs. Douglas Crane, the San Francisco society girl whose interpretation of the modern ballroom dances has won her the title throughout the country of "the little daughter of the dance," will appear at the Majestic beginning tomorrow night, for a week's engagement in a new play by Louise Closser Hale, entitled "Her Soul and Her Body."

Mrs. Crane has always been ambitious to star in theatrical production and for this production she was coached by the San Francisco impresario, Frederic Belasco.

Mrs. Crane is accompanied by a company of unusual capabilities and the show has had a successful run in San Francisco.

The greatest feature of the play naturally is the dancing of Mrs. Douglas Crane. During the second act she appears with her husband in their famous ballroom dances, including the tango and the Crane skip. In addition to these, however, there will be three dances arranged by Mrs. Crane that are said to be her greatest works. She has called these numbers "The Moth and the Flame," "Love's Awakening" and the "Blue Danube."

Mrs. Crane has paid a great deal of attention to the most minute details of these new dances and the result is said to be both startling and sensational.

Morosco.

Rock and Fulton return to the Morosco Theater tomorrow night in "The Echo," which comes straight from a run at the Gaiety Theater in San Francisco, and which will include also the favorites of "The Candy Shop," which proved so popular in Los Angeles upon the occasion of the former Rock & Fulton visit here.

Pretty girls, remarkable special numbers, unusual production in scenery and costuming and the work of the principals will mark "The Echo" as one of the liveliest musical entertainments of the season.

In addition to Rock and Fulton there will be in the cast a number of Los Angeles favorites. Will Philbrick, Kitty Doner, the irrepressible, who has a clever little act of her own this time, Bessie Franklin, Mary Armbrose, Frances White, Oscar Ragland, Frederic Stanley and Jane Grant will be among the favorites in the cast.

Orpheum.

Good things tread close upon one another's heels at the Orpheum these days. Here is Fritzi Scheff only finishing her brilliant engagement Sunday night, and no sooner is she out of the house than her place is taken by another start of equal brilliance, albeit in another field—Olga Nethersole, the greatest of emotional actresses. It is in the third act of "Sapho" that Miss Nethersole is to be seen at the Orpheum—the "big" act, which makes a complete little play in itself. Being a complete whole, it can be given as such, and with her admirable company and perfect surroundings, Miss Nethersole so gives it, making it thus one of vaudeville's most notable offerings in many months. A bill of six new acts comes with Miss Nethersole, only two holdovers remaining. Herman Timberg, well remembered from the Edwards "School Days" act and play, returns to vaudeville as a star; he plays the violin, signs, dances and delivers patter. Harry Catalano and Jack Denny are ragtimers. Mosher, Hayes & Mosher, the "three men on a wheel," well remembered, are making a return visit, and Bill Pruitt, the Cowboy Caruso, a real plainsman with a wonderful voice, will be heard in the best tenor selections. The Fuhrer sisters, who live here, but have recently been touring the circuit, return with their fine violin and 'cello numbers. The holdovers are the powerful Paul Armstrong play, "To Save One Girl," and the Hartley jumpers, with the "nut" comedienne as a feature.

Pantages.

Capt. Jack is back again from the far north with another troupe of polar bears, the biggest, whitest and best trained that he has ever presented to vaudeville audiences. Capt. Jack and his polar pets will be the feature of the Pantages show, appearing Monday afternoon and all next week. These great snowy beasts do everything that the supposedly cleverer black and grizzly bears have ever learned and many things that their cousins have never been able to master.

"Holding Out" is the title attached to a crossfire comedy by James A. Davett and Ninon Duval. From the title one would suspect this to be a street car comedy, but in realty it has nothing to do with traffic congestion, strap hanging or nickel snatching. As a laugh producer it rings the bell loudly and often.

Gregoire & Elmina balance heavy weights on head and shoulders and chin. The real sensation of the act, however, is supplied by Mlle. Elmina's statuesque figure, displayed in close-fitting tights.

The Morette sisters display their musical talents with violin, 'cello, cornet and trombone, the latter being an unusual instrument for a woman.

Empress.

Beginning tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock five new reels of first-run motion pictures will be shown at the Empress Theater continuing until 2:30, when the regular matinee will start, the pictures changing every Monday and Thursday. The headline attraction for the new bill will be the "Top o' the World Dancers," consisting of fifteen dashing boys and pretty girls including the renowned "Collie Ballot." The act has proven to be a real treat for amusement lovers and particularly the children as it is a musical extravaganza consisting of singing, dancing, pantomime, with the Doll Princess.

Second on the new bill in interest and importance among the newcomers will be the original Olivette Troubadors. Both of these young men are finished musicians, with lots of showmanship back of them.

Third is the musical comedy favorite, James Francis Sullivan of the "Prince of Pilsen," who is expected to provide his share of fun on the new bill in his act of fifteen minutes of musical comedy capers entitled "Rapid Fire Vaudeville."

Hippodrome.

"The New Chief of Police" pronounced in San Francisco to be the most engrossing and drastic playlet ever presented in that city, will be the offering next week at the Hippodrome of Landers Stevens and Georgie Cooper.

Unlike most police sketches, it is a boost, rather than a knock of the department, and shows up some of the fake reformers in a new and not flattering light.

Another big offering promises to be Herman and Shirley, styled "The Mysterious Masqueraders," whose stunt is said to be as startling as it is unique.

Then, too, there will be Freda West, statuesque and clever, who already has an enviable reputation on the Coast. She will present her unique "Electrapoise."

The Venetian Grand Opera Company, already strongly intenched here, will this week present one of its best pieces, "Rigoletto." It is one of the most tuneful of the grand operas, its music almost of the "popular" variety in its lightness and swing, and as presented by Mme. Bresonier and Signor Baldi, should prove the melodic gem of the engagement.

Another harmony feature will be contributed by Jerry Croft, conceded to be the king of the banjo, at least as far as the Pacific Coast is concerned, and in addition, there will be two other acts, and some interesting motion pictures, making a show well worth while.

Republic.

Count the First, billed as "The Monkey With the Human Brain," probably the best-known man impersonating ape known to the vaudeville stage today, comes as the headline attraction to Bert Levey's Republic Theater next week, opening at the head of a big new bill on Monday afternoon.

"Count the First" is a thorough college-bred monkey, and performs in all manner of amazing ways, including roller skating, which has become a popular craze once more.

Another feature act will be furnished by Eary, Wilbert and Eary, comedy acrobats and barrel jumpers. They are said to have an act different from the usual run of acrobatic acts. The Bletsoes are billed as eccentric comedians, and have made an enviable record on the Bert Levey circuit; Fritz Christian, Danish character change violin virtuoso, will furnish one of the bigger acts on the bill; Raymond Wilbert has a feature act billed as "the human hoops;" Thomas and Ward, have a singing, dancing and comedy turn billed as "The Funny Coon and the Dainty Soubrette," while Wycoff, entertainer de luxe, completes the bill with several first-run comedy motion pictures.

Alphin.

"The Speculators" is the title of the next bill to be presented at the Alphin Theater. This is another musical farce from the pen of Charles Alphin, and is full of musical songs and lots of girls.

Phillis Gordon, who made such an instantaneous hit upon her opening last week, will again come into stellar honors in next week's production. Miss Gordon is the possessor of a singing voice of exceptional range and merit, while her extensive wardrobe has made Alphin audiences sit up and take notice.

Others in the cast, which will include Reece Gardner, Frank Vack, Al Franks, Charles Parrott, Babe Lewis, Alice Allen and Mable Eliott, have all been suitably caster and will have many opportunities for effective comedy and musical numbers.

But the success of the Alphin performances should go alone to the chorus of sixteen—who are known as Alphin's Tango Girls—a better dressed singing and dancing chorus was never before seen in this home of music, fun and girls.

Woodley Theater.

Probably never till this week has the mammoth pipe organ at the Woodley Theater been so keenly appreciated as now, when C. Percival Garratt's patriotic programmes are attracting thousands who have never before visited this unique picture palace with its solar lighting system and onyx curtain.

Not that good music depends on patriotism for appreciation, but the thunderous and martial effects Garratt coaxes from the big organ lead a sublime grandeur to familiar pieces that lifts them to the pinnacle of harmonic perfection.

And the programme? Well, that is patriotic, too, and, of course, "The Mutual Girl" is doing some of those unique and fascinating stunts of hers that have made her such a drawing card.

Also there is a Keystone comedy, and for thrills some special features and short reels, which bid fair to rival in popular favor "Mabel at the Wheel," which has been attracting capacity houses, and will be on view for the last times today.

Clune's.

The bill of first-run motion pictures at Clune's Broadway Theater for the first three days of the coming week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will have two big headline attractions—another installment of "The Perils of Pauline," the great motion picture serial—and "Brute Force," a powerful two-reel Biograph drama, produced under the personal direction of D. W. Griffith.

"Brute Force" is a great big forceful drama of the stone age, and was produced with the utmost historical accuracy, and pictures how men lived and fought in the antediluvian times. D. W. Griffith is acknowledged the Plays With Purpose.

NETHERSOLE IS REAL REFORMER.

USES STAGE TO AWAKEN PUBLIC TO SOCIAL EVILS.

"Sappho," a Battle for the Fallen Woman, Was Followed by Drama Aiming at Tenement Abuses—Suffrage for Women of England Latest Ambition.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

One of the most interesting women, as well as most capable actresses on the stage today, comes to the Orpheum tomorrow for a limited engagement, in what at one time was the most-talked-of play on the boards.

She is Olga Nethersole, who deserved to be famous because she was a really great actress, who became famous through a long, lingering, luscious kiss, and who has remained great because nature endowed her with that greatest of stage assets, a wonderful speaking voice, which she herself learned to use with the greatest possible effects.

Space being brief, I am passing right by Olga Nethersole's stage career, for those who do not know it have only themselves to blame, and harking back to a day fourteen or fifteen years ago, when, as one of a small army of New York reporters, I was ushered into her drawing-room after she had been found "not guilty" of the crime of producing "Sappho."

It is the third act of this same play which she will present at the Orpheum tomorrow, by the way.

On this day she said: "You of the press are powerful, but the stage is more so. It is only because people are narrow that 'Sappho' has been condemned. You of the newspapers have condemned it, and that will make it the success of the decade."

I remember we filed out of the room feeling like 30 cents.

Whether I agree with Olga or not is beside the point, but the fact remains that "Sappho" was the success of the decade and also Miss Nethersole has continued, via the stage, to present to the public her views on women, and modern social conditions, with telling effect.

In "Sappho" she sought to bring out the idea that one mistake should not be fatal. That just as a man may steal once and become honest, a woman may fall, and yet become worthy of high place in the world.

Only recently Mrs. Fiske had a play along similar lines.

In speaking of her point of view she said, some years after people had grown used to the Nethersole brand of play:

"The critics, the police—well, they talked, but what did that matter? Why, they even had me arrested. But then it was because they were narrow in those days. They believed there were only two kinds of women in the world, good and bad, and that a single offense put a woman forever in the hopeless class.

"But I kept on—showing the play with its great moral, depicting life as it was, and now the people understand. They have become broad in their sympathy."

Just at present she is all agog over suffrage. Not of the militant variety, though she is a friend of Mrs. Pankhurst, but rather as a persuader, stands Miss Nethersole, and through suffrage for women she sees the carrying out of a number of social reforms in England, which is her home.

"Suffrage will mean better social legislation," declares Miss Nethersole. "That is why I am so anxious to get the ballot—that I may help remedy the condition of the unfortunates. I have been interested in such work since I was a child. It was because of my mother, who was on the Visiting Committee of one of the English workhouses. She took me with her on her trips and pointed out the needs of the work. I have a wonderful mother, and it is to her that I owe my success in many things."

The play, "The Writing on the Wall," in which Miss Nethersole appeared four years ago, was written at her request, she says, to remedy housing conditions in a certain tenement block in New York.

"The block was owned by a church corporation," she said, "and I was personally requested by the bishop to stop the publicity of the affair, but I refused, and now conditions in that block have been changed."

Forthcoming.

MUSICAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

TWO MISCHA ELMAN VIOLIN RECITALS THIS WEEK.

Ellis Club Third Concert Tomorrow—Child Play at Little Theater. G.A.R. Ladies' Concert at Gamut Club—Twenty-first Cincinnati May Musical Festival.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

Since it is intended to hold in this city, next season, a musical festival of vast proportions, it may be of interest to learn what Cincinnati is about to undertake in the same direction.

For almost half a century the Cincinnati May music festival has occupied the attention of music lovers as the foremost event of its kind in this country, which ranks also with the greatest in Europe.

From May 5 to 9 the twenty-first biennial festival will be held in the Music Hall of Cincinnati.

The first one was held in 1873 as a logical sequence of the popular saengerfest which had been given the year before.

The success of the enterprise, under the direction of Theodore Thomas, was such that a committee of citizens, on the closing night, presented a petition calling for another to be held at an early date.

This occurred in 1875, the Festival Association was then formed and the event assured as a permanent musical feature.

Thanks to the liberality of Reuben R. Springer and others, the building of Music Hall was decided upon, three years elapsing until the next festival which opened the imposing monument. Since 1878 Music Hall has been used for every biennial festival.

The Chorus.

The May festival chorus is one of the greatest choral bodies in the world. Throughout the entire history of the festivals it has been their backbone. It is a trained body of singers capable of worthily presenting the greatest masterpieces. It is under the general direction of Dr. Ernst Kunwald, assisted by Alfred Hartzell, who has had experience as chorus master of the festival since 1908. It numbers 350 selected voices.

Children's Chorus.

One of the most brilliant features of the festivals is the children's chorus. In very few cities are children better trained and sing more pleasingly than in Cincinnati. They have constituted one of the leading attractions of the last festivals. They will take part in no less than four of the six programmes. On Tuesday night, May 5, a choir of boys will assist in the "Damnation of Faust." On Wednesday evening the B minor mass of Bach will bring out 100 girls, who will sing the second soprano part, leaving the regular soprano choir of the big chorus undivided. This is the most daring undertaking ever attempted for children. But the mass rehearsals which have already been held of the chorus and orchestra, demonstrate the capabilities of these children, who sing the difficult music with remarkable security and brilliance. It will give a color to the B minor mass which no other performance of it has ever brought out. The children will also sing at both the Thursday and Saturday matinee concerts, in the latter creating the part of the Angelic Choir of the third symphony of Mahler, which is given its premiere American performance on that day.

The Orchestra.

The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra has made great forward strikes during the past five years. The fact that both the orchestra and chorus are under Dr. Kunwald's leadership affords unusual opportunities for rehearsals and perfection of details.

Dr. Kunwald, who is to direct his first May festival this year, is a conductor of extensive experience and ability. He came to Cincinnati in 1912 from the Philharmonic Orchestra in Berlin to assume the leadership of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

The Soloists.

The soloists will be Alma Gluck, Florence Hinkle, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Margaret Keyes, Evan Williams, Daniel Beddoe, Pasquale Amato, Henri Scott and Douglas Powell. "The Damnation of Faust," of Berlioz, will be the opening programme, Tuesday, May 5. On Wednesday night, May 6, the Bach B minor mass will be sung. Thursday there will be a matinee orchestral programme with Amato as soloist and the children's chorus. Friday evening the Verdi "Requiem" will be given. On Saturday, May 9, the festival will close with two performances. At the matinee Schumann-Heink will be the soloist and the children's choir will sing in the Mahler symphony, and in the evening Alma Gluck will be the soloist and the closing number will be the Ninth Symphony of Beethoven.

Material Side.

From long experience, the committee in charge has learned the financial phases presented by the production of the festivals. From successful years a substantial reserve has been obtained. The choice of seats for subscribers to season tickets and box holders is settled through a spirited auction sale. It has been found best to offer the tickets for sale as follows: Season ticket, including reserved seat for all the concerts, $15; tickets for each performance detachable and transferable; single concert, including reserved seat in parquette or dress circle, $2.50; single concert (reserved seat, balcony,) $1.50, based on the total capacity of Music Hall, which can accommodate a third more than our Shrine Auditorium.

Mischa Elman Concerts.

On next Tuesday evening Mischa Elman will conclude here his fifth American tour. The brilliant Russian violinist will appear on the evening of April 28 and also in matinee on May 2.

No soloist on the concert stage has received more engagements with principal orchestras than Elman, nor has any violinist surpassed his number of yearly appearances as recital artist in every country.

Great deal has been written about the young virtuoso, whose life is centered on his violin playing and very little else.

From an eyewitness the following story has been secured, showing that the young genius possessed from his earliest childhood a predilection for violin playing:

"At the age of 5 he played for a select audience at Stalnoje, a town in Kiev, the occasion being a sort of private concert arranged by a lady of nobility.

"A friend who was one of the fortunate persons present tells me that he will never forget the impression which Elman the child made upon his hearers. He was led into the living-room by his father, a schoolmaster. I can see the little figure even now, walking slowly. Elman's big eyes were widely open in a sort of surprise and in one chubby fist he clutched a miniature violin. His father carried the bow.

"We all applauded involuntarily and Mischa bowed very seriously. Elman senior seated himself at the piano and his small son took up his place at his parent's elbow. Presently the recital began. The boy had no knowledge of musical notation and the pieces he played, taught by his father, were of semi-popular nature. Nevertheless his playing held us.

"After it was over we sat silent, so great an impression had his genius made. Directly the lad became a pupil of Fiedelmann of the Imperial Music School of Odessa."

In 1903, when 11 years of age, he was invited to study with Leopold Auer of the Royal School of St. Petersburg. At 13 he appeared with extraordinary success in London, and from that time on we know him. His programmes for this city are varied and interesting and are given in detail below:

Sonata, D Major, Op. 12, No. 1, Allegro con brio, Tema con variazioni, Andante con moto, Rondo, Allegro (Beethoven;) Concerto, Op. 28, Allegro moderato, Tempo, poco sostenuto, Air, Andante, Allegretto (Goldmark;) Sonata, E. Major, Adagio cantabile, Allegro, Largo, Allegro non troppo (Handel;) "Nocturne" (Chopin-Auer,) "Vogel als Prophet" (Schumann-Auer,) "Gavotte" (Gretry-Franko,) Polonaise, A Major (Wieniawski.)

For Saturday, May 2, matinee: Sonata No. 10, Allegro moderato, Andantino sostenuto et cantabile, Rondo (Mozart;) Concerto, B Minor, Op. 61, Allegro non troppo, Andantino quasi allegretto, Molto moderato maestoso (Saint-Saens;) Faust Fantasie (Wieniawski;) "Serenade melancolique" (Tschaikowsky,) Hungarian Dance, No. 7 (Brahms-Joachim.) "Aubade Provencale" (Couperin - Kreisler,) "Etude Caprice" (Paganini-Auer.)

Ellis Club Third Concert.

Tomorrow evening the Ellis Club will give its third concert of the season.

The choral numbers are of unusual importance and have been rehearsed with zeal for several weeks at Symphony Hall.

Miss Grace James, soprano, and Olga Steeb, pianiste, will be the two soloists of the occasion.

The concert will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m. at the Auditorium.

Child Play at Little Theater.

The first of the performances in the children's theater movement will be given on Tuesday next, April 28, at the Little Theater, South Figueroa street near Pico. The premiere production will be "Wan o' the Wood," a fantasy of fairyland written by Florence Willard of Pasadena.

If Frank C. Egan's new policy of the Little Theater is a success child plays at the rate of at least one every month will continue to be produced. It is also planned to bring prominent portrayers of child characters from the East to head the children's theater cast.

"Wan o' the Wood," the opening play, proved an artistic success on the occasion of its first presentation here by the Egan players two years ago, and there is every indication that it will repeat this success during its engagement at the Little Theater. The play tells a pretty fairy story, grips with human-heart interest and is beautiful as to scenery, the settings being laid in the Sylvan beauty spot—the Arroyo Seco, near South Pasadena.

The following are the principals of the three casts that will present the play: Wan, Helen Eddy, Curtyne Englar and Deborah Lustig; Dan, Helene Campbell, Consuello Henley and Yvette Mitchell; Will, Mary Grace Cleveland, Gladys James and Ursula Cheshire; Tiema, Marcia Cleveland, Lillian Wade and Mona Mullin; Queen, May Courtright, Leola Son and Una Fleming; bears, Frank Goldenson, Lucien Littlefield and Pablo Ferrando.

G.A.R. Ladies' Concert and Ball.

A concert and ball has been arranged by Union Circle No. 19, Ladies of the G.A.R., to take place on Tuesday night, April 28, at the Gamut Club. The proceeds are to be devoted to general relief work and perpetual care of their graves at Odd Fellows' Cemetery.

A pleasing and varied programme has been promised.

Miss Marie Davenport will be seen in several dancing numbers, Clayton C. Campbell, the well-known baritone, will sing, and Pearl Stanley Keller will appear in child impersonations. These artists have cheerfully offered their services for the benefit of the worthy undertaking.

People's Chorus Concert.

Under the direction of Hans. S. Linne, the People's Chorus will give, on the evening of May 21, Saint-Saens "Samson and Delilah." The chorus has been rehearsing for the last three months and is now thoroughly trained. Mr. Linne has increased the chorus to 250 mixed voices, now practising twice a week to give a creditable rendition of the grand opera in concert form.

Mrs. Minnie Hance will sing Delilah, John Stockman, Samson, Fred McPherson, the High Priest, E. Burns, Abimelech. The People's Orchestra of thirty-five musicians, under the baton of Mr. Linne, will accompany.

Y.W.C.A. Song Recital.

In a series of song recitals given by the pupils of Mrs. Anna Yaw Thorpe at the Y.W.C.A. auditorium, Miss Minnie Albasini was heard last Tuesday in selections from McDowell, Saint-Saens, Gounod, Grace Freeby, Homer and Lang.

Calve Traveling School.

Emma Calve has permanently retired from the stage. The famous Carmen has reached "the time we should all know—the time to retire and also the time when one should no longer be photographed."

Madame has decided to become a teacher of singing, but one on a different plan of operation than all others. She will not have any headquarters, but will take her pupils to Milan, London, Paris and Berlin in turn, to make them acquainted with the methods of singing in each capital.

In the summer, she will hold her school in her chateau de Cabriere in the Cevennes Mountains, assisted by two teachers as coaches for her American pupils—as she has expressed a decided preference for young women of talent coming from this side of the Atlantic.

Half Million Choir School.

Through the munificent gift of $500,000 made to the Church of St. John the Divine, in New York City, the choir school becomes the best endowed choral training institution in the country.

As a thanks offering for the pleasure and benefit he had derived from a long association with the choir, in his youth, Frederick G. Bourne, former president of the Singer Manufacturing Company, and a member of the church, endowed the choir school on Easter Sunday.

Rt. Rev. Potter founded the choir in 1901; thanks to the liberality of Mrs. J. Barrett Bloodgett, it was moved to a new building, the gift of that lady. Forty resident and twenty day students will be amply provided for with a complete equipment through the generosity of Mr. Bourne.

A New Wunderkind.

Mischa Levitzky, the Russian-American pianist, has been called in Berlin this season the "Young American Wunderkind."

He is only 15 years old and yet played with remarkable ability Beethoven's Waldstein Sonata and Schumann's G. Minor Sonata. It is said that the young artist is possessed of unusual technical ability, an exceptional range and sterling quality of interpretation, a rare combination of gifts in one of so youthful years.

His first teacher was Von Dohnanyi. At 7 he entered the Royal Conservatory of Warsaw. His family came to New York, where he continued his studies under Stojowski and became the favorite pupil of the Institute of Musical Arts.

In 1912 he went to Berlin and entered the Hochschule. His recent concert at Antwerp was his debut and he was warmly received, repeating his success in Berlin.

When Col. Goethals became Governor of Panama he allowed no ceremony to mark the occasion. Early in the morning he issued his last circular as chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission and his circulars as Governor, promulgating the establishment of a permanent form of government in the zone. One of the circulars informed all the employees of the canal that they had been taken over under the new organization, and that their wages would not be changed. In the others Col. Goethals outlined the work of the new departments. A further circular contained the list of appointments.

The world's record for eating buckwheat cakes is believed to have been established at Jefferson, near Washington, Pa., when John Shriber met and defeated Albert Fowler in a contest to determine who could put away the most. Shriber downed thirty-three cakes, averaging eight inches in diameter. Fowler stopped at the twenty-fourth cake.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Dr. Louis A. Duhring, professor of dermatology in the University of Pennsylvania, died a few months ago, leaving a will that gave the residue of his estate to the university. Recent estimates of the securities belonging to the estate, the executor says, indicates that the amount that will come to the university will be the largest gift it has ever received—in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

Princeton University is to have a stadium that will seat 41,000 persons. It will be built by Edgar Palmer, class of '03, at a cost of $300,000 and will be named in honor of his father, the late Stephen S. Palmer, for many years a trustee of the university, and who himself gave the institution the Palmer Physical Laboratory, one of the finest buildings of its kind in the country.

Wesley Hospital, Chicago, was founded by William Deering. Now his son, James Deering, recently deceased, leaves to the institution a gift of $1,000,000, to be used in establishing clinics to furnish medical aid to the poor. Mr. Deering stipulated that the income from the gift should be used exclusively in the care of charity patients.

Twenty-one employees of the late George W. Millar of New York, share in about $70,000 under the will of Mrs. Julia A. Millar, his widow. A number of specific bequests were made in her will, which was written in 1910, and the balance of the estate was to go to her husband, unless he should die first, in which event his bequest was to go to his employees. Mr. Miller died one week in advance of his wife.

A gift of $500,000 for the endowment of the choir school of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine from Frederick G. Bourne, a financier and yachtsman, was announced by Dean Grosvenor at the close of the Easter services. The gift was presented on the condition that Mr. Bourne be elected a member of the choir. He was elected unanimously. A letter was read by Dean Grosvenor from Mr. Bourne in which he said that he had sung in other choirs since he was 14 years old.

The shooting to death of Detective Joseph Guarnieri of New York, while making an arrest, and whose wife and three children were left in financial difficulties, has resulted in the establishment of a fund for the immediate relief of those dependent upon policemen killed or injured in the performance of their duty. The first contribution was $1000 from Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, who proposed that the fund be known as the Honor Legion Fund, and that it be administered by a board of trustees.

Benjamin N. and James S. Duke of New York recently gave $25,000 to the Memorial Methodist Church of Durham, N. C., and previously have contributed more than $150,000 to the church, the costliest Methodist structure in North Carolina. The congregation designed the church as a memorial to their father, Washington Duke, but the sons pay for it. Their recent gift is conditioned on the congregation raising $7000.

A contribution of $50,000 from Mrs. E. H. Harriman to the endowment fund of Barnard College, New York, has been announced by the college. Mrs. Harriman's daughter, Mrs. Charles Carey Rumsey, is a graduate of Barnard and a member of its board of trustees.

OVER THE SEA.

William Hake, England's oldest barrister, celebrated his 103rd birthday quietly at Brighton recently. He partook of a dinner consisting of roast chicken, baked potatoes, cauliflower and plum pudding.

Orester Zamor, the new head of Hayti, chosen by Congress, is a man of affairs, and has had considerable experience in affairs of the republic. He is a former Governor of the northern department of the island, and in 1911 occupied the office of Minister of War.

Baron Ferdinand de Turckheim, a French-Alsatian exile since the Prussian conquest, died recently in his 104th year. He was an intimate friend of Chopin and celebrated his 103rd birthday on March 31, by playing some manuscript pieces presented to him by the composer.

A Berlin (Germany) notary named Sauter, who died recently, made a hobby of collecting fine boots and shoes. At the time of his death he had a museum of more than 5000 pairs, all catalogued and so strictly guarded that not even his wife was allowed to enter the room where he kept the collection.

Sir William Willcocks, who designed the Assuan dam on the River Nile, has arrived in New York on board the steamer Celtic. Sir William has been in India recently working to restore the channels of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, in order to reclaim vast areas of territory.

The Crown Prince of Japan, who, it is reported, will be sent to Oxford in the autumn, belongs to the oldest reigning house in existence. Native historians say that his ancestors can be traced back to 60 B.C. Prof. Basil Ball Chamberlain thinks that, while this is going about a thousand years too far back, there is no doubt that the Japanese imperial family stands forth proudly as the oldest in the world. We know positively that it has reigned ever since the dawn of history in Japan, and that even then it was considered of immemorial age.

Dramatic Reviews.

peer of producers, and this picture is said to be his masterpiece.

In addition to these two headliners, several single reels will be shown, and the news of the week chronicled in the Selig and Pathe weeklies.

Miller's.

Everybody is laughing at "Goodness Gracious," the three-reel comedy which is being offered to Los Angeles at Miller's Theater for the last times today and tonight. And no wonder, for it certainly has exceeded the expectations of those who have been reading about the phenomenal run it enjoyed at the Vitagraph Theater in New York City, where it broke the world's record for consecutive performances of a photoplay, being shown to 270 capacity houses at 270 performances, and at dollar prices, too.

In addition to this great big hit there is a dramatic offering in three parts entitled "The Impersonator," which deserves special mention as it is an extraordinarily good offering and is from the novel of similar title by Mary Imlay Taylor. Monday's bill includes the initial showing of the third installment of that fascinating serial, "The Perils of Pauline," which continues to get more exciting every issue, and is shown to splendid advantage on the mirror screen.

Tally's Broadway.

Daniel Frohman presents at Tally's Broadway for one week beginning tomorrow, the distinguished American actor, William Farnum, in a photoplay production of Charles Fredric Goss's well-known and popular novel, "The Redemption of David Corson." The story tells of a man's desperate struggle with himself and provides Mr. Farnum with a role superbly suited to his individuality. The spiritual appeal of the drama is difficult to suggest in words, and the inner conflict of David Corson is so humanly pathetic as to take a place in the hearts of all who behold it.

Mr. Strobridge and Mr. Demorest have selected an especially attractive musical programme for this week, and the picture will be accompanied by many pleasing numbers by both the great pipe organ, and the orchestra.

Arrow.

Universal moving pictures featuring such stars as J. Warren Kerrigan, Ford Sterling, Florence Lawrence, Universal, also, King Baggott, Leah Baird, etc., are booked for the Arrow beginning Monday. A two-reel feature is booked for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "Old California" 101Bison, featuring Edwin August.

On this same programme are two comedies, "Willie and the Mouse," which is the essence of fanciful childhood, a child love story beautifully portrayed, and "Universal Ike" with Louise Glaum as the leading lady.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "In the Shadow of the Mosque," a stirring two-reel drama, will be featured. It is a powerful drama of the East. "Powers, the Skeleton," comedy, and "The Mountain Law?" Rex, are also on the programme.

"The Passing Show of 1913."

"The Passing Show of 1913," the big Winter Garden production, comes to the Majestic Theater for a week's engagement commencing Monday night, May 4.

Eight mammoth scenic pictures are unfolded to the eye during the course of the performance, the one showing a reproduction of the Capitol steps at Washington dwarfing into insignificance the marvelous spectacular pictures shown on the stage of Drury Lane, London.

In the cast are Conroy and Le Maire, Charles and Mollie King, Whiting and Burt, Artie Mehlinger, Mazie King, Laura Hamilton, Louise Bates, Ernest Hare, Corcoran and Lloyd, and others at the head of the singing and dancing contingent.

The array of femininity in the chorus numbers sixty. There are thirty songs in all, the most popular being "Ragging the Nursery Rhymes," "Good Old-Fashioned Cake Walk," "In Romance Land," "My Irish Romeo," "I'm Just a Little Bit Afraid of Broadway," "Whistling Cowboy Joe," "Fine Feathers," "German Cooking," "When I Want to Settle Down," "He's on the Boat" and "The Butterfly and the Rose."

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Lieut.-Gov. O'Hara of Illinois has returned to Chicago from Bridgeport, Ct., where he and his wife worked in factories under assumed names. He worked in the shipping department of a corset factory for $4 a week and at the end of three days was told that a better man had been hired in his place and he was discharged. His wife worked in a knitting mill at $5 a week and held her job.

Dr. Charles A. Morse of Newmarket, N. H., is at one and the same time postmaster, judge of the District Court, moderator of town meetings, moderator of school meetings, chairman of the Board of Health, foreman of the hose company, water commissioner, pension examiner and representative in the Legislature.

Henry Clay Folger, Jr., is said to have one of the finest collections of Shakespeariana in the United States. He recently became the owner of the late Sir Edward Dowden's Shakespearean library, comprising some two thousand volumes. Book collecting is Mr. Folger's avocation; in the business world he is known as the president of the Standard Oil Company of New York.

"Aunt" Mahala Ayer celebrated her one hundred and fourteenth birthday in Philadelphia last week. She attributes her age to never having allowed herself to worry or become discontented.

Grandma Sarah Todd of Walla Walla, Wash., has just celebrated her one hundred and fourth birthday. She dresses herself each morning and makes her own bed. She puts in her time during the day smoking and talking. She does not smoke as much as formerly, as she has been told that if she would quit the weed she would live to a ripe old age.

HIGH COMEDY OF THE MINUTE.

George Middleton in His Three Act Play "Nowadays," Has Something As Fine and Large as "Milestones," With a Hearty Laugh at Modernity.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

THERE is a school of philosophy which bases all inference on the issue. It is not easy to comprehend, but one which constantly intrudes itself if one has once been brought under its conviction.

Its instruction begins with the assumption of a functional astrology starting with the first nebular ring thrown off by the sun. The issue is always the point of weakness, failure or neglect being presented as an adversity in order to give opportunity to the unit to increase its consistency.

This sounds about as illuminating and entertaining as the auger hole problem in trigonometry and brings the same joy to the reader that he would receive from contemplating a table of logarithms.

It is glowing and spontaneous like a column of statistics.

I can feel the eagerness of the reader as I write it and hear him clamoring for more. He won't get it. I have a delicate constitution myself and if I could bear to write two paragraphs like that how do I know what pure high-souled prohibitionist I am driving to drink? In following this line, I would be serving only a selfish purpose, namely that of discovering my own issue which possibly is writing too much about the wrong thing at the wrong time.

It is a curious fact, however, that life is always trying to improve on itself in all of its expressions, and that some incompleteness is sounded by everyone, which is perhaps the very trick that keeps us all kicking and will let none of us either be satisfied or go to sleep on the job.

You must have noticed almost countless instances where a boy becomes the thing his father always wanted to be, or where a girl takes up a work for which her mother had thought herself adapted when she was a child. You do not have to step out of your immediate acquaintanceship to recall some business man who always thought he could have painted if he had had a chance and whose son has surprised the community by becoming an artist.

From the Sunday room of the Times I can look out and see the business block of a man who as a youth was full of unexpressed artistic possibilities and yearnings. He has three sons, one a critic and novelist, one a promising painter in Paris, and the other a writer of songs and much good music. Are not his sons the issue?

How many silent parents we all know whose lot is cast with the commonplace, but who yearned in their youth for the larger opportunity and whose children have entered public life with zest and fine ability!

Some such theory seems to have been in the mind of George Middleton in writing his stunning three-act play called "Nowadays." He describes it as a contemporaneous comedy, but it possesses the qualities of a rarely fine drama. I find it not unlike "Milestones," which was perhaps the daintiest drama of the year.

I cannot always see from one of these delightful printed plays designed entirely for reading how it would appear upon the stage, since dialogues and conversation read better than they act, but I am of the opinion that "Nowadays" is destined to brighten the stage next year as few plays have done in many years.

Briefly, the story is that of a plumber who is past sixty, and who has amassed a comfortable fortune. He clings to business in his home town a tenaciously as he did when first his father took him into a junior partnerhip, and he imagines that he has a treasure and surprise for his son Sam when he offers him the same opening on a night before Christmas and the boy has come home from the city, where he is supposed to have been making an uphill struggle for three years.

In reality the boy has been wasting his time and his allowance. He wouldn't go to college or do anything else that required effort or character. He has secretly married little Betty Howe around the corner and has kept her in New York in a shamefully quiet way without even announcing their marriage or living openly with her. Betty is a weak, little thing who submits as long as her bills are paid and who knows perfectly well that the worthelss young rascal no longer loves her if he ever did.

The plumber has one daughter. Her name is Diana. Two years before the play begins she has gone to New York to study sculpture.

Her plumber father is outraged by the idea that a woman should care to be anything other than a dutiful daughter as a child and a faithful wife as a woman. The one heresy to him is to suggest that a woman's life has any other angles than housekeeping and child bearing. He has never contributed one cent to the child's New York experience and he is a subject for apoplexy when he learns on her Christmas home-coming that his wife has supported their daughter in New York by painting paper dolls, and finding a market for them through an artist that she knew long before their marriage when she was an art student saved from bitter povety by accepting a husband.

This suppression of all artistic expression has culminated in the daughter's fire of spirit. Diana explains her first conviction that she might create with a story of much drollery and sweetness. She had been left as a child for an afternoon in care of her father and when he busied himself with other affairs she went out into the garden. There she found a little dryland terrapin and moved to pity because he was so much

MADAME ISE'BELL'S BEAUTY LESSON.

LESSON II.

Beauty Hygiene for Hot Days.

Excessive heat has always been a great destroyer of beauty. Women who live in tropical countries, especially those who were born further north, fade young, and even in the temperate climate it is wise for every woman and every young girl to give her complexion and scalp especial care during the summer months. The bad effects of the hot weather can be neutralized and overcome by a little care and understanding of the subject.

The agents for harm in the summer are perspiration, sun and dust, and injudicious eating and drinking. The evil effects of excessive perspiration are not commonly understood, and we will therefore take up this subject first.

PERSPIRATION HEALTH FACTOR.

Sweat, which exists only in the human race and in a few of the higher animals, such as the stag and the horse, is an important function of the skin, found always in health and necessary for purposes of elimination and for cooling the body. People who perspire freely naturally withstand the ill effects of extreme heat better than those who do not, and, therefore, perspiration in a moderate amount is advisable.

The liquid eliminated by the sweat glands is colorless, salty to the taste, and contains in addition to water certain mineral and organic matter rejected by the body. In health it has an alkaline reaction, but this turns acid by reason of decomposition, and it is this acidity that causes harm, both to the face and the scalp, where the sweat glands are particularly large and numerous.

SCALP TREATMENT.

Dandruff is more prevalent in hot wealth than in cold, and, neglected, it is the cause of itching and irritation, and may turn into eczema, a very troublesome and obstinate scalp affliction. Almost every woman has had reason to remark how prone the hair is to fall at the close of the summer. This is not necessarily an alarming symptom, for the life of a hair is but from five to seven years, and falling hair therefore is a natural process. But beyond a certain point it indicates serious trouble, and, when this occurs in the autumn, it can generally be traced back to the hot weather and the ill effects of the acid perspiration on the scalp. Let us see how this can be prevented.

First, the scalp much be kept absolutely clean and free from dandruff. During the very hot weather, if the scalp perspires very much, once a week is not too often to shampoo the hair, if this is properly done and the soap or shampoo mixture thoroughly rinsed from the hair and scalp.

If frequent shampoos are not practical, the scalp can be kept clean by a daily friction with alcohol or toilet water. Keep perspiration away by keeping the scalp cool and well ventilated. Brush and comb the hair twice a day, and, as often as possible, let it hang loose. At night do not confine it in braids, but arrange it loosely under a thin boudoir cap.

Mrs. Clara S. Butler of Cleveland has invented and patented a device which eliminates the harsh, metallic sounds in a phonograph.

Mme. Adele

310 Title Guarantee Bldg., Fifth and Broadway.

The latest edict from Paris declares straight backs, curved fronts and large waists; in a word, the charmingly free, supple lines of the natural figure. Modish corsets must conform with emphatic demands of fashion and produce litheness and willowy grace. Mme. Adele corsets are such models; affording not only modish grace and ease, but comfort. Among these are a wide range of styles for all types of figures—slender, medium and stout. May we show you the model which will improve your figure? Prices range $5.00 to $50.00.

FOR WOMEN AND MEN.

Facts, Features and Fancies.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

THE GOOD HOUSEKEEPER'S HINT: She says she has discovered that she can acquire more culture by using a few moments each day for the study of some subject than by studying many hours on one day and neglecting the matter the next. In the midst of her busy round of housework she has nearly learned a language and has done it thus. Perseverance and regularity have conquered, where ample time and half-way application might fail.

"In the cry for newness, there is vast need of never forgetting the old fundamental things, the things that count in the long and happy life," says a well-known writer upon modern social themes.

When all is said and when we have erected a new code of moralities, we shall at last be thrown back upon the old qualities of right, if we would have high character. Emancipation for all, emancipation of the spirit and of the mind, but not the emancipation which shall wipe out all the old standards of right for those whose lives impinge upon ours. The new individualism is apt to foster in the child the idea that his impulses, his whims, even, are paramount over the comfort of all around him. What is apt to be the outgrowth of such tendencies? Not the simple justice which cannot be improved upon, that justice which cleaves in a straight line between person and person, giving to each his ample breathing space and permitting his full growth, but an outspreading of unwholesome growth which, allowed to remain unpruned, unrestrained, becomes an ugly burden to itself and an offense to others.

There is the same danger in the new militancy. Women should have all liberty, but it would be too bad if, in achieving it, they should trample out of existence the chivalry of men, should obliterate that delightful quality which has for several ages acted as a stimulus in social intercourse. This delicate consideration which is to the intermingled life of men and women as the atmosphere to the painted canvas, should be retained at all hazards. Without it, life would be bald and glaring, hard and unyielding. In our craze for the new, let us beware of losing the best which belongs to the old.

"D'light."

This is its name and this is its quality as well. It is a new electric reading lamp of so alluring a type that, if one possessed it, one would be tempted to read incessantly; for you see, you may place this newly devised reading lamp at any spot and at any wanted angle. By means of a vacuum button on the back of the little arc, you may stick up this lamp on the wall beside the head of your bed. Or, by means of a circular hanger you may attach it to your bedpost. Or, if you have a favorite chair you may place this wonderful light directly at your back, adhering it to the chair back. First you place the burner in any electric socket and then pull out the cord, for all the world as though it were a tape measure, within a disc. Then after you have "vacuumed" it onto whatever place you select, you may adjust the convenient bulb to any angle, and may place the shade, which is so arranged as to fit any size of bulb, at whatever degree suits best your vision. If you are one of those who give great care to your evening toilet, you may "stick" your delightful "D'light" right on the surface of your mirror, where you can see beyond peradventure, whether the powder is well distributed along the bridge of your nose, and whether the lip stick has been impartial in its favor.

The claim is made, also, that this new lamp cuts down the electric bills, and it doubtless does, since it concentrates the light in needed places.

"Eggsactly So."

A clever little device seen at that demonstration fair in the basement of one of the big stores is an aluminum egg-dip.

Into a small castor-like affair of aluminum you put the eggs which are to be boiled. This you immerse in the water, and when the "soft-boiled instant" arrives, you simply raise the entire "setting" by means of the cool and collected handle of the boiling castor and out come all the eggs at once! No fishing around with a spoon or ladle for one egg at a time, while the others are fast passing the wished-for state, but out they all come at once, all equally palatable.

A "Never Shake."

An ironing board which never shakes while you are ironing is a novelty at the Demonstration Fair, in that big store. This new board is so firmly braced, and that without awkwardness, that it "wabbles" no more than would a table of cement. It has also a detachable, but firmly attached for use, sleeve board, which is quite as novel as is the ironing board itself.

• •

Hand Vacuum.

Like a big sister to the usual carpet sweeper, and a little sister to the electric vacuum cleaner, is the new hand sweeper shown at the Demonstration Fair. It swops up dust and dirt as voraciously as does any vacuum cleaner, and it eats up ravelings as carefully as does the best of brush carpet sweepers. It is svelt in form compared with the usual vacuum, and yet somewhat obese compared with its light-weight relative, the old-fashioned carpet sweeper. Take it all around, you see, it is a several-kinds-in-one affair and a first aid to good housekeeping.

Half Price.

All the girls are laying in supplies of Christmas gifts and gifts for other occasions from the half-price sale at that Broadway art shop where one always finds such novel and pretty things.

"I've actually cut in half the cost of a needed wedding gift!" exclaimed Evelyn, "and have more than half filled out my Christmas gift list, besides putting several little luxuries into "hope chest" and I feel that I have frugalized more genuinely than if I had put money in the bank."

You see, this is a REAL half-price sale; not one of those where they "march the prices up and march them down again."

Fashions Glimpsed.

Yellow is the most fashionable color this season.

Circular flounces effectively trim tunics and skirts.

Charming in cut and color are the little moire wraps.

Smart street suits are made of pretty colored serge.

Lingerie made of pale tinted silk is coming into favor.

Frocks of all fabrics are trimmed with bead embroidery.

The hems of taffeta are frequently trimmed with a wide ruche.

The kimono sleeves and raglan sleeves are equally favored.

Summery frocks have their skirts bordered with narrow ruffles.

Paris suggests silver tulle ribbons in making the bride's bouquet.

The younger set will wear quaint and demure bonnet-shaped hats.

The tango costume still plays an important part in the wardrobe.

The green garnet of Siberia is among the latest settings for rings.

There are new French cotton crepes with delightful flower borders.

Some of the new neck chains are made of silver and copper combined.

Many frocks are trimmed with hand embroidery done in coarse silk.

Charming negligees are made of voile.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Miss Julia Avery of Madison, Wis., is to supervise a suffrage farm at Rose Valley, Pa., where only women will be employed.

Dr. Annie S. Daniel has been doctoring the poor in New York City for thirty-five years.

Miss Annie Cannon, a member of the staff of Harvard University Observatory, has been admitted to membership in the Royal Astronomical Society of England, a rare honor for a woman.

Mrs. George W. Covell of Omaha, an active suffragist, declared that she would bake bread or cake with any "anti" and that she would leave the conditions entirely to her opponent.

Miss Ethel Peters is teaching the women prisoners in New York to sew.

Miss Theodore Pope is known as the millionaire architect in New York City.

Miss Maude Wetmore, daughter of former Senator and Mrs. Wetmore of Rhode Island, and member of the smart set of Washington, New York and Newport, is one of a notable group of American women working with zeal for the welfare of humanity.

Miss Sophie I. Loeb, member of the New York State Commission on Widows' Pensions, is studying the subject in Europe.

Miss Helen Scott Hay, vice-president of the National League of Nursing Education, will become superintendent of the training school for nurses to be established at the Alexander Hospital in Sofia, Bulgaria. Miss Hay's appointment was recommended by the American Red Cross, of which she is an active member, in response to an appeal from Queen Eleonore of Bulgaria, who is herself a graduate nurse.

EDUCATORS.

The oldest instructor in point of service in the Washington and Jefferson faculty, Dr. Dunlap J. McAdam, one of the leading educators in Western Pennsylvania, will retire next June from active teaching. His resignation has been accepted by the board of trustees. Dr. McAdam has been a professor at Washington and Jefferson for forty-two years.

Announcement has been made at New Haven, Ct., of the resignation of William E. Hocking, professor of philosophy at Yale, to accept a chair of philosophy at Harvard. He is expected to take up his work there next year.

Prof. Durant Drake of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Ct., recommends the dropping of creeds by churches and full freedom of belief on the part of ministers and members. He affirms the church has repelled thousands and mistakenly charged heresy against those who have denied doctrines which are now "mere husks to the average Christian, retaining a vague halo of holiness, arousing a vague sense of reverence and allegiance, but almost meaningless in terms of life."

Rev. Dr. Francis L. Patton, ex-president of Princeton University and of Princeton Theological Seminary, is to live Bermuda, where his son, Prof. George S. Patton, becomes inspector of schools July 1. The father was born there, and has always retained his English citizenship.

Robert Kirkland Nabours, professor of zoology, and the experimental breeder of Kansas State Agricultural College, will go into the heart of Central Asia, accompanied by a guard of Cossacks, to study fur farming. Dr. Nabours will spend four months in Bokhara studying Karakule sheep, and the production of Persian lamb, and krimmer fur in that country.

Ex Tenebra.

The winds have showered their rains
upon the sod,
The flowers and trees have murmured
as with lips.
The very silence has appealed to God
In man's behalf, thodgh smitten by His rod.
'Twould seem as if the blight of some eclipse
Had dulled the skies—as if, on mountain tips,
The winds of heaven had spurned
the life serene,
And clouds were foundering like benighted ships.
But what is this, exultant, unforeseen,
Which cleaves the dark? A fearful, burning thing!
Is it the moon? Or Saturn's scarlet ring
Hurled into space? It is the tempest-sun!
It is the advent of the Phoeban king
Which tells the valleys that the storm is done!

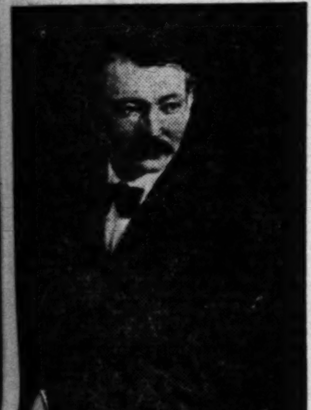
Henri in the Southwest.

Robert Henri of New York, famous the world over as a brilliant painter, a modern of the moderns, but perhaps even more widely known as a forceful and inspiring teacher of painting, is coming to Southern California.

According to a letter just received by Henry Lovins of Hollywood, a former pupil, the great man will reach Los Angeles early in May, and will be accompanied by his wife, said to be one of the most beautiful women in New York. Henri will remain in California all through the summer, studying and painting our "types," and will probably go as far south as the Mexican border. His fame rests mainly on his figure painting, though he does not disdain landscapes.

Henry Lovins, whose admiration for his instructor, both as man and artist, becomes enthusiastic to the point of eloquence when he speaks of him, was instrumental in bringing him out here. Henri has passed his summers working hard in Ireland, Holland and Spain—more often in Spain—and he has also been in Colorado, but never so far west as California. Lovins thought he was about due in Los Angeles, the ultimate goal of the great—and we agree with Lovins.

In spite of his name, Henri is an American, not a Frenchman, and he is not even of French descent, but Dutch. He was born in Pennsylvania. Moreover, his name isn't pronounced Onree, but Henrye. Though he studied in Paris, and though his first successful picture, "La Neige," was purchased for the Luxembourg, Henri has remained unalterably an American.



Robert Henri,

Famous New York painter, who will come to Los Angeles in May, to paint various "types" of people in Southern California.

For some years he taught in the Chase School in conjunction with William M. Chase, and the two men made it one of the famous art schools of the world. Later, Henri took complete charge, and every student became a Henri enthusiast. The school is now conducted by former pupils, who carry out their beloved master's methods of instruction by "talks" and brief lectures. Henri,, finding himself too busy to devote any time to teaching, has of late given it up entirely. His success as a portrait painter has been very marked, and he hopes to paint some of the notables, as well as the "types," of Southern California.

Henri was one of the leaders in the war of the Secessionists, which raged so hotly in New York a few years ago, and many brilliant young talents flocked around his flag of revolt, while even the old and staid Academicians did not lag far behind. His work shows the influence of Manet, Renoir and Degas—as the work of a vast number of younger Americans shows the invigorating influence of Henri.

It must not be forgotten, however, that Henri had made a reputation in Paris before he made one in New York, and that "La Neige" was considered worthy of the Luxembourg in the days of his comparative youth, and before he had "graduated" from the art school. He is the winner of many honors and medals, the latest being the gold medal of the Pennsylvania Academy exhibition.

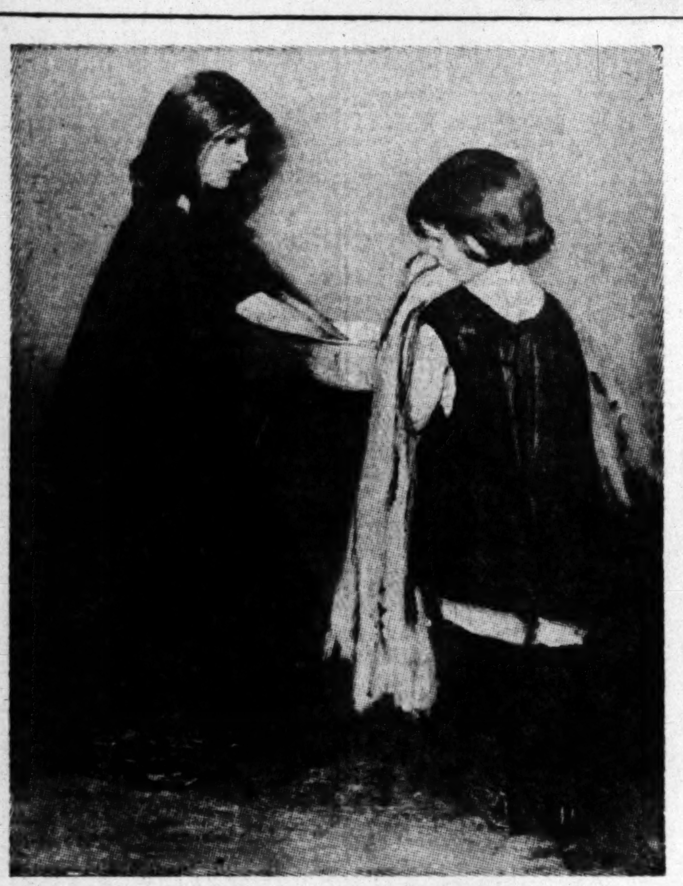
Paintings by Miss Shore.

Thirty pictures by Henrietta M. Shore will be shown tomorrow in the Merick Reynolds gallery, No. 841 South Broadway, to remain there for two weeks, when they will be followed by paintings by Earnest Bruce Nelson of Monterey, who has just had a very successful exhibition in San Francisco. Nelson's pictures will be on view to the end of May.

Miss Shore, who has been living in Toronto, Can., but who has just opened a studio in Los Angeles, and who will remain here permanently, promises to be one of the "strong" members of our local colony of painters. She has studied in London, but the most powerful direction of her art career came from Chase and Henri, in whose school she was a student for a number of years. Like all of Henri's pupils, she is a "Henri enthusiast." Despite her English ancestry, she did not find English painting or English methods of teaching particularly inspiring. She much preferred the "individual instruction" she found in the Chase school in New York.

Undoubtedly her choice was a wise one. I have met her only once, but I found her to be highly sincere, im[illegible]able, intelligent and intellectual woman who paints with her brain as well as her brushes. The pictures in the present collection show this very conclusively, I think, and they also show that she is thoroughly modern in her point of view, that her "impressionism" goes with a free and supple brush-stroke, and that her vision is never impeded by a single unneeded detail.

At first glance, therefore, her work may strike you as being brusque and summary, even incomplete; but further study of it will convince you that she has said all she started out to say, and sometimes with eclat—as, for instance, in her "Woman in Black," a richly-colored Spanish type, though neither young nor beautiful. The woman is slender and lithe, however, and wears a red rose in her hair and one on her breast. The head is finely modeled and painted, the somber gown and shawl are rendered with admirable precision and knowledge of values. Hardly less interesting is "Woman With the Gold Fish," which, like "Woman in Black," is painted life size. The pose of the woman, who is dressed in dull green, is full of rhythm, the face is vividly alive, the hands are strongly, almost brutally, painted.



Sisters. By Henrietta M. Shore.

Miss Shore loves to study and to paint children and old people, for they have so much to give and to tell. She has made almost a specialty of children in portraiture and genre, and of the faces and figures of the old. "Sisters," a vigorous record of child experience, shows two little girls before a blue wash bowl, the one in black, the other in ruddy gray. They are posed against a gray background that has much warmth in it. They are charming children, deeply absorbed in the fascinating task of splashy ablutions, and the artist has caught the happy energy of their play. "The Little Girl in Green," a portrait, gives us an equally charming child resting at ease in a chair. The pose is as quiet as that of Whistler's mother, and the child's dull green velvet frock finds subtle harmonies with her loose tresses of dark hair, her pale yet warm skin, and the rich mahogany color of the chair she sits on. In composition this picture is admirable.

Effective and sympathetic studies are the smaller canvases called "Old Woman's Head" and "Flower Woman," as well as "Spanish Nurses in the Park," the last being painted in Madrid and showing two small maids and their nurses, all in white, against the purple and green of the park trees.

Miss Shore's park studies are numerous, and were made in various parts of the world. "At the Zoo, Toronto," gives us a back view of women and children staring through wire bars at the gaudy red and blue and green splendors of parrots and cockatoos. A gay scene comes from Amsterdam—the flower market, bright with spots of living color, under the soft gray skies of Holland.

The artist's pictures will interest you and though you may not agree with her method of expression, you will like her big directness and earnestness.

Pictures by Judson.

An exhibition of about thirty paintings by William Lees Judson, director of the College of Fine Arts, Garvanza, is now in progress at the Steckel Gallery, No. 336½ South Broadway, where it will remain to May 2. The pictures are in the two mediums of oil and water color.

Many of these paintings have been seen before, though there are some characteristic new ones. Judson finds his subjects everywhere—among the beautiful oak-wooded hills of Garvanza, along the sunlit shore from Monterey to Laguna Beach, on the arid expanses of the blazing desert.

Three well-painted water colors are "Fisherman's Cove," "Monterey Fish Houses" and "Laguna Cliffs." Another, even more attractive, is "Point Joe."

"Golden Catalina" is the biggest canvas in the exhibition, and one of the best. It is very different from the usual Catalina subject—Sugar Loaf, the bay at Avalon and all the others that have been painted a thousand times—in that it brings us to the interior of the wonderful isle in the Pacific, among the vast hills, yellow and dun-colored, and trailing mists of cloud under the clean sky of light blue. Another large canvas is "Sunshine and Snow," range on range of mountains towering above a valley, the nearer ones all pink and lavender, those more distant snow-crowned.

"San Jacinto, Morning," has a pleasing color scheme of grayish greens. "Corona Del Mar" shows us the gray-pink headlands covered with low-lying summer verdure, the curving loops of the green sea looking like strings of jewels. "Autumn," warmly somber in tone, shows us live oaks under a clouded sky. The blues and greens of the sea in "Laguna Headland" contrast vividly with the browns and yellows of the rocks.

ART NOTES.

The East Newport School of Art is being organized by Louise Frear Pinckney and Doris Rosenthal, both instructors in the Los Angeles State Normal School. The classes will remain in session from July 1 to July 28, and will be devoted to work in design, drawing, craft work, out-door sketching and painting.

At the little gallery in No. 311 Title Guarantee building, just opened and devoted to small objects of art and beauty, as well as pictures, eight or ten excellent water-color landscapes by E. T. Holding, the English artist, are being shown. Holding's skies are vast and beautiful, with floating mists and clouds.

Two new landscapes from the brush of Jerome Blum of Chicago are being shown in the Fine Arts Gallery, Exposition Park.

A number of pictures by Jules Pages are being shown in San Francisco. Pages is now in the northern city.

MEN AND EVENTS.

Having hauled a load of hay across the Canadian border from his house to his stable, which is in Van Buren, Me., Eugene L. Harmon was arrested for evading customs. At his trial, which is yet to come, he will contend that he has a right to carry produce from his house to his stable, border or no border.

Almost a century of service for one firm is the record established by the Schmidt family of Chicago. Since 1857 one, two or three members of the family have been in the employ of the firm continuously, while the terms of the three aggregate ninety-eight years.

G. M. Turner of Greenville, S. C., is the father of a ton of children. His family consists of ten children, two girls and eight boys. The average weight of the children is 200 pounds, the lightest being 170 and the heaviest 300.

While George Jessup was vainly trying to start a fire in his house in Collingswood, N. J., lightning struck, came down the chimney and lit the fire. It also burned down the house.

Assisted by a trolley car, Alexander Morton moved a large house from one location to another in South Norwalk, Ct., in less than thirty minutes. The city authorities gave him only that much time in which to do it, and, with the aid of a car and a large gang of men with rollers, the trick was done.

Believed by his family to have been dead for seventeen years, Jacob L. Beard, as the result of a sudden inspiration, wired his mother, Mrs. J. H. Nall, at his old home at Hickory Grove, Ky. A few hours later he received advices from there begging him to come home and telling him that he had fallen heir to $20,000 left him by his stepfather.

Stanley Kroloski, a Polish farmer living near Lop City, Nev., displayed wonderful endurance when his horse ran away, throwing him out of the wagon and breaking his leg. Although there was a blizzard raging at the time, he dragged himself to a thicket, where he cut himself a pair of crutches, on which he went to the nearest farmhouse. The mercury was below zero at the time.

After being absent from home for twenty-one years, Richard Hoffman returned to Belleville, N. Y., with the intention of surprising his brother, who he supposed would not recognize him. When he reached his brother's house, however, he found that the pleasant man he had been talking to on the train had been his brother, who had known him all the time.

"Art and Fancy"

Announce the opening of their new shop, 311 Title Guarantee Building, Fifth Street and Broadway.

Paintings of E. T. Holding and Frederic Gay never before shown in this country are among the many other wonderful works of art to be exhibited; as also dainty novelties in handmade fancy goods; East Indian Incense, Perfumes and Oriental beads.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

Were our California roses ever so lovely as this year? That is what everyone is exclaiming. The bountiful rains and the warm sunshine have combined to give us such a glorious wealth of roses as never before. This was emphasized at the lovely "rose luncheon" given at Ebell on Thursday, when the rooms were a perfect bower of roses. The tables were aglow with the choicest specimens and roses ran riot everywhere. At every place lay a big corsage bouquet of the lovely little Cecile Brunner roses, their dainty pink blossoms smiling a greeting to each guest. The pretty idea originated with Mrs. Harry Voorhees, who so delightfully plans these luncheons, which are a semi-monthly feature of the art and travel section. On this occasion Mrs. Voorhees was ably assisted by Mrs. W. W. Homan.

In harmony with the flowers, Miss Ethel Coleman sang some charming spring songs, pretty Marjorie Hicks accompanying her on the piano. After that half a dozen of the different members described in turn certain well-known characters, leaving it for the guests to guess the identity of the persons described.

The topic of the morning programme, which preceded the luncheon, was "Literary Paris," and Mrs. H. Montague Porter led us in the footsteps of Victor Hugo, Balzac, Voltaire, Corneille, Racine and other literary lights of France. Afterward, Miss Helen Brooks, instructor of the department, gave a most interesting talk on Millet and other Genre painters, illustrating her address by pictures on the screen of the most famous works of these artists.

State Convention Programme.

A glance at the programme offered for the State convention of women's clubs which comes off at Riverside this week, opening on Tuesday evening, shows a wide range of subjects, running from civics and science to home economics, patriotism, politics and public health. In searching the programme for a lighter quality of mental diet I find a concert, scheduled for Friday evening, coupled with a dramatic recital and a one-act comedy—the offering of the Music and Art Committees.

However, plenteously sandwiched in between this solid mental nutriment, we shall have an abundance of the syllabub of social functions. Our Riverside hostesses have looked out for this and garden parties, teas, receptions, motor rides, Rubidoux breakfasts, etc., etc., make glad our frivolous souls.

Of course the programme bristles with the usual routine of reports from different departments and districts and, aside from these, we are to have on Wednesday afternoon an address on "Housing Reform" by Carleton H. Parker, secretary of Immigration and Housing Commission; an address on Thursday morning by Dr. Martin A. Meyer of San Francisco on "Social Hygiene," and a lecture on Thursday afternoon on "The Human Cost of Industry" by Dr. Ira B. Cross of Stanford who, by the way, is to repeat this same lecture the following morning at the Friday Morning Club in Los Angeles. On Thursday evening Edwin R. Snyder, commissioner of vocational education in California, will deliver the same lecture he gave before Ebell last Monday, a report of which appeared in this department the following day. O. J. Kearn of the University of California will also give an illustrated lecture the same evening on "Education for Country Life."

The convention will be held in the Congregational church in Riverside and the first formal session will be on Tuesday evening, when there will be addresses of welcome from Mrs. J. L. Holland, chairman of the local board; from the Mayor of Riverside, from the State president, Mrs. James W. Orr, and from the various district presidents.

A Dutch Luncheon.

The Philotos Club held its April meeting last week at the home of Mrs. J. W. Chambers, No. 103 Manhattan place. In place of the customary literary programme a Dutch luncheon was given. The table decorations were in red and yellow tulips and tiny jars of the same gay Dutch flowers marked the places of the guests. The menu and the costumes of the members were in accordance with Dutch ideas and the afternoon programme consisted of Dutch songs, dances and recitations. Mrs. F. E. Estes, president, and Mrs. E. J. Edwards were appointed delegates to the State convention at Riverside.

Did You Write One of These?

Los Angeles was the only district in California that took part in the Interstate Literary Contest announced by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and the district chairman of literature, Mrs. Samuel E. Epler, announces that the judges awarded first and second places respectively to the two manuscripts entitled, "German Music and Musicians" and "Chula Vista." Since no other districts in the State entered the contest, these manuscripts have been forwarded to the General Federation Committee as representative of California. No announcement of the final decision has yet been reecived and the writers of the two above-mentioned manuscripts are requested to send their names and addresses, together with the names of the clubs they represent, to Mrs. Epler at once.

Will Sing at State Convention.

Mrs. Harry G. Marxmiller of the Harmonia Club has been invited by Riverside hostesses to sing at the State Convention of Women's Clubs next Thursday evening.

She Wins Scholarship.

Miss Ray Feeman from the Hollywood High School has been awarded the College Women's Club scholarship, which will entitle her to entrance to the University of California next year. Miss Feeman has finished two years of junior work in Los Angeles and will require but two more years at the university to get her degree.

The College Women's Club has for some years included in its philanthropic work, this giving of a scholarship to some deserving young woman.

George Junior Boys Popular.

I imagined those George Junior boys would become popular entertainers once it was know how well they can do in that line. Since the account of their stunning performance before Eschscholtzia Chapter of the D.A.R., published in The Times, the superintendent, Gerald C. Waterhouse, has been kept busy accepting invitations for himself and his cabinet officers to appear before various clubs. Last Friday they came into Los Angeles again and appeared before the Women's Million Club in Blanchard Hall and tomorrow they are scheduled for the Sierra Madre Women's Club.

Celebrate Fifth Anniversary.

The Sierra Madre Club will celebrate the fifth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the clubhouse on May 11 and plans are being made to make it an especially happy occasion. One feature of the programme will be the review by Dr. Elwood Nash of Winston Churchill's "The Inside of the Cup." Miss Verena Yule will furnish the music, there will be refreshments served, and members are asked to come prepared to make a birthday gift of gold or silver.

The following delegates have been appointed to the State Convention in Riverside: Mrs. Frank Wright, president; Miss Anna B. Coffey, Mrs. C. H. Baker. Alternates, Mmes. F. J. Hart, W. J. Lawless and W. H. Ingraham.

All Aboard for Riverside.

Mrs. Frank Garrett, who has charge of the transportation for the State Convention at Riverside, announces that a special train will leave the Santa Fe station on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The fare for the round trip will be $1.75, tickets good for seven days. Tickets are on sale at No. 206 Mercantile place and may also be had at the Ebell Club tomorrow afternoon. An excursion to the Grand Canyon has been arranged to immediately follow the convention. Round trip tickets from Riverside will be $25.

To Thresh it Out.

Seward Simons is the speaker, who has been selected to represent the faction of the Friday Morning Club opposed to the power bonds at the public, free-for-all discussion, which is scheduled to come off tomorrow evening at the clubhouse.

The Arlington Club.

The above club, of which Mrs. P. W. Gray of No. 2738 Kenwood avenue is president, has applied for membership in the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Although this club was organized three years ago, but little publicity has been given to its affairs. It has about twenty-five members and states its object to be mutual improvement and social intercourse.

Cosmos Club Election.

The Cosmos Club was one of the first of the more important Los Angeles clubs to hold its annual election. This event was held last Wednesday with the following result: President, Mrs. A. C. Hummelbaugh; first vice-president, Mrs. W. F. Anderson; second vice-president, Mrs. R. C. P. Smith; third vice-president, Mrs. N. L. Beihl; recording secretary, Mrs. E. H. Jacobs; corresponding secretary, Mrs H. E. Lanzit; treasurer, Mrs. T. S. Lewis.

The programme on Wednesday was in charge of the current events section and was participated in by Mmes. W. F. Anderson, James Scott and John S. Myers, who spoke respectively on the work of Nathan Strauss, the housing problem, and the work of the Associated Charities.

Next Wednesday, Miss Frances Lewis, mezzo contralto, will give a programme of classic songs and dances.

Pomona Ebell Festival.

Pomona club women are enthusiastically interested just now in a May festival which is to be held May 1 and 2, and which they declare will be the most elaborate event of this nature that Pomona has ever seen. Not only are all the best-known women of that town taking an active part, but considerable Los Angeles talent has been secured. Students from the Cumnock School will give May dances—young girls who are friends of Miss Elma Crank of Pomona, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Crank, where the festival will be given on the spacious grounds surrounding the Crank mansion on North Garey avenue. There is to be a Maypole dance and the festivities will close on the evening of May 2, with a grand ball. A big moving picture concern from Los Angeles has been engaged to go out and take shots at the fete and parade, the pictures to be shown later in Pomona and surrounding towns.

Old English May Day.

The College Women's Club announce a May festival in the form of an old English May Day coronal, to take place next Saturday in the pine grove at Hotel Raymond, Pasadena. Members representing the University of California will have charge, Miss Louise Ehrmann acting as chairman of arrangements, assisted by Miss Margaret Phillipson, and Mrs. Isabel McReynolds Grey.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the re-election of the president, Mrs. Roger J. Sterrett; the second vice-president, Mrs. F. F. Prendergast; the third vice-president, Mrs. Charles F. Nelson, and the corresponding secretary, Mrs. O. C. Montgomery. The new officers elected are the first vice-president, Mrs. John Beardsley, in place of Miss Sybil Jones, whose term of office had expired; the recording secretary, Miss Edith Wilde in place of Miss Helen Dickey, the retiring secretary, and the treasurer, Miss Ann Mumford, in place of Miss Blanche Graham.

Ebell to Work With Symphony.

The Ebell Club, under the presidency of Mrs. W. L. Jones, has inaugurated many distinctly worthwhile movements, and one of the most recent is the appointment of a committee to work in conjunction with the Los Angeles Symphony Association. The Ebell Club has long been an associate member of the association and, desiring to further in a more definite manner the undertakings of the little band of music-loving men and women who stand sponsor for the financial outlay of the orchestra, the club has now placed itself on record as an active ally. Arrangements will be formulated for the disposal of a large block of seats among the Ebell Club women, and announcements will be made from the Ebell Club platform on the Monday before each concert, giving a brief resume of the programme to be presented.

Working with Mrs. Jones on this committee will be an efficient force of Ebell women including Mmes. Reuben T. Shettler, James Warren Holden, Eramus Wilson, W. S. Botsford, E. K. Martindale, E. S. Rowley, Hartley Updegraff, Stoddard Jess, Charles E. Seaman, C. H. Lippincott, George T. Thresher, Frank W. King, Edwin R. Voight, J. T. Fitzgerald, F. W. Johnson, Harmon D. Ryus, Hampton L. Story and Frederick Rindge.

This new committee met for the first time on Wednesday morning when Dr. Norman Bridge, president of the Symphony Association, was present, and spoke of the aims and requirements of the organization. J. T. Fitzgerald, honorary manager of the association, spoke of the spiritual gain to be derived from good music and Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. R. R. Blackner and Mrs. B. B. Bu members of the directorate, were present and were formally introduced.

The Symphony directorate, at its meeting on Thursday, expressed great satisfaction at the splendid spirit of co-operation shown by the women of Ebell.

Food, Flies and Farming.

New Zealand, food and flies formed the versatile programme of the Inglewood Women's Club at its meeting last week at the home of Mrs. W. E. Bowden on Tamarack street. Mrs. E. R. Kerr told about the government control of railroads in New Zealand and Mrs. W. O. Bullis gave an interesting talk about country life there and the wool kings who control the sheep market. Mrs. Anna F. Ca told how to cook vegetables and meat substitutes, which was an exceedingly profitable and practical topic in these times of the high cost of meat. The fly question came in at roll call when each member responded to her name with a recipe or method of exterminating the pests.

Glendale Tuesday Club.

California wild flowers, with natural specimens for illustrations, will form an absorbing topic at the Glendale club next Tuesday, when Mrs. Victoria Ellis of Long Beach will present the subject.

On the evening of May 7 the last guest programme of the season will be given in the form of a concert devoted exclusively to American composers. One number of particular interest will be the piano and violin sonata by Henry Schoenefeld, for which he received the Martean prize offered for the best composition of this kind by an American composer. This will be played by Glendale's best violinist, young Julius Kranz, with Mrs. Mattison B. Jones at the piano.

The music section, of which Mrs. Freeman Kelley is chairman, gave a delightful programme on Saturday evening. Folk songs and dances of all nations were given most artistically. This section has done splendid work throughout the year and has presented many fine programmes before the club.

In South Pasadena.

"Legislation" was the topic before the South Pasadena Women's Improvement Association Wednesday afternoon. Senator N. W. Thompson gave a talk on the amendments to the State Constitution which are to be voted upon in November, explaining them in rotation.

Mrs. Seward Simons followed with a strong plea for the abolition of the red-light district, which, she stated, would have become a law last August, but was held up by a referendum petition, and will again go before the voters.

Mrs. Georgiana Bullock, a lawyer, told of the legal rights of women.

The programme was presented by the Civics Committee, of which Mrs. E. M. Mumford is chairman.

Ruskin Art Club.

Mrs. Hermon Smith and Mrs. F. L. Kennedy will have charge of the Ruskin Art Club programme next Wednesday. The history of early French American discoveries will be presented by Mrs. Sherman Urion and Mrs. W. H. Council.

San Diego W.R.C. Delegates.

Mrs. Ella Nelk, president of the Inglewood W.R.C., No. 119, will be sent as a delegate to the department convention to be held in San Diego this week. Other delegates elected are Mrs. J. T. Leftwich and Mrs. Ha Hall, past president.

Downey Club Entertains.

The Saturday Afternoon Club of Downey observed Reciprocity Day last Thursday, entertaining a large delegation from different clubs in Los Angeles district. At the conclusion of the luncheon Mrs. Jane M. Be vice-president of the district federation, spoke and a programme was given, the chief feature of which was an address by Mrs. Frank Stout of the Panama Canal, who has the gift of making dry facts and statistics seem as fascinating as fairy tales. Music was rendered on violin and piano and vocally by Miss Coe Martin, Mrs. H. Ardis and Miss Beal. After the programme the guests were taken for an automobile ride about the environs of Downey.

Delegates from this club to the State convention at Riverside are Mmes. Arthur L. Darby, president; George Williamson, Denton E. Hull and James C. Rives.

Getting Even With Hubby.

[Boston Advertiser:] A young married couple of Baltimore recently had a dispute concerning the biscuit served for breakfast. The husband offered certain tart observations touching his wife's culinary skill, referring, of course, to the "kind mother used to make."

This sally moved the wife to action, with the result that the next morning she set before the complaining husband a plate of hot biscuit alleged to be the real thing.

"Now you've hit it!" exclaimed he after disposing of one biscuit. "These biscuit are exactly like the sort mother used to make. How did you happen to hit upon the recipe?"

"I am happy to inform you," said his wife, with glittering eyes, "that I employed oleo for butter, used cold storage eggs, dropped a bit of alum in the flour, and adulterated the milk. Remember, sweetheart, that mother lived before the enactment of the pure food law."

KOPSERVICE Nemo Corsets $5.00

If KOPSERVICE Corsets were not advertised—therefore made and sold in a small way—the retail price would be at least $10. Selling hundreds of dozens daily makes the price only—

NOVELTY and sheer superiority, backed by vigorous advertising, have brought the demand for KOPSERVICE up to hundreds of dozens daily—in less than two months!

That's why we can manufacture corsets so economically that we are always able to give you double value.

That's why KOPSERVICE costs you only $5.00 instead of twice that!

Two models for slender and medium figures are pictured. They show two of the splendid new features:

1. The almost topless model, No. 561, which is all-elastic above the waist-line. Has the Nemo "bridge" construction—it can't "dig in."
2. The semi-elastic gores covering nearly the entire gastric region (No. 562). Absolute freedom from pressure, and the easy expansion of the "nature figure."

All KOPSERVICE Corsets have the short inner corset that gives easy, perfect figure-support. The very long skirt is made pliable by the famous semi-elastic Lasticurve-Back. You can stand, sit, bend, walk, golf, tennis or dance without a trace of tightness or constriction.

The two models for full figures (Nos. 551 and 552) are equally pliant and comfortable. And the elastics don't give out.

All Kopservice Models Sold at the Same Price } $5.00

If you have any corset-troubles, by all means find relief in KOPSERVICE. But if you already wear a Nemo that just suits your figure, by all means stick to it! KOPSERVICE is only a timely addition to the popular Nemo family.

Ebell to Work With Symphony.

The Ebell Club, under the presidency of Mrs. W. L. Jones, has inaugurated many distinctly worth-while movements, and one of the most recent is the appointment of a committee to work in conjunction with the Los Angeles Symphony Association. The Ebell Club has long been an associate member of the association and, desiring to further in a more definite manner the undertakings of the little band of music-loving men and women who stand sponsor for the financial outlay of the orchestra, the club has now placed itself on record as an active ally. Arrangements will be formulated for the disposal of a large block of seats among the Ebell Club women, and announcements will be made from the Ebell Club platform on the Monday before each concert, giving a brief resume of the programme to be presented.

Working with Mrs. Jones on this committee will be an efficient force of Ebell women including Mmes. Reuben T. Shettler, James Warren Holder, Eramus Wilson, W. S. Botsford, E. H. Martindale, E. S. Rowley, Hartley Updegraff, Stoddard Jess, Charles E. Seaman, C. H. Lippincott, George T. Thresher, Frank W. King, Edwin H. Voight, J. T. Fitzgerald, F. W. Johnson, Harmon D. Ryus, Hampton L. Story and Frederick Rindge.

This new committee met for the first time on Wednesday morning, when Dr. Norman Bridge, president of the Symphony Association, was present, and spoke of the aims and requirements of the organization. J. T. Fitzgerald, honorary manager of the association, spoke of the spiritual gain to be derived from good music, and Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. R. R. Blackner and Mrs. B. B. Bush, members of the directorate, were present and were formally introduced.

The Symphony directorate, at its meeting on Thursday, expressed great satisfaction at the splendid spirit of co-operation shown by the women of Ebell.

Food, Flies and Farming.

New Zealand, food and flies formed the versatile programme of the Inglewood Women's Club at its meeting last week at the home of Mrs. W. H. Bowden on Tamarack street. Mrs. M. R. Kerr told about the government control of railroads in New Zealand, and Mrs. W. O. Bullis gave an interesting talk about country life there, and the wool kings who control the sheep market. Mrs. Anna F. Clark told how to cook vegetables and meat substitutes, which was an exceedingly profitable and practical topic in these times of the high cost of meat. The fly question came in at roll call when each member responded to her name with a recipe or method of exterminating the pests.

Glendale Tuesday Club.

California wild flowers, with natural specimens for illustrations, will form an absorbing topic at the Glendale club next Tuesday, when Miss Victoria Ellis of Long Beach will present the subject.

On the evening of May 7 the last guest programme of the season will be given in the form of a concert devoted exclusively to American composers. One number of particular interest will be the piano and violin sonata by Henry Schoenefeld, for which he received the Martean prize offered for the best composition of this kind by an American composer. This will be played by Glendale's best violinist, young Julius Kranz, with Mrs. Mattison B. Jones at the piano.

The music section, of which Mrs. Freeman Kelley is chairman, gave a delightful programme on Saturday evening. Folk songs and dances of all nations were given most artistically. This section has done splendid work throughout the year and has presented many fine programmes before the club.

In South Pasadena.

"Legislation" was the topic before the South Pasadena Women's Improvement Association Wednesday afternoon. Senator N. W. Thompson gave a talk on the amendments to the State Constitution which are to be voted upon in November, explaining them in rotation.

Mrs. Seward Simons followed with a strong plea for the abolition of the red-light district, which, she stated, would have become a law last August, but was held up by a referendum petition, and will again go before the voters.

Mrs. Georgiana Bullock, a lawyer, told of the legal rights of women.

The programme was presented by the Civics Committee, of which Mrs. E. M. Mumford is chairman.

Ruskin Art Club.

Mrs. Hermon Smith and Mrs. F. L. Kennedy will have charge of the Ruskin Art Club programme next Wednesday. The history of early French-American discoveries will be presented by Mrs. Sherman Urion and Mrs. W. H. Council.

San Diego W.R.C. Delegates.

Mrs. Ella Nelk, president of the Inglewood W.R.C., No. 119, will be sent as a delegate to the department convention to be held in San Diego this week. Other delegates elected are Mrs. J. T. Leftwich and Mrs. Hannah Hall, past president.

Downey Club Entertains.

The Saturday Afternoon Club of Downey observed Reciprocity Day last Thursday, entertaining a large delegation from different clubs in Los Angeles district. At the conclusion of the luncheon Mrs. Jane M. Beatty, vice-president of the district federation, spoke and a programme was given, the chief feature of which was an address by Mrs. Frank Stout of the Panama Canal, who has the gift of making dry facts and statistics sound as fascinating as fairy tales. Music was rendered on violin and piano and vocally by Miss Coe Martin, Mrs. I. H. Ardis and Miss Beal. After the programme the guests were taken on an automobile ride about the environs of Downey.

Delegates from this club to the State convention at Riverside are Mmes. Arthur L. Darby, president; George W. Williamson, Denton E. Hull and James C. Rives.

Getting Even With Hubby.

[Boston Advertiser:] A young married couple of Baltimore recently had a dispute concerning the biscuit served for breakfast. The husband offered certain tart observations touching his wife's culinary ability, referring, of course, to the "kind that mother used to make."

This sally moved the wife to action, with the result that the next morning she set before the complaining husband a plate of hot biscuit alleged to be the real thing.

"Now you've hit it!" exclaimed he after disposing of one biscuit. "These biscuit are exactly like the sort my mother used to make. How did you happen to hit upon the recipe?"

"I am happy to inform you," said his wife, with glittering eyes, "that I employed oleo for butter, used cold-storage eggs, dropped a bit of alum in the flour, and adulterated the milk. Remember, sweetheart, that mother lived before the enactment of the pure food law."

IN GERMANY.

German Women and Suffrage.

It is announced by the League of German Women's Associations that over a hundred leaders of the woman's movement in Germany will be in Rome next month for the quinquennial meeting of the International Council of Women, and the general Women's Congress.

Dr. Gertrude Baeumer, president of the German League, will present a report on the progress of the movement in Germany during the past five years and will also deliver an address before the council on "The Value of the Work of the Housewife."

Among the other German representatives at Rome will be Frau Ernst Bassermann, wife of the leader of the National Liberal party. Dr. Alice Salomon, who as honorary corresponding secretary has done a great share of the preliminary and organization work for the meeting of the council; Fraeulein Pappenheim of the Jewish Woman's League, and Fraeulein Paula Mueller of the Evangelical Woman's League, and Fraeulein Israel, head of a large and recently-organized association for female clerks and business employees.

Only some twenty of the German representatives can sit as delegates and alternates at the meetings of the council; the others can attend only the public meetings and the subsequent general congress organized by the Italian women; but the presence of more than a hundred German women at Rome under these conditions is a striking testimonial to the enthusiasm in Germany for the feminist cause.

The work of the women's organizations in Germany since the last meeting of the council in 1909 has been largely directed toward legislation, and the league, with its more than 500,000 members, has become a power before which the government and parliaments have frequently had to bow. Petitions and demonstrations have been launched repeatedly against measures affecting the economic status of women, and this aspect of the programme of the Rome conference will receive the particular attention of the German delegates.

The question of female suffrage, on the other hand, is for the German women more a matter of academic interest. Practically all the organizations connected with the league are in favor of giving the vote to women, but it is generally recognized that this cannot be won in Germany in the immediate future, and attention is concentrated on other efforts. Women's associations have been organized within most of the political parties even among the Conservatives, in spite of their general attitude that the proper sphere of woman is limited to the "three C's," children, church and cooking.

Church-Side Divorce.

The "flight from the church," the movement of protest against the connection of church and state, more than doubled in 1913 as compared with 1912, according to statistics submitted at the annual meeting of the Berlin municipal synod of the Evangelical (Lutheran) Church. Some 12,711 Berliners left the church last year and 24,090 in the last three years, in response to the agitation of the "Anti-Church Committee," which aims to abolish the compulsory taxation of church members. In some parishes as high as 12 per cent. of the communicants have withdrawn.

Dr. Lahusen, general superintendent of the synod, declared that conditions were most serious and distressing, the church suffering from dissensions within (referring to recent heresy trials against clergymen of the modern "liberal" school,) as well as from attacks from without. He declared that in more than 60,000 instances last year the church had to apply to the courts and the police to collect the sums due for the service of its altars.

Violence Traced to Hysteria.

Geheimrath Joseph Kohler, professor of jurisprudence at Berlin University, discusses the suffragette outbreak learnedly in the Lokalanzeiger, comparing it to the religious mania of other people. Prof. Kohler summarizes his conclusions regarding the proper way of dealing with this hysteria (which he also compares in its violence to Nihilism,) thus:

"Society must retain complete composure. There must be no false sympathy. He who today feels sympathy for a hysterical woman is tomorrow her slave, and sympathy for hysteria en masse is a sin against society."

He says suffragettes should be made on all accounts to complete their sentences. If they become very weak they should be transferred to the prison hospitals, but on no account released. The article is interesting because Prof. Kohler is, as he admits himself, a warm supporter of female suffrage.

Count Divorces Maniac.

On the ground that at the time of his marriage he knew nothing of his wife's past life under the name of "Pussy Uhl," Count Fischler von Treuberg has obtained a divorce from the Countess, who is now serving fifteen months' imprisonment for fraud, blackmail and usury.

The trial of the Countess, which concluded in December, it will be recalled, was a "cause celebre" which attracted attention throughout Europe by reason of the piquant revelations it gave of the shady side of German society and the spendthrift night life of Berlin. Many were the noble names dragged into the case, and it was, indeed, suggested that two young officers of aristocratic family had committed suicide through finding themselves involved in usury through the Countess's agency.

The charges ranged from grave to frivolous. Among other things she was accused of calling a telephone girl "saucy creature," with fraud by means of a matrimonial agency, and fraudulent bankruptcy. No fewer than fifty witnesses were cited—although they did not all appear—including a Princess of Ysenburg-Budingen, aunt of the Princess Sophia of Saxe-Weimar, who recently committed suicide, who was fined for refusing to give evidence.

The Countess is over 40, although she looks much less. The daughter of a shoemaker, at the age of 18 she had already given her parents trouble, and the police were invited to supervise her doings. A few years later, under the name of "Pussy Uhl," she was the most fated demi-mondaine in Frankfort. Later she removed to Hamburg, where she easily disposed of the thousands supplied by successive admirers. Finally, a gift from one of these of $5000 enabled her to marry a wealthy hotel-keeper. She appeared, however, not very long after in the divorce court, and eventually married the Count.

At the time of her trial she was said to be living on an allowance of $100 monthly, given by her first husband. Three bottles of champagne a day were stated to be her average consumption, while she has had particular weaknesses for morphine, brandy and tobacco.

IN SCOTLAND.

Remarkable Prison Record.

In Edinburgh Police Court Thomas Hyland pleaded guilty to having been drunk in the Grassmarket. Out of the 365 days in last year accused had spent no fewer than 336 of them in prison for various offenses. Recently an effort had been made to deal with him under the inebriates act, but unfortunately the conditions of the statute did not fully apply. Bailie Rusk sent him to prison for sixty days.

Ten O'Clock Closing.

The Committee of the National and Denominational Temperance Organizations of Scotland has issued a manifesto relating to the 10 o'clock closing of public houses in towns and cities in Scotland. It is stated that an agitation has recently been raised by a section of the liquor trade to revert to 11 o'clock as the hour for closing, but there has been no demand on the part of the public to revert to the later hour for closing.

Highlanders Clamor for Land.

A meeting of Highlanders held at Inverkeithing passed the following resolution: "That this meeting of landless Highlanders from all parts of the northern counties and the Hebrides employed at Rosyth Naval Base do hereby unanimously appeal to the Right Hon. D. Lloyd George to rescue us and our fellow landless countrymen elsewhere throughout the Gaelic-speaking areas by providing small holdings with ample pasturage to enable us to exist in our native Highlands."

Livingstone Relic.

The latest gift to Eorropaidh Church, Lewis, is the prayer book which Dr. Livingstone carried with him during long periods of isolation in the interior of Africa. This copy of the Book of Common Prayer has been inscribed as follows by the donor, Mrs. Livingstone Wilson, the only surviving member of Dr. Livingstone's family:

"This prayer book, which belonged to David Livingstone, African missionary-explorer, and which was used by him on his travels, is presented by special request and under and in terms of a separate deed, to the Church of St. Moluag at Eorropaidh, Butt of Lewis, by his daughter."

IN WALES.

Boy's Swim to Save Dog.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has granted a medal to George Green, a boy, aged 14 years, who swam thirty yards to rescue a dog, which was nearly drowned, last month, in Pwllheli Harbor.

Rearing of Babies.

In his report submitted to the Dolgelley Urban Council, Dr. Hugh Jones (the medical offices,) states that last year there were seven deaths among infants under one year of age, 155 to every 1000 registered births, a strikingly high figure. He urged strongly that the management and rearing of infants generally should be compulsorily taught in every elementary school.

IN IRELAND.

Triplets.

The wife of Samuel Ballantine, draper, Fintona, has given birth to triplets. The mother and two of the babies are doing well, but the third baby died shortly after birth.

Forty-three Years a Station Master.

James Moore Gourley, who had been for forty-three years station master at Jordanstown for the Midland Railway, Northern Counties Committee, is dead at the age of 71.

Matrimonial Excuse Not Accepted.

Some amusement was caused at County Down Assizes by an excuse sent on behalf of an absent juror. "I understand there is something matrimonial in the wind"—Lord Chief Justice Cherry read from a letter handed in. "Well," he said, "I cannot accept that. I will fine him 40s. (Laughter.)

Telltale Scrap of Paper.

John Sullivan, a casual laborer, has been returned for trial at the Assizes from Kilcullen Petty Sessions, on a charge of breaking into the dwelling house of a farmer named William Humphrey of Harristown, and stealing a silver watch and chain, and some clothing. A small scrap of paper with a girl's name on it, found in an old coat, led to the arrest of Sullivan in county Monaghan.

A Fatal Sequel.

When Mrs. Mary Heffernan, licensed vintner of Main street, Athboy, was fined £2 for permitting gambling on her premises and £3, with an indorsement on the license, for selling drink at prohibited hours, it was stated that one of the men, Leyden, who had been supplied with drink on the premises after closing time by stating that he had been working at Kells, was drowned that night at Clifton, near Athboy.

Fever-Stricken Families.

A serious outbreak of scarlet fever is reported from the Ballymoe district of North Galway. In the case of a family named Fannon, the mother succumbed, and the father and six children were removed to the Glenamadda Workhouse Hospital. In another case of a family being removed to hospital, a girl of 8 years died on the journey. The schools of the district are closed.

Lady Trimlestown Dead.

The death has occurred at Bloomsbury, Kells, county Meath, of Mabel Florence, wife of Lord Trimlestown. She was married to his Lordship in December, 1907, as his second wife. She was the daughter of William Robert Shuff of Torquay, Devon. The surviving children—two sons and three daughters—are the issue of the first marriage, their mother, a Queensland lady, having died in 1901.

Father and Sons Drowned.

All hope has been abandoned of the schooner Glad Tidings, which left Garston last month for Drogheda, where she was owned by McCann and Hill. She was in charge of John Whitehead, master, his sons, Thomas and Joseph Whitehead, and Frank Owens, deck-boy. Mrs. Whitehead and five young children reside at Drogheda. Mr. Whitehead's eldest son, aged 22, was lost at sea some twelve months ago.

Parish Priest's Cattle Driven.

A serious disturbance, in the course of which several people were injured in a baton charge, occurred near Creggs, county Galway, following an attempt by a number of tenants to drive cattle from the lands of Scahane House, acquired by a Tenants' Committee, of which Canon Geraghty, P.P., Kilbegnet, is president. Recently some tenants of the Gortnadieve section passed a resolution calling on the canon to give the land over to the Congested Districts Board or the Estates Commissioners. The Gortnadieve tenants, accompanied by a fife-and-drum band, cleared the lands of Scahane of the stock, which was said to belong to Canon Geraghty.

IN ENGLAND.

Women as Lawyers.

Politicians of all parties, including Sir John Simon, the Attorney-General, and Viscount Haldane, the Lord Chancellor, have given their support to a movement to admit women to practice as lawyers. The only opposition now comes from the Incorporated Law Society, the chartered body of solicitors. The question will be put to a test in Parliament during the present session if the government can find time.

Sir John Simon announced his support of the movement in a speech which he delivered in favor of votes for women, and Lord Haldane backed him up when a deputation waited upon him urging that the charge should be made immediately. The deputation laid stress on the fact that in America and in most progressive countries women were allowed to practice, and even in England women were admitted to practically every other profession.

All the universities, with the exception of Oxford and Cambridge, admit women to the law degree. The only objections seemed to be that women would enter into competition with men and that they were unsuitable by nature for the work of solicitors.

Lord Haldane advised the women to watch their chance, and when there was a lull in the House of Commons to put their proposal forward.

Railway Union Recognized.

The recognition of the National Union of Railwaymen by the railway companies is being acclaimed as one of the biggest victories won by trades unions in England for many years.

The agreement between the men and the companies, by which disputes are referred to arbitration, expires at the end of this year, and the men had decided not to renew it unless the union was recognized. Since the fusion of the railway servants, the general railway workers and the signal men last year, the membership of the combined organization has almost doubled. At the end of December it stood at 263,432, actual railwaymen, and the names of another 22,000 have been added since.

The Associated Society of Enginemen and Firemen, which has a membership of 37,000, and other unions, which work in conjunction with the National Union, absorb most of the remaining railwaymen in the United Kingdom. There are only 80,000 railwaymen, scattered throughout the rural districts and Ireland, outside the union.

Now that the union has been recognized the executive will work first of all for a change in the conciliation agreements, which the men claim always work against them, and afterwards for an eight-hour day and minimum wage.

Old Saxon Plan Followed.

Fifteen years' trial of a strange system of land reform in the little village of Winterslow, near London, has proven the success of the plan.

In 1899 Maj. Poore, father of the Duchess of Hamilton, secured possession of the old village and some of its environs, re-establishing a local government, practically identical to that of the Saxons there a thousand years ago. At the beginning of the experiment the major chose for the personnel of the scheme persons noted more for industry than for wealth. A Saxon village hundred was chosen, and this primitive legislature alloted land to heads of families under contracts whereby the payment for the land could be extended over a period from fifty to one hundred years. These plots surround a large common, which belongs to the village, and the grazing right of which is held in perpetuity by the villagers.

The village is now a self-sustaining community, and what was started as more or less of a charity has proven successful commercially. All of the villagers are free men in the old Saxon sense of the term, and the social and political life of the place is based on this assumption of equality. The promoters have been chary of publicity for fear that the plan might not prove a success, but since this has been assured they have invited the leaders of the government land reform schemes to inspect the community.

Skunk Skins Popular.

The spring fur sales indicate that there has been an enormous increase in the import of skunk skins from the United States. The supply of furs for the March sale was unusually plentiful. There being little demand from Germany, most of the furs of the world came to London. Over 4,000,000 musquash skins have been sold on the London market. The fashionable skunk fur comes next, with a total sale of 2,000,000 skins. Prices have been lower than last season. Musquash have sold for about 30 cents each; good skunk for from $3.50 to $6; silver fox for from $250 to $1500 each. Sea otter and fine chinchilla were very rare, and few of these skins were offered.

And so on for any intermediate or greater amount.

No sum will be refunded in any case in excess of the buyer's ACTUAL OUTLAY FOR TRANSPORTATION to Los Angeles and return, and entries on transportation checks will be limited to the amount of cash paid at time transaction is made.

Important to Visiting Buyers

When you have purchased your goods from the first merchant, ask him to enter the sale on a transportation check. He will do so and give you the check, on which you will have recorded any subsequent purchases you may make in other FREE FARE STORES.

When your shopping is finished, present this check at the refunding office, The Los Angeles Times (First and Broadway) and they will cash it without red tape, delay, or formalities. They will refund the full amount of your round trip fare if your purchases are sufficient; and if not, the percentage to which you are entitled.

The Los Angeles market offers an assortment of merchandise at all times equal in extent and variety to all possible demands of all classes of buyers. Los Angeles merchandise is suited to the special requirements of the people living in Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico. It is sold at prices, quality for quality, at least as low, and in many cases lower, than the same class of goods can be obtained from any other available source of supply. The visiting buyer in Los Angeles will be treated in such a way that he will come again. He will see and examine the merchandise before parting with his money, and a responsible local dealer will be answerable for its quality. The visitor will be considered as under the protection of the merchants whose names appear in this advertisement, and each one of them will see that his visit is made both pleasant and profitable. Moreover, each merchant will be as much interested in protecting the interests of the visiting buyer while he or she is in Los Angeles as the visitor himself could possibly be.

Militant.

SUFFRAGETTES VS. PANKHURSTS.

"They Must Go," Rallying Cry of Revolutionists.

Becoming Too Autocratic to Suit Rank and File.

Professional Pawners Reap a Harvest in London.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, April 12.—The "Pankhursts must go!" promises to be the rallying cry of a new suffragette organization formed by leaders who believe woman's cause has suffered a setback by the practices of the leading militant society. A significant feature of the new movement is that it is fathered by suffragists who were once strong supporters of militant tactics, but who, at various times, have been forced to withdraw from the Women's Social and Political Union.

The simmer of discontent, which now promises to break into revolt, began last year when Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pethick Lawrence on their return from Canada were informed that Mrs. Pankhurst no longer desired their services on the Executive Committee of the organization. This intimation was carried to the Lawrences before their boat reached the dock. They were inclined at first to laugh at it as preposterous, but on landing they found that Mrs. Pankhurst had made herself so powerful during their absence that it would be hopeless to fight her edict, so out they went.

As firm believers in the efficacy of militant tactics, the Lawrences did not air their grievance, in the hope that the autocratic regime of the Pankhursts would advance the cause, which they held above all else. This truce and the determination of the various constitutional societies not to criticise any tactics, which sought a common end, gave Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter Christabel abundant time in which to perfect their organization, before opposition was offered to their autocratic sway. But the promised results did not materialize and now the Women's Social and Political Union faces both opposition without and dissension within.

While dismissing members of her personal staff, Mrs. Pankhurst has also been discharging privates in the ranks. One of these women, who was expelled from the organization last week, declared that she was dismissed on the most trivial pretext possible and that lately Mrs. Pankhurst had dismissed a number of the workers from the organization apparently through caprice. The dismissed member asserted that the militants are dwindling daily until at the present moment there are only 3000 active workers in the Women's Social and Political Union.

These women are subject to Mrs. Pankhurst's autocratic decrees and may be called upon at any time to perform militant deeds. In spite of the dwindling number of workers the finances of the organization are said to be in an excellent state. This is due mainly to two Scottish spinster sisters, whose fortunes were made in an Atlantic steamship line. Their subscriptions to the funds of the militant fighting forces are heavy and unfailing.

WORK OF PAWNERS.

A Police Court case has called attention to the existence in London of an avocation which is not known to exist anywhere else in the world. It is that of pawner, a profession given over entirely to women, who, in the poorer districts of London, undertake for a small compensation to carry the goods of their necessitous but sensitive neighbors to the pawnshops. Most of this work of pawning is done for women who are ashamed to be seen entering a pawnshop, but some of it is done for other women who are too busy to attend to the formality.

In certain districts these pawners are known as "runners" and they live on this work, charging from 1 to 2 cents for each journey, according to the means of their clients. In one of the meanest streets of the East End, which has a pawnshop at either end, two women ply a busy trade as pawners. One of these women is a widow, known and trusted in this work, and she has built up a big connection in the neighborhood. She uses a perambulator and is frequently seen passing along the street with a load of miscellaneous articles destined for the hungry maw of the pawnshop. Monday morning is her busy day, as hundreds of ill-paid casual laborers living in the district depend many times for their week's maintenance upon pawning something that day. On Saturday when the head of the family brings home his money the pawner is called upon to redeem the goods, which she carried away the previous Monday, and usually the next Monday the first journey is repeated.

Charm of Word Hunting.

[Chicago Evening Post:] Logan Pearsall Smith, in an interesting article on "Dialect Words" in the current issue of the English Review, describes the fascinating hunt for new words and old words long lost to educated colloquy, that he and others have pursued in the rural districts of Great Britain and Ireland.

He quotes one enthusiastic word hunter as writing in his record of an unusually successful search:

"The ground had been twice worked over by two different collectors. The later, too, had gleaned a thousand words which his predecessor had neglected. We, however, in the course of a month, bagged some hundred and fifty new specimens. This gives an average of five a day, which may be looked upon as very fair sport. We are sorry to add that an excellent clergyman and an energetic schoolmaster are committing irreparable mischief by teaching the people to read."

One can catch something of the thrill of this gentle sport from so lively a picture. It is assuredly better worth while than chasing cottontail bunnies with a shotgun or—if the disloyalty be pardonable—pursuing big game in Africa.

Nor need one go to England to engage in it. If there be any reader of the Evening Post to whom the charm of a word hunt appeals we can assure him a visit to the Kentucky mountains will well repay him. He may come back with material for a book of genuine interest to all who are interested in the science of language.

Protects Your Home From Dust and Dirt

FABRIC floor-coverings are tenacious retainers of dust and dirt. They cannot be kept clean and sanitary without laborious effort during warm weather, when dust flies in every open window and door.

Why not clean and store your woolen rugs and runners this spring and enjoy a season of CREX—the ideal, sanitary floor-covering? You will almost save the cost in one season on the wear and tear spared your winter rugs.

With ordinary care

CREX Lasts for Years

CREX is light in weight, strong in weave, easily cleaned and low in cost. No other floor-covering at a moderate price is so artistic, or so dependable.

No matter what room you wish to cover you will find in the CREX assortment just the size, pattern and color scheme you want.

If your dealer cannot supply you from his stock, select from his CREX life-like catalogue. He will be able to deliver your selection in a few hours, as all jobbers carry our entire line.

Don't accept the argument that other grass coverings are as good. CREX is made of toughest wire-grass—not straw, prairie or ordinary field grass Sufferers from Alcoholism Quarter of Insane.

PARIS, April 12.—The Eiffel Tower has been celebrating its silver jubilee. On April 2, just twenty-five years ago, the French flag was hoisted on its summit. It was the principal attraction of the exposition of 1889. Both at the time of its erection and afterwards it was the subject of hostile criticism on the part of artists and men of letters.

The composer, Charles Gounod, the great poets, Leconte de Lisle, Sully Prudhomme, Francois Coppee, the novelist, Guy Maupassant, united in protesting against the disfigurement of Paris by a structure which would not be tolerated even "by commercial America." Other critics declared that it would not last twenty years, but it stands today as strong as ever to vindicate its creators, the symbol and triumph of modern industry. For the Eiffel Tower was the pioneer of the light metallic construction which makes possible' by its suppleness and enormous strength the most daring conceptions of the architect and engineer.

The famous tower is, indeed, a miracle of lightness with all its [illegible] tons of metal, as a simple calculation shows. If a model on the scale of one-thousandth were made it would be twelve inches high and would only weigh twenty-eight ounces, the weight of a thick sheet of paper.

At first, hardly more than an engineering curiosity, the Eiffel Tower found its vocation when wireless telegraphy was invented. Now the correct time and a budget of the latest news is flashed from it twice daily to ships at sea and far-off French colonies in Africa.

BRIAND SEEKS ELECTION.

Aristide Briand, leader of the Federation of Democrats of the Left, which, in opposition to the present ministry of the Radical and Socialist-Radical groups, is seeking a majority in the parliamentary elections (April 26,) is looked upon even by his political foes as one of the first orators in Europe. He has eloquence and humor, the power to illuminate dry facts by his manner of presentation and all the gifts of the winning campaigner. His voice, sometimes melodious, sometimes sharply penetrating, varies amazingly from extreme rapidity of utterance to sober dignity. Some of his auditors at a meeting of 4000 in Paris the other evening were moved to tears, not by pathos, but by the beauty of his periods, which affected their emotions. Briand is from Southern France, whence nearly all the great orators of France come.

CANDIDATES' EXPENSES.

Candidates' expenses have been greatly reduced in the 1914 election campaigns by limiting the space used for the posting of manifestos and other campaign literature. Mayors are required to provide large boards at different points within their jurisdiction. On these each candidate is allotted an equal space. Any placarding of campaign posters elsewhere may be punished by a fine of from $1 to $2 for each offense. This places candidates with small campaign funds more nearly on equality with their wealthier rivals.

Another reform aims at absolute secrecy in the vote. It stipulates that the voter must deposit his ballot, enclosed in an envelope, in a box which is placed in an isolated cabinet, a structure resembling a tent, where he will be completely screened from the view of those outside.

ALCOHOLIC INSANE.

Persons suffering from alcoholism form more than a quarter of the army of insane in Paris and the Department of the Seine, and the number increases from year to year, according to figures just made public by the municipality. An additional argument, based on official statistics, is thus furnished Deputy Henri Schmidt and others, who have been leading a vigorous anti-drink campaign throughout France.

Out of a total of 89,728 admitted to the asylums in the department mentioned from 1887 to 1911 the number of mentally deficient, victims of the drink habit, was 27,315. The figures also show that insanity in general as well as hereditary insanity is increasing. The combination of alcohol and strenuous life of the cities is among the reasons given for the growing number of cases of hereditary insanity.

CLEVER HOAX IN POMERANIA.

COBBLER OF KOEPENICK'S FEA IS SURPASSED.

Man Who Had Served Term in Prison for Forgery Secures Position as Burgomaster by Assuming Name and Title of an Acquaintance Successfully.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, April 25.—The second Burgomaster of Koeslin, a Pomeranian city of 20,000 inhabitants, is under arrest here charged with perpetrating a hoax which surpasses in daring the noted hoax of Voight, the cobbler of Koepenick.

This burgomaster, who won his position in competition with 700 other candidates, had served a term in prison in Berlin, for embezzling money from a bank in which he was employed under the name of Henry Thermann. During a temporary release from prison he assumed the title of doctor of laws belonging to an acquaintance named Edward Alexand and forged papers to prove his identity.

He started a new career in the Prussian civil service, and two years ago became Assessor in Bromberg, where he contracted a marriage with a woman of wealth.

But a woman in Berlin, who had been the bank clerk's sweetheart, brought a charge of blackmail against him, and this led to an investigation of the Vice-Mayor's papers. He was then lured to Berlin and arrested.

MRS. ALEXANDER WHITE GREGG,

Wife of the Member from Palestine, Texas, Who Served Successfully as President of the Congressional Club and Has Been Prominent in That Distinguished Organization.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Some of the charming types of American womanhood are found tucked away in quiet nooks of Congressional society. In the lower House of Congress there are now almost five hundred members and allowing for the usual proportion of bachelors, the feminine side means, at a casual estimate, nearly half a thousand whose prime duty in Washington is to establish social relations with each other and with officialdom generally. Some are leaders known throughout the country. Others are potent forces, little recognized except among the thoughtful. There are others like Mrs. Alexander White Gregg who fill an important role ably, yet unostentatiously, in the larger affairs of the capital and wield an influence which extends to all parts of the country. Mrs. Gregg presents what seems a complete paradox. She is an unalterable enemy of feminism as such, and all its including cults, suffrage and political life. Yet she is one of the astute politicians of the capital, is her husband's secretary and has conducted some of his campaigns to a most successful issue. She is the purely domestic type, finding her home and children quite a sufficient mission and interest outside the duties towards her husband voluntarily undertaken and most conscientiously discharged.

"Every one in and out of Washington seems to imagine that a regular armed conflict is in progress over the calling complication," remarked Mrs. Alexander White Gregg of Texas, one of the committee appointed by the president of the Congressional Club to present the question from different angles. In my opinion, it was all a tempest in a teapot, unduly magnified and almost universally misunderstood both by on-lookers and by those practically concerned in the conclusion. Frankly I have said from the very beginning that I thought the whole discussion was discourteous, not intentionally of course, but discourteous for all that. I have urged that the controversy be dropped as a controversy, and that each woman in official life be permitted to solve the question as her time, inclination and most important of all, her strength will dictate. I firmly advocate broad views about the obligation of making calls, and not to permit the accessories to blind the real purpose which means social intercourse. I opposed the controversy mainly because I dislike to have it said that a Democratic regime would even tacitly indorse the court customs of discharging social obligations by sending calls through the mails. That was recommended and very kindly received at first glance. However, in the end every woman will decide for herself. Personally I believe that if we do our duty as far as we are able graciously and dilligently, no more can be asked. About the returning of calls, if we should place ourselves in the other woman's place and allow her full benefit of good intentions much of the misunderstanding would disappear. Some women are better managers than others. Some have far fewer obligations. Take those with young children. How unjust to expect the same of the young mother as of the woman whose cares are infinitely less.

"But one excellent result has come from the discussion in the Congressional Club. It has been recommended that hereafter whenever there are large numbers of Congressional women, strangers to official life, that a leaflet be sent with regular notices from the clubs giving in detail the etiquette as it holds in Washington. Social amenity here is different from every section of the country. The stranger here must make a series of first calls, how many is a matter which every woman decides for herself. According to the hard and fast rule, she must include every woman in recognized divisions of official life whose husband has preceded hers in length of service. It is a large task rarely undertaken, unless one has abundant leisure and untold endurance. However, the customs will be set forth in the leaflet, together with the days and hours on which these calls must be made. The stranger and even the woman here for years can ponder the matter, map out what she can accomplish without detriment to more serious matters and do her best. One other good result of the discussion is that hostesses who entertain frequently are generous enough to excuse party calls. With these concessions it seems that the controversy should be considered as adjusted most satisfactorily. Further I think that when one desires to visit a certain highly placed woman, like the wife of the Speaker whose calling obligations would mount so high as to become impossible, one should feel at liberty to do so, without fear of calling to her attention the necessity to return the call. It resolves itself into a question of good sense and charity.

"Now I am much concerned about women taking cognizance of their duties in every regard. This movement known throughout the world as the feminist movement gives me much to think about. As I see it, married women have two imperative duties, the first to have children and the second to become entirely familiar with every phase of public life where it touches home and the rearing of children. I taught for a short time in the public schools of my home city and I would not give that experience, that insight into real things for all that life has brought me since. This feminine movement and the startling discussions in which its leaders indulge, should I believe arouse the energy and fighting principle of every mother and right thinking woman in the land.

I stand arrayed against the entire agitation, whether it be for suffrage or the larger liberty which the new leaders assert is our due. I grant that suffrage need not indorse the principles held by these advanced theorists called feminists, but the lines are drawn too close to each other and interlock too often to be indorsed by those who wish to conserve the home and the family. To vote or not to vote seems a small matter and should require little time or energy. But the deviating paths into which all public questions will lead its students are, I think, better out of the lives of women—busy women.

"In Texas we do not need to be protected by the law. The chivalry of men is sufficient, except in the most isolated incidents. We had one very unjust law on the statute books, but last winter it was changed at the request of the women of Texas and without their having to receive the vote in order to enforce its passage. It referred to the property of women, its control on their marriage.

"Every worthy woman is a mighty force in the Texas community, whether she be married or single. I grant that some phases of the vote might seem alluring. For instance, I deplore that we pay our teachers so little in comparison to the salaries paid other professions doing a far less valuable work. But how will votes for women raise the revenue to make this increased salary possible? How will votes for women help to lower the cost of living? I can see no connection. But I do see how living and everything else becomes more costly because so many neglect the sacred duties of home in order to attend to what is wrongly called higher duties. The feminist frankly advises against the home and children, as hampering to the brainy progressive woman who must work for the world. Such specious logic will of course carry its own doom with the rank and file of sensible American women. But there are enough lured away by these false prophets to call for a protest from all who stand for the old order of woman in the home to rear her children, to aid her husband, to be a good neighbor and a responsible citizen."

Representative and Mrs. Gregg reside in a charming little city of Texas which bears an alluring name, Palestine. Love of home is a dominant trait in the entire family. Mrs. Gregg is a stanch advocate of the public schools and all the children began their education there and continued it through various seats of learning, all within the confines of the Lone Star State. There are four children, the eldest May Gregg, well known in Washington, is now Mrs. Leigh Ballowe of Cuere, and she has two small sons. There are three boys, the oldest John G. Gregg, who is now practicing law in Galveston. William Reeves Gregg is also in Washington at present, and the youngest, Alexander W., Jr., was studying in Washington, but not being in the most robust health, departed for home soon after Christmas and is now waxing strong and tall in the home in Palestine.

Mrs. Gregg has many interesting phases of character. She was before her marriage Miss Mary Brooks, and her parents had resided for some years in Palestine. Her father's kindred came originally from Massachusetts, and were of English descent. They passed from the Bay State to Connecticut and later to Virginia. A further migration brought them to West Virginia though the family tradition has it that the far South was the original intention, and the halt at Charelston, W. Va., the result of Cupid's intervention. Mrs. Gregg's grandfather, with a number of others, leaving Connecticut for the South or West, halted for the night at the home of Miss Otis, near Charleston, fell in love with the daughter of his host and refused to follow his fortunes farther. He married Miss Otis and remained in Charleston for the rest of his life. His son, Nathaniel Skinner Brooks, however, went further south and lived for many years in Mobile, Ala. Mrs. Gregg was born in that fair city of the South, but her parents started for Texas in her infancy and located at Palestine. She claims as distinguished and ancient lineage on her mother's side, where she inherits herioc Scotch-Irish blood. Her mother's father, Col. Clough Shelton, settled in Virginia. He served in the Second Continental Regiment throughout the War of Independence. Mrs. Gregg is eligible to all the patriotic societies, but having the care of young children until very recently she never felt she could spare time to take an active part. She is, however, most sympathetic with all the aims and aspirations of women's clubs, literary, historical and philanthropical, and it is her ultimate intention to join such of these as fit in with her daily avocations.

From its formation she has been a consistent and enthusiastic supporter of the Congressional Club. She joined among the first and had the distinction of being chosen one of the original first five vice-presidents representing the Southwest. She served most successfully and when the death of Representative James Breck Perkins, caused the resignation of Mrs. Perkins, first president and founder of the club, Mrs. Gregg was chosen to fill out her unexpired term. As Mrs. Perkins had just entered on her second term, Mrs. Gregg served most successfully for nearly two years. She declined to have her name put up for regular nomination and has not since filled a place on the national board. She remains a strong force in the rank of privates and one of the effective workers on committees, and a faithful attendant at its social and business meetings.

TWENTY-THREE MILES HIGH.

A Balloon Penetrates the Upper Regions and Brings Back Records of the Varying Temperature.

[New York Press:] The highest point ever reached by man-made mechanism is 37,700 meters, or about 23½ miles. No man has ever been anywhere near so far away from earth, a balloon sent up on December 17, 1912, from the observatory at Pavia record this altitude. The balloon was of rubber, inflated with hydrogen and furnished with a parachute. It was 1900 millimeters, or about 6 feet 3 inches, in diameter, and carried automatic meteorological instruments. These recorded a minimum temperature of —56 9-10 deg. C., not, however, at the highest point reached, but at 19,730 meters, or about 12½ miles high. Until 1 4-5 miles up the thermometer fluctuated between 10 deg. above zero C., the temperature at which it started, and zero, which it reached at about two miles. Then came a rapid drop, until just above the usual level of the cirrus clouds, or about seven miles up —55½ deg. C. was registered. At this the thermometer remained steady for several miles, then rose slightly, again descending to —56 9-10 C., at about 12½ miles, from which it steadily rose. At the highest point it reached —51 3-5 C.

The earth is surrounded by air called the atmosphere. How thick this blanket is no one knows, but it has certain definitely defined layers of strata, the thickness of which has often been measured. The pioneer in this atmospheric exploration was M. Leon Teisserenc de Bort, who founded the observatory at Trappes, France, and died only a few weeks ago.

As one rises from sea level, either in a balloon or in climbing a mountain, the density of the air sensibly decreases and the temperature diminishes.

The atmosphere may be divided into three parts. The first extends from sea level to about 10,000 feet high. In this layer are almost all the water vapor or cloud and all the dust. In it all the storms take place. The temperature tends to decrease, but very irregularly. The second layer extends to between six or seven miles high. In it are the cirrus clouds; the temperature decreases uniformly. Man cannot go beyond it.

These two layers together are called the troposphere, because in them all the vertical movements of the air take place. Beyond them is the stratophere, in which occur any movements of the air in planes parallel to the earth's surface.

The temperatures recorded at different heights by the balloon sent up from Pavia are approximately those found in the upper regions all over the world, but it has been found that near the poles no such cold is found as in the air over the tropics. The temperature of the tropical air falls more rapidly, because the air is dry, and it continues falling for a longer time because the troposphere is thicker than in the arctic regions, and it is always coldest where the troposphere ends and the stratosphere begins. At nine to ten miles high over the equator it is 20 or 30 degrees colder than it is over Lapland, according to observations made in 1906, 1907 and 1908 by M. Teisserenc de Bort.

USE OF PANAMA CANAL.

Believed the British Shipowners Will Gain More from Its Construction Than the United States.

[London Times:] As the creator of the Panama Canal it is claimed that the United States has every right to feel proud, but in the navigation of the canal, it is going to take a second place. If this is true, the first place as a user of the canal will fall to the United Kingdom. The dramatic event of opening a new waterway to the world will unquestionably expand the existing water lines, and in that operation Great Britain will secure a good share. Whatever may have been said or written about the injury the canal will do to the transcontinental railways, there is every reason to believe that these ominous forebodings are more imaginary than real. Two of the trunk lines extending across the continent are hastening to complete their track to the coast, and by the time the canal is open, we shall have eight railway systems with direct connections extending between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, five through American, and three through British territory. Does this not indicate that the venturing interests believe that the canal will have plenty to do to take care of the low-priced traffic which will naturally seek such a route, and of the immense European tonnage that is only waiting for it to open? There is much to be said in favor of the opinion that the canal is not destined to work a great revolution in traffic conditions or rates. A glance at map indicating the trade routes of the world will show that all those from Liverpool, Amsterdam, Genoa, Odessa, from any point of Europe, the North Atlantic, and the Mediterranean Coast will be shortened by the Canal, not only for commerce destined for the Pacific Coast of North America, but also for the east coast of Asia, and many a point in the vast southern oceans where commerce is great and growing. Surely, therefore, the general conclusion is a satisfying one that the Panama Canal will be a creator of new rather than a disturber of old business.

WORLD'S SMALLEST ADULT.

A Dwarf Who Recently Died in London Smaller Than Tom Thumb But Would Not Exhibit Himself.

[Rochester Post-Express:] The smallest man in the world died lately in London. His height was only 21 inches, yet he had fought the battle of life for fifty-three years, and was looked up to by children who frequented his candy shop. Compared with Tom Thumb, he was no more than a Tom Littletoe, and might easily have earned his weight in silver every month as a museum attraction.

But the little man would not make a spectacle of himself, as bigger men so often do, which was much to his credit. He owned his store, and being thus like King Pepin, a big man in his own house, he was content and wisely shunned notoriety. Yet he was probably the tiniest adult in the human family, smaller by half than that "pygmean race warred on by cranes," who appear to have been about four feet in height. He was bigger than a pint of cider, yet not so big as the dwarf dished up in a pie to the astonishment of royal banqueters who saw him break out through the crust.

The smallest of historic dwarfs was Richebourg of Paris, 23 inches, and Chemah, a Chinaman, whose height was 2 feet 1 inch. Tom Thumb was 31 inches, and there have been other men who were but little taller. Science is beginning to surmise that there is a gland in the body which regulates growth, and when it somehow gets out of order the result is a manikin or a monstrosity. But what deranges it or what would regulate it, nobody has the least idea; and the fact is that we know about as little of our own anatomical mechanism as a cat down at the kodak plant would understand the multitudinous processes going on all around.

How American Women May Keep Faces Young.

"The American smart woman ages early, far earlier than the English woman," says Christian Miller, F. C. I., the famous English health expert. She adds that our climate "so exhilarates that you over-exert yourself and grow old before you know it. That same exhilarating air dries the skin. The skin that lacks moisture grows pale and withered-looking and soon forms wrinkles.

"The American complexion" is best treated by applying pure mercolized wax, which causes the faded, lifeless cuticle to flake off in minute particles, a little each day, until the fresh, young skin beneath is wholly in evidence. Every druggist has this wax; one ounce is sufficient. Spread on at night like cold cream, washing it off next morning.

For wrinkles, dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel; bathe the face in this. Immediately every wrinkle is affected, even the deeper lines. Both treatments are remarkable facial rejuvenators.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, April 24.

Chrystabel Dearest:

We were so very delighted to have your sweet letter—even if we don't always approve of your politics. We are so glad you met our dear friends in Paris, they write us glowingly of you and were so surprised to find that you were quite a normal young woman, and not a bit of an ogre.

We, too, are in the throes of war, a purely masculine war with plenty of blood in the offing. Hosts of our best men are off to Mexico, and it is, of course, casting gloom o'er most of our frivolous social functions. I think I told you about our Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Miner, among our creme de la creme here. The captain has volunteered for the war, too, and he seems to have set the fashion. You see, California is still very Spanish in many ways and we probably take an even keener interest in the tribulations here than in the Eastern States.

Yet, with it all, we are not slackening up at all on our social functions, and considering, you are all apt to regard us as living in semi-barbarism over here, I think I must regale you with a tale of some of our sparkles. Public opinion to the contrary, I happen to know you are not too strong-minded to like a little social tittle-tattle once in a while, and most of the names are familiar to you.

So you knew the Cavendishes were coming over. Well, they are to arrive this week to stay with the Underwoods. They are likely to have a sumptuous time—we are certainly not remiss in our hospitality to the British peerage over here. Suffragists, but not militants, eh? That is, of course, a good deal more respectable—in America.

I told you about Martha Hayes, quite one of our most striking beauties. She was married on Wednesday to Willmer Heater, a truly charming affair. She is a Canadian girl, Vancouver.

You ask about the Hunters, yes, they are still here. He shines up brilliantly in golf affairs occasionally, but one doesn't expect too much consistency of a new bridegroom. I think they are returning East shortly and the Garlands, to whom he is related, are giving one of their de luxe parties for them on Monday. Out at a picturesque gun club—something on the idea of the shooting lodge in Scotland, you know—and doing the simple life luxuriously for two days.

Am so glad you did not think baseball stupid. It made us cross the way some of the silly English papers wrote about our New York Giants, national heroes. It is certainly much more thrilling to watch than cricket; if it hadn't been for that nice Leyland boy I couldn't have sat through that afternoon at Lord's last year, so there!

Just at present we are organizing some very stylish amateur baseball teams to form a country club league, so the jeer that only professionals can play the national game will be removed. The first match is on Saturday out at our Midwick Country Club, a lovely place not unlike Ranelagh, except that they haven't had time to grow any of those fine old trees yet. Naturally we are making it the social event of the month and some of us are hard put to it to wear our club colors and still retain our complexions. But baseball expects that every woman will do her duty. The Los Angeles Country Club colors are red and green, but earnest society dames will manage to wear 'em somewhere or perish. The Midwick colors are purple and white (your militant suffragette colors, dear!) and much more easy to arrange for.

They have erected a gorgeous marquee for a grand stand down on the polo ground and seem to have chosen all the handsomest men for the teams. You see, baseball calls for special physical perfection, those Giants and Sox you saw over there were really not exceptional in that respect, even our Los Angeles (we call them angels, bless them) and Venice teams are made up of fine-looking men like that.

Yes, the Von Schmidts leave here in a week or so for Austria, and are receiving showers of social blessings e'er they depart. Mrs. Dan McFarland, the W. A. Barkers, Mrs. Bryant, Louise Burke, the Hollidays, the Dunns and Mrs. Herron are all doing their noble duty by the illustrious departees and the community.

We have just been bubbling weddings this week, with dozens more to come—we do that sort of thing rather well over here, quite up to a St. Peter's or a Notre Dame affair, I can assure you. We are not quite so sternly conventional, there is often a much more homey atmosphere about things. True, you don't shed your wedding vows quite so soon or so easily over there, so perhaps the more weighty proceedings are more profoundly convincing. Still, dear, it is nice to be able to wear orange blossoms picked with the dew on that morning! Orange blossoms mean chastity, did you know? A pointer for one of your caustic articles on suffrage, cherie.

The Lee Allen Phillips gave a very stylish dinner on Wednesday evening—chiefly for the matured and married. Debutantes prominent by absence. Lots of political celebrities of the fair sex—including that amiable and sprightly old lady, Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, you asked about. Oh, yes, she is quite a factor in politics here, and the Friday Morning Club, a woman's club, will be the scene of one of the most important of the city political meetings on Monday evening. If the men are not very careful the women will have the entire State politics in their hands before another term is completed. I suppose you think that will be all right, of course.

But to atone for this we are having a gorgeous fashion play at the Midwick Country Club tomorrow night on the lines of a Lucille dress parade in Bond street. It was Mrs. Miner's idea, and society dames will masquerade as mannikins in the very dernier cri of la mode. The scene will be a dressmaker's establishment with Mrs. Brackenridge as modiste, and Mrs. McGowan will be one of the shoppers, a regular Mrs. Malaprop with stacks of money, who wants to buy the whole bag of tricks. That enables the mannikins to parade in every kind of dress from a negligee to a ball gown a la mode. A society man, Avery McCarthy, will play the tailor—quite a lark. Much more fun than a cabaret—it all takes place on a platform while the rest of the members eat a dinner de luxe and make remarks.

You are established in the very citadel of fashion, but I don't believe you could give us many pointers. We are fearfully, alarmingly up-to-date here.

The mater joins in best love, Chrystabel dear.

Your affectionate

BETTY.

BITS OF VERSE.

When I Shall Come Again.

What shall I be when I shall come again?
Of all that now is I what shall remain?
Lightly I clothe me, lightly cast the robe
That serves me on this wandering, twilight globe.

And back I go to splendor, for a while—
No solar star but light from Krishna's smile;
But when I would remember in what wise
I then lived blest the frightened memory flies.

For Krishna will not have it that I know;
Lest I with eyes of torture earthward go—
Lest I the shuttle and the loom forsake,
And mar the pattern I was set to make.

So I, once shut of pleasure and of pain,
I meet them ever when I come again.
They are my tyrants, I their slave, poor thrall!
They toss me ever; I between them fall,
I know there is a better than our best,
Than even love, that dearest bosom guest;
I held its image when at peace I lay
In light of Krishna's smile, in timeless day.

It was of purer, subtler, than pure flame;
But chidden memory can not yield its name.
I only know when I shall come again
There will await me here love, pleasure, pain.
—[Edith M. Thomas in the New York Sun.

The Thinker.

Back of the beating hammer
By which the steel is wrought,
Back of the workshop's clamor,
The seeker may find the Thought.
The Thought that is ever master
Of iron and steam and steel,
That rises above disaster
And tramples it under heel!

The drudge may fret and tinker
Or labor with dusty blows,
But back of him stands the Thinker,
The clear-eyed man who knows;
For into each plow or saber
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go to the brains of labor
Which gives the work a soul!

Back of the motor's humming,
Back of the belts that sing,
Back of the hammer's drumming,
Back of the cranes that swing,
There is the eye which scans them,
Watching through stress and strain,
There is the mind which plans them—
Back of the brawn, the brain.

Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust.
But back of them stands the schemer,
The Thinker who drives them through,
Back of the job—the dreamer
Who's making the dream come true!
—[Berton Braley in the American Machinist.

The Telegram.

Over the plains I fly,
Over the mountains high,
Over broad rivers that gleam in the light;
Flashing from sea to sea,
Dashing relentlessly,
Swift as a bullet, as sure in my flight,

Voiceless yet eloquent,
Speeding where'er I'm sent—
North to the snow line or south to the palm;
Freighted with weal or woe,
To wound or heal I go;
Bearing a dagger or carrying a balm.

Piercing the mother's breast,
Blighting scenes happiest;
Ay, or uplifting the heart that is sad,
Projects sublime I wreck;
Evil and crime I check;
Mighty my power for good or for bad.

Maine calls to Oregon,
Georgia to Washington;
City to vast, surging city replies.
So I fleet, caring not,
Pitying, sparing not;
Binding a nation with numberless ties.

Great, busy presses grind,
Broadcasting to the wind,
Tidings I've brought them from far and from near,
Sorrow and mirth I bring;
'Round the wide earth I fling
News of the moment while people give ear.
—[Walter Guy Doty in the National Magazine.

Spent.

When I look back along the way I came,
And count each bootless prayer at wayside shrine;
When I remember all the altar stones
I've stained with wanton gifts of tears and wine
And wound with roses broken ruthlessly,
To buy reluctant blessings of the powers;

When I consider these my empty hands,
And this, my heart, that leaps no more at life,
And is too tuneless to give back the sound
Of dancing feet and lure of flute and fife
That call and beckon from the market place,
Where once I danced to mock the graybeard hours;

When I remember all the wealth I had,
Of joy and faith and careless youth of heart,
Which slipped from hands held out for lesser things—
I can not wonder that the high gods sit apart
And mock me cruelly, by sending you
To lift the latches of an empty heart!
—[Dorothy Paul, in Harper's Monthly Magazine.

Danger in a Diary.

[Indianapolis News:] People in the habit of noting their candid opinions in diaries should be careful when showing them to other people. Shirly Brooks records that "Delane, the editor of the Times; Sir William Russell and Lord Hartington were in a railway carriage when some dispute arose about a date Russell affirmed that he knew, having made an entry in his diary. This was in his traveling case, and he produced it. He found the page, but not being able to read—his glass having slipped into his trousers—he gave it to Delane to read, who read: 'John Delane tells me such is the case, but then he is such a d—d liar that one doesn't know!'"

PACIFIC COAST PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Moore of San Francisco gave an elaborate dinner Thursday evening at their home on Washington street. The affair was in honor of Col. William Hutchinson of Canada and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. Cluston of New Zealand. Col. Hutchinson and Mr. Cluston are here as representatives of their governments to arrange their exhibitions at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

Mrs. William S. Tevis left last week for New York, en route to Europe, where she will take a month's cure at one of the spas in Germany. She was accompanied by her son, Lansing Tevis. They spent a few days with Gordon Tevis, who is in New Haven preparing for Yale. He will join them on their homeward trip the latter part of June.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Moore have returned to their home in Ross after a visit in New York with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Geissler, who formerly resided in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville C. Pratt and their little sons, Russell and Orville Pratt, Jr., are settled at their ranch near Chico, where they will remain until June 1, when they will join Mrs. Russell J. Wilson in Burlingame.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lent have closed their town house and are occupying their country home in Woodside.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Payne left Saturday for Europe to spend several months. Their trip, which they intended taking immediately after their wedding, was postponed, as Mrs. Payne was obliged to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Joseph B. Crockett accompanied Mrs. Henry T. Scott to Paso Robles, where they will spend two or three weeks.

Mrs. Bowie-Detrick and her son, Mr. Bowie-Detrick, will leave May 1 and will spend the summer in Belvedere, where they have rented the cottage of Frederick Greenwood. Miss Helen Bowie has joined her mother, Mrs. Hamilton Bowie, who is permanently established in a home in this city.

Mrs. Truxton Beale is expected home next month from Washington, D. C., where she has been spending the winter. She will spend the summer in her San Rafael home, which has been occupied during her absence by her mother, Mrs. Oge, and her sister, Miss Alice Oge. Mr. Beale will remain east several weeks longer with his son.

Marshall Madison is rapidly recovering from a severe illness that has confined him to his home in San Rafael during the past month.

Sol Seibenhauer leaves San Francisco early next month for an extended tour of Europe. He expects to be absent about four months, and during that time will visit England, France and Germany.

Lieut. James A. Parker, Jr., U.S.N., and Mrs. Parker (formerly Miss Julia Langhorne) will soon leave Annapolis, where they have resided since their marriage, and will go to their new station in Portsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gallois arrived Wednesday in New York from Europe and expect to return to San Francisco by May 1.

Mrs. Kendall, Miss Elizabeth Kendall and Miss Ruth Perkins are en route to Europe, where they will spend a year in travel.

George Bates of San Francisco and his sister, Miss Laura Bates, are contemplating leaving early in May for Honolulu.

Mary Nixon is 11 years old, a trained athlete, and is on her way from London to Cranford, N. J., where her parents live. She is not merely properly tagged as to her destination, but wears a gold medal given her for being the best all-round athlete in her class in a London school.

William P. Spencer has carried the mail between the Farnumsville postoffice and the station for thirty-three years without missing a trip, and has been awarded the additional contract to carry the Fisherville mail, to make one trip a day.

Harry Jager, 1 year old, the youngest traveler to cross the Atlantic alone, arrived recently in New York on the North German Lloyd steamer Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. His parents were forced to leave him with his grandmother in Hamburg some months ago because he was taken ill when they were ready to sail. They met him at the pier.

James Henderson, carrier on rural route No. 2, holds the record in Gentry county, Missouri, for length of time in service and distance traveled. He has carried the mail continuously for eleven years and has averaged about 313 trips of twenty-one and one-half miles, a year, a total of more than 74,000 miles.

Austin K. Jones, the old Harvard college bell ringer, who retired in 1908 after fifty years' service in that position without missing an occasion, died at his home in Cambridge recently, aged 87 years. About fifty-five years ago he secured a position as janitor. Then he was promoted to bell ringer for the college.

THE REAL AMAZONS.

Harvard Explorer Believes He Has Found the Independent Feminine Tribe in South America.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] Dr. Hamilton Rice, Harvard explorer and scientist, has apparently discovered the home of the mythical amazons. Dr. Rice returned only recently to this country after seven years of exploration along the great divide between the upper Amazon and Orinoco River basins in northwestern South America.

In searching for an exchange of canoe crews he found a small settlement of men and women along the banks of the Icana River. The women appeared to be permanent residents, but the men were mostly from the tribes along the River G[illegible]lana, the doctor states. When he approached the men the women interrupted and took charge of the negotiations. One especially appeared to be the real power of the settlement.

According to the best information that he could secure from his new followers, Dr. Rice learned that the village and plantation were under feminine domination and that masculine society was tolerated but once or twice a year.

Long Pedigrees.

[Belfast Weekly News:] A distinguished French seaman, Admiral Magon, who was killed at Trafalgar, showed a pedigree going back to Mago, the brother of Hannibal. The Samson family, who owns an estate near Lyons, boast of their descent from the strong man of the Bible which is commemorated in their coat of arms by the broken column of a temple. An Italian nobleman, the Marchese Porro, traces his line back to Porus, the Indian monarch who fought a battle with Alexander the Great.

RECORD MAKERS.

Mary Nixon is 11 years old, a trained athlete, and is on her way from London to Cranford, N. J., where her parents live. She is not merely properly tagged as to her destination, but wears a gold medal given her for being the best all-round athlete in her class in a London school.

William P. Spencer has carried the mail between the Farnumsville post-office and the station for thirty-three years without missing a trip, and has been awarded the additional contract to carry the Fisherville mail, to make one trip a day.

Harry Jager, 1 year old, the youngest traveler to cross the Atlantic alone, arrived recently in New York on the North German Lloyd steamer Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. His parents were forced to leave him with his grandmother in Hamburg some months ago, because he was taken ill when they were ready to sail. They met him at the pier.

James Henderson, carrier on rural route No. 2, holds the record in Gentry county, Missouri, for length of time in service and distance traveled. He has carried the mail continuously for eleven years and has averaged about 312 trips of twenty-one and one-half miles, a year, a total of more than 74,000 miles.

Austin K. Jones, the old Harvard college bell ringer, who retired in 1908 after fifty years' service in that position without missing an occasion, died at his home in Cambridge recently, aged 87 years. About fifty-five years ago he secured a position as janitor. Then he was promoted to bell ringer for the college.

THE REAL AMAZONS.

Harvard Explorer Believes He Has Found the Independent Feminine Tribe in South America.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] Dr. Hamilton Rice, Harvard explorer and scientist, has apparently discovered the home of the mythical amazons. Dr. Rice returned only recently to this country after seven years of exploration along the great divide between the upper Amazon and Orinoco River basins in northwestern South America.

In searching for an exchange of canoe crews he found a small settlement of men and women along the banks of the Icana River. The women appeared to be permanent residents, but the men were mostly from the tribes along the River Guiana, the doctor states. When he approached the men the women interrupted and took charge of the negotiations. One especially appeared to be the real power of the settlement.

According to the best information that he could secure from his new followers, Dr. Rice learned that the village and plantation were under feminine domination and that masculine society was tolerated but once or twice a year.

Long Pedigrees.

[Belfast Weekly News:] A distinguished French seaman, Admiral Magon, who was killed at Trafalgar, showed a pedigree going back to Mago, the brother of Hannibal. The Samson family, who owns an estate near Lyons, boast of their descent from the strong man of the Bible which is commemorated in their coat of arms by the broken column of a temple. An Italian nobleman, the Marchese Porro, traces his line back to Porus, the Indian monarch who fought a battle with Alexander the Great.

THE WEEK.

PARTIES, RECEPTIONS, DINNERS, WEDDINGS AND THE LIKE.

MRS. JOHN WILLIAM ARNOLD OFF of this city and San Juan Capistrano entertained the young women of the Off-Somers bridal party Friday with a smart luncheon at the California Club. Baskets of spring blossoms brightened the table, where there were covers for Miss Georgia Helena Off, Miss Elizabeth Wood, Miss Winifred Maxon, Miss Gertrude Shafer, Miss Katherine Flint, Miss Dorothy Greaves of San Francisco, Miss Amy Busch and Mrs. Walter McCarty.

Jack Somers will claim Miss Off as his bride Wednesday, the service taking place in St. John's in the presence of several hundred guests. Besides the matron of honor and maids there will be two little flower girls, Margaret and Dorothy Fulton, the attractive daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Fulton. Milton Clark Somers will stand with his brother as best man and the ushers asked are Carlton S. Burke, William Kay Crawford, George H. Reed, James R. Page, Irving M. Walker, Jerry H. Powell, Harry B. Wilson, Allen T. Archer, Chalmers Couts Gray and Albert G. Glass.

Complimentary Parting Dinner.

In honor of Adolf Tandler, the eminent and appreciated leader of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, a complimentary farewell dinner function occurred at "Whitehall," Wilshire boulevard, last Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Charles Wellington Rand being the hostess, skillful, gracious and charming as usual. The affair was timed to occur on the eve of the departure of Mr. Tandler and wife for Europe, where they go on a visit, at the conclusion of which they will return to their chosen home in Los Angeles, where the talented and accomplished leader will resume his important musical engagement. The table was charmingly laid and was brilliant with exquisite napery, silver and glassware, rendered more luminous, if possible, by a lavish display of the favorite flower of the hostess. Covers for fourteen were laid, all of the invited guests being professionals.

Amateur Players.

Members of the Amateur Players' Club will enjoy a morning reading Tuesday at 10:30 o'clock at Thirty-first and Hoover streets. Mrs. Horace Wing will read "Nowadays," by George Middleton.

Mrs. Bronson Hostess.

A bridge luncheon of ten tables was presided over Friday by Mrs. R. B. Bronson, who entertained at her home, No. 2090 Harvard boulevard.

For Brides-to-Be.

Complimenting Miss Evangeline Dupue, who is betrothed to Irving Walker, and also Miss Isabel Watson, who is to wed Stuart O'Melveny, Mrs. J. F. Francis of South Bonnie Brae street entertained with a luncheon yesterday. Killarney buds and valley lilies arranged in a basket occupied the center of the table, while china baskets filled with nosegays formed dainty favors for the guests, including Miss Kate Van Nuys, Miss Ruth Kays, Miss Lena Roland, Miss Lucy Car[illegible], Miss Clara Waton, Miss Katherine Banning, Mrs. H. H. Cotton and Mrs. Clarence Moore. Decorations about the rooms were attractive, quantities of American Beauties and spring flowers having been arranged in the hall and in the drawing-room. Killarneys and gladiolus lent their beauty, while yellow and purple iris adorned the living-room.

Charity Ball.

"The Evolution of the Dance," presented recently by members of the Amateur Players' Club, is to be repeated the evening of May 12, much to the delight of local and Pasadena society folk. This time the proceeds will go to the young women of the Orphans' Home Auxiliary, who will buy pretties for the beach home being completed for the little tots at the Los Angeles Orphans' Home. Not only will the interesting and clever programme be repeated, but the evening will conclude with a brilliant ball at Capt. Banning's place at Thirty-first and Hoover streets, which will be crowded with those wishing to help the worthy cause.

At Hotel del Coronado.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow of South Figueroa street registered Thursday at Hotel del Coronado. Mrs. W. S. Hook of Menlo avenue, is also a guest at the picturesque resort.

Mrs. Crenshaw Hostess.

A handsome centerpiece of Scotch bloom and maidenhair, extending the full length of the table, and cut-glass candles with pale yellow silk shades adorned the luncheon table Wednesday presided over by Mrs. George Lafayette Crenshaw of No. 1419 Wilton place, and Mrs. Joseph Carlisle Wilson. The lovely affair, which is the first of a series of spring parties planned by the clever hostesses, was in honor of Mrs. William Morris, formerly of St. Louis, who will make Los Angeles her home, and also for Mrs. Thomas Grier of Dakota, who is occupying her winter residence in this city. Cards hand-adorned with butterflies marked places for Mrs. Charles E. Sharp, Mrs. Oscar M. Souden, Mrs. Erasmus Wilson, Mrs. J. T. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Orra E. Monnett, Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth, Mrs. Hugh Harrison, Mrs. Charles MacFarland, Mrs. Edward Allan Featherstone, Mrs. Richard V. Day, Mrs. Loren O. Crenshaw, Mrs. William Mead and Mrs. [illegible]ley Johnson.

Wedding Announcement.

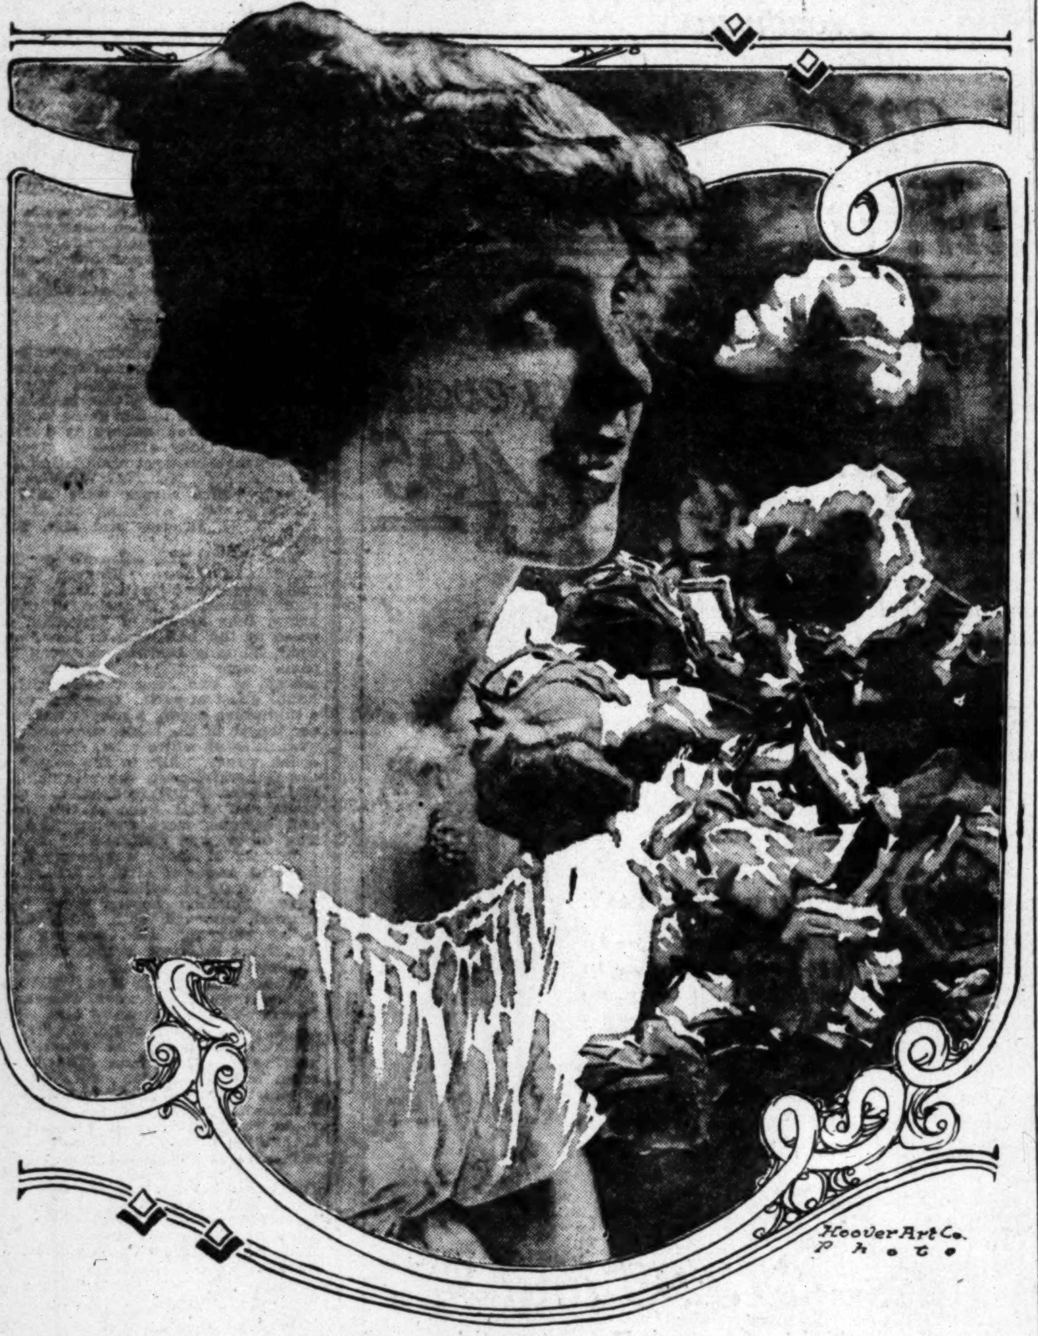
Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Fannie L. Marks and [illegible] Feisleben, which took place April 19, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Marks, of No. 225 South Gramercy place. Rabbi Hecht was the officiating clergy-

[illegible] Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Montgomery of Montana, who are occupying their winter home in this city, entertained [illegible]day evening with a dinner party in honor of their son, Ewing Montgomery, and his bride, who are here on their honeymoon trip. The bride was formerly Miss Mattie Belle Scan[illegible] of Benton, La., and the wedding on the 15th inst. was one of the fashionable events in the southern city. Ewing Montgomery, who is a well-known business man of Anaconda, [illegible], will take his bride there to live. He is interested with his father in a large packing-house.

Parmenter Hostess.

Mrs. George Edward Parmenter entertained with an "original evening" [illegible], to which about 100 guests were bidden. Ferns and palms beautified the ballroom of the Engstrum apartments, where the interesting affair took place. The clever programme opened with the reading by Miss Marjorie Charles Driscoll of her play "The Flax," a witty Irish farce supposed to have taken place an hour before cock's crow on a midsummer night. Miss Edna Weh Sterrett followed with several original poems and Miss Fanny Charles Dillon delighted those present with two of her own compositions. Mrs. Samuel Connon occupied another half hour presenting "Mammy's Hush Song" and "Mammy's Wake-Up Song," by Miss Alberta Jones of Pasadena, while the next number was several of Beatrice Hubbell Plummer's songs, sung by Mme. Michael de Kvapishevska. Other interesting numbers were provided by Mrs. S. T. Clover, who read her new play; Miss Edna Gerheart, who read one of her own short stories, and Mrs. Walter Putnam, who concluded the altogether interesting event with selections from her fairy stories.



Mrs. Ewing Montgomery,

A young bride from Benton, La., who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Montgomery, who are at present domiciled in their winter home in this city.

Wedding Announcement.

Miss Morna Keller, who for the past three years has made her home at Hotel Pleasanton, and who is a cousin of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Alexander of the Hershey Arms, was quietly married at 5 o'clock yesterday to Othello Dixon Dorsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dorsey of Los Angeles. The ceremony took place in the First Christian Church before the immediate family, Rev. Shepp officiating. Following, dinner was served at the California Club. At the conclusion of a brief trip Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey will make their home at No. 1503 South Figueroa street.

New Visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliffe J. Fox of West Thirty-sixth street are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby boy. The new visitor has been named Cliffe Walter.

Mother Honored.

Mrs. John Wesley Tomblin of No. 720 West Twenty-eighth street, assisted by her sisters, Mrs. John H.

Every Pair Offered at Practically Your Own Price Now

As the time grows shorter in this great sale of ours, we find that stronger and stronger grows the necessity for cutting prices already cut and for increasing values already tremendously increased.

There has never been, in the shoe selling history of Los Angeles, a time when a store, with the reputation which this one enjoys for handling nothing but the highest quality shoes has been placed in a position where it was absolutely compelled to put prices on thousands of shoes at the point where we have now placed them.

Discriminating men and discriminating women who realize the value of a dollar and who want their shoe money to do double duty and in some instances treble duty, flock to the store daily.

Make it a point to see our windows tomorrow.

Another great lot of Fisk and Hyland hats, at about half, at $7.50

—Just imagine buying Fisk and Hyland hats at close to half—(some are less than half)—right now with summer just beginning!

—It's another demonstration of the helpfulness of this Jacoby Millinery Store—of the rightness of its styles and the lowness of its prices!—

—Fisk and Hyland are both names that stand high in the millinery world—both names that mean more to women than a whole page of glowing description—

—And think—these Fisk and Hyland hats that most stores would have been glad to have had at full price are to be about half—

Monday is to be a great day to buy and save!

—Among these hats at $7.50 are both tailored and dress hats in most every style—straw and color—with every new wanted trimming effect, too—

Untrimmed hat shapes an unusual outgoing at $3.95

—Hat shapes that were bought to sell in a special way at ever so much more than $3.95!

—There are plain sailors, bandeau effects, shepherdess models, turbans and wide brim affairs of hemp, milan hemp, milan, leghorn, Panama and split in tan, citron, brown, blue, white, black and quite a few of the new novelty shades!—

—A sale extraordinary at $3.95.

Second Floor—Jacoby's.

Crack! ---smash! --- bang!! Box after box is being opened —just as this advertisement is being written.

—and piling out of them, are coming the most exquisite wash weaves that any summertime has found in years and years!

—Some of those the winter saw, were such delicate mistlike affairs that it's hard to imagine that they were really woven by a man-made loom.—And there were others sprinkled with dainty flowers that nature might be glad to claim as her own!

—No!—not high priced at all—most of them very modestly priced you'll think—some are even under what they were made to sell for!—

—A window showing of them ready today!—

—Here are a few of them—

—36-in. Imperial crepe at 35c.
—40-in. Egyptian voile at 25c.
—40-in. plaid ratine at 25c.
—40-in. woven voiles at 25c.
—40-in. floral voiles at 25c.
—38-in. Devon ratine at 25c.
—36-in. ratine striped crepe at 35c.

16-button silk gloves 75c

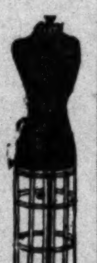
—This is one of the most important announcements that the Jacoby glove store has made in a long while—Hall's 16-button, 2-clasp, Milanese silk gloves in black, white and gray. Very specially priced at 75c pair!

A special lot of 2-clasp lamb gloves 75c

—These are in black, tan, mode, cream, blue and green—very specially priced at 75c pair.

—Between the Entrances, Jacoby's.

"How is it that you can sell these splendid adjustable dress forms at $5.98 when other stores ask so much more for them?"



—A customer asked that question of us the other day!

—And we answered: "We can sell them at $5.98 because we buy them by the carload (over 300 at a time).

—"Any store that had the courage to buy them in such quantities could offer you an equally low price—provided, of course, that they are satisfied with as little profit as we figure on"—

—Ask to see these splendid forms on Monday.

—Special Demonstration—Main Floor, Jacoby's.

2000 yards of shadow lace flouncings, in Monday sale, 75c

—Because a big New York importing house was ready to clear stocks—this lot of 2000 yards came to us considerably under worth—and Monday we are to offer it at an equal reduction!—

—It's all cotton lace, to be sure, but it's so much finer—in so much prettier patterns than laces selling at even so much more than 75c—that many women, who had expected to buy high-priced silk shadow laces will buy it for their new waists and frocks!—

—The widths range from 17-inch to 27-inch—the colors include white, cream and ecru—

—See the display of it in one of our windows today!—

Women's coats and dresses---scores of them out in a big Monday event at close to half and way less than half . . $14.95

—The Jacoby garment store has sent out many wonderful new items this past year—but none of them have been of more importance than this sale of coats and dresses which we announce for Monday at $14.95.

—The coats came in a special purchase!

—There are dozens of models for street, evening and for motor wear—some of taffeta—some of moire and of faille and of poplin—others of gabardines—English mixtures—wool crepes—shepherd checks—serges—granite and waffle weaves and brocaded fabrics—

—All shades among them and all sizes 14 years to women's 44's.

—The dresses have all been taken from our regular stocks—all of them have been so much more than $14.95 that were we to quote the actual reductions in this advertisement—it is more than likely there would be enough women waiting when the doors open Monday morning, to take every one of them—

—There are hardly two in the whole lot alike—that means that every style—every material and every color that you could wish for is included—and every size, too, from misses' 14 years to women's 44's.

—We suggest early choosing!—

Suits---two sales---$13.95 and $21

—Both lots contain suits that are one-third to almost a half under worth!—

—Both lots contain suits in all sizes from misses' 14 years to women's 44's—suits in every one of the season's smartest styles—in practically all of the most wanted materials and most desired colors!—

—Either lot is worthy of a great deal more space than we have been able to give both of them here.

—Remember the savings amount to at least a third—in some cases they are close to a half!—

Third Floor—Jacoby's.

$5.00 will buy crepe de chine waists of unusual worth!

—Waists such as you are in the habit of paying more than $5.00 for—waists that you gladly pay more than $5.00 for—

—They're all low neck models—with drop shoulders and either long or short sleeves—the collars and cuffs are neatly hemstitched—some have dainty frills added—

—The color range includes maize—peach—apricot—violet—emerald—copenhagen—black and white.

Our famous dollar waists

—have proven to be strong factors in the up-building of the 4th Floor waist store!—

—You'll not wonder at it when you see the waists themselves, for they have little in common with waists that sell at $1.00 or with many that sell at even more!—

—There are included waists of voile—of batiste and of crepe with high or low necks and with long or three-quarter sleeves—some lace, some embroidery trimmed—all sizes—

4th Floor, Jacoby.

81x90-inch seamless sheets—special at . . 50c

—Yes!—50c is way under the worth of this splendid sheet—but we're anxious for you to know more about the new home of the "Sheets and Pillow Cases" up on the Mezzanine—so we've named this low price to attract you there Monday!—

—These sheets are made of a good heavy round thread muslin—without seams—and with deep hems at top and bottom!—

—Just 300 of them to go at 50c!—

—Double bed-crocheted spreads, 79c.
—Genuine Marseilles spreads, $3.59.
—18x36-in. Huck Towels at $1.00 doz.
—18x36-in. Bleached Bath Towels, 15c each.

Mezzanine.

Muslin underwear an offering at $1.25

—and it's a very unusual offering, too—for not only does it include gowns of crepe and muslin and the regulation drawer and corset cover combinations—but there are also included the new envelope chemise and the new knickerbocker combinations!—

—Many women will buy enough garments for wear all summer at this price!—4th floor, Jacoby's.

Silk petticoats

—Two items for Monday that will be read with a good deal of interest by women who would buy good petticoats and save!—

At $1.95 are messaline petticoats with deep plaited flounces and small dust ruffles—these come in emarald, Copenhagen, navy blue, American beauty, orange and purple.

At $2.95 are petticoats of messaline and others with jersey tops and deep messaline flounces—these are in emerald, American beauty, tango, black, white, wistaria, Copenhagen, purple, orange and brown.

—Fourth Floor—Jacoby's—

Corsets

—There are so many splendid new corsets ready in the new second floor corset store—and each one of them has so many features that are good and new (and in most cases exclusively their own) that we can but list them here and invite you to come see them Monday and let our expert corsetieres fit your model to you—

Guests were seated at two long tables, with an honor guest at each. One represented a miniature ocean, a mirror extending the length of the table, surrounded by quantities of white tulle, forming the ocean waves, while in the center was the General Grant, the steamship on which Mrs. Williamson sails. Other boats and craft were in the harbor and kewpies were waving farewells. The other was centered by a large mountain of snow, suggesting Snowhill, the home of Mrs. Riggin, also a limited train on which she will travel. Cards marking covers were hand-painted, adorned with old-fashioned ladies carrying silk shopping bags. Following luncheon games of auction employed the afternoon.

Another affair for Mrs. Williamson during the current week was the informal bridge tea given by Mrs. Nicholas E. Rice at her home, No. 317 Occidental boulevard, at which forty guests were included. The dining-room and living-room were effective in pink Maman Cochet roses, while the den, the sunroom and the breakfast-room were enlivened with the General McArthur roses. Score cards were scenes representing the four seasons.

To Tour the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard Jess will leave tomorrow for a tour of the East. They go first to Hot Springs, Va., and from there will go to New York and Boston.

Musical Tea.

Mrs. O. P. Huntington of Lu Verne, Minn., and Miss Olive Heiss, who has recently returned from a European trip, were the complimented guests Wednesday afternoon at a musical tea given by Miss Mary Huntington at the home of Mrs. Scott Ormbsy on Garfield avenue, Pasadena. a delightful programme and Mrs. Clover read an original poem. Assisting ladies were Mrs. Scott Ormsby, Mrs. Benjamin F. Huntington and Mrs. Harry Powell. Fifty guests were included.

Fourth of a Series.

Mrs. C. R. Luton, No. 2205 Gramercy place, has extended invitations for the fourth of the series of bridge luncheons with which she is entertaining, the affair to take place Tuesday afternoon, April 28.

Missouri Guest Honored.

Mrs. George McIntyre entertained with a bridge luncheon Wednesday at her home, No. 330 South Alvarado street, honoring her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Newland of Fulton, Mo., who with her grandfather, George McIntyre, Sr., are guests in the city. The table was laid with a handsome cluny cloth, centered by a brown basket, the handle tied with fluffy pink tulle bows and the whole filled with enchantress carnations. Place cards were adorned with charming young girls with quaint bonnets. Games of auction were the pleasure provided by the hostess, following luncheon, and prizes were captured by Mmes. Unruh and Newland. Those invited to meet the honoree were Mrs. John W. Thayer, Mrs. Frank Wells of Ocean Park, Mrs. A. G. Fruhling, Mrs. A. E. Houghtelin, Mrs. F. Davis, Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. David Unruh, Mrs. C. E. Knox, Mrs. Harry Harrington, Mrs. M. E. Johnson and Mrs. Charles Hill.

To Europe.

Mrs. Peter Barry and her daughter, Mary Beatrice, of Coronado street, are leaving shortly for a two years' sojourn in Europe, where Miss Barry will resume her studies in music and the languages.

Series of Affairs.

A charming hostess of the week was Mrs. David Unruh of Arcadia, who entertained with bridge luncheons Friday and Saturday, at her delightful home in Arcadia. Friday the home was embellished with a profusion of pink roses and on Saturday snowballs were utilized, all from the hostess' gardens. Place cards were adorned with Dutch scenes and Friday marked covers for Mrs. W. Jobson, Mrs. Irving Bancroft, Mrs. Robert Gortner, Mrs. H. A. Unruh, Mrs. Albert Wilson, Mrs. James Byrne, Mrs. George L. Penniman, Mrs. Richard Sterling and Mrs. Leman Craig.

Saturday guests included were Mrs. Robert Smith, who furnished a delightful programme of music during the afternoon; Mrs. Thomas A. Wright, Mrs. Frank Bradbury, Mrs. Ann Thomas, Mrs. George Stecher, Mrs. George McIntyre, Mrs. M. Cartman and Mrs. John W. Thayer.

On Eastern Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckner Ringo will close their home at No. 944 Manzanita street and leave next Saturday for New York City, where Mrs. Buckner will study voice culture for six months. They will then go to Paris, where she will coach with Gabriel La Pierre for a year or two.

Engagement Made Known.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bolleu of No. 2636 La Salle avenue made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Matie, to J. Doherty of Denver, Colo. The wedding will be solemnized in June.

Children's Party.

Little Katherine Moore, the talented young daughter of Mrs. E. Moore of North Coronado street, was hostess recently, entertaining a number of her small friends in celebration of her fifth birthday anniversary. The tots were delighted with the large Kewpie doll, surrounded with pink and white blossoms, which centered the table, laden with goodies. Boys and girls who enjoyed the afternoon were Marcia Cleviand and Frank Goldenson, who did several fancy dances during the afternoon; Ruth Moon, Grace Wing, Katherine Adams, Dorothy Adams, Edith White, Helen Tiernan, Anna Moore, Katherine Milbach, Betty de Lano, Rosalynn Johns, Robert Lewis and George Kiefer.

Engagement Announcement.

Mrs. A. F. Huntoon of No. 1533 West Forty-eighth street announces today the engagement of her only daughter, Miss Etheyl Emretta, to George Edward Rinehart, a young business man of this city. The young people have chosen June 11 for the date of the wedding, which will be quietly solemnized in this city. The bride has many friends in the sorority world, being a member of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority.

House Guest.

Miss Esther Love of No. 457 Harvard boulevard is entertaining as for a week Miss Margaret Smith of San Bernardino.

Wedding Celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Berny of No. North Ardmore avenue received fifty of their friends last week in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. Their home, in honor of the notable event, was decked with golden blossoms, and the table, a wedding gift fifty years ago, held a huge wedding cake surrounded with yellow flowers. A feature of the afternoon was the gold shower presented by members of the immediate family. From church friends came a beautiful gold clock. The lovable old couple were assisted by five of their daughters, the Misses Emma, Carry and Helen Berny and Mrs. W. N. Goff and Mrs. G. L. Sallada.

Affair.

A supper-dance was given recently by Commodore and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell of St. Andrews place, when the following guests were entertained: Mr. James Flathers, Mrs. Lottie Logan, Mrs. Alfred Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Freeland, Mr. and Mrs. P Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Miner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hays of Hollywood, Louis Mesher and Jack Glendering.

Party.

Mr. and Mrs. George G. Germain of No. 1701 Harvard boulevard entertained recently with a box party in honor of their house guest, Mrs. Clara B. Richardson of Springfield, Ill. Mrs. Richardson is a sister of Mrs. Germain.

To Entertain.

Miss Margaret Bentel, No. 1627 avenue, will entertain a party of young friends at the opening performance of "Wan o' the Wood" at the Little Theater Tuesday afternoon.

At the Beach.

Many local society folk attended the dinner-dance at the Merritt Jones Hotel at Ocean Park Tuesday evening. The presence of several naval officers and their wives from the battleships anchored off the Los Angeles coast made the affair a semi-military ball. Dancing in the tango-room followed an elaborate eight-course dinner in the main dining salon. Among the guests were: Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Nutting, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Fielding, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Perew, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mr. and Mrs. Parker Byron, Mrs. F. T. Gillis, Miss Selma Taliafero, Mrs. Ervin Tape, Mrs. Leona Chapman, Miss Cecile Smith, Misses Mary and Ruth Heppe, Miss Ovidia Weid, Wilcox, Otto Weid, Earl Remington, John Byers, Louis J. McCarthy, Freese, T. C. Gordon, Lieut. J. A. Logan, U.S.N., Lieut. F. G. U.S.N., Victor Kleinberger, Bunt, Helen Brown and Irving Wedding.

Miss Kathryn Estelle Wardenburg, daughter of Mrs. Nelle Wardenburg of No. 1308 East Thirty-seventh street, was united in marriage on the 16th inst. to Alan Warde Ross. The service took place in the study of the First Unitarian Church, Rev. E. Stanton Hodgin officiating. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ross of San Francisco, mother of the groom, and John Wardenburg of Salt Lake City, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Ross left immediately for the northern part of the State, where they will spend their honeymoon. Their future home will be in San Francisco.

-Elect Honored.

Miss Edna Thacker, who is betrothed to Paul McClure, was the complimented guest recently at a party given by the Misses Zoe and McClure at their home in Highland Park. The rooms were beautiful with baskets of Cecile Bruners, and on the mantel Kewpie brides and grooms, attended by a long bridal party, was the clever arrangement. The guests were Mrs. C. I. Thacker of park, Mrs. Harry Chase of Glendale, Mrs. Titus Kinsey of Venice, Mrs. John Udell, Mrs. Grace Frees, Mrs. James Smart, Mrs. H. M. Chapman, Mrs. Charles Oden, Mrs. D. R. McClure, Miss Helen Oden, Miss Florence Ringle, Miss Luella Rice, Miss McFarland, Miss Etta Rogers, Miss Mabel Ringle, Miss Katherine, Miss Byrd Roce, Miss Edna, Miss Henrietta Ringle, Miss Ayers, Miss Myrtle Nevins, Miss Ruth Nevins and Miss Mary

-Furry Wedding.

Miss L. M. Furry of Montrose, Colo., and Edward M. Beall of Hollywood were married a day or so ago at the home of the groom's brother, C. A. Beall of Lemoine avenue. Rev. Sal of the Alvarado Christian Church officiated. At the conclusion of a honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Beall will be at home at No. 6042 Carlton Way, Hollywood.

Engagement Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolla C. Krebs of No. Linden avenue, Berkeley, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Holmes Krebs, to Everett Richard Ludden of San Francisco. The groom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ludden of Martinez, Cal. The bride-elect was born and educated in this city and her many friends here will shower her with congratulations.

At the Alexandria.

Among prominent young bridal couples registered at Hotel Alexandria is Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Reitler from Chicago, who are touring California. Mrs. Reitler is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Goldstein of Ark., her father being a very prominent banker and capitalist of that city. She is very pretty and a society favorite of her own city, and also in Chicago, where she has spent several months with friends. The young couple intend to remain in California for several weeks, dividing their time between here, Pasadena and Coronado Beach, and later intend to sail for Honolulu.

A number of social affairs have been planned in their honor by Mr. and Mrs. Laurence W. Searts of Westmoreland avenue.

Dinner.

One of the enjoyable parties of recent date was the dinner given at the Hotel at Beverly Hills by J. E. Carter, assisted by his daughter, Mrs. Langdon. The affair was planned as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B., who will soon leave for an extended tour abroad. Those participating in the enjoyable event were Mr. and Mrs. Strong of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Carter, Mr. and Mrs. lach, Miss Ada Gillett of Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilsey of Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. E. Carter of Long Beach, and M. Rogers.

Jungquist Honored.

Mrs. Wilfred Gayton Lane, of No. Ingraham street, entertained with a charming luncheon party recently honoring Miss Beulah Jungquist, who will be one of the interesting June brides. Miss Jungquist assisted as maid of honor at Mrs. Lane's wedding in September and the young women are warm friends. Others to share the good time were Miss May Reed, Miss Ada Campbell, Miss Florence Danforth, Miss Grace Helen Pease, Miss Berenice Marcher, Miss Pearl Kardel, Miss Josephine Neil, Mrs. Frederick Jungquist, Mrs. Mathew Thorn and Mrs. Harry Underwood.

China Shower.

Miss Pearl Getchell, whose engagement to J. A. Robertson of Long Beach, was recently announced, was the guest of honor at a china shower given by Mrs. J. Standlin Jones at her home, No. 549 West Forty-fifth street. The rooms were elaborate with quantities of ivy, pink Killarney roses and Shasta daisies. Places at the table were marked with miniature bridesmaids carrying tiny scrolls bearing the guest's name and a clever little toast. The gifts were hidden in a huge centerpiece of ferns on the top of which was a bisque bride. There were present Miss Adele Tower, Miss Alice Olson, Miss Ethel Jacobs, Miss Josephine McCune, Miss Florence Olson, Miss Lillie Paine, Mrs. Helen Millar, Mrs. R. D. Stein, Mrs. George Fetch, Mrs. E. A. Riggs, Mrs. George A. Getchell, Mrs. Harriet Tower and Mrs. George W. Blake.

At Beverly Hills.

One of the enjoyable society functions of the past week was a luncheon given last Wednesday by Miss F. E. O'Mera of Kingsley drive, for about seventy-five of her friends at the Beverly Hills Hotel. Tables were artistically decorated with tulips and maidenhair ferns. After luncheon the guests retired to the sun parlor, where cards were enjoyed for the afternoon.

From Montana.

Dr. and Mrs. Spotswood and children of Missoula, Mont., are spending a month in Los Angeles. They are stopping at Hotel Leighton.

Sorority Party.

Members of the Theta Pi Beta Sorority entertained with a dansant and supper at the home of Miss Margaret Campbell, on Budlong avenue, Friday evening. The house and porch were beautifully decorated with roses and greens combined with the club colors. Those who enjoyed the evening were the Misses Mary Louise Burns, Agnes Weber, Margaret Campbell, Margaret Lecklighter, Venus Cake, Mary Dolan, Harriet Blake, Emily Kirchner, Mrs. Jack Klein and the Messrs. Earl Coffman, Jay English, Carl Weber, Thomas Brinker, Norman Bradshaw, W. Cake, George Barnes, Dugan Blake, G. Thompson, Charles Luckenback, J. Stevens, Jack Klein and H. Luckenback.

To Leave.

Mrs. George W. MacKnight of No. 1652 Gramercy place, with her daughter, Miss Alpha MacKnight, left last week for San Francisco, where they will spend three weeks.

Musicale Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Mausard entertained recently with a pleasant musicale at their bungalow, No. 251 North Western avenue. Mrs. Emile Cole-Ulrich, who with her husband and little daughter has come to Los Angeles to reside, was present as special guest. The programme was presented by the honoree, Gustave Ulrich, Paul Heidenrich, Madame Lauge and Mrs. Athon. Following supper dancing was enjoyed.

School Friend Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Schmitt entertained at their home, No. 1430 Connecticut street, recently, honoring Mrs. Jacob Kolb of Detroit, Mich., a school friend of Mrs. Schmitt. The home was attractive in a violet and gold scheme and the evening was passed in interesting games and conversation. Name cards held places for Mr. and Mrs. Kolb, Miss Mattie Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. William Fowler, Miss Bessie Marie Fowler and Mrs. Mary Kellner.

Musical Tea.

A musical tea was the pleasure provided by Mrs. Roy Moore for her friends Wednesday afternoon at her home on Mariposa street. A yellow color scheme was carried out in the music and living-rooms by the Spanish iris and Scotch broom, and in the dining-room a basket of American Beauty roses adorned the tea table. A delightful programme was furnished by Mrs. Harry G. Marxmiller, Mrs. William Boothby Stringfellow, Mrs. Vining, Miss Nell McCutcheon, Mrs. Paul Lindsay Conklin, Mrs. Junquist, Mrs. Harry Underwood and Mrs. Roy Moore.

Seattle Guest.

Mrs. D. Winkler of Seattle is the house guest of her daughter, Mrs. P. J. Moran, No. 737 Rampart street, where she will be at home to her many friends.

Will Go Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robert Paul of Sycamore avenue, Hollywood, will leave for New York May 10 and will sail for Europe about June 10 in company with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Max Hart of Chicago.

Mrs. Kellie Hostess.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Kellie entertained a large party of friends at cards at her beautiful Hollywood home. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. L. D. Miller of Glendora, Mrs. Ward Rice of Beverly Hills, Mrs. William Briggs and Mrs. Willis Durfee.

The prize winners were Mmes. E. F. Bogardus, T. A. Thompson, R. P. McJohnston, George Wilson, Laura Thomas, Miss Alice Smith and Miss Rita Smith. The rooms were brightly decorated with spring flowers.

Marriage Announced.

Cards have been issued, announcing the marriage of Franklin S. Wade, son of C. J. Wade of De Longpre avenue, Hollywood, and Miss Carol Dudley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Cooke of San Diego, Wednesday, April 15, in Los Angeles. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hotchkins before the immediate relatives of the bridal couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade will reside in Hollywood, having secured an apartment at the Hollywood apartments.

Dinner and Dance.

Miss Geraldine Sullivan and Charles Sullivan of Laurel avenue entertained with a dinner party of fourteen covers on Thursday evening. Yellow and green constituted the color scheme for the table decorations and appointments.

The guests were Misses Charlotte Wilson, Morris Johnson, Alice Gower, Catherine Cartwright, Francis Kadish, Elizabeth Carpenter, Geraldine Sullivan, Messrs. The Reception Committee was composed of Misses Aubrey Allen, C. E. Hodgson, Hugo Wallace and Harold Allen of South Pasadena.

OUT-OF-TOWN-SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

TWO of the most artistically appointed social functions given last week in Pasadena were a luncheon and an auction bridge party at which Mrs. Henry Vilas of Markham place was the hostess. Both affairs were given in honor of Mrs. Vilas's sister, Mrs. J. B. Modisette, of St. Louis, who has been spending several weeks here, and who has been an honored guest at many social functions. The luncheon was given Wednesday at the Valley Hunt Club, when covers were laid for twenty-four. The extension dining-room was beautifully decorated with trailing vines of asparagus plumosus and ferns and Cecile Brunner roses were used in profusion. As a centerpiece for table decoration a low basket was filled with Cecile Brunner roses and dainty favors of lace baskets tied with pink tulle were at each place. Coffee was served in the drawing-room after the luncheon, the hostess presiding over the coffee urn. Those present were Mmes. E. H. Moulton, Henry Van Dyke, David R. Scott, DeWitt C. Le Fevre, George E. Hale, Benjamin Folsom, Arthur A. Libby, Fred Elmer Wilcox, John Earle Jardine, H. M. Robinson, Walter S. Volkmar, F. G. Cruickshank, G. Lawrence Stimson, J. Foster Rhodes, B. B. Bush, Torrey Everett, C. C. Clark, S. M. Hamilton, Misses Dorothy Vandevort, Jane Stimson and Barbara Blankenhorn. Friday afternoon Mrs. Vilas entertained at her own home with auction bridge. The library and drawing-room where the card tables were placed were charmingly decorated with Killarney and Radiant roses. Prizes were awarded after the games and refreshments were served at the card tables.

Mrs. A. M. McDearmont of West Colorado street was the hostess at one of the larger auction bridge parties of the week Friday afternoon when she entertained forty of her friends in honor of her house guest, Mrs. H. M. Evans, of Kansas City. After the games tea was served in the dining-room and other friends of the hostess came in for refreshments. The rooms were beautifully decorated with garden rose and in the dining-room a color scheme of pink and green was carried out with Killarney roses and wood ferns.

Quite the largest social affair in which Pasadena society was interested last week was the fashion show dinner dance given at the Midwick Club last evening. The affair was under the direction of Mrs. William Brackenridge and Mrs. Samuel Cupples Pierce of Pasadena, assisted by Mmes. Randolph Miner and E. A. McCarthy of Los Angeles. Among those exhibiting stunning costumes were Mmes. Sam J. Haskins, P. L. Letchworth, Howard E. Huntington, Irving Armstrong, Montague Ward, Avery McCarthy, H. J. Cook, Rufus Spaulding, Misses Emily McBride, Dorothy Bailey, Theodora Robbins, Sallie McFarland, Marjorie Ramsay, Helen Jones, Catherine Ramsay, McCarthy, Clara Watson, Elizabeth Sherk, Isabel Watson and others. Assisting in entertaining were Mmes. Harrison Guthrie, Granville MacGowan, with Mmes. Brackenridge and Miner. There were about 200 guests present.

Members of the Valley Hunt Club and a few of their friends enjoyed a supper dance at the clubhouse Saturday evening. Owing to the fashion show at the Midwick there were only seventy-five present, but the affair was elaborately appointed and one of the most delightful entertainments of the post-Lenten season.

Mrs. Hampton L. Story of Altadena has issued invitations for an auction bridge luncheon, which will be given tomorrow at the Altadena Country Club.

Tuesday will be art day at the Shakespeare Club and an informal reception will be given to artists who have exhibited or will exhibit their artistic work there during the season. The Reception Committee is made up of the executive board and those assisting are Mmes. M. L. Means, R. B. Ashley, Webster Merrifield, Jeremiah Rhodes, Arthur Noble and J. H. Woodworth. Hector Alliot will give a lecture on three centuries of art in America, and among artists exhibiting now are Benjamin Chambers Brown, California landscapes; Ernest Batchelder, arts and crafts work in tiles; Miss Waldvogel, embroideries; Julia Bracken Wendt, sculptor, and other artists of note. Of added interest are pictures loaned by Mmes. F. G. Cruickshank and J. N. Burnes.

Miss Stella Noble will entertain her friends living on New York avenue tomorrow with an auction bridge party at her home on Marengo avenue, Altadena.

The Pasadena alumnae of the University of Michigan were entertained early in the week by Mrs. M. B. Butler at Hotel Vista del Arroyo, at luncheon. Covers were laid for Mmes. H. H. Clark, Ralph W. Bailey, John D. Mersereau, Clayton R. Taylor, Edward T. Parker, Misses Isabel Cass, Margaret S. Carhart, Fannie E. Hanlon, Alice C. Brown, with the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Moulton of West Green street were the recipients of a pleasant surprise party Tuesday evening when thirty-five of their friends came in to help them celebrate the thirty-third anniversary of their wedding day. Gifts of cut glass and silver made the occasion memorable and music, games and refreshments added to the evening's pleasure.

Mrs. Charles Miller of Sunset avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mabel Marion Miller and Ernest Le Roy Arnold of Long Beach. The wedding will occur in June.

Mrs. Florence Clemence gave a dinner at her home on East Green street Tuesday evening complimentary to Miss Regina Martin and Frank Holloway who are soon to be married. Covers were laid for eight and later other guests came in for the evening. Among those enjoying this hospitality were Misses Julia and Eva Heck, Doris Archer, Hilda Anderson, Marie Bonney, Fern Shoemaker, Dorothy Jones, Ruth Peterson, Naomi Bradley, Lucy James, Pearl Ott, Manilla Martin, Jessie Jones, Annie Ward, Messrs. John Kane, Adderley Gladden, Frank B. Hyde, Gerald B. Martin, Oscar Swanson, V. S. Clemence, Walter Hartley, Arthur Stover, Charles Anderson and Mrs. Sarah Jenks Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Hazard Halsted of North Grand avenue, who have been absent from Pasadena two months returned home Wednesday having spent the last month in Berkeley.

The Valley Hunt Club was the scene last week of several small affairs as well as large ones, and among luncheons given, was that of Mrs. L. W. Jutten of Markham street, who entertained Thursday with covers for sixteen. Mrs. A. S. Halsted of South Euclid avenue, gave a small luncheon Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Henry T. Fuller entertained with a small auction bridge party.

Mrs. Joseph Hixon entertained Friday with an auction bridge party at her home at Oak Knoll complimentary to her house guest, Mrs. E. M. Kelley. There were twenty-four present.

Mrs. Rufus Spaulding of South Grand avenue gave a small luncheon party Wednesday when covers were laid for six.

Mrs. George Crosby of Duluth, whose winter home is on Linda Vista avenue, entertained a few friends with auction bridge Wednesday.

Mrs. John C. Alexander of New York, who has spent the winter at Hotel Green, and who has just returned from a week at San the guest of Mrs. Daniel Craig John avenue, for ten days.

A-B Ranges are mechanically perfect. Every detail has been worked out by experts with years of experience.

Nothing but the best material is used for every part. The Finish is superior to that of any other line. Every part is aluminized, nickel-plated or enameled.

All black parts are finished with two coats of dead black enamel, and then baked in more than 700 degrees of heat. Nickel-plated parts are flat or slightly curved, making them easy to clean. These parts are first copper plated, then polished to prevent the nickel from cracking or peeling.

Ovens are lined with a special process white metal—an aluminum alloy that has been perfected after years of search for a non-rustable finish that will resist heat and moisture. Wire Oven Racks are electric welded and retinned.

All Styles from $6.65 to $125

Over 200 of these magnificent Ranges are on display. You can choose from plain black enamel finish; others with white tile back and sides, with glass, mica or solid metal doors—with white enamel or galvanized clean-out trays and white enameled steel broiler pans.

Gladys Taylor and Messrs. Roe McCrae, Wilbur Bailey, Roy Christensen, Victor Ford Collins, Dale Walker, Tom Donohue, Asa Call and "Buster" Brown.

Mrs. J. P. Whitmore, No. 1123 Fairview avenue, entertained with a luncheon Friday, honoring her house guest, Miss Mary Southworth, of Plymouth, Ind., to which only former Indiana guests were included. The table was laid with a Cluny lace luncheon set, centered by a basket filled with Cecile Brunner roses, the handles tied with fluffy bows of pink tulle. Place cards were adorned with Venetian scenes, which the hostess brought from Venice on her recent European trip. Covers were laid for the hostess, the honoree, Mrs. J. R. Rankin and Mrs. Layton Greenwood of Los Angeles; Mrs. A. Haffner of Lamanda Park, Mrs. E. O. Wickizer and Mrs. P. O. Gardner.

The marriage of Miss Gladys E. Merrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Merrill of Whittier, to Benjamin Dean of this city, occurred Friday evening at the bride's home before immediate relatives only. Mr. and Mrs. Dean will make their home at No. 915 Fremont avenue, this city, where they will be at home to friends after May 15.

Mrs. H. A. Kehler entertained the members of the Beata Hora Club with a luncheon at her home, No. 1716 Fletcher avenue, Friday afternoon. A mound of vari-colored roses formed the centerpiece for the table, and were utilized in the rest of the rooms. Following luncheon, current events were led by Mrs. Martin McQuigg, and the balance of the afternoon was spent in the rose garden of the hostess. Members present were Mrs. I. L. Spencer, Mrs. James E. Pierce, Mrs. A. H. Gates, Mrs. P. A. Lord, Mrs. E. L. B. Godfrey, Mrs. Marcus L. Godfrey, Mrs. Wilbur J. Filley, Mrs. William Council, Mrs. Don F. Gates, Mrs. E. A. Hamilton, Mrs. E. Schermerhorn, Mrs. Martin McQuigg, Mrs. Margaret Reehl, Mrs. Edna Harter, Mrs. C. C. Gates and two special guests, Mmes. Farwell of Los Angeles and Standacher of Alhambra.

Members of the Saturday evening Auction Bridge Club were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hill at their home on Mt. Washington. The home had been turned into a bower by quantities of roses, and prize winners of the evening were Mrs. E. N. Grant and Charles Bingham. A delicious collation followed the games of cards.

Alhambra.

MRS. JOSEPH HENRY DOUGLAS of Sunny Slope entertained the Sunny Slope Wednesday Afternoon Club very pleasantly last week at the home of Mrs. E. K. Alpaugh. A large number of members and several guests were present, and a delightful afternoon was spent.

A delightful dinner party, with covers laid for twelve, was given by Fred Turner of Alhambra at the San Gabriel Country Club Saturday evening. At the conclusion of the supper Mr. Turner and his guests attended the monthly dance at the clubhouse.

The Satira class of the First Presbyterian Church, Alhambra, met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. James McLaren, with a large attendance. The programme was one of exceptional merit, and close attention was given the several papers which were read during the afternoon. The hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Clarence Van Graham and Mrs. R. L. Stewart. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Mabel Rice, No. 109 South First street.

One of the charming social affairs of the past week was the party given Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Emberson, Sunny Slope, complimentary to Mrs. Charles E. Lovelace of Highland Park and Mrs. A. W. Layne of Ocean Park.

One of the pleasantest of the many dances given by Die Schwalbe Club occurred at the clubhouse in San Gabriel, on Rose road, Friday night. Music for the delightful affair was furnished by the Wachtel Club, and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Burgwald were patron and patroness of the occasion. About twenty-five couples were in attendance and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

The Berean Class of the First Baptist Church, Alhambra, have elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Miss Mildred Jackson; vice-president, Miss Nannie Alford; secretary and treasurer, Miss Mabel Drake; class teacher, Mrs. T. N. Lord. A class dinner that was a most pleasing affair was given in the classroom at the church last Tuesday evening, which was largely attended.

The Wednesday Afternoon Club of Alhambra had its last regular meeting in the new club home on South First street. The club women feel that they are not only on terra firma, but are also on the eve of the most prosperous time of the club's existence. A song recital, in charge of Mrs. F. D. Simon, was the thoroughly-enjoyed programme of the afternoon.

Mrs. W. W. Reidel of San Gabriel entertained with an elaborate party on Friday at her home on East Broadway. The attractive home had been beautifully decorated, a color scheme of pink and green prevailing through the rooms. The guests of the occasion were: Mrs. William Planck, Mrs. Chester McGee, Mrs. B. F. Morrow, Mrs. William Wagner, Mrs. K. Wilcox, Mrs. Ballantine, Mrs. William Weller, Mrs. R. D. Sperry, Mrs. C. C. Noble, Mrs. George Eno, Sr., Mrs. George Eno, Miss Eno, Mrs. William Eckert, Mrs. A. J. Epling, Mrs. H. E. Chur, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. L. S. Cottle and Mrs. Thomas Brown.

The San Gabriel Woman's Club gave such a successful affair at the party which was supposed to close the club's social activities for the present season that they are being strongly urged to give another social evening some time in May. The delightful affair took place Friday night, and the programme was in charge of Mrs. R. H. Dyer of Alhambra, who is a reader of unusual talent. Later dancing was indulged in until time for adjournment, and a comfortable sum netted to be used toward the payment of the club's piano.

Mrs. E. P. Whitney of No. 128 North Curtis avenue, Alhambra, who, with her daughter, has been the guest of relatives in Ontario, Can., for several months, returned home Saturday.

Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Meyer of Alhambra have had as their guests recently Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevenson of Santa Monica, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haden of Los Angeles and Mr. Lombard, who represents the German Colportage of the American Baptist Publication Society.

Eagle Rock.

MISS FLORA MAY ROSS gave a delightful birthday dinner party on Tuesday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. R. Scouten, on East Park avenue. The color scheme was pink and white, and a delicious five-course dinner was enjoyed. A beautiful birthday cake adorned with candles was one of the important features. Dainty pink and white cards marked places for Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coe and Dr. Herbert Edgar of Los Angeles, P. C. Wagstaff, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Scouten of Eagle Rock.

Seventeen young friends of Miss Leota Bond of N. Kenilworth avenue came in and surprised her on Tuesday evening, the event being her birthday. She was taken unawares,

An Invitation To Compare Values

TO those who may be unfamiliar with the superior values offered at all times by the "California"—we submit the splendid living-room table shown below.

This masterful example of cabinet-making is from the celebrated shops of W. K. Cowan & Co. It is fifty-four inches in length, contains one large, roomy drawer, and is constructed entirely of specially selected solid mahogany. The price, $42.50, is not a reduction; it is our standard every-day price for this table, and we know that your own unbiased comparison will prove our statement that it is the best value obtainable in a high-grade living-room table in Los Angeles today.

We cordially invite you to make value comparison, not merely with this table, but with all home furnishings shown upon our seven floors. Even though your need be the simplest, most inexpensive article, you will find that the "California" always offers values that you cannot afford to overlook. One price and that the lowest possible consistent with quality. Whether you are prepared to purchase now or not, you will be very welcome.

Glendale.

PROBABLY the leading event of the week in local society circles was the opening of the new Masonic Hall on Brand boulevard Tuesday evening, this being in the form of a house-warming. Many Masons, both local and visiting, were present as were a large number of friends of the lodge, in all there being 450 people present. Richard Sternberg, master of the lodge, presided at this affair. The following short programme was rendered. Character reading, Mrs. Wayland Brown; piano selection, Mrs. E. V. Lawton; violin solos, Miss Francis Paine; vocal numbers, Miss Marjorie Duncan; vocal selections, Richard L. Phister. Miss Dorothy Lee was accompanist. Following the programme the evening was delightfully passed in dancing. Refreshments were served during the evening. The following committee of Masons had the affair in charge: Messrs. Thomas Wood, chairman; Fred Deal, Don Erskine, A. E. Beamon, William Nash, Harvey Hoff, Albert N. Chase, Ernest J. Morgan, Ben Wilde, J. S. Neil, these being assisted by Mrs. John G. Hunchberger and Mrs. A. M. Beamon. The temple has just been completed at an expense of $10,000 and is a model in completeness as a lodge home.

A happy surprise was tendered to Miss M. Louise Butterfield at her home, No. 808 Broadway, Monday evening, the affair being in honor of her birthday anniversary. The surprise was complete as precautions had been taken by having Miss Butterfield entertained at dinner at the home of Mrs. Dellos Jones on Louise street. When the young ladies repaired after dinner to the Butterfield home the surprisers greeted the guest of honor. Games, a musical programme and delicious refreshments were enjoyed during the evening. Among the guests present were Misses Ethel Collins, Ruth J. Wright, Ruby F. Wright, Hazel Anderson, Ellen Fletcher, Marguerete Flower, Vera Kimball, Edith Bangard of Los Angeles; Messrs. Roy Pierce, Herbert Collins, Victor Carr, Mark Francey, Walter Hilkey, Howard Anderson, Roudolph Egginweilder, Frank Butterfield, Paul Butterfield and Henry Webb of Highland Park.

An informal afternoon was enjoyed Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. J. Miller on Louise street, when that capable hostess entertained the South Louise-Street Thimble Club. Inglewood.

A QUIET but pretty wedding occurred at high noon Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Way, when Miss Mina Russell became the bride of their son, Byron Way.

During the ceremony the couple stood under a beautiful arch of smilax, ferns and white roses and the marriage lines were read by Rev. Dr. P. P. Carroll of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Inglewood.

The bride wore a pretty gown of white voile and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms. Following congratulations the happy couple left for a brief honeymoon trip to San Diego and upon their return will go to Grant, Mont., with the groom's parents, where all have interests in a large cattle ranch near that place.

Mrs. E. J. Frederick wife of Col. E. J. Frederick of Havana, Cuba, was a guest during the past week of her sister, Mrs. L. E. Greenfield of Inglewood. Col. Frederick, who is one of the Cuban commissioners to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, is at present in San Francisco in charge of the Cuban building, whence Mrs. Frederick will join him following a visit with relatives in Los Angeles and Inglewood. Col. and Mrs. Frederick will remain at the Cuban building until the close of the exposition, when they will return to their home in Havana.

One of the very delightful events of the past week was that of Friday evening, when Mrs. B. F. Eshelman entertained a company of friends complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McFadden of Santa Ana. In the contest games prizes were awarded to Mrs. McFadden and Miss Mary Allen. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening at small tables, by Mrs. Eshelman assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Glen Clifford Snow.

Mrs. James Worley planned a pleasing surprise in honor of her mother, Mrs. H. A. Gleason, who was a guest at the Worley home on Olive street for a few days. The afternoon was spent with fancywork, after which a collation was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Yarnell threw open their home Tuesday evening to the members of the H.T.O.I. Bridge Club. Following the games a delicious two-course luncheon was served by the hostess.

Mrs. G. W. Prescott and daughter, Mrs. Florence M. Orton, who have been entertaining with a series of handsomely-appointed parties, received another company on Thursday afternoon at their Palm-avenue home. The company included Mrs. Nellie Burke, Mrs. Cora Harrington and guest, Mrs. Ohlds of Los Angeles, Mrs. Dorcas C. Randall, Mrs. Gratz Barnes, Mrs. S. W. Neal, Mrs. V. Z. Argo, Mrs. Josephine True, Mrs. F. L. Cram, Mrs. J. P. Coy, Mrs. F. E. Dill, Mrs. C. M. Hill, Mrs. C. F. La Follette, Mrs. C. L. Frazer, Mrs. Edwin Eugene Corwin, Mrs. Guy L. Frazer, Mrs. H. H. Linville, Mrs. Eunice York, Mrs. E. J. Rohrer, Mrs. James Miller, and Misses Roxie McNeil and Sylvia Sloan of San Bernardino.

Mrs. J. Ethan Allen entertained with a lovely 6 o'clock dinner on Saturday evening last at her home on East Pacific avenue. Nasturtiums decorated the table, where covers were laid for nine.

A jolly company of young people gathered at the Brown home on Palm avenue on Tuesday evening and enjoyed a "fish fry," two of the young men of the party having just returned from a fishing expedition. An elaborate spread was provided and following this the friends lingered for an evening of music. The merrymakers included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin, Misses Fannie and Jennie Henslee, Emma Rohrer, Martha Linfesty, Agnes Fairall, Hazel Bagwill, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Barnes, Dr. G. W. Fitzgerrell, Messrs. C. Durkee, John Linfesty and Albert Bingham.

Mrs. C. L. Fraser and Mrs. Edwin Eugene Corwin were luncheon guests Wednesday of Mrs. Homer C. Lash of Rialto.

G. W. Parsons has returned from a trip to San Francisco and Palo Alto.

San Dimas.

THE following ladies of San Dimas were the invited guests of an auction bridge party given at the home of Mrs. C. E. Hawley of Los Angeles in honor of Mrs. Bertha Jarrett Wednesday afternoon: Mmes. Frank H. Harwood, Elmer W. Hart, W. A. Johnstone, Lucien S. Taylor, Russell W. Teague and Harry E. Walker. Mrs. W. C. Sheppard, formerly of Laverne, and Mrs. John T. Roberts of Hollywood, formerly of San Dimas, were also guests. Mrs. E. W. Hart was the capturer of one of the prizes. Mrs. Hawley was a former San Dimas resident.

The Claremont and San Dimas auction bridge teams were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Compton at their home on San Dimas avenue Tuesday evening. San Dimas captured high score by a somewhat narrow margin. The club members, with their wives, will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Woodford at Claremont next Tuesday evening. The regular club meeting will be Tuesday, May 5. Mr. Griswald of Claremont will entertain at "The Griswalds," on the Foothill boulevard.

Mrs. W. A. Johnstone entertained Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, a lecturer, Mrs. Frank Taylor and Mmes. Tinsley and Baker of Pomona, Friday at luncheon. Mrs. Collins addressed the Ebell Club of Pomona in the afternoon on "Current Events."

The Study Club met Monday at the home of Mrs. Clinton DeWitt with Mrs. H. E. Walker acting as leader. Education and religion of Austria-Hungary was the study. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. E. A. Spencer, with Mrs. Frank Taylor leader. A general review of the Austria-Hungary studies will be taken up at this meeting.

Sunday Miss Hester Jewell was delightfully surprised by a number of her young friends appearing at the dinner hour and her mother, Mrs. Jewell, entertaining the young people at a charmingly-arranged dinner. The floral decorations were pink and white roses, and the menu was well calculated to tickle young palates.

Last Sunday J. S. Billheimer was surprised at the dinner hour by an unusual gathering of family members from different points and a gala array of flowers and viands. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clark Billheimer and children, Ruth and Harry, of Pasadena; Miss Flora Welch, Mr. and Mrs. John Fink and children, Claude and Evelyn, of Whittier; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Billheimer and Cleta; Glenn Billheimer of Claremont.

Owing to a slight illness in the family of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. McCurdy the Good Time Club met with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Howard, instead of with Mr. and Mrs McCurdy, as programmed last Thursday evening. Practically a full attendance of club members was out and enjoyed the evening's play and hospitality of the host and hostess. Mr. and Mrs. McGue of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. David Gore of San Dimas were the special guests. The club prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Steele; the guest prizes by Mrs. David Gore and M. W. Bennett. The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLane, Thursday, April 30.

Fresno.

THE most important event of the week and of especial interest to the younger set, was the marriage of Miss Anne Collins to Dr. James Nicholson. The ceremony took place Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the St. Paul's Methodist Church, Rev. J. A. Walles performing the service. Prenuptial music was provided by Prof. T. J. Irwin, at the organ, and Miss Zoe Glascoe sang a favorite wedding song. The bride entered on the arm of her father, J. B. Collins, and was radiantly beautiful in a gown of white taffeta with ruffles and trimmings of duchesse lace. A white tulle hat and a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and butterfly orchids, completed the costume. Miss Leora Schaffer, the bride's attendant, wore a gown of yellow taffeta and carried an armload of yellow roses and ferns. The groom was attended by Joe Collins, the bride's brother. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the Collins home on R street. Later the young couple left on a honeymoon trip to be spent around the bay. The bride's going-away gown was a smart suit of black and white check, with a toque of black straw, with touches of Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson will make their home in Fowler, where Dr. Nicholson has recently established his practice.

The Sunnyside Country Club entertained Tuesday evening at their regular monthly dance. Preceding the dancing, numerous members of the club entertained friends at dinner. The rooms were made attractive with flowers from the gardens. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Another club dance was given Wednesday night, when the Riverside

Country Club formed the setting for a charming affair given by a group of young bachelors, honoring the young ladies who form the L'Allegro Club.

Mrs. Sigmund Wormser was hostess Thursday afternoon, entertaining at a delightful afternoon of bridge. About a score of friends were invited.

Miss Edith Cory left Wednesday for the East, where she will visit with friends, prior to her departure for Europe. The friends who will accompany Miss Cory on her tour, will sail from Boston, about the middle of May.

Mrs. George Pritchard and little daughter, Evelyn of San Francisco, are the house guests of Miss Dorothea Burdick at her home on P street. Mrs. Pritchard is better remembered in Fresno as Miss Izetta Willis.

Elsinore.

THE Ladies of the Eastern Star gave a pleasant and successful basket social Tuesday evening, following their regular business session in the Masonic Hall. The gentlemen bought the lunch baskets and shared the contents with the owner of the basket. Music and games and a jolly time generally was enjoyed. Next Tuesday afternoon the Star ladies will meet at the home of Mrs. G. S. Miles and there will be served with the first course of a progressive luncheon. The second course will be at the home of Mrs. J. C. Sutherland, and the last at the M. N. Herbelin home, where the business meeting will also be held.

A number of the girl friends of Dorris McCoy met at her home on the evening of April 16, and gave her a pleasant surprise, the occasion being her twelfth birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grow and son, Paul, of Redlands, and Claud H. Craft of Claremont College, were week-end visitors at the home of Mrs. Ida Craft.

Charles Schuberth went to Pasadena Wednesday for a few days. Mrs. Frank J. Williams returned Tuesday from Pasadena and Los Angeles where she was visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Keith and family and Miss Edna Burton have returned from a trip to Oceanside.

Miss Annie McIntyre returned Saturday from a week's visit in Riverside with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beaumont and the latter's mother, Mrs. J. H. Henderson, of Los Angeles, formerly, and for many years residents of Elsinore, have recently been guests at the M. B. McIntyre ranch on Machado street.

Among Elsinore visitors to Riverside Tuesday were Mrs. A. M. McComber and Miss Wavia McComber, A. E. Edgerton, Mrs. R. H. Kirkpatrick, Cecele Burton, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Keith.

Mrs. Bosworth and children arrived Wednesday from Highlands to join Mr. Bosworth, who is in business here and who has rented the McComber residence on South Main street.

Hemet.

THE Hemet Woman's Club entertained Friday afternoon with a reception from 2 to 4 o'clock, for the wives of the visiting editors of Riverside county. Later in the evening a banquet was tendered the editors and their wives. The reception was given at the home of Mrs. John I. King, president of the club. The out-of-town guests were Mmes. John McGroarty, Joseph Danlles, Russell, [illegible], Milliken and Hildreth.

Mrs. John M. Clayton entertained at her home on Kimball avenue Wednesday afternoon. The Merry Widow Whist Club members were her guests. The afternoon was spent in play, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Mary Botterell was awarded first prize for the most successful play. The members present were Mmes. Hill, Clarke, Fast, Boalich, Botterell, Whitten, Goodhue, Miller, McFarland, Dyer and Spaulding.

Mrs. Fred Heidenreich was hostess Tuesday afternoon at a silver tea given at her home on Carmelita. The guests included a number of the ladies of the Baptist Church. The proceeds will be devoted to the building fund of the Baptist Church.

Thursday afternoon the Auction Bridge Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. E. M. Clarke. Mmes. Dukes, Clayton, McFarland, Miller, Eadie, Doble, Hill, Whitten, Boalich and Mann were the players.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian Church was entertained at the home of W. C. Goodhue Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in guessing contests, and the guests were favored with a number of Irish readings by Mr. Goodhue.

Redlands.

MRS. BERTHA HAFFNER-GINGER, the Times cooking school expert, paid a visit to Redlands Monday and gave a talk and demonstration before the members of the Home Economics section of the Contemporary Club, besides a large number of non-members who came specially to hear Mrs. Haffner-Ginger. The subject chosen was a dinner of planked steak and vegetables. Every detail was carefully explained and demonstrated by the lecturer. The steak was accompanied by potatoes, peas, asparagus, mushrooms and onions and those who helped to dispose of it when it was finished declared that it was food fit for the gods. Mrs. Haffner-Ginger gave many hints which her interested audience will profit by in the future. A demonstration of the results of food preparation in the Barnard drier followed Mrs. Haffner-Ginger's talk. This drier is an invention which preserves meat, fruit and vegetables by drying. It promises to revolutionize "preserving time" for women, minimizing the labor and achieving much better results than by the old-fashioned methods.

At Casa Moresca Wednesday afternoon, Juan de la Cruz, a basso cantante vocalist, who has sung in all the European capitals and for two years with the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra was heard in recital, through the courtesy of Mrs. Henry Fisher. In spite of the bad weather a goodly [illegible] turned out to listen to Signor de la Cruz and was rewarded by his rendition of a splendidly arranged programme. Strauss, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, Leoncavallo and Brahms were among the composers whose works added strength to the programme. Mrs. Gertrude Ross was the singers' accompanist and one of the pretty encore numbers was a song of Mrs. Ross's composition entitled, "Dawn in the Desert," which was splendidly rendered and well received.

The annual Easter party of the Woman's Union of the Congregational Church took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of Dr. W. P. Burke, Mrs. Burke being the hostess. The ladies had planned a lawn festival, but on account of rain and cold plans were changed and the guests were entertained indoors. The meeting was a social one a feature being an interesting talk by the Rev. Harbert A. [illegible] on "Spelling Out Easter." Mrs. [illegible] served refreshments and music was enjoyed. There was an attendance of forty, guests being met at the [illegible] car with automobiles and taken to the Burke home.

Miss Iva Parmelee was hostess Wednesday evening to the members of the German Club of the University of Redlands. About twenty members of the club attended and enjoyed a pleasant evening with music, games, and singing. The hostess dispensed pleasant hospitality and the guests declared the evening to be one of unmixed pleasure.

The organ recital which was to be given at Trinity Church last Monday evening by Roy R. Shrewsbury and was postponed on account of the storm has been announced for next Monday night, April 27, weather permitting. There will be no change in the programme as announced. Frank Hadlock, the boy soprano of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, Los Angeles, and Carl Wellman Miner, violinist, will assist Mr. Shrewsbury.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Boettger celebrated the 15th anniversary of their marriage, Wednesday evening, with a family dinner party. Covers were laid for sixteen guests at a table decorated with roses, carnations and sweet peas. Following the dinner, which was excellent, cards and music were enjoyed. The host and hostess received some pretty gifts commemorative of the anniversary.

Miss Bessie Lienbach was hostess at a bridge party given Tuesday evening to eight friends, at her home on Olive avenue. The party played cards for two hours, after which they gathered around the supper table and enjoyed a spread prepared by the hostess and a social hour.

Miss Iva Parmalee was hostess at a gathering of the members of the German Club of the University of Redlands given at her home on Cajon street, Wednesday night. About twenty members of the class attended. College songs were sung and instrumental and vocal music and games were enjoyed. A spread was a feature of the gathering.

Miss Minnie McQuilkin and Miss Kate Cooley of the University of Redlands, were guests at a house party given by Miss Kate Sinks of Pomona last week-end. The party was given in honor of the visit of the Redlands University ball team to Pomona to play the college team there. Attendance at the game was one of the pleasant features.

Azusa.

WEDNESDAY afternoon the Azusa Embroidery Club met at the spacious home of Mrs. Dr. Atkinson on Azusa avenue. A goodly number of the members were present. Mrs. Atkinson's guests, Mrs. Charles Page of Covina and the Misses Ruth and Charmion Snow of Los Angeles, were also present. During the afternoon, Miss Ruth Snow, who is an accomplished pianist, gave several selections, and Miss Charmion Snow gave a couple of exquisite little songs, much to the pleasure of the company. Elaborate refreshments were served by Misses Muriel and Rachel Atkinson and Miss Margery Ellis. Mrs. E. C. Thomas was voted on as a new member. A very delightful afternoon was spent by all.

Last Saturday evening a lot of the Rebekahs took dainty refreshments and surprised their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph, whose tenth wedding anniversary it was. They presented them with a fine reading lamp with compliments of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Burt went through the marriage ceremony again, this time by phonograph, using a record that gave all the questions a response, making a very funny affair of it. The guests departed at a late hour, wishing their host and hostess many more anniversaries.

The "Stitch and Chat" Club met with Mrs. Frank Carpenter Wednesday afternoon. Nearly all of the members were present, although rain was threatened. A pleasant afternoon was spent in social chat and some sewing. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess just before time for the ladies to depart for their homes. They meet in two weeks at Mrs. Goslin's.

Mrs. Allingham and daughter, Helen, passed through Azusa Tuesday on their way to Europe to spend a year with her daughter, Carrie, who has been taking vocal lessons in Berlin. At the end of the year they will return together to their home in Pasadena. Mrs. Allingham is a former resident of Azusa.

Mrs. Weatherwax, who has been spending the winter here with her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Jones, returned Tuesday to her home in Lanark, Ill.

Little Miss Margaret Walker celebrated her 8th birthday Saturday afternoon with a very pretty little birthday party. About fifteen of her friends were invited and they all had a jolly time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Raney and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Griffith motored Saturday to Laguna Beach, returning home Sunday evening. They found the weather warm at the beach.

Upland.

THE Woman's Club's new officers took their chairs at the annual meeting on Friday afternoon. Mrs. John Rarick was the newly-installed president; Mrs. C. F. Troeller, vice-president; Mrs. N. H. Joughin, secretary; Mrs. Julia Lyon, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Tuttle, treasurer; Mrs. E. P. Fuller, auditor. Mrs. Ella L. Westland was elected delegate to the biennial, at Chicago, in June. Annual reports were read and a short programme on "Art" followed.

A card party was given by the Masons on Monday night. A most enjoyable time was passed by those attending.

A couple of the circles of the Methodist Ladies' Aid were entertained by Mrs. C. K. Francisco and Mrs. W. C. Reynolds at the home of Mrs. Francisco, on Second avenue, on Wednesday afternoon. The ladies who helped swell the circle treasury were Mrs. S. S. Sampson, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Henry Kienzle, Mrs. Paul Cushing, Mrs. F. H. Manker, Mrs. N. G. Pehl, Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. N. I. Hamer, Mrs. George Cooley, Mrs. George Duley, Mrs. P. H. Harter, Miss Williams and the pastor, Rev. S. S. Sampson.

Mrs. D. D. Crew entertained at dinner on Saturday night in honor of her son Deon's twenty-first birthday. An elaborate dinner was served to the following young men: Earl Swan, Frank McCulloch, Bradford Manker, Herbert McCulloch, Anderson and Deon Crew.

Whittier.

AN interesting wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Gladys Miller and Gerald Benton. The nuptials were celebrated at the home of the bride's grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hankins of No. 343 South Comstock avenue. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Benton of East Whittier. Rev. Henry Edwin McGrew, pastor of the Friends Church, officiated at the wedding, using the beautiful ring service. Following a short honeymoon trip the young couple will take up their residence in Orchard Dale, where the groom has a citrus ranch.

St. Mathias Episcopal Church was the scene of a charming and simple wedding Wednesday evening, when the nuptials were solemnized for Miss Verdi Willard Brown and Joseph Henry Myers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brown, who came here from St. Paul, Minn., two years ago. The groom is a resident of Jefferson, Iowa. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Stanley Mook, former rector of the St. Mathias Church. Mr. and Mrs. Myers will spend a honeymoon in Southern California and will later return to the East to reside.

Complimentary to her daughter, Mrs. Fred H. Mossler of Portland, Ind., who has been her house guest for the winter, Mrs. Max Rosenbaum of No. 238 North Friends avenue entertained Friday. Mrs. Mossler, who was Miss Bertha Rosenbaum, will leave early next week for her eastern home.

Mr. and Mrs. Adron Wright of No. 541 North Painter avenue entertained the members of the Berean class of the Friends Sunday-school Tuesday evening. The class is somewhat noted for its social proclivities, and the affair Tuesday evening was a most pleasant one.

Mrs. Mary Tostenson of Le Grande, Iowa, who has been the winter guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. S. Fawcett, left this week for her eastern home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Converse, who have been spending the winter as guests of friends here, returned to their home at Springfield, Ill., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Chaney and daughter, Miss Eulah Chaney, left for Salem, Ind., Tuesday to make their home. The Chaneys have been Whittier residents for several years. Miss Eulah Chaney was the recipient of a pleasant reception and social at the home of Miss Phoebe Forsyth just previous to their departure.

Mrs. James Barlow of Rivera entertained her brother, Lewis Henderson, and Mrs. Henderson of Lake county, while Mr. Henderson was in Los Angeles this week attending the convention of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

arrived this week and will be a guest for some time at the F. M. Bergen home, No. 203 North Milton avenue.

H. M. Peck of Minneapolis, who has been a guest of the B. Harris home, on North Newlin avenue, left Tuesday for the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Ladd of Detroit were guests of the A. L. Reed home at an informal dinner Monday. The Ladds left for the East late this week after passing the winter in the Southland.

The parish-house of St. Mathias Episcopal Church was the scene of a brilliant reception Monday evening given in honor of the new rector, Rev. Frank U. Bugbee. The reception was held from 8 to 10 o'clock, and during that time over 150 Whittier citizens called to extend cordial greetings to the guest of honor. A short musical programme was given, under the direction of Mrs. A. T. Emory, solos being rendered by Mrs. R. R. Woodward and C. Newton Graves. Refreshments of coffee, sandwiches, punch and cakes were served, under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Swain. Among the special guests of the evening were Mrs. Bugbee and Misses Charlotte and Elizabeth Bugbee of Los Angeles, mother and sisters of Rev. Mr. Bugbee.

The girls of the senior domestic science class of the High School, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Grace Holloway, were hostesses to their mothers at an elegant luncheon Thursday noon. Ten mothers were present in response to the invitation, and the affair was a delightful one. The guests included the Mmes. Diffenderfer, Crawford, Coultas, Seale, Babcock, Barkham, Newcomb, Williams, Wood and Setzer.

Mrs. Harry C. Bedwell of No. 609 West Philadelphia street was hostess Tuesday to a group of friends at luncheon. The guests included Mrs. Wilson Boote of Rivera, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Talbot of Van Nuys and Mrs. Dudley Talbot of McCampbell Station.

Rev. and Mrs. N. T. Edwards of No. 522 East Bailey street entertained at dinner Monday evening Profs. Alfred A. Butler and George Paynter Hopkins of Los Angeles, the guests being in this city to give a concert that evening.

Miss Olive Tweed was the complimented guest at a social function given by the girls of the Plus Ultra class at the home of her aunt, Mrs. H. S. Fawcett, Saturday evening. Miss Tweed has spent the winter here as the house guest of the Fawcetts, and left for her home in Marshalltown, Iowa, early this week.

Mrs. Neal T. Ballard, who has been the house guest of her mother, Mrs. M. B. Brownson, returned this week to her home at San Jacinto.

In honor of the sixty-eighth anniversary of the birth of her grandmother, Mrs. J. T. Nylen, Mrs. E. A. Daniels entertained at dinner Sunday, the guests being the families concerned, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Nylen, Miss Pearl Daniels and Mrs. Lena Ivy.

In celebration of the fifty-eighth wedding anniversary of the marriage of Rev. and Mrs. John Henry Douglas many friends sent flowers to the home yesterday—a substitute observance for what had been planned as an elaborate celebration. Owing to the illness of the groom of this long period of married life the celebration planned had to be abandoned.

MRS. ESTHER RAMSDALE, a beloved member of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Messiah, reached her ninetieth birthday last Saturday and to honor the notable achievement, the Guild members surprised her delightfully in the afternoon. The affair proved to be a veritable reception, many calling through the afternoon besides the ladies who spent the hours till 5 o'clock tea was served. Mrs. Ramsdale received her guests at the home of the daughter with whom she lives, Mrs. Lillian Wollaston. The Ross-street home was fragrant with the wealth of flowers sent to Mrs. Ramsdale, who is a dignified English gentlewoman who carries her 90 years wonderfully. A handsome birthday cake was adorned with candles, blown out successfully by the honoree as she breathed her most ardent wish. Letters and cards were showered on Mrs. Ramsdale during the afternoon. Those present were Rev. and Mrs. Rufus S. Chase, the church rector, and his wife; Mmes. C. P. Kryhl, Frank Ey, Walter Eden, W. Whitehead, Newton Pierce, J. H. Martin, S. M. Dearing, Oliver Remsberg, Letby, A. A. Barrett, Smith, McWithy, Abe Roberts, Goddard, Ethel Hart, Miss Murdy, Miss Dollie Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rafferty and Miss Charlotte E. Dresser, a trio of prominent Santa Anans who journeyed on a tour of Europe two years ago, entertain such lively recollections of the delightful journey that they have decided to make the trip again over practically the same route as before. They will said for Mediterranean ports within a month and plan to proceed in a leisurely way over Southern Europe, lingering here and there at art centers and historical spots to which they are particularly attracted. Mr. Rafferty's mother, Mrs. Lucinda Rafferty of Los Angeles, and his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hulse of Los Angeles, will be met in Europe, but the meeting will be a complete surprise to the Los Angeles party as the plans of the Santa Anans have been kept a secret from the Los Angelenos. Miss Eda Schlischer, formerly of Santa Ana, will travel with the Los Angeles party.

The young matrons and maids of the Amphion Circle of the First Congregational Church were hostesses at a charming party recently at the home of Postmaster and Mrs. Linn L. Shaw, the younger men of the church being the guests. Miss Faith Shaw, daughter of the house, was head of the Committee of Entertainers, the assisting ladies being Mrs. Nat Neff, Mrs. Arnold Peek, Mrs. Emory Ratcliffe, Miss Nay, Miss Perkins, Miss Henry, Miss Snure, Miss Mildred Mead, Miss Lippiatt. The musical programme was contributed to by Miss Ethel Gibbs, contralto; Maurice Phillips, baritone; Raymond R. Miles, tenor, and Mrs. Arnold Peek, pianist. Forty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the Amphion ladies.

Mrs. F. B. Case entertained Saturday with a smart bridge luncheon at her North Broadway home. The 1-o'clock luncheon was attractively appointed. Place cards marked covers for Mrs. Davis and Miss Pauline Davis of Los Angeles, Mrs. R. H. Sanborn and Miss Hyatt of San Gabriel, Mrs. Jack Porter and Mrs. Collins of Orange, Mrs. James S. Rice, Mrs. Samuel Nau, Mrs. Robert Reid, Mrs. E. R. Mauzy of Tustin, Mrs. Robert Simon, Mrs. F. H. Case, Mrs. Hiram Connell, Mrs. Ben. E. Turner Mrs. John Tubbs, Mrs. William Malone and the hostess. Auction bridge occupied the afternoon with Mrs. James S. Rice winning high score, and Mrs. John Tubbs taking the consolation trophy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Shafer entertained informally Wednesday night for the members of the Bridge Club, to which they belong, their South Sycamore home being made cheery for the evening with simple flower decorations. Those at the whist tables besides Mr. and Mrs. Shafer, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Grubb, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hatzfeld, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Forgy, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Walker.

A charming event of the earlier part of the week was the reunion of members of a club that bears the enticing name of the Old-Time Club, the host and hostess being Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hawk. The South Birch-street home of the Hawks was fairly abloom with red roses, the same vivid flowers being used to adorn the table, the affair being in the nature of a dinner party. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Byron Stanley of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Linn Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Arleagh Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Zarman and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wallace of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Hawk. The after-dinner hours were spent in reminiscences, all the party having been associated formerly in a club to which they belonged in Los Angeles.

Orange.

REV. S. H. Woodford, retiring rector of Trinity Episcopal Church of this city, and his wife, were the guests of honor at a farewell reception recently accorded them by the members of the Orange Ministerial Association. Many of the host of friends of Rev. Mr. Woodford joined with the clergymen in making the occasion a memorable one. The affair was held in the First Presbyterian Church, the auditorium being used for a programme of music and tributes of appreciation given by Dr. B. C. Cory, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and Rev. W. H. Galbraith of the First Baptist Church. Dr. Jackson presided during this period of the evening. Later an elaborate collation was served which in itself was a mark of affection for the departing rector, who is removing to Los Angeles, as the ladies of all the Aid societies in the city had united in its preparation. Dr. Woodford's departure from Orange will be deeply regretted, as he has commanded admiration by his Christian character and strong qualities.

The spacious dining-room of the Hotel Rochester was brilliantly lighted and adorned last Tuesday evening when an elegantly appointed banquet was served for the hardware men of Orange county. Every city and town in the county was represented and covers were laid for thirty-one guests. A programme of classical musical numbers was given as the banquet progressed. Interesting post-prandial exercises continued the event until nearly the midnight hour. After the unalloyed enjoyment of the sumptuous dinner which from the Rochester cocktail, through the young chicken course to the demi-tasse, was complete in cookery and service as well as attractive in appointment, the guests were still unwilling to leave the pleasant scene. As a compromise with the inevitable leave-taking, they arranged for a similar event in the merry month of May. It was also decided to form a permanent association with the possibility of frequent social happenings.

A recent picnic in Orange County Park was immensely enjoyed by the families of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Trickey, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Trickey, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jessup, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Trickey. The picknickers motored to the magnificent park, where a royal picnic repast was spread under the superb live oak trees that make this park one of the most picturesque in the Southland. All the joys of an out-of-doors event were a part of the day's pleasant experiences which were happily completed by a spin through Peter's Canyon on the return home in the evening hours.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Stutheit and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Stutheit and three children, left this week for an extended automobile trip through the Middle West. Two Ford touring cars will be used in the overland journey which will carry them through a number of States. Much time will be spent in Kansas and Nebraska, and scenic points in Utah will demand much attention on their return trip. The trip is expected to be one of varied pleasure, and every preparation for a delightful journey has been made by the party of Orange tourists.

San Jacinto.

THE Shakespeare Club met at the home of Mrs. Mary Fowler Thursday afternoon. Preceding the meeting the ladies enjoyed an elaborate turkey dinner.

Mrs. E. H. Record has been enjoying a visit for the last week from a cousin who has just arrived from Maine, to make her home in California.

The Epworth League gave an enjoyable social in the Sunday-school-rooms of the Methodist Church Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John St. John left Hemet the first of the week for a summer's visit to their old home in Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Record entertained a dozen relatives and friends with a sumptuous dinner Sunday noon.

A. G. Munn, realty operator of Los Angeles, visited San Jacinto, his old home, this week.

Thomas Handcock returned this week from a short visit to Los Angeles.

Mrs. E. T. Tanner entertained the ladies of the P.E.O. at her home on San Jacinto avenue, yesterday.

San Jacinto society has been agog this week over the approaching nuptials of three young people the town delights to call her own. They are the Misses Blanche and Lora Woodhead and Howard C. Warren. Announcements of the engagements were received the first of the week. Miss Lora Woodhead is to wed Lieut. Thomas I. Steere, of the United States army, stationed at Boston, and Mr. Warren, who has been foreman of Mr. Woodhead's large ranch interests here for several years, wins the hand of Miss Blanche. A double wedding is planned, the date of which will likely be hastened, owing to the Mexican trouble, which will cause Lieut. Steere to leave at once for the front.

Mrs. H. M. Thomas has sold her 140-acre ranch northwest of town to John Deegan of Hemet, the consideration being $32,500, taking in part payment property in Hemet.

Oxnard.

SOCIETY amateurs of Oxnard and vicinity are rehearsing for a vaudeville entertainment to be given for the benefit of the new St. John's Hospital. A one-act sketch by William Dean Howells, a children's playlet, "December's Daughter," by Constance D'Arcy Mackay, and several songs with chorus, in costume, from current operas, are included in the programme. The performance will be given May 7 and 8.

Langdon Rogers will return to his home in England May 1. He has been visiting the Clayton Gillibrands in the Simi.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Penticost have returned to their Iowa home after an extended visit with the Dimmick and Snively families. In recent years they have spent every winter in Oxnard.

The situation in Mexico was the topic of principal interest at this week's meeting of the Monday Club. The programme was on current events, and was in charge of Miss Ethel Carroll.

F. H. Merrill and family and Miss Frances Lawton of Los Angeles were Sunday guests of the L. P. Watermans of Hueneme, motoring down for the day.

Colton.

DISTINCTIVE of the hospitality which each hostess is noted for was the afternoon tea taking place Friday at the Mission Inn in Riverside and presided over by Mrs. M. A. Bausch, Mrs. Ralph Bailey and Mrs. O. E. Stark. The guest company numbered about forty congenial friends and literary and musical entertainment was provided in addition to rounds of cards that filled in the interims. A daintily-appointed late-afternoon luncheon was served.

With Mrs. Ernest C. Merryfield holding a series of little luncheons of twelve or so covers, society women of the city have had delightful opportunity to chat and share in pastimes that require only the simplest efforts in the way of deriving amusement therefrom. Each pretty event has been shared by a particular coterie whose intimacy when mingling together produces a charming and harmonious atmosphere.

One afternoon the past week Mrs. Merryfield entertained for her little daughter, Gladys Bovard Merryfield, who was celebrating a seventh birthday anniversary. The dining-room was a symphony in pink and the birthday table a perfect pink bower with garlands and blossoms. Favors at each place were pink May baskets holding a small phial of perfume. The little folks participating in the frolic with Gladys were Irma Johnson, Alice and Lulu Stickney, Esther Woerz, Audrey Hays, Alice la Motte, Ernie Mary Pettijohn, Julianna Chetzy, Gladys Gorman and Grace Haines.

As a courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Stonewall Mize, a bride and groom of the month, and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hunter, an informal dinner party was given Monday evening by Mrs. T. M. Hatchett and daughters, the Misses Ethel and Ruth. April 1 Mr. Mize returned to his home in Missouri and there persuaded the sweetheart who had been true for three years to accompany him back to Colton as his wife.

An announcement of much interest among friends of the bride-elect and her family was that of the approaching marriage of Miss Hazel Dell Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baldwin of Colton, to S. Ray Callender, a prosperous young rancher of the Imperial Valley. The event is to be celebrated on Sunday, April 26, at the Imperial Valley church in El Centro.

was enjoyed by the many guests. Mrs. E. R. Sawyer won first trophy, the consolation prize going to Miss Dorothy Kirkland. Mrs. W. W. Van Niman won first prize at flinch, and Mrs. Clay White the consolation at this game.

Miss Myrtle Morris, No. 2210 Elm avenue, entertained a party of friends in a charming manner Wednesday evening in honor of the seventeenth anniversary of her birth. A prettily appointed dinner was the feature of the afternoon, a profusion of roses brightening the rooms and table.

Entertaining at a four-course luncheon a group of Ebell Club members, Mrs. J. E. Shimer of No. 1009 East Ocean avenue was hostess Wednesday to a small group. Yellow roses and nasturtiums were effectively used in the decorations. Miss Julia Ellen Rogers and Miss Sophia Wasem won the prizes in a guessing contest.

An interesting and pretty wedding was that of Miss Hazel Ada Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Smith, and Adel C. Renius of Morock, Cal., which occurred at the Smith home Saturday. The ring ceremony was read by Rev. D. J. Snyder, pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church. The young people stood under a bower of pink and white roses. They will make their home on the groom's ranch at Morock.

Mrs. D. K. Parker entertained a number of friends, members of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Coseboom school, with a dinner and afternoon of needlework Tuesday afternoon.

Witnessed by a select group of friends, Miss Alice Edna Kline of Dallas, Tex., and Louis O. Morris of this city were married in their new home, No. 813 East Fifth street, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. George D. Knights, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the ceremony. Miss Myrtel Osborne and John Schilling attended the couple.

Mrs. J. M. Kerr and Mrs. S. L. Powers have issued cards for a Kensington to be given at the home of the latter, No. 1551 Pine avenue, Saturday afternoon, May 2.

Mrs. R. S. Oakford of Los Cerritos, has issued invitations for a luncheon to be given at her charming home, April 29.

Santa Monica.

THE WOMEN'S CLUB flower show has been society's headquarters since the doors were opened early in the week. The festival has proved a great success and the club ladies are delighted with this year's work. Much satisfaction was shown when the prizes were awarded and the favorites who had toiled to make the festival a success were rewarded. Miss Helen Watson received the $10 first prize for gathering wild flowers and arranging them. Jack and Bernard Evans won second place in this class.

For red roses Leana Muchenberger was first for a dozen blooms, while Arthur E. Jackson was first for a half dozen blossoms. For yellow roses Mrs. N. S. Duckles came out first; pink roses, Mrs. Frank Townsend; white roses, Mrs. A. C. Briggs. All along the line, down to common poppies, the ladies who had gathered the flowers and artistically arranged them were rewarded for their pains.

At each of the four days' session of the show, which closed Friday, the hall was well crowded with beach society folk, and every one admired the beautiful decorations. Tuesday afternoon a unique programme was given by the 'Corking Charcoal Concert Company," a company of five pretty dusky maids and a pickaninny, who performed at the orders of a white interlocutor. Each day's programme was well gotten up and the many visitors were well satisfied with the entertainment.

The home of Mrs. D. G. Stephens will be the scene of the reciprocity meeting of local Chapter R of the P.E.O. on May 6. About 100 guests will be invited to the luncheon and musicale. The local members will have as guests members from Southern California chapters.

Mrs. F. H. Taft of the Women's Club has appointed as delegates from the club to go to the convention at Riverside the following women: Mrs. Harry J. Slater, Mrs. S. J. Egleston, Mrs. C. A. Peckham and Mrs. George H. Hutton.

Thursday evening Mrs. Musette Brown gave a musical recital at her studio on Sixth street. The music was furnished by twenty of her young pupils. There were many parents and friends of the young people present who enjoyed the recital.

Mrs. Cora A. Abbott of No. 1114 Wilshire boulevard left Wednesday morning for a visit of four months to her old home in Springfield, N. Y.

Redondo Beach.

ON WEDNESDAY afternoon the Entre Nous Club was charmingly entertained by Mrs. Walter McKnight at her hospitable home, No. 505 North Guadalupe avenue. They were grouped on the lawn for snapshot pictures by the hostess. Whist was enjoyed until 4:30, at which time the prizes, beautiful cut-glass candle-sticks with pink candles and shades to match, were awarded to the lucky ones. The hostess having made the highest score was given first prize, Mrs. Carl Barney carrying away the second, while the consolation prize, a candle-stick of smaller dimensions was given to Mrs. Henry Heaston. Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess, were Mmes. Carl Barney, Ernest Butt, Roy Culver, Herbert Culler, Jack Funk, Henry Heaston, Howell McCreary, Byron Minor, C. A. Trowbridge, R. Wolfsberg and Charles McGehee.

T.B.B. Herd No. 9 spent a most enjoyable evening Monday in Los Angeles, leaving here about forty strong in an automobile truck to attend a social given by the Loyal Order of Moose No. 89. The evening was devoted to dancing after which an elegant banquet was served.

The domestic science class entertained the school trustees and their wives at a dainty luncheon at the High School cafeteria Wednesday evening. The dining-table was prettily decorated and the menu was excellent. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Matteson, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Luxford, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Albee and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Langworthy.

Miss Jennie Connor, City Librarian of Great Falls, Mont., who has been spending several months in Redondo Beach, will leave for her home Tuesday.

A. L. Walton and Dr. E. Packson returned home Tuesday evening from a fishing trip near Fillmore and vicinity. Their catch of fish was small but they both received a fine dose of sunburn.

Mrs. J. Phillips, who has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. P. Brady, for the past three months, will return to her home in Lancaster, Wis., Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Keppel, who have been residents of Burbank for the past year, returned to the beach Monday and will again make it their home.

Seal Beach.

HOUSE parties have been much in evidence at Seal Beach during the past week and week-end. Mrs. Lewis Stanton of Los Angeles entertained a party of ten at the home of her son, Philip Stanton, from Saturday till Monday; the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Nance of Los Angeles housed a merry party. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Getz also opened their bungalow on Fourteenth street, and had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Oliver of Long Beach.

Miss Pfaffenberger was hostess to a party of girls who occupied the Pfaffenberger cottage on Fifth street. Guests included Misses Bessie Corbin, Nell Randall, Floy Stafford, Carrie Leggett, Marion Cheney and Annabel Mitchell.

Mrs. E. B. Harris is entertaining as house guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jones and family of Salt Lake City. Mr. and Mrs. Jones contemplate passing some time in Southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moon of Los Angeles, accompanied by a party of friends, motored down from town and picnicked here on Sunday.

A party of Normal School girls enjoyed an outing here last week, at the Blumve cottage on Eleventh street, the guests of Miss Edna Blumve. The party was chaperoned by Miss Brooks and included Miss Doris Rosenthal, Miss Louise Pinkney, Hester Lowman, Dorothy Medland and the hostess.

Mrs. Ida Piatt of Santa Monica is a guest at the home of A. L. Havens at his home on Ocean avenue.

Miss Blanche Derby, Los Angeles; Miss Frances Norris, Miss Veda R. Walky, Anaheim; S. P. Smith and wife, Los Angeles; and Mrs. Charles Williams, Los Angeles, were guests at Seal Beach Inn during the past week.

A flat building is being erected by Mrs. Katherine Harter on her property located on Eleventh street.

Here and There in the Merry Social Whirl

MRS. C. LUGO was the charming hostess when members of the Wednesday Afternoon Card Club met not long ago in her rooms at the Franklin Apartments, on West Jefferson street. A prettily appointed luncheon was served, and after the guests had dined they spent the afternoon playing progressive whist. Prizes were captured by Mrs. T. Jones and Mrs. C. Lugo. Others present were Mrs. Ed Creble, Mrs. C. S. Falkenstrom, Mrs. J. L. Thompson, Mrs. H. Knight, Mrs. C. V. Boquist and Mrs. G. R. Cornell.

Mr. Ellis Host

G. E. Ellis of 2033 East Fourth street recently entertained with an enjoyable musicale. His guests included Mrs. B. Neel, Mrs. H. A. McClausley, Mrs. Lucile Hampshire, Mrs. M. E. Cooke, Miss Evelyn Badger, Miss Violet Tormey, Miss Hazel Tormey, Miss Gladys Tormey, Randolph Miller, Edward Miller, K. H. Kagley, W. T. Beaver, P. Edwin Cox and Clyde A. Petrie.

For Their Son

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Cattern of Oaklawn avenue, South Pasadena, gave a dancing party Tuesday evening for their son, Newton Cattern, and their daughter, Miss Marymae Cattern. Dancing was the amusement of the evening, and during intermission supper was served. The guests included Miss Isabella Richards, Miss Marguerite Perry, Miss Gladys Newerf, Miss June Morris, Miss Elwyn Perry, Miss Tillie Bauer, Miss Ida Burns, Miss Irene Salisbury, Miss Louise McDonald, Miss Flo Coulter, Miss Lucille Council, Clarendon Foster, Bruce Spencer, Edmund Bennett, Jack Cass, Glen Garwood, Charles Ewing, Mr. Wrightsman, Clarence Council, Tom Sanson, Lynn Spencer and Dallas Speers.

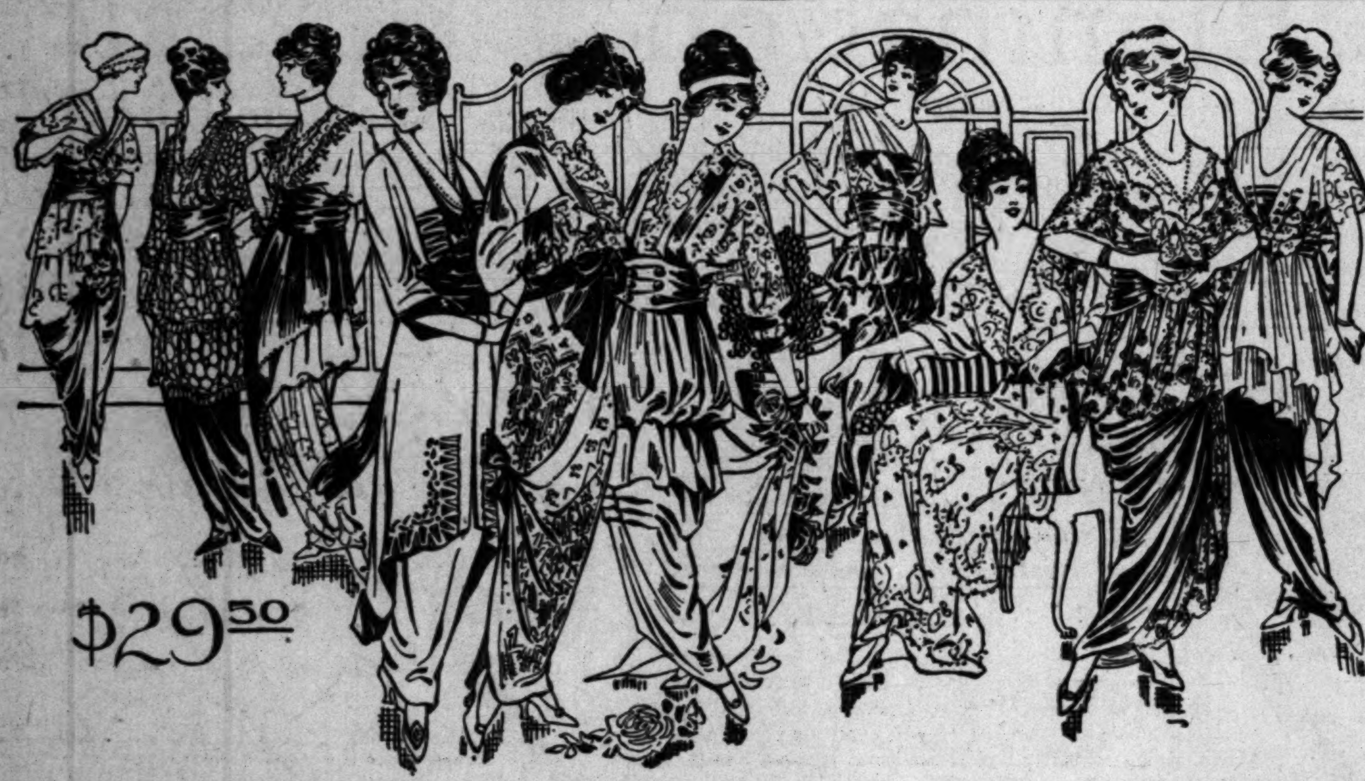
"What, You Don't Mean These Beautiful Dresses Only $29.50



—This group of dresses has been carefully drawn from models included in this great distribution that commences Monday at $29.50. Imagine the silks (many splendid Taffeta creations included)—Fill in the most favored colorings of summertime—Then make all your plans today to share these very unusual values at Bullock's, Monday—at $29.50—

—"Yes, Sirree! I do--Every one of them $29.50!"

—replied the man who buys and knows—
—"Indeed, it is a wonderfully low price—
—"New—Rich—The very favorites from the innermost circles of Fashiondom—Beautifully designed of silk, chiffon and lace in indescribably charming effects—They should make a great sale, shouldn't they?"—

One of the most fortunate purchases Bullock's has ever made is responsible for one of the greatest opportunities that Los Angeles women have ever been offered.

Just Look at these Dresses!

—Gowns for Dinner and for Evening—
Frocks for Matinee, Dansant and Afternoon wear——Fascinating designs of charmeuse, crepe de chine, flowered silks, chiffon, lace and

Taffeta —Listen—there are ever so many styles of Pussy Willow Taffeta, Chiffon Taffeta and Taffeta Changeant

—included—(Every woman knows how scarce Taffeta is at any price)—

—Yet—Every dress is to be put forward on Monday at $29.50—and not one dress but is worth this very minute 50% more—and some of them are ever so much more than half under regular price.

—It is an event that really approaches a sensation as closely as any distribution of garments for which we have been able to vouch in months—

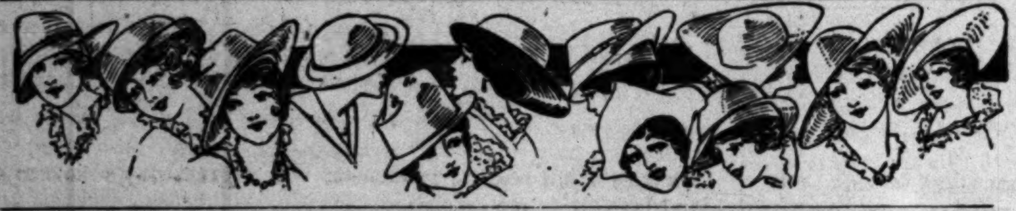
—A most remarkable purchase—from the standpoints of exclusive style (hardly 2 models alike in the entire grouping)! Brilliant beauty of design, and the exceptional, almost incredible, lowness of price at which it was consummated—

—In addition to the attractions of materials—there is the color range that is equally attractive—Bluebird Blue, Peppermint Green, Lime Green, Pink, Baby Blue, French Blue, Canary, Purple, Salmon, Biscuit, White, Black and Chameleon tones—

—Not the least interesting feature are the strikingly individual costumes of Taffeta and Voile—in daring combinations; of Taffeta and Lace; Charmeuse and Lace or Net; Charmeuse and Crepe or Chiffon; Crepe de Chine with Lace—

—Oh! it's such an event as makes a writer wish for the magic power of a giant of the pen—to describe them adequately and give a fair idea of the extraordinary nature of their value—

—Dozens of just such exquisite, exclusive, charming styles, as Los Angeles and Southern California women and women of fashion the world over are admiring and demanding at regular prices nearly everywhere, to sell at the merest fraction of worth in one of the greatest of all garment offerings—Monday at $29.50.



—And now the millinery store expresses its Fashion Pre-eminence—with timely news of a most magnificent variety of —Brilliantly exclusive, perfectly charming new hat shapes—the majority of which, to be seen nowhere but at Bullock's in Los Angeles, are so different and distinctive as to be perfectly delightful.

—Note the styles in the picture above (a drawing made from just a few of the shapes to give an idea of their exceptional style and character)—Then come to the 3rd floor on Monday and see what an extensive exhibit of other models is here from which you may select——Hats for morning, afternoon, evening, for matinee, for tea, for theater, for street, for golfing and for motoring wear—
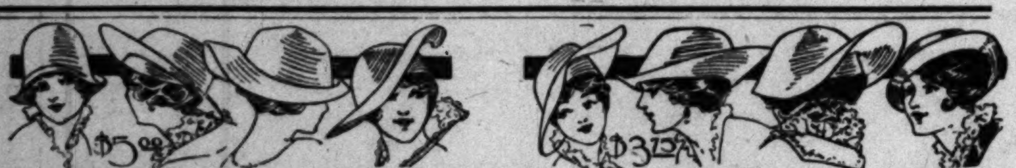
—Not merely Hats that are up to the very last whisper of Fashion's dictation—but also Hats that interpret ideas that have not yet reached the West—
—Striking novelty shapes—unique, and unordinary as distinguished from the craze—
—Favorite materials and Lovely Color Combinations.
—Small Hats—High Crowned Hats—Narrow and Flat Hats—Bicornes, Tricornes and Quadricornes—
—The Crowns are no longer collapsible—but they are still far from being rigid—The Styles are rich in inspiration—the use of soft pliable braids—such as Milan Hemp, Real Hair Braid, Double Milans and Leghorns is extensive—but the Transparent Lace Straw is the greatest favorite of all—See the New Hat Shapes on Monday—Those illustrated above—$7.50 to $15.00.
—As a very particular feature we emphasize

Untrimmed Hat Shapes Which We Have Priced at $3.75

—And other Hat Shapes that are equally as attractive at $5.00—
—The former of Milan Hemp, and Hemp in black, white, navy, brown, chartreuse, and the new blue shades—
—A remarkable variety at $5.00—includes the new things, as well as the splendid rough straws. Hemp, Milan Hemp and Panama in every wanted shade—3rd floor.



"Cheek-Initial"

—The new Veils are at Bullock's—

—The new Veils—that have an initial instead of a beauty spot—and women think the initial is even more of a beauty spot than the beauty spot itself—

—That's why they're selling so fast in Eastern Fashion Centers.
—That's why Bullock's is so glad to have them first—and almost as soon as they were created—

They're priced $1.00

—That's far from exorbitant for the newest veil in the world, isn't it?
—Remember—at Bullock's—First Floor.

—If you could have seen these waists, and the very riot of enthusiasm they caused when they were introduced to those who are to sell them, along with the news that every one of them would be $5.95—there would have been no need for this advertisement.
—There would have been one rush—and then those who came after would have been too late—
—As it is

These really magnificent new waists are being guarded jealously. Every one is to be held back until nine o'clock sharp Monday morning, at that time to go forward at $5.95 at Bullock's.

—And early buying is earnestly suggested——Brilliantly exclusive styles—of silk, chiffon, net, ribbon, lace—in a wide range (no two alike that we have seen)—and in a variety of shades and combinations equally extensive——Values that are so great as to justify one in guessing two and three times $5.95—as the price at which they should be sold—
—Another victory for Bullock's—Another opportunity for the women of Los Angeles and Southern California—who should seize it eagerly on Monday—$5.95—3rd floor—

You don't have to boil the wash when you use Fels-Naptha Soap. You use cool or luke warm water.

You can't blame the clothes if you boil all the life out of them and then rub them to shreds against a washboard.

You don't wear them out; you wash them out.

You give them harder wear that way in one day than you can possibly give them in a whole week on your back—

It's all in the soap you use.

Fels-Naptha Soap helps the wear.

It's just as gentle with clothes as the finest toilet soap is with the skin.

And you don't stand over a steaming tub rubbing and scrubbing to loosen the dirt—

Just soap the clothes thoroughly; let them soak for about thirty minutes; rub lightly; then rinse.

ANTY DRUDGE

Anty Drudge Talks about Wall Paper.

Mrs. Nayber—"See how soiled and dingy this wall paper looks. And it's only been on a few weeks. Oh, I'm disgusted trying to keep my kitchen neat and clean!"

Anty Drudge—"I'll tell you, my dear. If you'd use Fels-Naptha Soap and not fill your kitchen with steam from boiling clothes, your wall paper would look nice. And you'd do your washing with less work, in less time and get the clothes cleaner, whiter and sweeter than you ever did by the old method of boiling."

SOCIETY.

Anaheim.

AMONG the prettily appointed affairs of the week may be numbered the Five Hundred party given on Wednesday evening at the charming home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leslie Swope. A particularly pleasant feature of the evening was that it chanced to be the birthday anniversary of both the host and hostess. Pink and green in dainty pastel shades prevaled throughout the decorative scheme, which was attractively combined in the use of roses and ferns in the spacious living rooms.

The scorecards were hand-etched and marked places at the small tables for Mr. and Mrs. W. H. N. Locke, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Hartfield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goff, Mrs. E. L. Olmstead, Mrs. Swope, Sr., the Misses Dorothy and Marguerite Swope, and Stephen Rimpau. The high scores were achieved by Mrs. Charles Goff and Mr. Hartfield and the consolation fell to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark. At the stroke of 11 o'clock a tempting collation was served, Mr. Clark acting in the capacity of toastmaster, at which time Mr. and Mrs. Swope were the recipients of hearty congratulations.

One of the charming sping weddings was that of Mrs. Katherine Berdow and Daniel Naugle of this city. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lensing, Judge J. S. Howard, officiating. After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Naugle will be at home to their many friends at Center and Olive streets.

Miss Isabelle Dunning left on Monday for Havana, Cuba, where she will enter the Mother House, preparatory to taking the veil. Miss Dunning is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Catherine Dunning. She expects to remain away a year, after which time she will return to St. Joseph's Academy of this city. She joined the Dominican Order in January.

The members of the Past-Time Club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. J. Janss on Thursday afternoon. Five Hundred was played during the afternoon, after which the guests assembled in the attractively decorated dining-room, where a delicious luncheon was served. Seated with the hostess were Mmes. G. W. Sherwood, Henry Tuffree, R. W. McClellen, W. L. Finney, O. W. Clark, E. L. Edwards, C. F. Grim, Normandy, E. A. Day, Austin, Lacy and Miss Annie Ryan. Mrs. Janss was assisted in receiving by her charming daughter, Miss Fredda.

Albert Brunworth, son of John H. Brunworth of this city, left Friday for Mexico. Brunworth is one of the first of the popular young bachelors to enlist and will serve under Capt. Mentler of Los Angeles.

Miss Rose Mattis was happily surprised on Monday evening when a bevy of friends assembled at the home of her parents on South Palm street. Music was a feature of the evening's amusement, after which a dainty luncheon was served. Many of the guests were from out-of-town.

A pretty card party was that presided over by Mrs. George W. Hamler at her charming home on North Chartress street Thursday afternoon. The high scores were won by Mrs. Sheridan and Mrs. Cole, while the consolation was the lot of Mrs. Frederick Rimpau. A daintily appointed luncheon was served at the conclusion of a happy afternoon.

Tropico.

MRS. EDGAR STUART AYRES entertained the Norton Art Club of Tropico, at her home on West Park avenue, Monday afternoon. Mrs. J. G. Chapman presided and presented a most interesting programme on the architecture, cathedrals and grand old masters of Florence, Italy. Mrs. S. A. McNutt contributed to the programme by presenting a paper on Giorgione; Mrs. Samuel A. Ayres, The Duoneo; Mrs. Frank I. Marsh, Savonarola; Mrs. Frank V. Ashton, Giotto's Tower; Mrs. Ashton also read Henry Longfellow's poem, Giotto's Tower; Mrs. Joy Goodsell, San Marco; Mrs. Percy Priaulx, the Baptistry of Campanile; Mrs. Edgar S. Ayres, the old century in Florence.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Episcopal of Tropico gave a social at the parsonage Tuesday evening, when Rev. and Mrs. S. W. Carries assisted the Ladies' Aid in entertaining the guests and presented a splendid programme.

Ladies of N. P. Banks Woman's Relief Corps tendered one of their members, Mrs. Phoebe Meyers, a surprise luncheon and house-warming at the pretty new bungalow home of Mrs. Meyers, on Mariposa street, Wednesday.

Miss Blanche Shea entertained with a dinner party dainty and replete in all of its appointments at her home on Brand boulevard, Saturday evening.

Those present were: Miss Harriet Meyers, Miss Katherine Hobbs, Miss Esther Jones, Miss Jean McNutt and Miss Olive Moffett.

Mrs. Nellie Laird, assisted by Miss Minnie McAdams, entertained the Thimble Club of Lahalla Temple, Pythian Sisters, at the home of Mrs. Laird on Acacia street, Friday afternoon. The event also celebrated the anniversaries of Mrs. Delia Hapsgood and Mrs. Hattie Tiffany. Mrs. William Harburg, Mrs. George Friedgen, Mrs. Robert Sanders, Mrs. M. E. Grove and Mrs. Nora Woodward were guests of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Normant went to Fresno Thursday where they will spend a fortnight visiting relatives and friends.

Miss Ada Greeves of Omaha, Neb., is the house guest of Mrs. Herman W. Melrose of Blanche avenue.

Mrs. I. J. Phillipps of Laurel street, after visiting at Long Beach a few days, left for San Diego, where she will be the guest of her sister.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Bahrenberg of "Twin Pines," West Park avenue, are the guests of their son and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. George Bahrenberg, of Bakersfield.

Mrs. William La Fountaine and grandson, William La Fountaine, have returned from an extended visit to Pittsburgh.

Brawley.

MR. AND MRS. R. MALAN of Long Beach have been visiting their son, Leo Malan, on his ranch south of the city.

Miss Catherine Cooley and niece of Los Angeles are the guests of her parents, Capt. and Mrs. H. T. Cooley.

Miss Gladys Bannister left for Hemet Wednesday morning where she will be the guest of her grandmother for several months.

Mrs. W. H. Best entertained Thursday afternoon the Bridge Club at her home. Mrs. George Wade scored for first prize.

Mrs. C. N. Stahl left for Ontario Wednesday morning, where she will visit her mother several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Elder arrived from Riverside Tuesday evening for a visit at their ranch in No. 8 district. Mr. and Mrs. Elder were former residents of Brawley.

Miss Mernie Goldberg and Miss Blanche Eaton entertained informally Tuesday evening at their home on Keystone Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lauraine of Brawley avenue, are entertaining as their guests Mr. and Mrs. C. H. [illegible] and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Edwards of San Bernardino.

George Hutchins left for [illegible] the latter part of the week on a visit to his father.

C. Edmund Cooke motored to Los Angeles the first of the week to visit his mother, Mrs. Inez Cooke. Mr. Cooke was accompanied by Bert [illegible]win.

Rialto.

ONE of the very prettiest home weddings solemnized for some time was that of Miss [illegible] Richards, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Richards, and John [illegible] of Calexico, which took place Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents. Reading the impressive lines Rev. G. F. Mathes of the Congregational Church united the young people.

The brunette bride looked fair and charming in her soft white embroidered chiffon gown and carried a shower of roses and lily of the valley. Her sister, Miss Marion Richards, made a pretty maid of honor and was attired in yellow and carried yellow roses. L. A. Mills assisted as best man. The wedding music was played by Miss Estella Starke of San Bernardino. It was a real rose wedding, the ceremony-room and dining-room where a delicious wedding collation was served, were beautiful in their decorations of yellow and white roses and greenery. The happy couple left for a short trip before going to their future home in Calexico, where the groom is a successful business man.

Mrs. C. W. Longmire entertained with a prettily-appointed luncheon and informal afternoon Friday last. Included in the guest list were Mmes. Charles Green and H. A. Brimmer and from Highland Mrs. William [illegible]low, Miss Marie Wishard of Patton, Mrs. T. F. Blakeley of San Bernardino.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellison of Carruthers, who have been the house guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. H. P. Welborn and family, were the [illegible] at a pretty social event Friday evening. Their host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Welborn, entertaining with games and music, Messrs. and Mmes. A. M. Rider, W. E. Elliott, E. I. Webb, J. E. Weller, Wayne Weller and Miss Louise Weller.

In celebration of her natal day and also that of little Merle Gish of Riverside, Mrs. F. W. Followell was the hostess at an elaborate noonday dinner and rook afternoon recently. Quantities of roses and delicate sweet peas adorned the room and the table, where places were marked with novel umbrella place cards for eighteen guests.

Mmes. Owen, William Shay, [illegible] Bennett, Ada M. Lee and Miss Myrtle Clark of San Bernardino and Mrs. [illegible] W. Wood were guests of Mrs. [illegible] Rausch at a pretty rose luncheon recently.

The Berean class of the M. E. Sunday-school were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. [illegible] at their hospitable home Tuesday evening. Fifty members and guests were present and listened to an interesting programme of music and readings.

A dainty collation was served from a prettily-laid table, embellished with a huge basket of roses.

Mrs. B. S. Casey is entertaining her mother, Mrs. M. V. Sweesey of San Francisco.

Mrs. Josie T. Barnard of Boulder, Colo., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barnard and family.

Duarte.

ONE of the largest and most delightful social and literary gatherings of the month was the luncheon on Tuesday given under the auspices of the Federated Women's Societies of Monrovia and Duarte on the church and parsonage grounds of the Duarte Methodist South Church. Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Milliken and a large coterie of ladies of the church acted with marked hospitality and cordiality as host and hostesses and luncheon tables bedecked with roses presented a happy gathering place for the 200 guests. The programme was replete with inspirational talks and pleasing musical numbers and the ride through Duarte with its fine orange groves and rose hedges was one of the pleasures of the day spent at that countryside.

Mrs. Ernest B. Rivers and Mrs. [illegible] R. Miller were joint hostesses at the Duarte home of Mrs. Rivers's Los Rios rancho Saturday evening at a brilliantly-appointed dancing party given complimentary to Mrs. Scott Lee Boyd of Santa Barbara, who has been spending a week with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles [illegible] Winslow.

The affair was given in the pretty outdoor dancing pavilion near the Japanese garden at the Rivers's country place, where the receiving party greeted the guests, who all found especial gratification in meeting Mrs. Boyd. Dancing was the popular diversion with many a pleasant tete-a-tete about the refreshment tables.

Saturday evening Miss Flossie Blain gave a delightful company at her home on Mountain View avenue in honor of Mrs. Richard A. Van Las, who is soon to leave for Seattle, Wash. Miss Blain was assisted by the young maids and matrons of the Royal Daughters' Circle in entertaining and the pleasures of the evening included music, games and the serving of a tempting supper at 10 o'clock.

Archie Scott has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scott of Duarte avenue, having come from Yavapai county, Arizona, where he has been spending the past year. Several delightful social affairs have been given in Mr. Scott's honor during his vacation days at home.

One of the pleasantest gatherings of young people held recently was the party given Thursday evening by the young ladies of the Presbyterian Philathea class, of which Mrs. C. H. [illegible]wine is the patroness, in compliment to the young men of the Westminster Baraca class. The event took place in the church parlors, where lilies and other spring blossoms and greenery gave a touch of Easter gladness. A humorous journal read by Miss Matt L. Jones was one of the many amusing features of the entertainment, followed by a bountiful

Every Home Needs This Great Remedy

No Home Can Afford to Be Without a Mild, Reliable Laxative Tonic.

No well-regulated home should be without a laxative, for there is scarcely a day in a family of several persons that someone doesn't complain of a headache, of sleeplessness, or show the first signs of a cold.

A laxative then becomes a necessity or what was a trifling congestion at the beginning may run into a serious cold or fever. No harsh remedy is needed, but simply a mild laxative-tonic that will make the liver active and stir up the bowels. People who have tried a great many things and are themselves heads of families, who have seen the little ills run to big ones, will tell you that there is nothing better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain at any drug store for 50 cents or $1 a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Among the great believers in Syrup Pepsin for constipation in old or young, and as a general household emergency, remedy is Mrs. M. F. Smith, 710 N. Cherry st., San Antonio, Tex. To use her own words, she says she will bless Dr. Caldwell to her dying day, for she believes that through his remedy, Syrup Pepsin, she found the way to permanent good health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is scientifically compounded and its purity is vouched for. Mothers give it to tiny babes, the grown people, taking a little larger amount, find it equally effective. It is mild and gentle, pleasant-tasting and free from griping.

MRS. M. F. SMITH.

It dies not hide behind a high-sounding name and is absolutely free from any prohibited ingredient. Families who once use Syrup Pepsin forever after avoid cathartics, salts, pills and other harsh medicines, for these only do temporary good, are nauseous and a shock to any delicate system. Such things should never be given to children.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington st., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do Winslow.

The affair was given in the pretty outdoor dancing pavilion near the Japanese garden at the Rivers's country place, where the receiving party greeted the guests, who all found especial gratification in meeting Mrs. Boyd. Dancing was the popular diversion with many a pleasant tete-a-tete about the refreshment tables.

Saturday evening Miss Flossie Blain gave a delightful company at her home on Mountain View avenue in honor of Mrs. Richard A. Van der Laan, who is soon to leave for Seattle, Wash. Miss Blain was assisted by the young maids and matrons of the Royal Daughters' Circle in entertaining and the pleasures of the evening included music, games and the serving of a tempting supper at 10 o'clock.

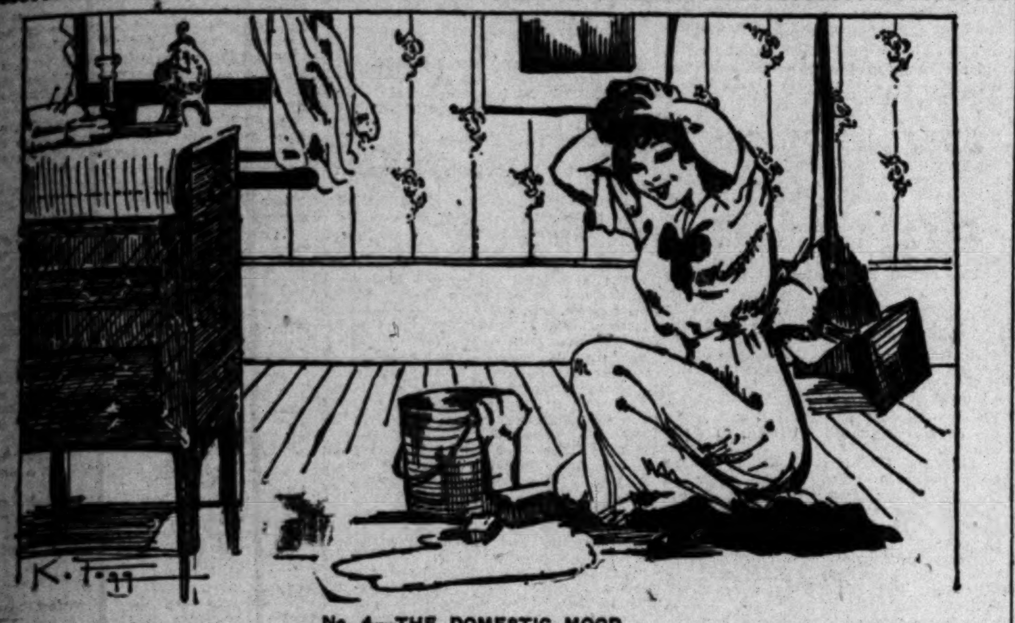
Archie Scott has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scott of Duarte avenue, having come from Yavapai county, Arizona, where he has been spending the past year. Several delightful social affairs have been given in Mr. Scott's honor during his vacation days at home.

One of the pleasantest gatherings of young people held recently was the party given Thursday evening by the young ladies of the Presbyterian Philathea class, of which Mrs. C. H. Sarwine is the patroness, in compliment to the young men of the Westminster Baraca class. The event took place in the church parlors, where roses, lilies and other spring blossoms and greenery gave a touch of Eastertide gladness. A humorous journal edited by Miss Matt L. Jones was one of the many amusing features of entertainment, followed by a bountiful supper.

THE MOODS OF GENEVIEVE.

BY GWEN SEARS.

Illustrated by Katherine Fogg.



No. 4.—THE DOMESTIC MOOD.

Oh, there are days when I mope over my typewriter, and a homely, but shiny, dish pan is the essence of my dreams.

On these days I stand by the window with my nose flattened on the pane and gaze out on the gray mountains of rock—not nature's mountains, where the sunlight plays in the canyons—but just the cold, impenetrable mountains that man has erected, grim and heartless — the business buildings of a great city.

I know not how the Domestic Mood ever managed to find me down in this alien environment, but I believe it must be the smell of the soapsuds the scrub woman uses which carries me back to other days and makes me long for them once more.

Oh, the toll one must pay for having ambitions!

Mine is the kind of domestic ardor that rejoices in bringing order out of chaos. On these days my dreams soar up to the dull office ceiling only to sink and dissipate like smoke. For such is the fabric of dreams.

I close my eyes and inhale the faint odor of the soapsuds. I long for a dainty blue-and-white kitchen, with muslin curtains blowing in the summer breeze, yellow mixing bowls and rows and rows of shining tins hanging on the walls.

In this glorious, whole-soul mood, my heart longs more for an apron with huge butterfly bows than a gem-glittered gown from Paris.

All day long my mind conjures pictures of cosy firesides and the smell of ginger bread, and by night I turn up the street of boarding-houses heartsick and dejected.

Once inside the tiny room I throw myself in the one chair—and think—the place, it looks as if a recent typhoon had visited it.

Suddenly I laugh a laugh that gurgles up from the delicious depths of me and fills the tiny apartment with dancing sunshine.

I will cleanse this room as it has never been cleansed before. I will wash from it every atom of the personalities which occupied it before me; I will sweep out every intruding thought of the previous tenants; I will scour its dingy floor and offensive woodwork.

Down on my knees, with my arms in delicious soapsuds, I feel a joy surging through me in such an exquisite tide that I burst forth in song, which issues from the inner being of me. An hour ago the song died on my lips.

Then when the tiny clock on the dresser warns me of the fleeting hours, and with my back just a wee bit achy, and my Domestic Mood quite appeased, I lie back and smile with satisfaction over the results of the night's revel.

I can close my eyes now with the satisfaction of knowing that I have done my best under the circumstances, and some day, in the beautiful Some Day, I will have the house of dreams, with the muslin curtains in the blue kitchen and the yellow mixing bowls.

Little Beauty Chats

by Blanche Beacon.

THE FRENCH TYPE.

For centuries the French woman has been regarded as an artificial beauty. This term has always been too generally applied, however. It is true that the French woman uses a good many cosmetics, but she does so within certain bounds that to her are the bounds of good form and good taste.

The French type has two extremes. It praises the beauty who laughs all the time, or else the beauty who never smiles. It demands "interesting beauty." Gaiety and pensiveness are interesting—therefore, to be a reigning beauty in France, one must be either gay or pensive all the time. Something of a strain, I should judge.

But sad or pensive, France has a certain ideal. Generally speaking, therefore, a French beauty uses powder lavishly. We would be astounded at an American girl who appeared on the street with a pallid face, made so by powder.

Next, the lips are always vividly crimson. But the French woman seldom uses rouge on her lips. They seem to be convenient red all the time, and, of course, the contrast with her white face makes them seem more so.

The eyebrows, lashes, etc., are always very dark. Sometimes they are made so by penciling, but not very generally. However, there is a good deal of penciling under the eyes, with the purpose of making dark circles, to add to the "interestingness" of the pallid complexion.

A pensive French beauty.

High Comedy.

then she set herself at work making terrapin children for her little friend out of mud.

The deft little fingers found joy in the molding and it occurred to her that she could make things live in clay and stone. The idea possessed her and she never surrendered it.

There was in her town a young newspaper man who understood, and who kept her aflame with belief in herself. That is why she went to New York and why she came home not beaten, but more determined than ever. She persuades her mother to paint her paper dolls openly before her father and to make a try at the more serious in art that she had abandoned so long before.

In a beautiful and pathetic dialogue the wife confesses to her husband how starved she has been those twenty-five years to express the artistic side of her nature, and how the happiness of wifedom and motherhood has not been enough so long as a portion of herself has been utterly denied and pushed back out of sight. It ends by her packing off to New York to a little studio five stories high, with no elevator, where she may share companionship with her daughter.

She does not do this without making a fine effort to persuade her husband to accompany them and to open a branch of his business in New York. He is obdurate and she says: "If I had been your housekeeper at $25 a month you'd owe me $300 for the twenty-five years I've lived with you. That's nearly $8000 worth of work that I've put into this house which has been my home as well as yours, yet the law gives you the right to say what I shall do. You can cut me off without a penny if I wish to go with my girl, so long as you obey the law—without a penny till you are dead, because you made the money. Didn't I make money for you by saving it? Didn't I do the work of an extra servant and gladly do it when we had to save? If I'd been your housekeeper and living with you I could have sued you for that $8000, but I'm not entitled to a penny to go with Diana because I am your wife."

So she goes anyway, and the two fight it out together, both unwilling to touch the check which Dawson has mailed his wife, accompanied by the following document: "Bill of service. One wife at $25 a month for twenty-five years—exclusive of gifts for clothes, food and masculine protection, $7500, deposited to Belle Dawson's credit for whims, foolishness and Paris."

Diana wins a big cash prize and a commission amounting to $25,000 for the statue in front of the State Capitol, a building for which her father has furnished the plumbing.

The news is brought by Hardman, her mother's artist friend, and he brings with him Peter Row, the newspaper reporter, who has been Diana's great encouragement. She is in love with Row and knows that he loves her, but that he would never never marry her for fear of spoiling marry her for fear of spoiling her career, and because he had no money.

She gets him alone for five minutes and the proposal of marriage which she makes to him on the spot makes his head swim, but she stays with it until he accepts.

Betty comes in after Peter Row to say that the good-for-nothing Sam has left her with a baby in her arms. The mother by this time knows that she cannot paint after all the years of her neglect of art, but she still has confidence in her ability to raise babies, and she knows her place is back home with Betty. Dawson comes in timidly and says: "You win, Belle. We are going to Paris." But she smiles enigmatically and replies: "You and I are going back home, Will."

Diana has taken Betty's baby in her arms and has felt how much more wonderful it is than marble, has felt it, and said so with a great gladness in her heart, crying out that to be a mother must be the greatest thing in the world.

* * *

So you see that we reactionaries have a radical play here, of which we can approve. It is gloriously fair to art, to individual expression of women and to personal liberty, yet it is safely anchored in the home as the unit of society and in the sweetness and power of normal living between husband and wife. Some such adjustment will yet take place in society, I imagine, between what we call the feminist movement, and what has been the old and rigid idea of the proper organization of home life.

LOOKING UP, NOT DOWN.

The Submarine, Heralded as a Powerful War Agent, Has Proved Less Practical than the Aeroplane.

[Chicago Journal:] The sinking of the British submarine A-7 calls attention to the widely-different fate that has attended on navigating the air and navigating the depths of the sea. The submarine arrived before the aeroplane, and was hailed as a device that would revolutionize war. Owing, perhaps, to the reductive magic of Jules Verne, every one imagined that the underwater craft would be as speedy and as safe as those above the waves, with the added advantage of invisibility. Instead, we have a small boat, creeping timidly along near the shore; a vessel of slow speed and extremely limited range of action, whose influence on naval warfare has been almost negligible to date.

The aeroplane came years later, and most wiseacres derided it as a toy. It could not fly more than a few feet above the earth, they declared, it would have to stop every mile or two for fuel, it never could carry more than its pilot, and he would be so busy looking after his cranky craft that he could make no observations worth while. Moreover, it was a regular death trap.

The dangers of aircraft are real, though not greater than those of submarines. For the rest, the aeroplane has looked down on the loftiest mountain in Europe, crossed the Mediterranean, attained a speed more than two miles per minute, carried twelve persons at a trip, compelled a revision of all army maneuvers, and been of material service in two African campaigns.

There would seem to be two morals to this story. One points the advantage of looking up, not down, and the other warns of the perils of prophecy.

Birch for Boy Burglars.

Three youths—William Tait, 15; Alexander Allan, 15, and John Linden, 17—pleaded guilty at Airdrie to half a dozen charges of breaking into confectionery and other shops at Bellshill and stealing sweets and money. The boys had been found in possession of skeleton keys, which fitted the shops, and had paid frequent visits to them, being eventually caught by the police. The Sheriff sentenced Tait and Allan to receive nine strokes each of the birch rod, and Linden to seven days' imprisonment.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Nellie G." writes: "Can you prescribe a good treatment for catarrh? I suffer with pain above my eyes, and my breath is offensive."

Answer: Catarrh is very annoying and dangerous if neglected. The best treatment can be had by the use of antiseptic vilane powder. Obtain in two or eight-ounce package or box and use as per directions accompanying same.

"Maud" writes: "Can anything be done for an itching scalp? My scalp is covered with dandruff and I am in great distress."

Answer: You can very easily be cured of an itching scalp, also dandruff, if you will bet a 4-oz. jar of plain yellow minyol and use according to the directions given on the jar. Two or three applications have been known to cure. Try it fairly and you will advocate its use to your friends.

"Ellen K." writes: "I am not fleshy enough. I should weight 20 pounds more. I am ashamed of my thinness and wish to become plump and attractive. Can you help me?"

Answer: Yes, I can help you, "Ellen K." and many others in the same plight. A thorough course of treatment with three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets will gradually give you more red and white blood corpuscles, adding to your weight, health and color, giving you pink cheeks, red lips and sparkling eyes. These tablets are packed in sealed cartons with directions. Do not expect results too quickly. It takes time to change the cells and tissues of the body, but you can depend on gaining weight if you are persistent.

"D. E. F." writes: "If you know of anything that I could take to cure my rheumatism, please tell me, as I suffer all the time. Am getting worse all the time."

Answer: Take the following and you will soon be relieved of your rheumatism. This is the best remedy that I have ever known for this trouble. Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, ½-oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. and syrup sarsaparilla comp., 5 ozs. Mix by shaking well and take one teaspoonful at meal times and again at bedtime.

"Helen" writes: "Can you give me a reliable remedy for coughs and colds? My cough is so tight that I am afraid of pneumonia."

Answer: The tightest cough can be loosened in one hour by using the following: Get from your druggist a 2½-oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on bottle.

This will break up any cold and loosen the tightest cough and soon cure it by its laxative tonic action.

"Miriam G." writes: "I am afflicted with stomach and bowel disorders and am fearful that it will result in appendicitis. Please advise me."

Answer: Undoubtedly a great many people could prevent appendicitis by using precaution, and overcoming stomach and bowel disorders in time. I advise that you take tablets triopeptine.

"Carpenter" writes: "I have pains in my spine and frightful headache in back of head, fainting spells, twitching and trembling, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, and in fact am a 'has been,' when it comes to performing accustomed work and duties. Please advise."

Answer: In all such cases the assimilative functions have not kept pace with waste functions and a powerful, harmless tonic treatment is needed. I find three-grain cadomene tablets unexcelled and astonishingly beneficial in such cases and advise them for you.

"Mrs W. C." asks: "Is it safe to reduce one's weight when it is excessive? I have often wanted to take something, but have been afraid that it might do more harm than good."

Answer: Some remedies might not be safe, but I prescribe one which is both safe and effective. Ask any well-stocked pharmacy for 5-grain arbolone tablets, packed in sealed tubes, with full directions for home use. They will usually reduce at the rate of a pound a day.

"Geraldine" writes: "I am troubled a great deal with headaches, dizzy spells, dark spots before my eyes, twinges of rheumatism. Can I be helped at all?"

Answer: You cannot only be "helped," but you can be freed of all the troubles you mention. You need three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur,) which are packed in sealed tubes and contain full directions for use. They are made of sulphur, cream of tarter and herb medicines. If these are taken regularly they purify the blood, stimulate the liver and bowels into healthy action and will gradually effect a cure.

"Mrs. O. C. B." writes: "I am informed that I have kidney trouble and that it is fast aproaching a serious stage. What would you prescribe?"

Answer: If your symptoms are the usual ones, such as puffs under the eyes, swelling ankles, scant, copious or foul smelling urine, acompanied by headaches, pains, depression, fever, chills, etc., I would advise the immediate use of balmwort tablets a very fine remedy for such difficulties, sold in sealed tubes with full directions for self administration.

"Mother"—Bedwetting in children is usually a disease which can be corrected by the use of the following: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. Mix and give the child 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before each meal.—[Advertisement.

The Quick Secret of a Lily-Like Complexion And Other Beauty Formulas

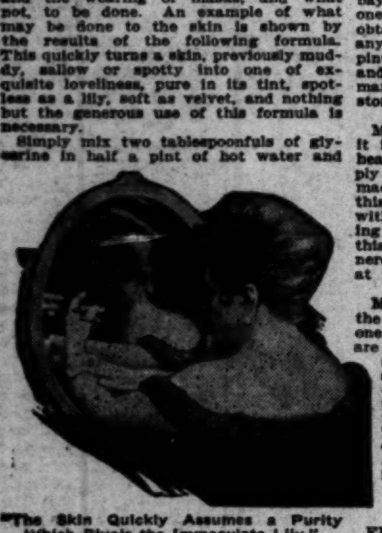
Secrets of Beauty that No Woman Should Be Without, Made Public by Valeska Suratt, the Brilliant Actress, Famed for Her Self-Made Beauty.

By Valeska Suratt.

THERE is a garden in every woman's face, where roses and lilies can grow in all their purity and loveliness. The trouble is most of us do not realize how marvelously beautiful the skin may become by the proper method pursued, and how quickly it may become so. Years of time and effort are spent, with low-powered creams so extensively advertised, and with only one result, hope constantly deferred.

The simplicity and ease of the proper method of beautifying the skin are really astonishing. There are no half dozen things, steaming and rubbing and the wearing of masks, and what not, to be done. An example of what may be done to the skin is shown by the results of the following formula. This quickly turns a skin, previously muddy, sallow or spotty into one of exquisite loveliness, pure in its tint, spotless as a lily, soft as velvet, and nothing but the generous use of this formula is necessary.

Simply mix two tablespoonfuls of glycerine in half a pint of hot water and add one ounce of sintone, which will cost not more than fifty cents at the drug store. Stir until cooled. It is then ready to apply. This should be used on the hands, arms, face and shoulders, liberally, every day.



"The Skin Quickly Assumes a Purity Which Rivals the Immaculate Lily."

MISS F. G. S.—There is no wrinkle eradicator ever known that has such prompt, visible results as the formula given below. It makes the skin youthful and plump, and all lines of age, wrinkles and crows' feet disappear in a very remarkable way. Add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of eptol to a half pint of hot water. Stir constantly until cold. Use very liberally. The eptol you can obtain for not more than fifty cents at the drug store. Mix the formula yourself at home and you will have a quantity of wrinkle cream which would cost a good many dollars were you to be able to buy it in the stores.

MISS HEADY—You will be surprised to see how vastly superior eggol is to soap, as a shampoo. It removes the scurf, grit and greasy film from the scalp and hair as nothing else can, and leaves the hair glossy and shimmery as no soap could do. Dissolve a teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of hot water. This makes a shampoo that cannot be excelled, for its lather and cleansing properties. For twenty-five cents at your drug store you can get enough eggol to last you several months.

MISS FANNY T.—Your hair will very soon stop coming out on your comb or brush, and you will notice a tremendous difference in the luster of your hair, in its fast increasing length, and its fluffiness, if you will make up the following formula yourself and use it liberally. Mix half a pint of water with half a pint of alcohol (or take a full pint of imported bay rum, if you prefer it) and add to this one ounce of beta-quinol, which you can obtain for not more than fifty cents at any drug store. This makes up over a pint of the best hair grower ever known, and a quantity which would cost you many dollars if you could buy it at the stores.

MISS SPECKLED—Few realize that it is possible to rid the face of blackheads in a few minutes' time by simply sprinkly some neroxin on a sponge, made wet with hot water, and rubbing this on the face on the parts affected with blackheads. There is no use pinching out these persistent blemishes, as this spots the skin. You can get the neroxin for not more than fifty cents at the drug store.

• • •

MISS R. G. M.—By using many of the superfluous hair burners advertised, one can easily detect the fact that you are afflicted with wild hair. They leave a red spot or burn, or irritate the skin, and sometimes remove the hair unevenly. Use instead, simple sulfo solution, which almost magically dissolves the hair, leaving no mark or injury. The simple sulfo solution can be secured for one dollar at drug stores. Apply it with the fingers. The work is done in a few moments, perfectly.

• • •

FRIENDLESS—Try this for developing the bust. It is admitted to be the most effective for the purpose, though you understand it is at best a difficult matter to produce such development. Avoid mechanical instruments. Mix together two ounces of ruetone, half a cup of sugar and half a pint of cold water. This makes a safe mixture, of which take 2 teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. The ruetone will cost one dollar at the drug store.

• • •

MRS. T. R. W.—You certainly can get rid of pimples in a hurry. I would not advise you to continue the blood tonic you mention. Use the following which is a powerful blood cleanser. Dissolve twelve ounces of sugar and one ounce of sarsene in a pint of water. Of this, take one or two teaspoonfuls after meals. Get the sarsene in the original package, by the ounce, at any drug store.

THE ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN.

BY HAROLD MAC GRATH.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Kathlyn Hare, believing her father, Col. Hare, in peril, has summoned her, leaves her home in California to go to him in Allaha, India. Umballah, pretender to the throne of that principality, has imprisoned the colonel, named by the late king as his heir, because he fears the American may insist on his royal rights.

Upon her arrival in Allaha Kathlyn is informed by Umballah that, her father being dead, she is to be queen and must marry him forthwith. Because of her refusal she is sentenced to undergo two ordeals with wild beasts.

John Bruce, an American and fellow-passenger on the boat which brought Kathlyn to Allaha, saves her life. The elephant which carries her from the scene of her trials becomes frightened and runs away, separating her from Bruce and the rest of the party.

After a ride filled with peril Kathlyn takes refuge in a ruined temple, but her haven is also the abode of a lion, and she is forced to flee from it. She finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders, who bring her to Allaha to the public mart. She is sold to Umballah, who, finding her still unsubmissive, throws her into the dungeon with her father.

Bruce and his friends effect the release of Kathlyn and the colonel, and the fugitives are given shelter in the palace of Bala Khan.

Supplied with camels and servants by that hospitable prince, the party endeavors to reach the coast, but is overpowered by a band of brigands and the encounter results in the colonel being delivered to Umballah. Kathlyn and Bruce escape from their captors and return to Allaha, where Kathlyn learns that her father, while nominally King, is in reality a prisoner. It is arranged to find a bride for him. Candidates come from near and far, and Kathlyn gains access to the palace by appearing disguised as one of them.

During the ceremony of betrothal the leopards, which guard the treasury, become free and enter the throne room, throwing the entire court into a wild panic. This makes it possible for Bruce and Ramabai to rescue Kathlyn and her father, and they steal away.

When the seaport town, from which they intend to sail for home, is reached the colonel receives by cable the news that Winnie, his younger daughter, had started for India some time before, and is about due to arrive in Allaha. Her father's suspicion that Umballah had played on Winnie's fears for his and Kathlyn's safety in order to get her into his power, proves to be well founded.

Kathlyn, her father and Bruce journey once more to Allaha. Winnie arrives before they reach there and walks into the trap which Umballah has set. Another coronation ceremony is arranged, with Winnie as the queen. Kathlyn and the colonel attend in disguise, making their presence known to the terrified child.

The photodramas corresponding to the installments of "The Adventures of Kathlyn" may now be seen at a number of the leading moving picture theaters. By this unique arrangement with the Selig Polyscope Company it is therefore possible not only to read "The Adventures of Kathlyn" in this paper, but also to keep pace with each installment of it at the moving picture theater.

CHAPTER XVII.

UMBALLAH began to go about cheerfully. He no longer doubted his star. Gutter born, was he? A rat from the streets? Very well; there were rats and rats, and some bit so deep that people died of it. He sometimes doubted the advisability of permitting Col. Hare's headman Ahmed to roam about; the rascal might in the end prove too sharp. Still it was not a bad idea to let Ahmed believe that he walked in security. All Umballah wanted was the colonel, Kathlyn, and the young hunter, Bruce. It would be Ahmed, grown careless, who would eventually lead him or his spies to the hiding place.

That the trio were in the city Umballah did not doubt in the least, nor that they were already scheming to liberate the younger sister. All his enemies where he could put his hand on them!

Cheerful was the word.

The crust of civilization was thin; the true savage was cracking out through it. In the days of the Mutiny Umballah would have ben the Nana Sahib's right hand. He would have given the tragedy at Cawnpore an extra touch.

Ten thousand rupees did not go far among soldiers whose arrears called for ten times that sum. So he placed it where it promised to do the most good. It was a capital idea, this, of cutting Ramabai's throat with his own money. The lawless element among the troops was his, Umballah's, at least his long enough for the purpose he had in mind.

When the multitude round the platform dissolved and Winnie was led to her chamber in the zenana, Umballah treated himself to a beverage known as the king's peg—a trifle composed of brandy and champagne. That he drank to stupefaction was God's method of protecting that night an innocent child—for Winnie was not much more than that.

Alone, dazed and terrified, she dropped down upon the cushions and cried herself to sleep—exactly as Kathlyn had done. In the morning she awoke to find tea and food. She had heard no one enter or leave. Glancing curiously around her prison of marble and jasper and porphyry, she discovered a slip of white paper protruding through a square in the latticed window, which opened out toward the garden of brides.

Hope roused her into activity. She ran to the window and snatched the paper eagerly. It was from Kathlyn, darling Kit. The risk with which it had been placed in the latticed window never occurred to Winnie.

The note informed her that the woman doctor of the zenana had been sufficiently bribed to permit Kathlyn to make up like her and gain admittance to the zenana. Winnie must complain of illness and ask for the doctor, but not before the morning of the following day. So far as she, Kathlyn, could learn, Winnie would be left in peace till the festival of the car of Juggernaut. Ill, she would not be forced to attend the ceremonies, the palace would be practically deserted, and then Kathlyn would appear.

This news plucked up Winnie's spirits considerably. Surely her father and Kit were brave and cunning enough to circumvent Umballah. What a frightful country! What a dreadful people! She was miserable over the tortures her father had suffered, but nevertheless she held him culpable for not telling both her and Kit all and not half a truth. A basket of gems! She and Kit did not wish to be rich, only free and happy. And now her own folly in coming would but add to the miseries of her loved ones.

Ahmed had told her of the two ordeals, the black dungeon, the whipping; he had done so to convince her that she must be eternally on her guard, search carefully into any proposition laid before her, and play for time, time for every minute she won meant a minute nearer her ultimate freedom. She must promise to marry Umballah, but to set her own date.

Unlike Kathlyn, who had Pundita to untangle the intricacies of the bastard Persian, Winnie had to depend wholly upon sign language; and the inmates of the zenana did not give her the respect and attention they had given to Kathlyn. Kathlyn was a novelty; Winnie was not. Besides, one of them watched Winnie constantly, because the bearded scoundrel had attracted her fancy and because she hoped to enchain his.

So the note from Kathlyn did not pass unnoticed, though Winnie believed that she was without espionage.

Kathlyn, her father, Bruce, Ramabai and Pundita met at the colonel's bungalow, and with Ahmed's help they thrashed out the plan to rescue Winnie. Alone, the little sister would not be able to find her way out of the garden of brides. It was Kathlyn's idea to have Winnie pretend she needed air and sunshine and a walk in the garden after the doctor's visit. The rescue would be attempted from the walls.

Juggernaut, or Jagannath in Hindustani (meaning Lord of the World,) was an idol so hideously done in wood that the Prince of Hell would have taken it to be the personification of a damned soul could he have glimpsed it in the temple at Allaha. The god's face was black, his lips and mouth horribly and significantly red; his eyes were polished emeralds, his arms were of gilt, his body like that of a toad. His temporal reign in Allaha was somewhere near four hundred years, and no doubt his emerald eyes had seen a crimson trail behind his ear as many hundred times.

He was married frequently. Some poor, benighted, fanatical woman would pledge herself and would be considered with awe till she died. But in these times no one flung himself under the car; nothing but the incense of crushed flowers now followed in his wake. His grin, however, was the same as of old. Wood, paint, gilt and emeralds! Well, we enlightened Europeans sometimes worship these very things, though we indignantly deny it.

Outside the temple stood the car, fantastically carved, dull with rubbed gold leaf. You could see the sockets where horrid knives had once glittered in the sunlight. Xerxes no doubt founded his war chariots upon this idea. The wheels, six in number, two in front and two on each side, were solid, broad and heavy, capable of smoothing out a corrugated winter road. The superstructure was an ornate shrine, which contained the idol on its peregrinations to the river.

About the car were devotees, some holding the ropes, others watching the entrance to the temple. Presently from the temple came the gurus, or priests, bearing the idol. With much reverence they placed the idol within the shrine, the pilgrims took hold firmly of the ropes, and the car rattled and thundered on its way to the river.

Of Juggernaut and his car more anon.

The street outside the garden of brides was in reality no thoroughfare, though natives occasionally made use of it as a short cut into town. Therefore no one observed the entrance of an elephant, which stopped close to the wall, seemingly to melt into the drab of it. On his back, however, the howdah was conspicuous. Behind the curtains Kathlyn patiently waited. She was about to turn away in despair when through the wicker gate she saw Winnie, attended by one of the zenana girls, enter the garden. It seemed as if her will reached out to bring Winnie to the wall and to hold the other young woman where she was.

But the two sat in the center of the garden, the thoughts of each far away. The attendant felt no worry in bringing Winnie into the garden. A cry from her lips would bring a dozen guards and eunuchs from the palace. And the white girl could not get out alone. More than this, she gave Winnie liberty in order to trap her if possible.

By and by the native girl pretended to feel drowsy in the heat of the sun, and her head fell forward a trifle. It was then that Winnie heard a low whistle, an old familiar whistle such as she and Kit had used once upon a time in playing "a spy." She sat up rigidly. It was hard work not to cry out. Over the wall the drab trunk of an elephant protruded, and something white fluttered into the garden.

Winnie rose. The head of the native girl came up instinctively; but as Winnie leisurely strolled toward the palace, the head sank again. Winnie turned and wandered along the walls, apparently examining the flowers and vines, but all the while moving nearer and nearer to the bit of white paper which the idle breeze stirred back and forth tentatively. When she reached the spot she stooped and plucked some flowers, gathering up the paper as she did so. And, still in the stooping posture, she read the note, crumpled it and stuffed it into a hole in the wall.

Poor child! Every move had been watched as a cobra watches its prey.

She was to pretend illness at once. Plans had been changed. She stood up, swayed slightly, and staggered back to the seat. In truth, she was pale enough and her heart beat so fast that she was horribly dizzy.

"A doctor!" she cried, forgetting that she would not be understood.

The native girl stared at her. She did not understand the words, but the signs were enough. The young white woman looked ill; and Umballah would deal harshly with those who failed to stem the tide of any illness which might befall his captive. There was a commotion behind the fretwork of the palace. Three other girls came out, and Winnie was conducted back to the zenana.

All this Kathlyn observed. She bade the mahout go to the house of the Zenana's doctor, where she donned the habiliments familiar to the guards and inmates of the zenana.

Everything went forward without a hitch; so smoothly that had the object of her visit been other than Winnie, Kathlyn must have sensed something unusual. She entered the palace and even led the way to Winnie's chamber—a fact which appeared natural enough to the women about but which truly alarmed Umballah's spy, who immediately set off in search of the man.

One thing assured her; the hands of the zenana's real physician were broad and muscular, while the hands she saw were slender and beautiful, brown though they were. She had seen those hands before, during the episode of the leopards of the treasury.

It was very hard for Kathlyn to curb the wild desire to crush Winnie in her arms, arms that truly ached for the feel of her. Even as she fought this desire she could not but admire Winnie's superb acting. She and her father has misjudged this butterfly. To have come all this way alone in search of them, unfamiliar with the customs and the language of the people! How she had succeeded in getting here without mishap was in itself remarkable.

She took Winnie's wrist in her hand and pressed it reassuringly, then puttered about in her medical bag. Very softly she whispered:

"I shall remain with you till dusk. Give no sign whatever that you know me, for you will be watched. Tonight I will smuggle you out of the palace. Take these, and soon pretend to be quieted."

Winnie swallowed the bits of sugar and lay back. Kathlyn signified that she wished to be alone with her patient. Once alone with Winnie, she cast aside her veil.

"Oh, Kit!"

"Hush, baby! we are going to get you safely away."

"I am afraid."

"So are we all; but we must not let anyone see that we are. Father and Ahmed are nearby. But oh, why did you attempt to find us?"

"But you cabled me to come, weeks ago!"

"I? Never!" And the mystery was no longer a mystery to Kathlyn. The hand of Umballah lay bare. Could they eventually win out against a man who seemed to miss no point in the game? "You were deceived, Winnie. To think of it! We had escaped, were ready to sail for home, when we learned that you had left for India. It nearly broke our hearts."

"What ever shall we do, Kit?" Winnie flung her arms round her sister and drew her down. "My Kit!"

"We must be brave whatever happens."

"And am I not your sister?" quietly. "Do you believe in me so little? Why shouldn't I be brave? But you've always treated me like a baby; you never tried to prove me."

Kathlyn's arms wound themselves tightly about the slender form. . . . And thus Umballah found them.

"Very touching!" he said, standing with his back to the door. "But nicely trapped!" He laughed as Kathlyn sprang to her feet, as her hand sought the dagger at her side. "Don't draw it," he said. "I might hurt your arm in wrenching it away from you. Poor little fool! Back into the cage like a homing pigeon! Had I not known you all would return, think you I would have given up the chase so easily? You would not bend, so then you must break. The god Juggernaut yearns for a sacrifice to prove that we still love and worship him. You spurned my love; now you shall know my hate. You shall die, unpleasantly."

Quickly as a cat springs he caught her hands and wrenched them toward him, dragging her toward the door. Winnie sprang up from the cushions, her eyes ablaze with the fighting spirit. Too soon the door closed in her face and she heard the bolt outside go slithering home.

Said Umballah from the corridor: "To you, pretty kitten, I shall come later. I need you for my wife. When I return you will be all alone in the world, truly an orphan. And do not make your eyes red needlessly."

Winnie screamed and Kathlyn fought with the fury of a nettled tigress. For a few minutes Umballah had his hands full, but in the end he conquered.

Outside the garden of brides three men waited in vain for the coming of Kathlyn and her sister.

The god Juggernaut did not repose in his accustomed niche in the temple that night. The car had to be pulled up and down a steep hill, and on the return, owing to the darkness, it was left at the top of the hill, safely propped to prevent it rolling down of its own accord. When the moon rose Juggernaut's eyes gleamed like the striped cat's. Long since he had seen a human sacrifice. Perhaps the old days would return once more. He was weary at heart riding over sickly flowers; he wanted flesh and bones and the music of the death rattle. His cousins, war and pestilence, still took their tithes. Why should he be denied?

The whispering became a murmuring, and the murmuring grew into excitable chattering; and by 10 o'clock that night all the bazaars knew that the ancient rites of Juggernaut were to be revived that night. The bazaars had never heard of Nero, called Ahenobarbus, and, being without comparisons, they missed the greatness of their august but hampered regent Umballah.

Always the bazaars heard news before any other part of the city. The white memsahib was not dead, but had been recaptured while posing as the zenana physician in an attempt to rescue her sister, the new queen. Oh, the chief city of Allaha was in the matter of choice and unexpected amusements unrivaled in all Asia.

Yes, Umballah was not unlike Nero—to keep the populace amused so they would temporarily forget their burdens.

But why the sudden appearance of soldiers, who stood guard at every exit, compelling the inmates of the bazaars not to leave their houses? Ai, ai! Why this secrecy, since they knew what was going to take place? But the soldiers, ordinarily voluble, maintained grim silence, and even went so far as to extend the bayonet to all those who tried to leave the narrow streets.

"An affair of state!" was all the natives could get in answer to their inquiries. Men came flocking to the roofs. But the moonshine made all things ghostly. The car of the god Juggernaut was visible, but what lay in its path could not be seen.

Umballah was not popular that night. But this was a private affair. Well he knew the ingenuity and resources of his enemies at large. There would be no rescue this night. Kathlyn Memsahib should die; this time he determined to put fear into the hearts of the others.

Having drunk his king's peg, he was well fortified against any personal qualms. The passion he had had for Kathlyn was dead, dead as he wanted her to be.

Whom the gods destroy they first make mad; and Umballah was mad.

The palanquin waited in vain outside the wall of the garden of brides—waited till a ripple of the news eddied about the conveyance in the shape of a greatly agitated Lal Singh.

"He is really going to kill her!" he panted. "He lured her to her sister's side, then captured her. She is to be placed beneath the car of Juggernaut within an hour. It is to be done secretly. The people are guarded and held in the bazaars. Ahmed, with an elephant and armed keepers, will be here shortly. I have warned him. Umballah runs amuck!"

Suddenlythey heard voices in the garden, first Umballah's, then Kathlyn's. Sinister portents to the ears of the listeners, father and lover and loyal friends. The former were for breaking into the garden then and there, but a glance through the wicket gate disclosed the fact that Umballah and Kathlyn were surrounded by fifteen or twenty soldiers. And they dared not fire at Umballah for fear of hitting Kathlyn.

The palanquin was hastily carried out of sight.

At the end of the passage of street nearest the town was a gate, which was seldom closed. Through this one had to pass to and from the city. Going through this gate, one could make the hill (where the car of Juggernaut stood,) within fifteen minutes, while a detour round the walls of the ancient city would consume three-quarters of an hour. Umballah ordered the gate to be closed and stationed a guard there. The gates clanged behind him and Kathlyn. This time he was guarding every entrance. If his enemies were within they would naturally be weak in numbers; outside, they would find it extremely difficult to make an entrance. More than this, he had sent a troop toward the colonel's camp.

The gates had scarcely been closed when Ahmed, his elephant, and his armed keepers, came into view. The men sent Pundita back to camp, and the actual warfare began. They approached the gate, demanding to be allowed to pass. The soldiers refused. Instantly the keepers flung themselves furiously upon the soldiers. The trooper who held the key threw it over the wall just before he was overpowered. But Ahmed had come prepared. From out the howdah he took a heavy leather pad, which he adjusted over the fore skull of the elephant, and gave a command.

The skull of the elephant is thick. Hunters will tell you that bullets glance off it as water from the back of a duck. Thus, protected by the leather pad, the elephant became a formidable battering ram, back by tons of weight. Only the solidity of stones may stay him.

Ahmed's elephant shouldered through the gates grandly. For all the resistance they offered that day they might have been constructed of papier mache.

Through the dust they hurried. Whenever a curious native got in the way the butt of a rifle stirred him out of it.

Umballah had lashed Kathlyn to a sapling which was laid across the path of the car. The man was mad, stark mad, this night. Even the soldiers and the devotees surrounding the car were terrified. One did not

POETRY.

LAUREATE OF CHILDHOOD.

BOYS AND GIRLS. By James W. Foley. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.

MUCH DEPENDS on how far one is from childhood in enjoying Mr. Foley's poems. It is not for critics to say how well he has written, but for children. During the past few weeks over 20,000 school children in Southern California have heard Mr. Foley read these poems and have put their approval upon them. Thus in the witenagemot of youth he has been sustained and higher honors are not given.

This may help to explain Mr. Foley's popularity with the children, and what causes them to look upon him as a friend who understands that which most grown-up people have forgotten:

"If anybody doesn't bring
The hammer in, or breaks a thing,
Or dulls the axe, or doesn't know
What has become of so-and-so
That's lost for maybe six weeks past,
If anybody had it last
It's me!"

We claim the privilege of joining with the children in admiration of Mr. Foley, for our memory goes back to the time when we sang that same tune, in practically the same words, but with scarcely the same rhythm. And that, we believe, explains his charm. He sings the joys and trials of childhood without affectation and with sympathy.

Mr. Foley has become generally known through his contributions to magazines. His home for many years has been in South Dakota, where, in younger years, he acquired an intimate knowledge of the cow range (of which he has also written excellent verse.) As Elbert Hubbard would say, Mr. Foley is now forty years young.

We have no doubt but he still disguises his work—that is, takes all the difficulties out of it—by something of the same means as when he was just a little boy and sent to cut the weeds. He tells that he cheated in this manner:

"When I was just a little boy and sent to cut the weeds,
I played myself a hero bold and given to mighty deeds;
I played myself an armored knight, my scythe a broadsword keen,
The weeds an army of my foes come marching o'er the green;
I swung my good broadsword about, they broke and ran pell-mell,
At every stroke some stubborn lout and his retainers fell.
And when I told them of my play, with lusty shouts and glee,
The neighbor boys brought scythes and fell to cutting weeds for me."

Tom Sawyer wasn't the only one that knew how to inveigle assistance in whitewashing a fence or cleaning a garden.

Here is another complaint which has our sympathy even against our better judgment, and "A Noiseless Fourth" may be salutary, [illegible] like salutes:

"In a noiseless street stood a crackerless lad with a screechless fife and a headless drum,
Venting his glee in a voiceless shout, as a blareless band, all still and dumb,
Went down the length of the avenue, and a bugle corps blew a noteless blare,
While a screechless rocket with noiseless [illegible] cut a fireless path through the silent air."

A fingerless youth of olden times, when cannons roared and crackers popped, looks at the scene and says "Dog-gone the noiseless Independence Day."

Stevenson, Field and Riley have written many exquisite ballads of childhood. We realize that one is likely to speak overenthusiastically of a pleasing new author. However, we do not believe that any one of those poets has written a lullaby that is superior to this:

"Creepy little, creepy little goblins in the gloaming,
With their airy little, fairy little faces all aglow,
Winking little, blinking little brownies gone a-roaming—
Hear their rustling little, bustling little footfalls as they go;
Laughing little, chaffing little voices sweetly singing
Of the dearest little, queerest baby lullabies,
Creep, creep, creep!
Time to go to sleep!
[illegible] playing 'possum with his big brown eyes!"

This strikes the plaintive, humorous chord of a child's lament:

"Somebody went and broke my doll, an' let her sawdust out
On Mama's floor an' my! there's sawdust scattered all about!
It's scandalous! An bien by my Mama'll come an' say:
'I see 'at Little Mischefuss has been around today!'"

No doubt the same little girl voices this complaint taken from "The Plaint of the Lost Doll":

"We dot a doll to our house;
It tum on Trissmus day;
It wasn't hangin' on a tree;
It tum some usser way;
They wouldn't let me play wiz it,
They said 'at it might fall;
So it laid 'ere all day long
An squall en squall en squall.

I wis' 'et I tould det it onct;
I'd frow it all about,
An knock it—so! En slap it—so!
An shake its sawdust out;
An 'en w'en 'ey saw how it looked
I dess know 'ey'd all be
As dlad es twould be 'ess t' have
One little dirl—like me!"

The volume contains over a hundred poems addressed to children—and those who love them.

FICTION.

SATIRE ON MALES.

ANGEL ISLAND. By Inez Haynes Gillmore. Henry Holt Company, New York.

WOULD that we possessed sufficient egotism to be sure whether it was right to lavishly commend Inez Haynes Gillmore for giving us a splendid satire, or scold this charming writer for spoiling a good romance. Certainly she has done both.

Five men, of the more intellectual sort, are cast away on an island. Then, lo! from out the depths of the azure come five wonderful winged women, sweeping and wheeling and coquetting, aerial creatures radiant as from the enchantment of an Arabian Night's dream. The men woo them in vain, winning but smiles and laughter. And then, these male brutes determine to capture the angels: A house is built and filled with dresses and gewgaws plundered from trunks washed up from the wrecked ship. The women, lured by their innate curiosity and compelling love of finery, walk into the trap. The male brutes rush upon them, overpower them and clip their wings. After which they are married by certain reputable rites decided upon in lieu of more conventional methods.

Now we submit that by all the traditions of spectacular romance there should be further imaginative and thrilling incidents. But not so. It is a most plebeian, humdrum sort of marital life. At first, of course, the men are gallant lovers, attentive, solicitous and prance in attendance. Gradually they begin to treat their wives as other men treat their wives when the novelty grows tarnished, and leave these splendid creatures to do the housework and care for the children. The husbands build a clubhouse and have a grand time by themselves—coming home, of course, to eat and sleep. Every few months the wings of the wives are clipped because, as the men say with the magnificent conceit of those in the confidence of the Almighty: "God never intended women to fly."

Among themselves the men boast thus: "If they'd been our mental equals they'd never let themselves get caught like that. The air is no place for a woman. The earth is her home."

The opening chapter of "Angel Island," presenting as it does so many difficulties to the author, is particularly well written. Except that we do not believe shipwrecked men discuss the absence of women among the first things, these five men act and talk as it seems they would; and the skill with which the winged women are introduced, without seeming at all ridiculous or irreconcilable, is very effective. It is truly a clever satire in behalf of the feminists.

TURBULENT ROMANCE.

BLACK IS WHITE. By George Barr McCutcheon. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

THE PLOT of "Black Is White" is thrilling and mystifying, but Mr. McCutcheon has enhanced its value by the skillful introduction of two garrulous, aged, broken-down soldiers of fortune who have parts wholly extraneous to the action of the story, and yet are the most absorbing and endearing characters of the book. Never has Mr. McCutcheon done better work than with Danbury Dawes and Joseph Riggs, these obsolete adventurers, who are able to spend their declining days in comfort only through the charitable gratitude of James Brood, who had eaten their salt and broken their bread in the reckless days of years before. We wish that Mr. McCutcheon would essay more character work; we never suspected that he possessed the ability. His romances are all much alike—turbulent, exciting, a smashing climax, but with all that often a trifle tiresome, giving us the ache that comes with too much suspense and vehement action.

James Brood had driven his wife, whom he married in Europe, from his door many years before the story opens, and allowed her to die unforgiven. He had grievous doubts touching the paternity of his son Frederic.

Suddenly Brood telegraphs his son that he is returning from Europe with a bride. Yvonne baffles the reader; one is in doubt whether to sympathize with this peculiar bride, to distrust her or to fear her. The ultimate solution explains these conflicting opinions; explains why Frederic became enamored of his father's wife, why James Brood was tortured by her keen questioning, why she was alternately a sweet, tender nurse and an irascible queen.

A few not wholly satisfying dramatic scenes are given; as when the son and father meet in a gruelling quarrel over the dead mother of the boy; and when Ranjab, the Hindu servant of Brood, sinks awed and trembling before Yvonne for a reason that is not convincing when revealed.

But Mr. McCutcheon is the master of the style of romance to which he has devoted himself. He kindles interest with the first paragraph and urges the flame higher and higher until the startling and most unexpected denouement. We are constrained to remark that something not quite so tense and energetic would be more pleasing.

HIDDEN BEAUTIES.

WHISPERING DUST. By Eldrid Reynolds. (Introduction by Frederic Taber Cooper.) Frederick A. Stokes, New York.

FREDERIC TABER COOPER is so admirable a judge of literary values that more than most critics he has always impressed us as knowing his subjects and accurately modulating his praise or censure to merits and defects. He has displayed unwonted enthusiasm over "Whispering Dust," and speaks of the "subtile, elusive, haunting charm of this strange, enticing little volume." Having read it, we wonder why.

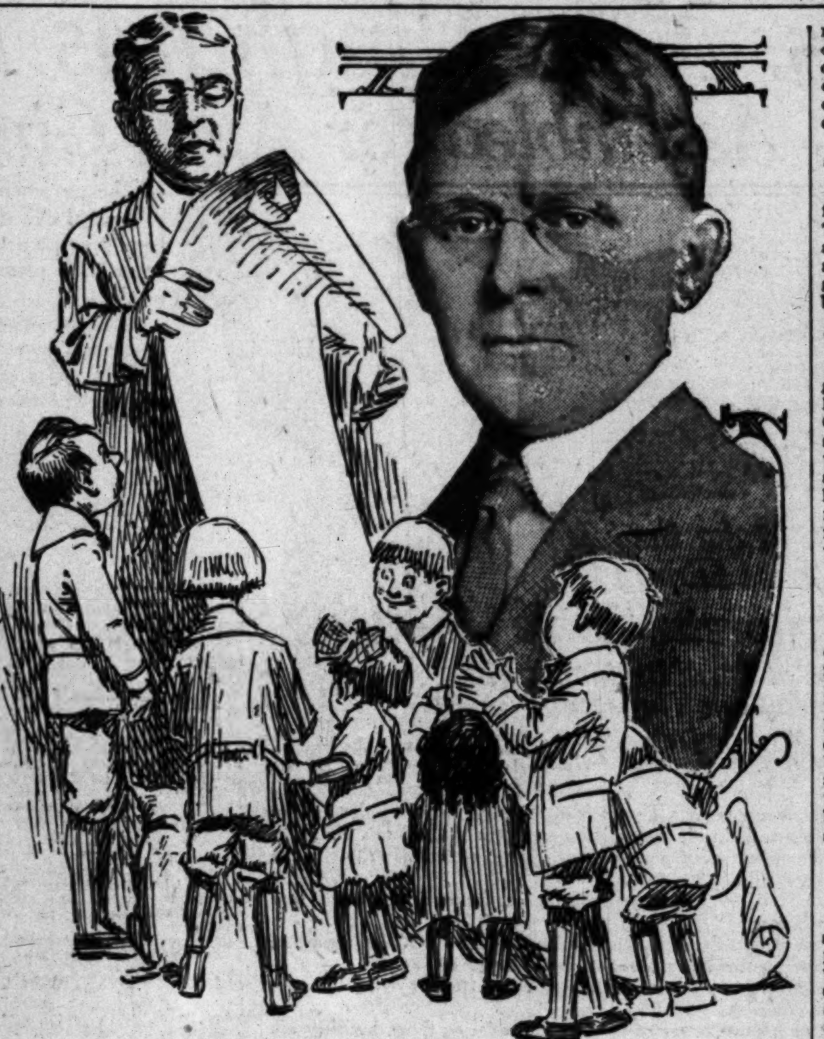
The beauties of "Whispering Dust" are subtile, very subtile—in fact, rather effectively hidden. We fancy that the normal reader will be a little curious to know what it is all about, though if one has that "spirituelle" vision which enables him to penetrate the indefinite, there will undoubtedly be found all of the charm that one's imagination can picture.

A woman, so the book rather vaguely sets forth, begins a sightseeing tour through France and Egypt, and addresses a series of communications to "You," of whom she says: "With infinite labor I create you, the Idea." Having arrived in Egypt the desire to convince "You" that she is really there takes the form of much Egyptian nomenclature, while the English equivalents are presented in footnotes at the bottom of the pages. That seems to be some people's idea of "local color."

We are also introduced to Desmond Dulac, a "successful author," whom the woman gradually learns to like—not "care for," but just tolerate with ease. No engagement, no wedding, no "misunderstanding" eventually comes between her and anyone else. The story seems futile, purposeless and is not wholly entertaining, although frequently there is displayed a sense of humor, a sharp observation here and there, a certain alertness that makes us impatient that the author has not written a better book when it is patent that the author could.

However, Mr. Cooper has disposed of us in his introduction by saying: "We have always with us the type of person to whom the dot is the essential part of the i, and who never will be happy until he knows whether Donatello had pointed ears. To such readers the story will remain to end a sealed book."

We wonder if Donatello really did have pointed ears?



James W. Foley.

He sings the joy and laments of children and does it well. Over 20,000 school children in Southern California have heard Mr. Foley read his poems during the past few weeks, and have put their approval upon his verse.

SCIENTIFIC CRIMINAL.

ADVENTURES OF THE INFALLIBLE GODAHL. By Frederick I. Anderson. Thomas Y. Crowell, New York.

MR. ANDERSON has yet something to learn in the construction of short stories; but little in the writing of them. His style is of a superior quality. That story which he has chosen to call "The Night of a Thousand Thieves" has both style and plot, especially the former, and deals with Godahl's successful invasion of the Maiden Lane district in New York, although he sets off every burglar alarm for blocks, and a great cordon of police encircle that entire section of the city.

The opening story, in which we are introduced to "The Infallible Godahl," informs us that he is an imaginary character whom Oliver Armiston, a writer, has made famous in fiction as a scientific criminal. When Armiston is induced by a stranger to have Godahl explain how "the white ruby" of a prominent society woman may be stolen, we are not supposed to suspect that it is for the purpose of learning how the robbery may really be committed. But that is the purpose and it succeeds. Now the logical outcome, and the only manner in which to make the story worth the reading, would be to have Godahl recover the stone. Such is not done. We are compelled to satisfy ourselves with an anti-climax.

"Blind Man's Buff" allows us to understand why Godahl is "infallible." He has the protection of the author who allows no improbability—and, we feel like saying, impossibility—to interfere with the success of this crook, who is by no means as clever as Raffles, of more or less infamy. Godahl, by having disks over his eyes, is not recognized even in the glare of a flashlight by his intimate friends; and Godahl, although blindfolded, can pick pockets without detection while being watched.

We admire Mr. Anderson's ability to write much more than Mr. Godahl's ability to be a rogue.

WOMAN'S REAL ENEMY.

SANDY. By S. R. Crockett. The Macmillan Company, New York.

A PERSONALITY which shoulders up, spreads itself and fills the book is Sandy Pryde of Galloway. Of a shaggy, leonine type, with an academic education, Sandy still bears all the marks of his gentle, provincial heredity and rearing. In consideration of his academic success, he is invited to tea at the home of the noble family of Glendonwyn, pronounced "very genteel" by the family, and fallen in love with the elder daughter. He finds himself taking the same train for London with the two young ladies—London, which Sandy has determined, in his quiet way, to conquer. He gives the young ladies their first lesson in economy by buying them third-class tickets.

But Sandy meets another young woman in London—a music-hall singer. Adventures begin to crowd upon him. He starts a delivery business with a second-hand tricycle, preaches at a headless church, being finally requested to resign because he is making extra money at night as "chucker-out" for the music-hall where his young lady sings. The deacon who makes the request holds a financial interest in the bar connected with this same institution.

Sandy expands his business, and also writes books. He is lionized, and invited to exclusive drawing-rooms. Upon one of these occasions he meets V. V., his music-hall singer, who has been engaged as entertainer. In his characteristic way he immediately seeks her out, and tells her he will accompany her home, explaining to his hostess that V. V. is his betrother. That is the end of parlor entertaining for V. V. The women strike at her with the one fatal weapon which women know so well how to wield. "A woman can always, if she puts her mind to it, make things nasty for another woman." V. V., a really fine character, finally leaves Sandy, goes en tour with her own company, in order that Sandy shall continue to rise, and for the purpose of sending him financial aid. Sandy rises to the occasion, and makes her a partner in the venture.

The introduction of a new and decidedly temperamental young thing into the company, who brings men to her feet with a glance, complicates matters, as does also the fierce jealousy of the young noblewoman who fell in love with Sandy at the beginning. But Sandy is always Sandy—human, but honorable. The story will throw a new light upon young girls in stage life. One of the sweetest characters is Sandy's old mother—too sweet for even a narrow Presbyterian training to have marred.

GREED AND LOVE.

A VILLAGE ROMEO AND JULIET. By Gottfried Keller. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

A. C. BAHLMANN has translated this little German classic into English, and Edith Wharton has written a most interesting introduction, touching upon the life of the author. The story has that certain inimitable simplicity which characterizes the old story of Paul and Virginia; and like Paul and Virginia, the two young lovers of Keller's tale find themselves strangely victimized by fate and unwise parents. The boy and girl as children are inseparable as long as their fathers are peaceful, prosperous farmers. But trouble comes when the two men commence to plow into an unclaimed strip of land lying between the two fields. A small triangle made by irregular cutting is the final bone of contention, and the beginning of lawsuits which end in ruin. As may be inferred from the title, the idyllic love of the young people must end in tragedy, with the black mark of a coarse, uncomprehending world upon it. They are two fine, exquisite beings who can find no place in the accepted scheme of things, and with whom the end could not come otherwise.

This is not a story to be read by the standards of modern American novels—it must be seen through the vision of another folk spirit, and with some knowledge of the unusual genius and strange personality of the author himself, who found it difficult to fit himself into an existing order of things. Edith Wharton's brief account of Keller's life, in the opening pages, is written with penetration and sympathy, and is well worth reading.

REVIEWS IN BRIEF.

TEN SEX TALKS TO GIRLS. By Irving David Steinhardt, M.D. J. P. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia and London.

Another of the wise and timely books that are now being written for the enlightenment and guidance of young girls in those intimate matters of which young women should receive plain and proper instruction. While the revelations are such as to cause, perhaps, at first a sensitive shrinking, they cannot sear and blight as the consequences of ignorance too often do. Set forth in a clear, scientific way, minus scientific terms, the matter is such as should be absorbed under the guidance and explanations of some older, reliable person.

THE INSTINCT OF WORKMANSHIP. By Thorstein Veblen. The Macmillan Company, New York.

The object of this volume seems to be rather toward the end of an inquiry and analysis than the setting forth of any positive hypothses. "Contamination of Instincts in Primitive Technology," "The Savage State of the Industrial Arts," the "Technology of the Predatory Culture," "Ownership and the Competitive System" are among chapter headings.

HUNTING IN THE UPPER YUKON. By Thomas Martindale. George W. Jacobs & Co., Philadelphia.

A hunting trip through the untraveled regions of the Yukon country is exploited in this volume, giving accounts of the wonders of that mountain world, of the stalking of big game, and of the brave, hardy people who live there, waging constant war with the forces of nature. The book is beautifully gotten up, and interestingly illustrated.

HARPER'S BOOK FOR YOUNG GARDENERS. By Appheus Hyatt Verrill. Harper & Bros., New York and London.

Here is a volume which will prove a delight to all young people interested in gardening, and which will awaken the interest of those who have heretofore been apathetic. The book is literally packed with every variety of useful information pertaining to the making of a garden, either in the limited city space, or in the country, going thoroughly into the raising of vegetables, flowers and trees, fertilization and about all else connected with the useful or ornamental on the subject.

SOCIAL SANITY. By Scott Nearing. Moffat, Yard & Co., New York.

The book is writen by one who is well-informed, well-read, and a careful thinker. The philosophy, for the most part, sound and wholesome, avoiding precipitateness and radicalism. The author does not relegate man to the "worm of the dust" class, but makes clear his dignity and significance.

THE COMING CANADA. By Joseph King Goodrich. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.

The author of this book seems to have gone most thoroughly into his subject. He has not stopped with those portions of Canada to which most writers limit themselves, but has dealt with Canada as a whole, her thickly settled as well as her almost uninhabited regions. Mr. Goodrich has been to the heads of the various departments of the Dominion government to verify and strengthen the substance of his volume.

THE MERCHANT OF VENICE. Told by a Popular Novelist. John C. Winston Company, Philadelphia.

Shakespeare put into novel form is a new departure, and one that is rather interesting. This is but one of a series now in preparation by the same author, "Macbeth," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Hamlet," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and "The Taming of the Shrew," being others which will soon be issued. While nothing of the tongue and tone of Shakespeare's time is lost in the novel, Shakespearean character may be made, perhaps, a little more comprehensible to the modern mind through its pages.

PRINCIPLES OF CORRECT DRESS. By Florence Hull Winterburn. Harper & Bros., New York and London.

Jean Worth and Paul Poiret are represented in this little volume in chapters especially written by them. It is a book for women to read carefully, as it does not concern fashions of any particular moment alone, but shows women how to study themselves, and to dress to suit the individual style. The combined work of three high authorities should make this book valuable, absorbing and helpful to all women.

CHEMISTRY IN AMERICA. By Edgar Fahs Smith. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

A most dignified and valuable contribution, of profound interest and genuine importance to every chemist is offered in this volume, the work including many treasures of the science in this country which hitherto have not been accessible. In the course of his long service as professor of chemistry in the University of Pennsylvania, Provost Smith has collected a great mass of valuable material on the development of chemistry in the United States. The book does not pretend to be a complete history, as many archives known to exist have not been found, but it is rich in information not hitherto published.

WITH THE MAGAZINES.

The World's Work for April offers the first of a series of articles by David Starr Jordan on "What Europe Thinks of Us," being a compilation of remarks actually made by members of various nationalities. "The Value of the Panama Canal," by Theodore P. Shonts, sums up briefly and explicitly the commercial and naval advantages of the "Big Ditch." In discussing "How Many Automobiles Can American Buy?" Reginald McIntosh Cleveland shows that over 250,000 cars were sold in this country last year, and gives much other unusual information relative to the automobile industry. Many other articles, as well as the usual editorial observations, are presented.

James Huneker, a critic of royal ability, writes in the Century for May on "The Music of Today and Tomorrow." This issue also presents items from "Rodin's Notebook," with an introduction by Judith Cladel, which gives some of the great sculptor's opinions on contemporary art. George Moore, who is considered by many to be one of the very greatest modern novelists, writes on "Shakespeare and Balzac" as the title for a study in creative genius. Many stories and other articles add to the value of this number.

McClure's Magazine for May continues the autobiography of S. S. McClure, who explains the origin of the "muckraking," and tells how new writers were gathered to the staff. Lincoln Steffens has a story on "The Dying Boss," which seeks to explain the real crime of grafting. Edward Mott Woolley, writing on "A $100,000 Imagination," describes the remarkable achievements of Theodore N. Vail as the great dynamo behind the development of the telephone. Basil King, Coningsby Dawson and Jeannette Gilder are among the story writers.

"Why do women commiserate with the unrepentant criminal and nag an utterly inoffensive husband?" is one of the many pertinent questions asked by Arthur T. Vance in the May number of the Pictorial Review. Georgette Lebanc (Mme. Maurice Maeterlinck) writes on "Helen Keller—The Girl Who Found the Bluebird." John Luther Long has a story on "Yoshiko," and the fourth "Octavius" story under the title of "The Adventure of the Stolen Slipper," by Frederick Arnold Kummer appears. Many articles and items on fashions and household work are included.

The Literary Digest of April 18 has a comprehensive article on the "Reserve-Bank Appointments—and Disappointments," in which the qualifications and reasons for assigning regional banks to various cities are given. The murder of George Calmette by Mme. Caillaux is reviewed at length. Villa, the "Dry Navy," "Settling Up With Colombia" are the topics of other interesting articles. The feature of the Smart Set for May is a one-act play of the romantic order by Arthur Pinero called "The Widow of Wasdale Head;" in "The Assault of Wings" Charles G. D. Roberts describes a battle between eagles and an aviator. Basil Macdonald Hastings writes "The Trip on Vacation," and has children for the theme; H. L. Menken devotes his book criticism entirely to poets in this issue, and George Jean Nathan tries parodies on the "ghost scene" from "Hamlet" to illustrate the methods of different producers. Many other stories are included

LITERARY CHIT-CHAT.

BY GENEVIEVE FARNELL-BOND.

The reviewer has an opportunity to note the immense amount of literature that concerns children, in one way and another. We may all remember a period when stories about the extremely young men and women of America, in knickerbockers and short dresses, invaded and overran the pages of magazines for the grown-ups. It was an exceedingly wholesome period, and was a test of the author's genius which all who attempted it could not pass. The result was a great many bits of fiction—classics of their kind—that drew the minds of men and women, no matter how bizarre, into the vortex of child humanity, because there was the real flesh and blood flavor of human nature there, and the subtler things for those capable of seeing subtleties. There were also a still greater number of stories, pale, anaemic, sentimental, that pushed in to print among the others, nobody being able to account for how they got there.

At any rate it was a wholesale education for the guardians of young America. It broadened many of the old-fashioned, inquisitorial ideas which had previously been concerned in trying to force all children into an identical mould, regardless of misfits, pain and brain-numbing; while, on the other hand, it let loose upon unhappy grown-updom a flock of unfeathered chicks who must "live their own lives," and whose main pleasure seems to be to tell old "Aunt Dorking" that "eggs are really good for nothing." Blase! well, rather, and often times bizarre, these young things, a condition against which Marianna Wheeler issues a special warning in her "Young Mother's Handbook."

However, we swing into a better epoch, when it is not considered—in or out of literature—unfashionable for children to have good manners, and respect for seniority. The "Pollyannas" give us youthful heroines bursting with individuality, not in the least saintly, but with that good breeding which comes of gentle heredity and a sensitive, responsive humanity. The newest literature for grown-ups that takes them for little journeys into kiddy-land furnishes a parental tip as to the difference between liberty and license.

And by the way, the manner in which a copy of "Pollyanna" contrived to make its entrance into that land where public censorship does its best to see that no reading matter may get to the dear subject of a corrupt, lazy, licentious, gluttonous, criminal nobility, whereby the said subjects might awaken to a suspicion that they were other than beasts of burden—is most interesting. The lady who sent Pollyanna tore the book into forty parts, and sent the separate sections by letters.

F. J. Gould, author of "The Children's Plutarch," believes that the child must be given ideals with his liberty—and those of the classic virtues, at that. He works the historic tales of Greek and Roman heroes into vivid, impressive pictures to touch the child's sense of imagery, to insensibly mould character, and to awaken an early conception of social justice. "Trying to put facts into a child's mind is one thing," he asserts. "Trying to put a spiritual conception there is another."

Anent child-individualism, Eggleston and Bruere, authors of "The Work of the Rural School," deprecate the "desk-in-a-row" plan, advocating movable chairs and tables in a schoolroom, as more conducive to individualism. They grant the first-named system as suitable to the maintaining of discipline and the saving of space, but—shake your heads, ye unbookish wise, but know that the new methods are already adopted in Swiss schools! And the blessed writers about the Montessori system, and the out-of-door schoolrooms will continue their work of persuading us toward the cultivation of a healthier generation of boys and girls physically, while the writers on the subject of sex hygiene for young people, advocating its teaching in the public school, will make for a better generation morally.

"I know an author," says George Agnew Chamberlain, "that writes in a blank-walled room with just a glazed skylight overhead, and turns out good work. He thinks that sort of room gives his mind the best chance. I'm built differently. Give me a room in a tower with eight windows where I can look out on Mother Nature lying sinuous under the tropic sun. A turquoise sky for a roof, emerald trees, and the jade of a sweeping bay for a floor, and Sea Island cotton clouds all around the horizon for walls make a casket for a man's mind that can't be beaten. Let any man sit in such a room, stare out toward the north through the humming sunlight of the tropics, and remember that he is alone and 10,000 miles away, and a book like 'Home' will write itself." Does this sound like a large, an impossible order? It is not. This is precisely the sort of place in which Mr. Chamberlain wrote his book. It is a tower on top of the American Consulate at Lourenco Marquez, Province of Mozambique, Portuguese East Africa.

A certain author whom I know wasted a good deal of valuable time howling mentally for the sort of surroundings she thought she needed before she should be able to do good work. Be that as it may, the work that brought money in to her was done under every variety of condition—once sitting on the floor under wet, hanging clothes in a drying-room in a New York flat; again lying on a rug, head propped by elbow, with the man in the next apartment gently administering corrective whacks to a refractory wife; still again with the neighbors' kiddies loiling all over the floor; sometimes sandwiched in between farming, the family wash and neighborly calls; sometimes at noon, sometimes at midnight—it is all one if an author is sufficiently obsessed. He can't wait for environment.

Alleyne Ireland, we learn, wrote his "Joseph Pulitzer: Reminiscences of a Secretary," literally between two fires—at least when he needed them. Some time since he bought a piece of rocky land in the Catskills, and in the big one-room bungalow which he built constructed a fireplace at one end, and installed a stove at the other. To this retreat he retires every Friday, and writes steadily for three days. It is good to write in spite of surroundings—but isn't it bully to have the sort of surroundings, and perhaps people you want!

AUSTRIAN BAN ON EMIGRATION.

Drastic Decree Designed to Hold Men in Country.

Measure Especially Severe on Laboring Class.

Issuance of Passports Made Extremely Difficult.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

VIENNA, April 11.—By a simple ministerial decree, without the passage of any new law, or even reference to parliament, the Austrian Cabinet has stopped the emigration of youths and men under the age of thirty-four. They will not be permitted to cross the frontier unless they can produce a passport, and the local authorities have received strict instructions to issue such papers only to applicants who can prove that they have performed their military service, including the full term in the reserve, and have been passed into the "Landsturm," the last line of reserves for home defense. This really means twelve years of service for the average man.

The decree promises to be even more sweeping in its effects than would at first sight appear. It applies not only to bona fide emigrants leaving their native land for the United States or Canada, possibly intending to remain away for many years, but it will also prevent many thousands of farm laborers from going to Germany for field work and harvest as has been the custom every summer. And further, since the decree makes no mention of any exceptions it is supposed that waiters, tailors, mechanics and other workers who want to go abroad to complete their trade education will no longer be able to do so. For at the age of thirty-four a man has usually contracted family and business ties which effectually prevent him from leaving his native land.

The new regulation apparently has been made because the military authorities recently discovered, when the recruiting levies were called up, that more and more of the young men entered on the rolls had gone to foreign parts. It was this which first led to the investigation of the steamship companies' emigration activities.

Whilst this sudden and drastic restriction of emigration will effect to some extent the whole monarchy, certain provinces will feel it more acutely than others, notably Galicia, one of the most densely populated lands in Europe, with its large peasant population eking out the barest subsistence on a barren soil. The country being entirely too poor to support this population, thousands of peasants go to work on the beet farms of Saxony and the cornlands in Germany every year and thousands of others go still further afield to America and Canada. But every fall the laborers return to their homes from Germany and in the course of a few years many also come back from America to their native land. All bring money with which they buy stock and whenever possible land. In fact, there are now districts in Galicia where the soil is gradually passing out of the hands of the great landed proprietors into the possession of peasants.

There are other parts of Austria where home conditions are so unfavorable that the people are forced to seek a livelihood elsewhere. In Northern Moravia and Silesia, in the Bohemian forest and in the Erz Mountains there are districts where the utmost poverty prevails and thousands of young men leave their homes every year to escape what is practically a state af starvation.

The ministerial decree threatens to stop this most necessary outlet for labor and thereby to entail an enormous amount of unnecessary suffering and hardship. Coming just at this time it is especially severe when the whole monarchy is groaning under the heavy depression in trade and industry consequent on the recent war crisis.

The Social Democratic party is exceedingly indignant at what it terms the arbitrary and illegal action of the Cabinet and accuses the government of acting in the interests of the agrarians who complain that they are no longer able to get sufficient labor for their farms. The Social Democrats declare that such procedure is only possible in Austria whose true constitution is anarchy.

A NEW EXPLOSIVE.

Powder Invented in France More Powerful Than Any Previously Made and Is Also Cheaper.

[New York Times:] Eugene Turpin, the inventor of melinite, so long used in the French army and navy, has come forward with a new explosive, which, he declares, is not only more powerful than melinite, but is cheaper and will stand a temperature of 158 degrees Fahrenheit without ignition.

The French War Office has already appointed a commission to experiment with the new explosive, which is in the form of a gray powder—a precipitate—whose combustion may be regulated so as to be serviceable in various arms by having it compressed in masses of various shapes and sizes—cubes, spheres, cones, etc.

In an interview with a representative of Le Petit Parisien, the inventor would only say that it contained no nitrocellulose, left no deposit in the bore of rifle or cannon, and could not be spontaneously exploded at less than a temperature of 482 degrees Fahrenheit.

While conversing with the reporter the inventor placed a pinch of the powder in a saucer and attempted to ignite it by gradually bringing a match near it. Only when the flame actually reached it was it ignited, when it burned with a bright, white light, without any smoke, and leaving just a trace of fine white powder as the result of the combustion.

Sayings of Children.

[Chicago News:] A change of tenors had been made in the church choir. Upon little Lola's return from morning service she exclaimed: "Oh, mamma, they've got a new terror in the choir!"

"Do you ever see the President?" asked Willie of his uncle who lived in Washington.

"Yes, nearly every day," was the reply.

"And does he ever see you?" queried the little fellow.

One day Stella accompanied her mother on a shopping tour. They sighted the candy department in a large store, and Stella said:

"Mama, I'm afraid you'll have to buy me some peppermints—I feel awfully faint."

We Announce a Most Unique First Annual Introductory

Sale Open Stock Dinnerware

$7.50 Worth of Any of Our 56 Stock Patterns for $3.75

A Three-Day Sale

—Never, to our knowledge, in the history of Los Angeles, has a more remarkable sale of Dinnerware been announced.
—There may have been times when you could secure one, two or more patterns at a reduction when certain lines were to be discontinued.
—But to have the opportunity of choosing from any one of our celebrated 56 patterns. Any piece or pieces you desire, up to $7.50 worth for $3.75.
—It is a conceded fact that the Broadway has a really wonderful stock of dinnerware patterns, designs that are artistic and chosen with the greatest care and discrimination.
—Perhaps you are already "filling in" from one of these 56 patterns. This sale will give you the opportunity of buying perhaps the very pieces you need and up to $7.50 worth for $3.75.
—Dinnerware from France, from Germany, from Austria, from England and America's best potteries.
—It's our intention to make this an annual event. It has been planned with the definite purpose of having you become better acquainted with the variety, extensiveness and beauty of this dinnerware stock.
—This introductory special will apply on $7.50 worth only, although you may purchase more of the dinnerware if you desire. And this $7.50 worth for $3.75 will be allowed only once to a customer. Brightlight Basement.

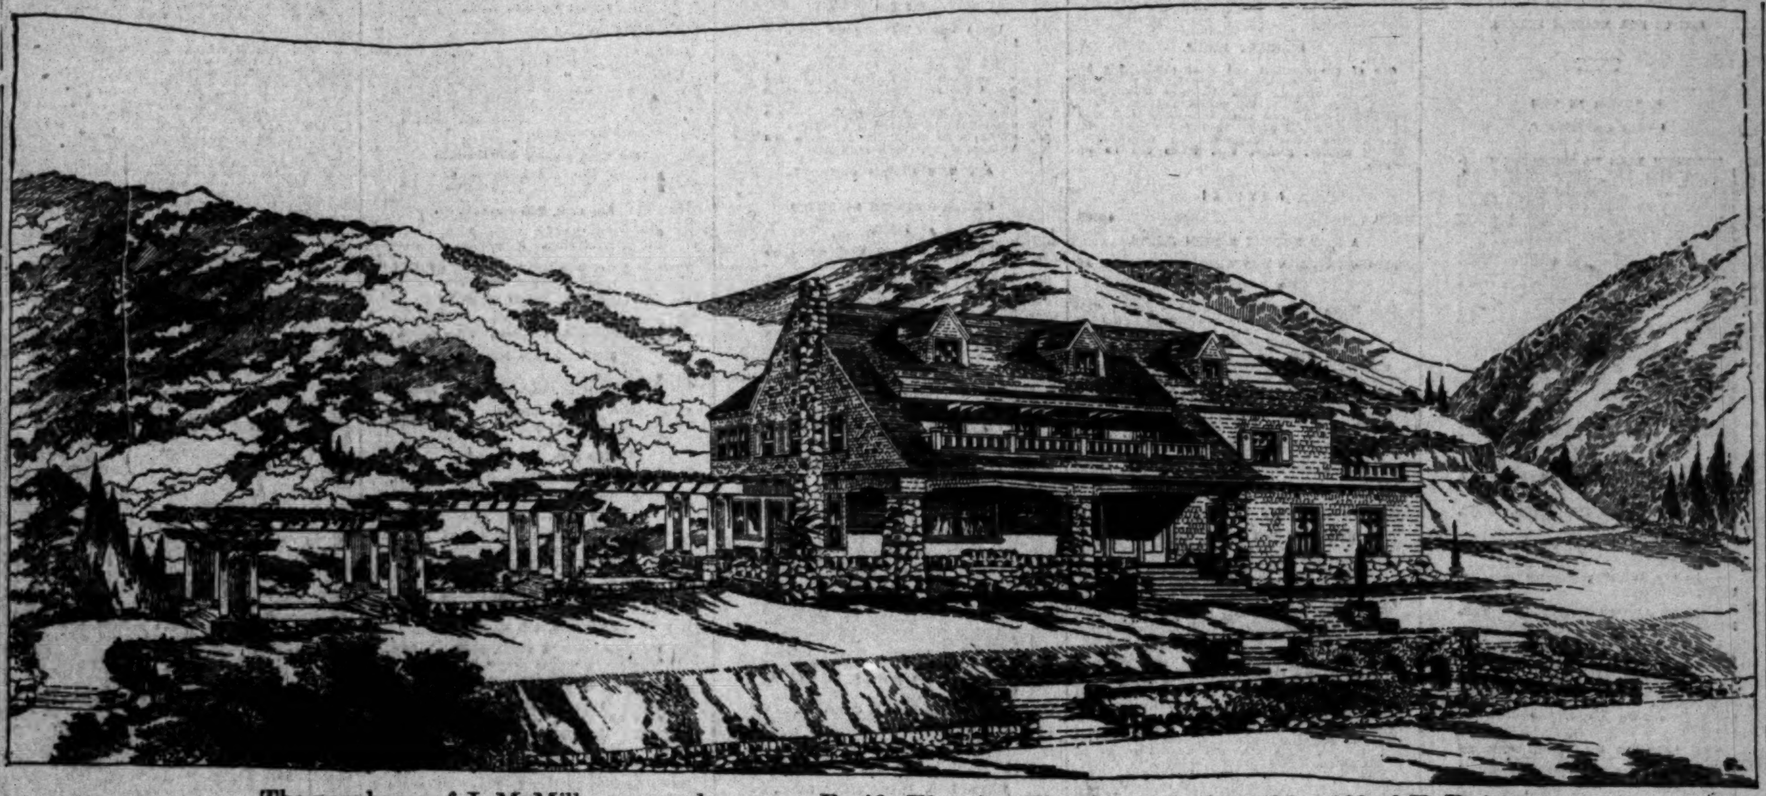
The Realty Market
SURVEY OF THE BROAD FIELD

Los Angeles Sunday Times

Part V: 18 Pages
THE EVER-HIGH TIDE.

XXXIIIRD YEAR. SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 26, 1914. THE MART: { Transactions in Houses and Lots. Bargains in Blocks and Squares.

Picturesque Estate of Local Railway Man in Foothills of North Glendale.



The new home of J. McMillan, general manager Pacific Electric. The place was planned by Alfred F. P riest.

FACT AND COMMENT.

Clean-up week in Los Angeles was somewhat lost sight of in the thrill that resulted from the inauguration of what might rather patly be called the "clean-up week" in Vera Cruz; but, notwithstanding the distracting influence of the events incident to the incipient war, there is reason to believe that this city as a whole is much more presentable than it was a week ago. Clean-up operations were everywhere in evidence throughout the week, and, although precious little attention has been paid by newspaper readers to civic matters or anything else not directly or indirectly pertaining to the fracas with Mexico for several days, it was apparent that the publicity previously accorded to the subject of brushing up the city had already been pretty well driven home. The war on dirt and unkemptness resulted in the rout of these foes of good municipal housekeeping in many quarters.

Clean-up week was a good idea. Clean-up year would be a greater. The broom and paint-brush brigades made a good beginning during the past few days, but that was about all. The city isn't as clean and neat as it should be even yet. Some of the dirt was missed and some of it was swept under the furniture, as it were, which is to say that the job in too many instances was only half-done. The back yards need cleaning as well as the front yards. Too many, it is to be feared, only made a showing.

It is highly creditable not only to individuals, but to the city, that as much was done as seems to have been accomplished, but honesty would compel one to observe that a city which needed a housecleaning as badly as did Los Angeles cannot be renovated and put in apple-pie order in one week. It will take many weeks to put all the neglected property in Los Angeles into proper condition and constant attention to keep it there. The Fact and Comment has dwelt upon the advisability of cleaning up Los Angeles so many times in the past that it would be needless repetition to go over the many and vital reasons for doing so.

—o—

Value of Planting.

Of equal importance with the clean-up movement is the effort being expended by The Times and other agencies to induce people to beautify their places with roses and other plants, shrubs and trees. Nothing that could be imagined would make a more lasting impression upon the visitors who will come here next year than that they should find Los Angeles one great bower of roses. The Times has already started the good work by distributing thousands upon thousands of bushes, representing many of the best varieties of roses that thrive in this region and is supplementing this by giving away countless packages of seeds of all kinds of plants.

It is possible in this climate and with the soil that is to be found here to accomplish in the briefest time results in gardening and planting that would baffle the belief of the average easterner. There is ample time between now and the time the exposition year crowds begin to throng to the Pacific Coast in which to carry out a general planting programme that would literally transform the city into a mass of color.

It is a fact (an almost shameful fact, it strikes the Fact and Comment man,) that the residents of Los Angeles have collectively and as individuals so neglected the unique opportunity they have had of thus beautifying their city. It is never too late to mend, however, especially in Southern California, where plant life with the least chance and encouragement, thrives in beauty and profusion unrivaled in any other part of the world. As one of the members of the [illegible] Exposition Year Entertainment Committee put it the other day, "there are oceans of time in which to plant millions of roses and other flowers and get them to growing to perfection, if the people generally can only be persuaded to get started at it."

The suggestion that the main-traveled county good roads be bordered with rose hedges is one of the best yet offered and is to be commended to the Board of Supervisors, who are known to favor any feasible plan looking to the beautification of these highways. It will cost money for clippings and the labor of planting them, but the funds will be well spent, if the plan meets with official approval.

TRADES FOR GROVE.

REDLANDS, April 25.—Charles G. Patterson of Los Angeles has sold a fifteen-acre orange grove in the Loma Linda section to John H. Alder of this city. Alder gave as part payment the Alder home at Cajon and Clark streets. The combined value of the properties is about $40,000. The grove is a good producer and is planted to navels and sweets. It carries 120 shares of the Bear Valley Mutual and ten shares of the Bear Valley extension pipe line stocks. The lot on which the house stands has an eighty-foot frontage on Cajon street.

OPENS OWN OFFICES.

J. Fred Gale, a member of the Aronson-Gale Company since its inception seven years ago, has disposed of his interest in that company and entered the field for his own account at No. 712 H. W. Hellman building. He will conduct a general investment and brokerage business.

OFF FOR EAST.

Fred Forrester, secretary and general manager of the Angeles Mesa Land Company, will leave Los Angeles on April 29 for a two months' trip through the east, combining business with pleasure. He will be accompanied by his wife and children.

OVERLOOKS VALLEY.

New Home of Railway Official in North Glendale Foothills Has Commanding and Picturesque Site.

One of the most attractive places yet laid out in the picturesque foothill district of North Glendale is the residence estate of J. McMillan, general manager of the Pacific Electric Railway. The house itself has been completed and landscape architects are now putting the finishing touches to the grounds, extensive terracing being a feature of the general scheme.

The dwelling was planned by Alfred F. Priest of Los Angeles, and suggests in its lines the Dutch colonial types. It is eight-five feet wide, sixty-four feet deep and contains twenty rooms, ten on the first floor, nine on the second and a billiard-room in the attic. There is a basement under the entire building. The construction is of frame, the walls and roof being shingled. The masonry work is treated with cobblestones. The finish of the main rooms is in quartered oak, the upstairs being in white enamel, with mahogany trim.

The house is situated at the corner of Louise and Mountain streets and fronts to the south, overlooking the whole of the Glendale Valley. It is set well back from the street lines in an orange grove. The property comprises in all about twenty-five acres and contains several wooded canyons. The owner has developed water from springs on the place. A garage and a building for the servants stand back in one of the canyons.

SKETCHES PREPARED.

Sketches have been drawn by George W. Eldredge for a twelve-story reinforced concrete hotel building now being promoted by Strong, Dickinson & McGrath for a site in the vicinity of Fourth and Olive streets. The building, as planned, would contain about 400 rooms. It is being designed as a hostelry for working girls.

Phoenix-Like.

NEW MARYLAND TO LOOK LIKE OLD.

NEXT STRUCTURE, HOWEVER, TO BE FIREPROOF.

Architect Rushing Plans for Projected Hostelry to Replace Blaze-Stricken Pasadena Hotel—To Retain General Character of Former Building.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, April 25.—Undaunted by the fire which a week ago reduced the beautiful Hotel Maryland to a smoldering heap of ashes and charred beams, the Maryland Hotel Company is bending every effort toward perfecting financial arrangements for the erection of a new and greater hostelry which it hopes soon to be able to start on the blackened site of the famous caravansary. Those in charge of the project report satisfactory results thus far and express the belief that the business side of the enterprise will be fully attended to within a short time. Meanwhile, plans for the proposed new Maryland are being rushed ahead by the architect, Myron Hunt of Los Angeles.

In rebuilding the Maryland, Manager D. M. Linnard is determined to retain as much as is practicable of the character of the old building. The new hostelry will be of fireproof construction and a story higher than the old, but it will follow the same architectural lines and will be reminiscent in many ways of the building that was destroyed. The guests of the Maryland have had a lot to say about the planning and they have, without exception, begged the management to change the design of the structure as little as is consistent with the greater safety which is demanded.

The bedroom portion of the former building was two stories high; that of the new hotel will be three. The front on Colorado street will be lifted to provide space for small shops, giving the building a main elevation of five stories. The arrangement along Los Robles street will be slightly different. It will be the same with the interior, the change being scarcely noticeable, excepting for the increased roominess. The finish will be simple, as before.

BUNGALOW SALES.

Bungalow sales aggregating $42,000 since April 1 are reported by C. A. Harshbarger, manager of the bungalow department of Robert Marsh & Co. Following is the list of sales: John Pflueger, No. 1900 West Forty-second street, $4000; Geraldine Parker, No. 1861 West Forty-first drive, $3650; R. D. Wilson, No. 1848 Santa Barbara street, $4250; Beulah M. Lannig and James O. Davenport, No. 2002 West Forty-first street, $3650; Jennie B. Gebauer, No. 3700 Arlington street, $4250; Frank O. Fernald, No. 2010 West Forty-first street, $3800; Henry J. Moore, No. 1042 West Fifty-first street, $4100; Charles W. Alexander, No. 2032 West Forty-first drive, $3800; Charles C. Putnam, No. 3867 La Salle avenue, $3500, and Charles C. Davies, No. 3701 Arlington street, $7000.

SELL INDUSTRIAL SITES.

Leading Realty Firm Signalizes Entrance Into New Field of Activity by Closing Important Deals.

Strong, Dickinson & McGrath have established a department devoted exclusively to the handling of industrial properties. George M. SoRelle, who for ten years has been identified with the industrial developments of Los Angeles and who is chairman of the Los Angeles Realty Board Committee on industrial property, has taken charge of this department. Assisting him will be Lyston S. Black.

Through SoRelle's department is reported the sale during the week of 130x140 feet at the southeast corner of Bay street and Santa Fe avenue at a given consideration of $1 a square foot. Strong, Dickinson & McGrath represented the seller and J. W. Wilkinson the purchaser. It is understood that the site is to be improved with a large factory.

The northeast corner of Santa Fe and Faith streets has been sold through the same agency by the Los Angeles Soap Company to the Sommers-Lund Company, contractors, who will build immediately. Eighty feet on Cheney street, east of Santa Fe, has been sold by Charles Fisher to Edward T. Wheeler. J. H. Bullard has sold to Thomas R. Wood 120 feet on Santa Fe south of McPherson street. The Mosher & Roach Grain Storage Company has purchased through this department a site on East Thirty-eighth street in Vernon.

A syndicate was perfected during the week for the purchase of four acres adjoining the Griffin Car Wheel Company on one side and the Pioneer Paper Company on the other. Strong, Dickinson & McGrath are holders in this syndicate.

CLIFTON-BY-THE-SEA.

The Campbell-Bentley Company reports the following sales of lots in Clifton-by-the-Sea: Mrs. Emma Fay, Los Angeles, $3500; Brolaski & Craig, Redondo, $1925; Mrs. Electa Kochler, Los Angeles, $1050; E. M. Graham, Los Angeles, $800; Luxford & Quintival, Redondo, $950; Hannah Jackson, Los Angeles, $1000; Jerome Jefway, Los Angeles, $1300; Mrs. Jennie Jefway, Los Angeles, $1200; Hart Hurley, Los Angeles, $2250; Edgar W. Clayton, Los Angeles, $1050; Mrs. Mary E. Backus, Los Angeles, two lots, $2250; C. C. Madson, Los Angeles, $1100; Elizabeth Allic, Los Angeles, two lots, $2400; Mrs. Mary E. Helld, Los Angeles, $900; Mrs. Mary E. Foley, Los Angeles, $2500; Sarah Langstroth, Los Angeles, $1200; Walter Stevenson, Los Angeles, $975; Elizabeth Bahn, Los Angeles, two lots, $2000, and J. M. Richer, Los Angeles, $1000.

TO FORWARD CLAIMS.

People of Victor Valley to Hold Celebration at Victorville in Behalf of Reclamation Movement.

VICTORVILLE, April 25.—A petition has been made to Gov. Johnson to name May 9 as State reclamation day for the purpose of encouraging chambers of commerce, boards of trade, real estate organizations and other bodies to study the reclamation needs and possibilities of California and possibly to effect some central organization to present proper suggestions and demands to Secretary of the Interior Lane and the chiefs of the National Reclamation Bureau.

The suggestion of reclamation day originated with the Victorville Chamber of Commerce. Copies of a resolution setting May 9 aside for this purpose and calling upon all ministers of the State to preach a reclamation sermon on Sunday, May 10, have been sent all over the State and have brought many responses and indorsements.

Members of the Victor Valley Chamber of Commerce, the Victor Valley Club of Los Angeles, and the settlers of that vast territory have arranged a celebration to be held at Victorville in recognition of reclamation day and at that time they will formulate an urgent request that the Federal government make no delay in appropriating the sum of $15,000 for a preliminary survey of the water bed of the Mojave River and that this survey be followed by a Federal appropriation to build an adequate reservoir to impound the flood and storm waters that now go to waste.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

New Kerckhoff Building at Sixth and Los Angeles to Cost Nearly Half-Million Dollars.

The general contract for the construction of the projected eight-story Kerckhoff building at the northwest corner of Sixth and Los Angeles streets has been awarded to Weymouth Crowell. The structure, which will occupy a ground space of 142x121 feet, will adjoin the present Kerckhoff block at the northeast corner of Sixth and Main. Morgan, Walls & Morgan are the architects. The new building will cost complete about $400,000.

The structure will be of reinforced concrete construction, the street fronts being faced with ivory enamel brick and trimmed with terra cotta. The lobby is to be finished in Alaska marble. The corridors throughout will be in marble and tile. The interior woodwork will be of birch.

WILL MAKE HOME HERE.

J. Frank Bailey, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., has purchased for a given price of $7000 the nine-room residence of Charles I. Baxter at No. 2699 Orchard avenue and will make this city his permanent home. Charles C. Burnett of Charles C. Burnett & Co. represented both buyer and seller in this transaction. Burnett also reports the sale of a new seven-room bungalow for Philip Gresham to Mrs. M. A. Dowdall, the place being located at the corner of Hobart boulevard and Torrence street. The consideration is reported at $5000.

FOR WEST TENTH.

A contract has been let for the erection of a three-story brick apartment-house for Herman Gutterman at No. 1142 West Tenth street. The building will contain seventy rooms in two and three-room apartments. It will be 61x130 feet in size and will cost about $30,000. L. L. Jones is the architect.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY into each home.
It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.
We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.
We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Hermosa Beach and San Pedro, on easy terms.
We make no additional charge for our Architectural services if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.
Our REFERENCES are PEOPLE for whom we HAVE BUILT, who FREELY indorse us.
We make liberal building loans.
SPECIALS.

Home 10345. Phones Broadway 2468.

FOR SALE—

CHOICE LOT—$650.

One of the finest lots in Los Angeles for $650. Beautiful high ground. Fine soil—will raise anything. Every convenience in—cement sidewalks, curbs, electricity, water, gas and fine oiled street. 18 minutes from Main st. and good car service. It's a bargain and will not last long. Ask for B. D. PETERSON, 611 S. Hill st.

FOR SALE—BY OWNER. THAT IS THE REASON WHY I can make THESE PRICES. I AM THE SOLE OWNER! I bought several years ago when prices were low; I have no syndicate for whom I must make big dividends. I sell through my own office, saving another 20 or 25 per cent. for general selling agents. THAT'S WHY I can sell the very highest class property for ACTUALLY LESS MONEY than agents for syndicates must ask for lots in the most ordinary localities TWO to THREE TIMES the distance out. ONE LOOK over "MABERY HEIGHTS" will convince you that these magnificent large VIEW lots are from 50 to 100 per cent. LOWER PRICED than ANYTHING that can be compared. That's pretty strong, I know, but GO SEE FOR YOURSELF. My manager is at office on tract every afternoon, including Sunday. Any Hollywood car. H. N. MABERY, Owner, 600 Ferguson Bldg., Third and Hill. Broadway 2902. Tract, Wilshire 407.

FOR SALE— $800—ONEONTA PARK DISTRICT. LOTS $300 UNDER VALUE. This is the best buy in one of the most beautiful residence districts in Southern California. Am offering any one or all of these five lots at this ridiculous figure to close an estate quickly. 50x144, best of street work done, only twenty minutes out, high ground (elevation nearly 700 feet), with choice of seven car lines to city. In an already finely developed neighborhood, with beautiful homes all around. One block from new tourist hotel. Lies well above sidewalk, affording opportunity for terracing, and having magnificent view of mountains and valleys. Lots in very next block selling for $1100 to $2000. Every convenience. Just give me a chance to prove these bargains. Costs nothing to look. $800 each, only $50 down, $10 monthly. Phone for appointment. Owner, 850 SECURITY BLDG. Phone A3101.

FOR SALE—DON'T YOU REALIZE THAT THERE is MORE REAL MONEY TO BE MADE in the purchase of ONE CLOSE-IN CITY LOT—bought at the RIGHT PRICE—than in a block of "country land" sold under the guise of "industrial," "harbor" and other "sub-dub" that soon reverts to its "original state" of "just land." While "MABERY HEIGHTS" is open particularly to HOME BUILDERS, just the same—EVERY BUYER of these sightly, close-in sites is receiving additional value EVERY DAY, through those buyers who are improving with their $10,000 to $20,000 homes; $900 buys a REALLY GOOD 50-foot lot—fully improved—others, of course, higher, according to location, size, etc. Any Hollywood car, any afternoon, to ELZA AVE., 600 FERGUSON BLDG., mornings, week days.

SPECIALLY GOOD

OPENINGS FOR SOME

GOOD, PRACTICAL FARMERS.

We have good land in Southern California, some within six miles of Los Angeles city limits. All this land lacks, to be as good as the best, is

DEVELOPMENT, PLOWING

PLANTING AND GOOD CARE.

We have, for instance, 40 acres of fine alfalfa land, within 6 miles of Los Angeles city limits, short lift for water, close to paved boulevard into town, close to Pacific Electric line. To a GOOD FARMER who can invest the capital needed for a small pumping plant, and will plow and plant the land in alfalfa, we will make terms on this so easy that a little more than the usual rent for a few years will pay for it.

We have some choice farming and gardening lands, surrounded by highly developed and highly profitable farms and gardens and orchards, only a mile from Van Nuys, 1600 feet from Sherman Way Boulevard and the Pacific Electric line. A diligent man with some capital can make money developing this land.

We have other openings for good men who want to make their FARMING SKILL and their MUSCLE reinforce their capital.

FOR SALE—

DOS PALOS RANCHO.
ALFALFA AND FRUIT LANDS are the
CREAM OF THE SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY.

We offer in parcels to suit, 15,000 acres of the finest lands for the growing of alfalfa, dairying, fruit trees, grapes, olives, nuts and vegetables that can be found in the State of California.

It is located in Fresno county, about 55 miles west and a little north of the city of Fresno, being but three miles south of the station of Dos Palos on the Southern Pacific Railroad, and connected by excellent roads, giving good transportation, freight, passenger and express facilities.

The soil of this tract is ideal in texture, being easily worked at practically any season of the year. It is a rich, deep, productive silt about 45 feet in depth and of great fertility as evidenced by the native growth, and further proved by the crops we are raising there, and the splendid growth of our planted fruit trees.

There is absolutely NO ALKALI, NO HARDPAN, NO ADOBE, on this tract. It lies as level as a floor with a fall of ten feet to the north and 6 feet to the south, making it ideal for irrigation. The cost of preparing for irrigation is thus nominal. The soil takes water easily, retains it a long time and the water table is low though to insure its never becoming waterlogged or sour.

We have a banner stand of alfalfa, planted last April 2nd, 13, yielding 7½ tons to date with another heavy cutting on the way.

Fruit trees of all varieties planted about the same time last year have made a strong, healthy growth.

We have fully demonstrated the water supply as ample as to quantity and excellent as to quality, developed by wells and pumped by electricity.

Experts who have but recently examined our tract report it as one of the finest they have ever examined in California or elsewhere.

We will sell tracts in any size, with or without water development, at very low prices compared with real values.

Call at our office for full information and to see soil and crop samples, or write for descriptive circulars and information.

This property will stand right up to our every representation, and will bear the strictest investigation.

If you are looking for the VERY BEST at today's low prices, on liberal terms, do not fail to look into our offer on this property. We will consider offers for large acreage on a basis that will be satisfactory to you.

INVESTIGATE THIS WITHOUT FAIL.

IT WILL PAY YOU.

Has carried 10,000 head of sheep and 1000 head of cattle; also 2000 acres of patented land, with water rights, which is used as a summer range on account of the water controls a large additional territory. One of the very best ranges in the State, having living streams the entire year.

$15 per acre—12,000 acres, 1½ miles from R.R. in Sacramento Valley. 1000 acres creek bottom land, about 5000 acres fair agricultural land, balance timber range. Irrigation: Very large rivers run through the land, from which 8000 acres can be irrigated. Improvements: 30 miles of fencing, with several sets of farming buildings. Power: High power extends across the tract. Climate: Unsurpassed. The tract is mostly surrounded by large fruit and alfalfa fields. Would make one of the best subdivisions in the State.

—SANTA CLARA VALLEY ORCHARDS—

$15,000—26½ acres, 4 miles from Santa Clara, 2 miles from Sunnyvale, in the very best part of the fruit section. Soil the best; plenty of water for irrigation. Solid prune orchard, full bearing, produces about $6000 per year. One of the very best orchards in Santa Clara county.

$56,500—56½ acres, 35 acres prunes, 10 acres walnuts, 9 acres in cots. Pumping plant, 60-h.p. motor. Splendid improvements. One of Santa Clara county's most productive orchards. Situated only about 3 miles from San Jose. Would exchange for good vacant land.

GOOD ALFALFA LAND

CHEAP PUMPED WATER

NO JOHNSON GRASS

ONLY $125 AN ACRE

EXCEPTIONAL TERMS

WILL TAKE LOS ANGELES

BUNGALOW IN EXCHANGE.

Did it ever occur to you that the alfalfa farmer with a pumped supply, pure water, short lift, entirely under his own control, had an enormous advantage over the man who got his water from a ditch?

Why? Because the pumped water is FREE FROM GRASS AND WEED SEEDS. FIND OUT what grass and weeds can do to an alfalfa field, and you will see the advantage.

We offer splendid alfalfa land, with a proven supply of pure water, short lift, close to railway station, town, etc., for only $125 an acre and give the easiest kind of terms. Will take Los Angeles residence property in exchange.

FOR SALE—
THE BIGGEST OPPORTUNITY IN

THE FAMOUS OJAI VALLEY.

BUY THIS AND GET RICH.

We offer today the best bargain we have ever had in this most popular and high-class district. 147 acres, 5 miles from Nordhoff, commanding a magnificent view of the whole valley; 40 acres in full-bearing lemons, 30 acres Navel oranges, 55 acres cleared and in hay; all splendid citrus land; comfortable ranchhouse with bath and plumbing, tenant-house, all necessary tools, equipment, wagons, etc., including 2 fine teams, value $500 each; ample water; good pumping plant; a place with tremendous possibilities as a home place, with fine income. Owing to family reasons, we are ordered to sell for $50,000, including everything; $15,000 cash, balance to suit. Raw land in this valley sells from $300 to $500 per acre, while here we have 70 acres in full-bearing citrus fruits, which, if well taken care of, would be worth $1500 per acre. The owner of this place has let it run down, and the oranges need fertilizing and careful treatment to restore them to first-class condition. The lemons are in good shape, almost 33 acres, first class, with a big crop of lemons now on the trees, which go with the place if sold at once. This ranch in the hands of competent parties can be made to produce $20,000 yearly, and should be worth in a few years $100,000, based on surrounding values. THE ALFRED E. GWYNN CO., exclusive agents, 1020 Marsh-Strong Bldg., Ninth and Main.

FOR SALE—1120 ACRES, LAKE TULARE LANDS, in Kings county, California. No better land in the State. FOR SALE—
SACRAMENTO VALLEY BARGAIN.

Situated in Colusa county, two miles from Colusa City on the main road to Williams, 872 acres of land that cannot be surpassed in the Sacramento Valley. This is made land, level and deep, with no hardpan. Can be irrigated from adjoining gravity ditch, or water can readily be developed on the place. This property is owned by the advertiser and several others, and as we are unable to agree upon a method of distribution, have decided to sell for eighty dollars per acre. It is typically adapted for alfalfa or any other crop that can be raised on alluvial soil, making it a first-class dairy or subdivision proposition. This is a true representation.

Further information and inspection of the property can be had by addressing DR. CHARLES KEANE, 2105 Second ave., Sacramento.

GOVERNMENT LAND—

FOR SALE—SPECIAL—

ACT IMMEDIATELY.
UNPRECEDENTED LAND-BUYING OPPORTUNITY.
50 CENTS AN ACRE.
FOR
U. S. GOVERNMENT CAREY ACT LANDS.

The opportunity to buy this land may be gone tomorrow—act now, and avoid disappointment. These lands under $1,000,000 irrigation system completed and in operation—good, proven alfalfa land, at only 50 cents an acre. State of Utah has limited price of water to $60 an acre—$7 per acre cash, and 13 years' time to pay the balance. For the land you pay only 25 cents an acre down, the remaining 25 cents an acre in three years.

Good schools, ready markets—in a settled district. Only 5 hours from Salt Lake City, and 20 hours from Los Angeles. Delightful climate, and good, pure water. Water from irrigation system ready for delivery to every acre open to settlement. No speculators wanted—come prepared to settle and establish yourself. By actual registered statistics this land should soon pay for itself. Fifteen tons of sugar beets to the acre have been raised here, as high as 50 bushels of wheat, and 100 bushels of oats from this land one year from the brush; $75 to $100 an acre netted from alfalfa seed; 260 bushels of potatoes to the acre the first year; $200 an acre would not buy this land from old California ranchers who have bought and settled here. Write or call at once for folder containing detailed information, testimonials, etc. Inquire about the special homeseekers' excursions leaving Los Angeles Wednesday and Saturday mornings, at 9 o'clock. Special rates will be given those applying at our offices. Remember, title to land is perfect, land passes from Federal government to State, and from State to settler. Don't overlook this opportunity. Use your Carey Act right NOW. We will be glad to give you testimonials from former California ranchers. Come into our offices today—look into this opportunity. Delay may mean disappointment.

WHERE CAN I FIND SOME GOOD GOVERNMENT LAND IN CALIFORNIA?
Thousands today are asking this question. Are you one? If so, we have the answer. We know where there is just the kind of land you want. A rich, deep, silty soil that will grow anything. Level as the floor. Healthful climate and water pure as a mountain spring. Only four hours from Los Angeles. This land is going by the thousands of acres. You can get it without living on it, but you'll have to be alive to get it. AIKEN & KIMBALL, 437 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Los Angeles.

MR. LAND SEEKER.
We have just returned from an inspection trip through one of the finest and most fertile valleys in Southern California, on the railroad; we can assist you in filing on land you cannot duplicate at the present time; you have thousands of acres to choose from in this valley, but they won't last long, so get in on the ground floor. We charge for services only.

WANTED—

NINE PER CENT. MONEY.

INTEREST AND PRINCIPLE GUARANTEED.

Unusual opportunity to place any part of $12,000 at 9 per cent., for 5 years, with real estate security to the amount of $50,000, deposited with the German-American Trust & Savings Bank. The principal is reduced monthly by cash payments at a rate that places the actual cash in the bank's possession for full redemption before the five years expire.

Can be taken in units of $100 or $500 up to the full amount.

Quarterly interest coupons attached to notes and payable on presentation at German-American Trust and Savings Bank. The annoyance of personal collection of interest payments is avoided, and a certainty of principal being paid on date it is due is assured. Agents protected. For particulars, see or write

HARBOR ITEMS.

The steamer Nebraskan of the American-Hawaiian fleet will be the last steamer to sail for this port from Salina Cruz, in all probability, until the Panama Canal is opened. The Nebraskan sailed for this port yesterday with refugees aboard and partial cargo of freight. The steamer Columbian, discharging a cargo of sugar from the Hawaiian Islands, sailed for Balboa to complete discharge for shipment over the Panama Railroad. The steamer Virginian is expected here tomorrow or Monday with cargo loaded at Salina Cruz. The Nebraskan, arriving next week, will probably be the last American-Hawaiian vessel arriving at this port for several weeks, and steamers will have to await the arrival of cargo at Balboa.

Lumber carriers arriving today were the steamers Santa Barbara from Willapa, Mandalay from Crescent City, and Marshfield from Albion. Departures in ballast were the Norwood for Gray's Harbor and Willamette for Portland, both to call at San Francisco with passengers.

The Union Oil tanker Oleum arrived today from Seattle in ballast and, after loading a cargo of crude oil, proceeded to San Diego.

Local Stock Market Activities

BY JNO. O. KNIGHT.

Just what effect the Mexican trouble will have upon the stock market and business in general is a much-discussed question these days. Ideas upon the subject differ, but majority opinion seems to favor the view that, after the first shock is over, the effect will be practically negligible.

Business is already running at a low ebb throughout the country, with only about enough being done in most lines to meet the absolute requirements of a large population. Established concerns are not attempting to branch out, and few new enterprises are being undertaken, a condition which the stock market's lack of animation faithfully reflects.

Whatever causes may have led up to this condition, it is at least certain that the long-drawn-out attempts at political regulation of business are not proving very efficacious in restoring normal industrial and financial activity. The unfortunate complications in Mexico will undoubtedly serve as a check upon chimerical legislation that is now being pressed by calling for attention to more real problems in other directions. Liquidation was apparently completed some months ago, and as soon as the handicap of political interference is withdrawn all lines of business should start toward a much delayed recovery.

Union Oil bonds gained two points on the week's trading. Producers' Transportation 5's also showed a firmer tone. All the bond issues allied with Union will be materially strengthened by the new financing which has been accomplished.

Action of Union Oil stock, following announcement of the closing of a deal with the English syndicate, furnished the surprise of the week in the local market. On the day the announcement was made trading amounted to less than 200 shares and the next day 30 shares only changed hands on the Stock Exchange. Failure of the market to respond to this news was undoubtedly due to confusion as to the actual terms of the deal. From the published statement of Treasurer Garrigues it was apparent that the English syndicate had purchased $15,000,000 of treasury stock at par. The following day, however, President Lyman Stewart was quoted in an interview as stating that this was not a net figure. In the meantime, trading in the stock apparently awaits more definite information.

Stocks and Bonds.

WAR PROSPECTS WEAKEN PRICES.

END OF FOREIGN SELLING RELIEVES PRESSURE.

Although Decline Is General, Net Losses Are Considerably Less Than Previous Day—Heaviness of Bond Market Reflects Disturbance Caused by Complications.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—There was further unsettlement of the stock market today. The movement was irregular and at times confused. While the downward movement was extended, net losses were considerably smaller than on the preceding day. The two main factors in the week's decline were the Mexican crisis and heavy foreign selling. Today these influences pulled against each other. Foreign pressure was relieved and American stocks in London for the first time in several days held fairly steady. On the other hand, the Mexican situation was as much of a disturbing force as before. Preparations for war and the reported assassination of Americans in Mexico seemed to increase the probability of a serious and protracted struggle and there was corresponding depression of sentiment. A comparison of last prices today with the close of last week shows that Canadian Pacific, Mexican Petroleum and Smelting lost about ten points each. St. Paul and the Harriman shares are about four points lower, but Reading and Steel show declines of only about two points. Fully as significant of the depressed state of feeling as the fall in stocks was the heaviness of the bond market today. Some of the prominent bonds lost a point or more. Southern Pacific convertible 5's, when issued, were sold heavily and went as low as 99½, compared with the subscription price of 100. Total sales of bonds, par value, $1,400,000. United States and Panama issues declined from one-half to two points on call on the week.

New York Cotton Market.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—Liquidation of May contracts, as notice day approaches was likely the cause of today's easiness, in the face of bullish advices from Liverpool, and is good evidence that the general market will be healthier if the cleaning-out process would continue. The possibilities on the long side are attracting more attention from day to day as it is recognized that tenderable cotton is very scarce and that the stock in New York is very desirable cotton and at the present difference between spot and futures could be disposed of to advantage, should any of the larger spot interests have control of it. Added to this, is the uncertainty concerning growing crop, as the trials through which it must pass in the near future are many.

SPEECH TO MOVING PICTURES!

Perfect Synchronism at Last Secured!

Hereafter the millions who daily throng the moving picture theaters in the United States (a careful estimate puts the average daily attendance at 7,200,000) will not have to sit through a dumb show.

The Actors Will Speak Their Lines in Their Natural Voices! The Pictures Will Be Alive!

The speaking pictures will create a sensation! These films should dominate the field. A disc record will record the voices, and through a new and patented method of recording will give the natural tones of the voice. These records will be sold, too, all over the world. They should be the best manufactured because the most natural.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET

War in Mexico is not affecting meat prices, at least not as yet and the packers have not started to plan for a shortage for the reason that quotations both on live stock and dressed meats have been declining. The drop reported yesterday is only fractional in beef and pork. Steers were marked off ¼ cent, which was also done with the price on bulls. Lambs and yearlings were marked a trifle lower. Through the list of dressed beef, the whole carcass and some of the second cuts selling from ¼ to ¾ cent a pound lower. Pickled plate beef showed a very decided drop, half barrels declining from $12.50 to $10.00 and whole barrels selling from $22.00, down to $19.00. Fresh loins, spare ribs and several other cuts were reduced in the pork list.

There was no great activity on the market in the morning, arrivals in fruits and vegetables being light. Receipts of eggs totaled 528 cases and the price here was steady on advices of an increase in quotations in San Francisco. Butter receipts were 51,280 pounds. The call for butter was fair and quotations steady. Cheese was still uncertain. Total arrivals were 3880 pounds and some sold at a fraction less than 15 on northern fresh.

Potato receipts were 2290 sacks and the strength early in the week on spuds was dissipated by the heavy arrival toward the end of the period. The demand was largely for new potatoes and this is helping to keep the quotation on arriving stock from local fields above the $3.00 mark. Onions are plentiful now and quotations steady. Receipts were 979 sacks.

There were 500 sacks of eastern beans reported in to augment the light supply of the white varieties still on the market. Only 66 sacks of sweet potatoes came in.

NEW WAREHOUSES.

Morgan, Walls & Morgan are preparing architectural plans for a four-story brick warehouse to be built for Mrs. S. H. Van Nuys at Pico and San Pedro streets. The building will occupy a ground space of 70x180 feet. Joseph F. Rhodes has drawn plans and has the contract for the construction of a four-story brick warehouse projected by Moritz Thomsen for the corner of Mimosa and Jesse streets. The building, which will cost about $40,000, will occupy a ground area of 80x140 feet.

FLOODS MADE BENEFICIAL.

Engineer Urges Underground Storage of Water.

Will Raise Water Table and Extend Cultivation.

Cost Small; Need Dams With Gravel Washes.

W. E. Pedley's proposal that Southern California solve its winter flood problem by putting the excess waters to beneficial use has struck a responsive chord in the breasts of all who cherish a constitutional antipathy to the waste of even one drop of the fluid on which so largely depends future extension of tillable acreage.

Pedley, who is a Riverside engineer of note, first broached his plan two weeks ago, before a noonday meeting of the Realty Board. Since then he has prepared figures to show that the flood water of the Los Angeles, Rio Hondo and San Gabriel rivers may be beneficially controlled for something under $1,000,000. This estimate is of course tentative, but is offered by Pedley to show that flood control need not be a money-eating enterprise calculated to strike terror into taxpayers' hearts.

Particular issue is taken by Pedley with the proponents of the outfall-ditch plan. Three indictments are returned against them. One is that they propose an economic waste of much-needed water; another that it will take millions—the lowest estimate is $5,000,000—to carry their plan into effect, and third, that the ditches they propose will not solve.

SAVE, NOT SPEND, MILLIONS.

"Not how to spend $5,000,000 to rid ourselves of floods, but how to save $5,000,000 and make as much again," is Pedley's slogan.

Pedley's plan, in brief, is to retard the flow of storm waters to the ocean by great gravel washes, which will absorb and hold the waters by the trillions of gallons for transmission into nature's underground reservoirs. From these the life-giving fluid will be drawn for plant growth either by nature's own medium of capillary attraction, or the various cunning devices by which man successfully unlocks the water-impregnated bowels of the earth.

A raising of the water table throughout the Southland is one of the desirable things which Pedley's plan assures. It is pointed out that not only will this assure water in drouth years, but that it is quite possible that acres can be profitably brought into cultivation which are now unfillable because of the great depth at which water must be sought.

Intercepting dams, constructed of ballast incased in wire bags, will be thrown across streams, according to the Pedley scheme. These dams will range from 1000 to 1500 feet in length, dependent on the stream and the place of crossing. These will be backed by boulder and gravel washes to provide a percolating surface, the size of which will be dependent on the amount of water it is most desirable to handle. The larger the number of dams, the greater must be the mean storage capacity of each wash.

SOAK UP ENTIRE FLOW.

The San Gabriel River, for instance, has attains a mean flow of 625,000 miner's inches. Pedley points out that 350 inches of water can be run per acre into a good gravel wash for a long interval. He prefers to cut these figures in two, however, which means that the entire flow of the San Gabriel River might be neatly tucked away in 1500 acres of good wash. This is, of course, mere theory; but, as Pedley points out, a diminution of floods, a skimming of the destructive top, would be assured.

Using the San Gabriel as an instance of the general tendencies of Southland streams, Pedley states that it issues from the mountains under a fall of seventy feet to the mile and at flood-tide brings down 40,000 wagonloads of dirt an hour, interspersed with boulders and gravel. When the fall of the river dwindles to one foot in the mile, as it does shortly after leaving its canyon, the boulders and heavier stuff immediately sink to the bottom. The gravel goes on further and is then precipitated, while the dirt, being the lightest of the detritus, naturally is carried farthest, though only a small percentage of it reaches the ocean.

As Pedley points out, this fine silt is the very article which we want to save. It is the material of which the valleys of the Nile and other fertile river acres were built. The rocks and gravel are the least desirable and could well be lost in the ocean. But they will not carry that far and for this reason Pedley foresees the failure of the open ditch plans.

FAILURE FORESEEN.

In fact, Pedley asserts, and is sustained in the belief by other engineers, that unless the fall of these outfall ditches is consistently fifty feet to the mile they will be inevitably choked by the first storm flow. The boulders and gravel will drop to the bottom and before long a drift or bar will form which will operate to cut the velocity of the stream and when this is cut disaster to the ditches will follow. High tides will also operate to back up the water, while there will always be the danger that shoals will form at the ditch mouths and ere long the harbor will find itself drifting seaward behind a delta. Naturally if the outfall ditches are carried to outlet at any place in proximity to the harbor, the government will look askance at the venture, may even interpose a restraining hand before the ditch plans have gotten under way.

As the Board of Supervisors now has a commission of engineers studying the flood control problem and the government is interested because of the vast amount of silt which is discharged into the harbor by the Los Angeles River during floods, Pedley's plan is timely, particularly as he has for years been studying conditions along the San Gabriel River. Incidentally, Pedley's plan has many points of similarity to one proposed to the Supervisors last year by Frank H. [illegible]

POLITICAL TIPS.

"What is the secret of President Wilson's influence with Congress," was recently asked by the Washington correspondent of Harper's Weekly. Among the replies was one by a Senator, who said: "The fact is that Woodrow Wilson is stronger with the people of any Congressional district and of any State than the Representative from that district or the Senators from that State, and we all know it." This answer does not answer since the Congressional election in New Jersey, when a Democratic majority was changed to an overwhelming one for the Republican candidate. Harper's Weekly will have to ask again.

The election officials of Arlington, Wis., settled the election for a "wet" or "dry" town in the most economical manner. A recount of the votes cast showed two more in the box than there were voters, so, by agreement, as the count showed 71 "dry," 70 "wet," with three blanks, it was decided to leave the issue to chance and to allow a blindfolded man to draw out two votes. When this was done the two ballots drawn from the box were both "drys," leaving Arlington "wet" by a vote of 70 to 69.

E. D. Bush of Salem, Ind., was one of the original members of the Progressive party of his State, but was one of the first to return to the Republican fold, when he believed the Progressive party had served its purpose. Last week Mr. Bush was first chosen to preside over the Washington County Republican Convention and later on was indorsed for the Third District Congressional nomination by the convention. The district is now represented in Congress by a Democrat.

The action of the Elections Committee of the House of Representatives, which has reported to the House a resolution declaring that it is not a violation of the Federal criminal code for a Senator or Representative to solicit or receive contributions for political purposes from other Senators and Representatives or to solicit such contributions by letters written in the Senate or House office buildings has opened the way for political solicitations of a radical nature. All the Democratic members want a re-election.

Mr. Bryan has adopted a black silk skull cap to protect his bare head from ordinary winged insects. The Memphis Commercial Appeal asks whether a black silk skull cap is also a specific against the sting of the Presidential bee.

Gov. Hooper of Tennessee, one of the few Republican Governors below the Mason and Dixon line, has just been nominated for a third term. The chief argument the Memphis Commercial Appeal can make against his re-election is that he "should be beaten because he is a Republican and Tennessee should be Democratic."

Cone Johnson, the new solicitor of the State Department, is said to be one of the great lawyers of the State of Texas. Nevertheless he is willing to work for the government for $5000 a year. He may have brought with him to Washington a few Chautauqua lectures for which, like his superior, he expects to get $250 per.

The government's war upon the New Haven and other railroad combinations has put a crimp in the finances of the missionary societies. The Congregational Home Missionary Society, which handles $600,000 yearly, pulled through with a surplus of only $500, which is far below normal, and the Baptist Home Missionary Organization ran a deficit of $31,000 up to $72,000.

Referring to the loss of a Democratic Congressman in New Jersey, the New York World says: "The Democrats will lose a great many Congress districts next fall if the Democratic leaders in both houses of Congress do not soon have some sense knocked into their heads. This country cannot live by politics alone. It is still necessary for several million people to earn their daily bread, and they want a chance to earn it."

The Progressive State convention of Indiana adopted a dry plank, and announced that Albert J. Beveridge, former United States Senator, was the unanimous choice of the convention as the party's candidate for United States Senator. As Mr. Beveridge did not voluntarily retire from the Senate, to which he had been twice elected as a Republican, he readily accepted this indorsement of the Progressive convention.

Kansas voters will have two chances to elect women to Congress at the next election. Mrs. Eva Morley Murphy of Goodland, has announced herself a Progressive candidate in the Sixth District, and now Mrs. Emma W. Grover of Winfield, says she will seek election to Congress in the Third District as a Prohibition candidate. Mrs. Grover's announcement means a five-cornered fight in the district now represented by Phil P. Campbell, a Republican.

Representative J. Hampton Moore says Mr. Bryan has given to his paper, The Commoner, for publication, information that he has not sent to the House of Representatives for consideration with the tolls repeal legislation. He has, therefore, in a resolution presented to Congress, asked Mr. Bryan to send The Commoner article to Congress, that the members may have the benefit of the information it contains, which they now do not possess. The Secretary of State is evidently a better editor than diplomat, and knows an "exclusive" when he sees it.

A cure for political indifference is announced by J. D. E. Morton, chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Tennessee. Speaking recently about the coming State convention, he said that if the bosses, great and small, will take back seats and let the Democratic voters run the State convention to suit themselves, the indifference in the party ranks will disappear and a victory can be won next November. He thinks this will put enough enthusiasm into the Democratic voters to change the State from the Republican to the Democratic column.

Race-track gambling is contrary to law in Oklahoma, and the law will be respected while Gov. Cruce remains in office. Having learned that "bookmaking" was being indulged in he placed the Tulsa fair grounds under martial law, ordered two companies of the National Guard to the locality, with orders to shoot the horses if any further "bookmaking" occurred. The orders of Adjt.-Gen. Canton being ignored by the fair managers, a volley was fired by the militiamen as proof that the men had guns that would shoot. There were no more races on the Tulsa track, and the race meet came to an end. Now the Governor is overwhelmed with letters from the opponents of horse racing commending him for his course.

"MEX" AGAIN SLUMPS.

Break of Four Points in Stock of Doheny Compdnny Once More Occurs—Small Rally Follows.

Common stock of the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., again developed decided weakness during the early part of the session yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange. The opening price, ⅛ point under the previous day's close, was $55, and following this there was a decline to $51. Toward the close a small reaction, due principally to covering by shorts, occurred. Closing quotations were $52.12½ bid at $52.25, as compared with $55 bid at $55.50 the previous day.

The only tangible cause for the decline, aside from the critical situation in Mexico, was a vague rumor that some of the company's oil tanks near Tampico had been blown up. Officials of the Doheny company in this city state that they have received no advices from the property concerning such a happening.

A telegram received by them from Galveston stated that some of the American employees had arrived at that city with their families, they having deemed it safer to take the women and children away from the properties, under the present circumstances. A few Americans and a number of well-trained Mexicans are still at the property, it is stated.

The common stock of the company is now about 11 points lower than it was a week ago. April 13, the day before President Wilson ordered the Atlantic fleet to leave for Mexico, the highest price at which the stock sold was $65.25. A week ago Saturday the stock closed $63.50 bid at $64. The preferred stock closed yesterday with the bid $73, as compared with $75 bid April 14.

BOUNTIFUL CROPS IN THE WEST.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS STEADILY IMPROVING.

Southern Pacific Issues Monthly "Business Report," Compiled from Many Sources—Mining Taking on New Life—Lumber Men Decidedly Optimistic.

Comforting assurances of increases in the cultivated area, bountiful crops, and improving business conditions on the Pacific Coast are contained in the April "business report" of the Southern Pacific, issued yesterday. This "report" is compiled from tabulations by the company's many agents on business conditions in their various territories and is accepted as authoritative the country over.

"Very large crops are assured in Southern California," says the report. "Grain and hay crops will probably be sufficient for local consumption. Estimate of 35,000 cars of oranges still stands. Celery crop over 2000 cars. Cotton acreage now estimated at 60,000, against 25,000 acres last year. The cantaloupe crop will run over 5000 cars, the production of beans, judging from the acreage, should be 2700 cars, as against 2300 cars last year; while the sugar beet acreage is about the same, and all seven sugar mills will run."

Conditions in the San Joaquin Valley are denominated as "more favorable than they have been for years, due to heavy rainfall and the assurance of ample water for irrigation from the snows in the mountains. An unusual amount of land is planted to grain, due to abundant rains, and the orchards in fine condition. Large yields along the Coast are assured, while stock ranges are in fine condition. Much planting of prunes and apricots in the Santa Clara Valley is reported."

Good crops and increased acreage are reported from Nevada and Utah, while Arizona and New Mexico crops are reported as unusually flourishing. In all four States, merchants are stated to be looking forward to an unusually good year, because of activity in mining and agriculture.

"Mining operations in California are going on steadily and increased output is expected this year," says the report. Activity in both old and new fields is reported from Nevada and Arizona.

Lumber shipments from the Sierra and Shasta regions of California are reported as quiet at present, but extensive shipments are expected soon. In Oregon the mills report better conditions and unusually bright prospects.

Death Halts Plans.

The death of Frederick W. Weyerhaeuser, the lumber king, is understood here to have put a check on plans to build a railroad into the Kaibab and Grand Canyon National forests for the purpose of bringing out lumber, which the Department of the Interior has offered for sale. According to reports, the Weyerhaeuser interests were to be the only bidders for this timber. As the nearest railroad stations are Modena, on the Salt Lake, and Marysville, on the Denver and Rio Grande, both more than 100 miles away, the lumber king, it is understood, contemplated the construction of a railroad from either one or the other of these stations.

MARVELS OF MEXICO.

Snapshots at Romantic Places in Troublous Country.

"The shape of Mexico is that of a cornucopia turned the wrong way, and the relatively slow development of the extraordinarily rich region embraced within its borders emphasizes the simile."

Thomas A. Janvier said that more than twenty years ago, and it is just as true today as it was then. Speaking generally, Mexico, except for a narrow rim of land upon its coasts, is an enormous ridge, raised by volcanic force between two oceans, the Atlantic and the Pacific. The great traveler Humboldt, who could draw a long bow with facility equal to that of a modern muckraker, ventured on a flight of fancy by saying that a wagon could be driven all the way along the elevated plateau from the City of Mexico to Santa Fe. So it could but, as Janvier says, the driver would have a desperately up and down time of it. Mexico City, for example, is 7300 feet above sea level. The National Railroad of Mexico, while running from there to Queretaro, where the Emperor Maximilian was executed, ascends to 8100 feet at Marquez and descends to 5904 feet at Queretaro. It crosses the Tropic of Cancer at an altitude of 6132 feet and is still at an elevation of 5900 feet when it enters Catorce, the city of the fourteen robbers. It takes a jump to 6860 feet before it reaches the battlefield of Buena Vista where Gen. Taylor's troops defeated the force of Santa Ana in the previous war between the United States and Mexico. At Saltillo, the home of one of Mexico's most famous heroines, the road runs at an elevation of 5240 feet but by the time Monterey, seventy miles distant, is reached, the altitude is only 1770 feet and from there it is down hill all the way to Laredo, Tex., which is 492 feet above the sea.

American troops may be obliged to make the journey from Laredo to Mexico City. If they do they will pass through a country which was full of marvels even before the Pilgrim Fathers landed in America. Leaving Texas by way of the bridge across the Rio Grande the railroad runs along the old San Antonio trail, the king's highway which was infested with bandits in the early days and later was the line of march for United States armies in the war of 1846.

Monterey, 172 miles south of Laredo, dates from 1596, and although the home of a considerable American colony, is still essentially Mexican. It was captured by Gen. Taylor in the forties. As the capital of the State of Nuevo Leon it is considered the second city of commercial importance in the southern republic. Near here are the famous Garcia Caves with the "Room of Light," the "Chamber of the Lake," a "Girl's Room", the "Room of the Broken Heart" and the "Chamber of the Bells." It has been asserted that the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky is no more to be compared with these wondrous caverns than a peon's hut with the Castle of Chapultepec.

Continuing southward from Monterey the troops will be carried up a steep climb to romantic Saltillo, the capital of the State of Coahuila, which once included Texas. This, too, dates back to the sixteenth century and is famous for its manufacture of serapes, which the Mexicans use as a cloak by day and a blanket by night. Here lived the beautiful Dona Leona Vicaio, inheritor of a vast fortune, who fell in love with her guardian's clerk and with him went over to the cause of Hidalgo, the father of Mexican independence. She was captured by the loyalists, sentenced to death, and rescued by her lover the night before she was to have been executed. Instead of going to the gallows she was led to the altar.

Still going upward the troop train will ascend from Saltillo and advance into the great plateau of Central America, coming to Catorce, a city with streets so steep and winding that for 100 years neither wagon nor cart, nor stage nor bus, nor other wheeled vehicle was known to traverse them. Here the fourteen bandits had their stronghold and discovered rich deposits of silver which they made slaves work.

Polo Aids a King.

[Indianapolis News:] The King of Spain engages with great enthusiasm in all out-door sports, but he is especially devoted to polo. Following the latest attempt on his life the young King said to some of his companions: "When I saw that fellow coming toward me I threw my horse upon him as quickly as possible. If I had not been a good polo player I should never have been able to do that trick. All at once I saw before me three dark holes—the two eyes of the man and the muzzle of his pistol. But when I fixed my eyes on his I felt that he was more afraid of me than I was of him. He had not yet, as have I, familiarized himself with attacks." The people of Spain are beginning to see in their King that quality of bravery out of which national heroes are made.

New York Curb Stocks.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—A cut of 10 cents in Central West crude oil prices was announced today. Stocks were weak during most of the session, but rallied slightly at the close. Standard of New York, California and Indiana were active at times. Continental broke at the close. In the mining list Braden and Greene Cananea were the features, the latter declined to 21⅛ as a result of the situation in Mexico. Boston coppers opened fractionally lower and active. Prices softened somewhat during the early part of the session. Greene Cananea broke 5⅝ points, transactions were of the odd-lot kind. Alaska sold off 1⅛ points, the volume of business was good. The market continued active and weak until the last half hour when there was small covering movement in the weaker stocks. While trading in the others fell off the market was fairly active at the close.

Boston Copper Stocks.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury Building, Los Angeles.]

BOSTON, April 25.—Stocks continued weak today. Fear caused considerable liquidation. Stocks of companies that have properties within Mexico showed the largest decline. In the local list Greene Cananea was the weakest feature, selling down to 21⅛, due to the execution of a few market orders and the catching of stop orders.

CORN MARKET BOOMS AGAIN.

PRICES CLOSE BUOYANT AFTER BIG ADVANCE.

Shorts Badly Scared by News that Torrential Rains in Argentina Affect the Crop—Wheat Shows Good Gains Due to Firmness in Liverpool.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 25.—Sudden restriction of supplies from Argentina brought about great activity and strength today in the corn market here. Prices closed buoyant at ½ to 1⅝@1¾ net advance. Wheat and oats gained ⅝ to ⅝@½c. In provisions the outcome varied from 2½ decline to an advance of 15c. Renewal of torrential rains, adversely affecting the quality of 70 per cent. of the Argentine crop, seemed to put an entirely different face on the corn market. Shorts were given a decided scare. Wheat rose with corn and as a result of firmness at Liverpool due largely to arrivals being scanty at Russian ports. Oats sympathized with the rally in other grain. Buying of an investment character was noticeable in the deferred futures. Most of the rise in provisions was laid to the influence of war contracts.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Union Oil Drops a Point—Union Transportation Bonds Traded in With Market Firm.

Union Oil again revealed a falling off yesterday on the Stock Exchange. All sales were at $73, a loss of 1 point from Friday. The bonds were not quite so firm. Union Transportation fives sold at 92½, however. Associated continues soft in tone. Among the low-priced oil issues Maricopa Northern was the principal attraction: it closed at 8 cents. United sold at 22 cents. It is reported that the Miocene Oil Company on a tract leased from the National Pacific on the well-known Section Thirty-two, has brought in well No. 2 flowing wild. The production was estimated at 10,000 barrels or more Friday. Consolidated Mines will make its monthly clean-up today. Los Angeles Investment stock opened at 70 cents, but firmed at the close, when 71 was bid for the stock.

To Voters.

MORE MILLIONS MUST FOLLOW.

Power Bond Issue Inadequate, Say Taxpayers.

People Will Vote It Down, Declares Mesmer.

Time to Call a Halt on Foolish Extravagance.

That the proposed power-bond issue of $6,500,000 is not only a foolish and reckless extravagance at the expense of taxpayers already burdened, but will be inadequate to accomplish the purpose for which it is intended is the belief of Joseph Mesmer. Mesmer said yesterday that more millions will have to be voted before the city can reap any benefit and expressed himself as strongly opposed to adding additional burdens to those already being carried by the people when the results to be secured are so doubtful. In this connection Mesmer said:

"It is generally agreed by all who have the welfare of this city at heart, that the $1,250,000 worth of bonds should be voted for the completion of the electric power plant and transmission line into Los Angeles city, but there is a question which concerns us all; whether we should mortgage our property and homes (for every bond issued for the benefit of the nation, State, county or city is a mortgage guaranteed and secured by every piece of property lying within the territory especially affected) to voting an additional $5,250,000 without first having some knowledge of how much this amount will pay for in the way of a distribution system and for us to know what particular section or territory of this city is to be covered, for I am reliably informed that it will take much more than double the above sum to provide an adequate electric distribution system to cover this entire city.

"Before casting ballots on the question of the $6,500,000 bond issue voters should be reliably assured in advance that they reside in the district that will be incorporated in the proposed distribution system.

WORDING OBJECTIONABLE.

"The other objections which I have is the wording of the ordinance provided for in this bond issue, which says 'including the acquisition of lands, water rights, rights of way,' which we all thought had already been provided for out of the $3,500,000 bonds previously issued and sold and money, plus premiums, realized. If the acquisition of the necessary land, water rights and rights of way, have not already been fully provided, then we, the people have been most grievously deceived, for these acquisitions were the very first essentials necessary before any additional work on the power plant and transmission line could have safely been proceeded with.

"What territory would be considered first for the distribution system? Surely not the less profitable like the residence districts and particularly where the poorer classes reside, where it will require a distribution system covering ten blocks besides the extra cost of collection to equal the returns or income from one single office building in the business section. Then why should the small taxpayer and householder shoulder a burden upon himself or herself unless he or she can be assured that he or she will be a direct beneficiary?

"At a meeting held last Wednesday at Fifty-second and Hoover streets, the engineer in charge of the construction of the municipal electric power plant is reported to have said that the power would be worth $5,000,000 a year under municipal distribution.

"Easily said but not so easily done for we must not forget that the three existing electric power companies are not going to stand idly by and allow the municipal electric power plant to take away their patrons without a contest, and unless the municipal plant will offer electric power and light at less than prevailing prices, which reductions will be promptly met by the three electric power companies, and should the municipal electric power plant offer electric power or lighting for a rate less than earning power of 6 per cent. on plant investment and one-cent allowance for deterioration on the value of the existing three electric power companies, upon complaint with a proper showing to the State Railroad Commissioners, the State Railroad Commissioners would be in duty bound to fix a rate for the municipal electric power plant that would allow the three existing electric power companies a legal earning investment on plant, plus deterioration.

"In view of this fact, are we not justified in challenging the accuracy and reliability of Scattergood's statements when he says that the earnings of the municipal electric power plant will produce a revenue of $5,000,000 annually or any other fixed sum earning?"

WHY FOOL THE PEOPLE?

"I personally urged several members of the City Council to separate the $1,250,000 bond issue for the completion of the electric power plant and transmission line from the $5,250,000 bond issue for a distribution system and their arguments were that the people would vote to complete the power plant, but might not cast sufficient votes to commence the distribution system, depending upon the imperative necessity of the former to force through the questionable requirement of the latter.

"Cannot we trust to the exercise of the intelligence of our people or must we calmly submit to be placed like cows in stanchions to be milked or, more correctly stated, to be deprived of our right of using our common sense and judgment?

"That the people will rebuke the insinuations against the exercise of their ability to think and ac' for themselves will be demonstrated at the close of the polls election day, May 8, at which time their verdict will be echoed in no unmistakable tones."

W. G. Thorpe, former campaign manager of the Real and Personal Property Owners' League, said last night that the plan to spend $6,500,000 under the proposed issue is bad business and further that it is unfair and unjust to men whose property rights should be respected. He predicts that the people will defeat the bonds by a bigger majority than they did before. Protesting against adding needlessly to the city's already heavy indebtedness, Thorpe said:

CONDITIONS TO BE MET.

"It seems to me as a taxpayer that our bonds, assessments and taxes will eventually ruin our beautiful city if a halt is not called. I notice in the official records of 1901 our bond indebtedness was $2,000,000; 1904, $4,717,000; 1908, $9,578,000; 1912, $36,000,000.

"You will notice that his record shows an appalling increase and that the interest on this sum is in the neighborhood of $10,000 a day.

"We are now told to vote another $6,5000,000, namely, $1,250,000 for the generating plant, also $5,250,000 for power bonds. In this connection, let me say that all thinking men must realize that this amount would only be a drop in the bucket, that woud have to be followed by millions and millions or else forfeit the above amount on the purchase of the power bonds.

"Do you realize that our taxes now are $3 on every $100 worth of real estate or personal property. The people of this city voted down the power bonds less than a year ago, and I cannot understand why the taxpayers are forced at this time at a heavy expense to again vote them down for that is surely what they will do for self preservation.

"It seems to me a ridiculous and absurd proposition when we realize that the Railroad Commission is given absolute power to make the rates whether the city owns the power and distributing plant, or whether a private corporation owns it. I, therefore, cannot see where we would be benefited by owning the same at this time, particularly as times are hard and money hard to get.

"We should also try to be fair and just to the men and women who have invested their earnings honestly. In our public corporations there are hundreds and thousands of poor men and women who invest their entire savings in stocks and bonds, instead of in real estate, or keeping the same in the savings banks. The records prove this absolutely to be true. We need only to call your attention to the Los Angeles Investment Company to prove that this is true.

"We also know the hardship and suffering that is caused among the small stockholders of any corporation that fails, or that is being persecuted by politicians, and who by this reason are unable to seel their stock except at a loss. Some people seem to think that all stockholders in corporations are rich people and that there is no harm done whatever their losses may be. As a party said to me, 'they are all millionaires any way.' This is a mistake, and if they were they should receive fair treatment at the hands of the people.

"There are without doubt a number of bonds that will have to be voted, that are an absolute necessity, before long, such as the $1,500,000 for the completion of the aqueduct. Bonds of this nature are absolutely necessary, but I sincerely hope that the voters will vote down the $6,500,000 bonds by an overwhelming majority and later we can vote the $1,500,000 bonds for the generating plant at a future election when they do not try to force the other bonds down our throats."

UNFAIR ADVANTAGE.

J. M. Elliott, president First National Bank: I believe the Council took an unfair advantage in combining two propositions under one bond issue and that many persons, who would gladly have voted for the $1,250,000 bonds to conserve the electric power, are opposed to voting the larger issue for a competing electric system within the city limits.

When the electric public service corporations were spending large sums of money here, and bringing in millions of dollars from the East, they were highly commended by press and public. To compete with them now would not only be unfair, but would publish to the world the fact that all other public service corporations contemplating systems in this city could look forward to like treatment in the future.

These two reasons among others compel me to vote against the bonds.

NOT FAIR TO ANYONE.

Mrs. Morris A. Knabel, Friday Morning Club: I shall vote against the bond issue in its present form because I do not think it fair to anyone, citizen, investor or the corporations. I believe the bonds should have been segregated; then the voters would have an opportunity to express their honest opinion at the polls. I further believe that the power companies' proposition for the purchase of the current generated at the city's plant should have been accepted as offering the quickest and best return upon the city's investment in the aqueduct.

NECESSITIES FIRST.

Mrs. Roderick W. Richardson, president Woman's Republican Club: The present power-bond issue before the public should receive the careful consideration of every voter, that all may realize the grave responsibility of assuming at the present time such a debt. We all know that Los Angeles stands in pressing need of actual necessities which, if thev could be secured, would outstrip our bonding limit.

The importance of school bonds to provide for more school buildings, insuring our children every safety and educational advantage befitting the rapid growth of our city, is one of serious consideration. Then, too, the storm drains which the recent floods of February proved to us a serious need, lack of which caused the city expense for damage done to streets and roadbed, imperiled life and destruction of property of thousands of thrifty citizens. Sewers adequate to guarantee the city against the festering pestilence, which is breeding in many places, the extension of water mains so that taxpayers, who have been paying for our $24,000,000 aqueduct, may receive its waters and escape from the domination of private water companies on which they are now dependent. These, with many other needs, are first to be considered and when we get these important necessities it will be time enough to talk about experiments in city distribution of electricity. I have no quarrel with this as a theory, but feel there is time enough to try it out after we have secured the necessities. In the meantime, the power companies can give us as low a light rate as could possibly be secured by city distribution. There is another reason why I am unalterably against the bonds—they are submitted to us in a form that absolutely stifles free expression and prevents us from voting to complete the power plant without voting $5,250,000 for the unnecessary distributing system. The annals of Tammany Hall cannot disclose a more cunning device for subordinating voters and depriving them of their constitutional right of free suffrage.

DEBT ENOUGH.

Heinrich Von Stein, president of the Von Stein Academy of Music: My personal opinion is that the city now has on its hands many projects which it would be wise to finish before attempting a new enterprise. The tax rate is about high enough now and, as far as I can see, from a business viewpoint, it would be unwise for the city to plunge into more indebtedness so long as any alternative is offered. More urgent needs for money will present themselves very shortly, needs that can only be met by bond issues, and, since there is a limit to which we can go in our bonded debt, I think we should save ourselves a liberal margin. If this were a political matter I would hesitate to express myself, but it is purely a business matter and I am viewing it in that way. I am against the bonds.

UNNECESSARY.

George K. Maxwell, ranch operator: My home and many of my interests are in the city and I am concerned over any bond issue proposed. This one I think ill-advised and unnecessary. Some proposition from the power companies can be accepted that will enable the city to wholesale power for the present and use its profits for purchase and its credit for things such as water-main extensions and so on, that we must have and that we can secure only through bond issues. I am, therefore, opposed to the bond issue as it is proposed now.

VOTERS HINDERED.

J. F. Sartori, president of the Security Savings Bank: I am opposed to the power bonds because the two questions were not segregated and the people were therefore prohibited from expressing their free opinions on the subject. I think a very serious mistake was made there, and that many thousands of voters will do as I shall do if I am in the city—vote against the bonds.

WON'T DECREASE TAXES.

Phillip S. Wilson, president of the Traders' Bank: I am opposed to the power bonds and shall vote against them. The silly claim that voting these bonds will decrease our taxes does not fool me. The interest on these bonds must be paid. The question is whether the profits will be sufficient to justify the investment and that I refuse to believe. Whatever profits there are will go into extensions and betterments of the system and the tax rate will stay where it is. Let us wholesale the power for the present until we are in shape to do this thing in a businesslike fashion.

A Strong Statement.

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Bread 15 cents a loaf—why not? Just how it will come about:

One of the amazing fads of American life is the prodigious wastefulness of political cliques that usually pose as "friends of the people." For some years past Los Angeles has been singularly a prey to these wolves in sheep's clothing—sanctimonious, eye-rolling, psalm-singing Pharisees, whose slogan is "Holler Than Thou." These long-haired reformers have always been "long" on promises and "short" on performances, and if they had their sweet way would add at least $20,000,000 more to our debt by Christmas. Is it not time to call a halt?

They have, in short, piled up the debts of Los Angeles for various pet schemes and enterprises. In seven years the city debts have gone sky-high, that is to say from $7,000,000 to about $35,000,000, and, like the horse leech, still the cry is "more."

The latest "more" is a mere bag of shells to the extent of $6,500,000 for the electric distributing system; in the face of the fact that a perfectly reliable electric light corporation already offered $1,000,000 a year dividend to the city for the sale of the power.

But no! the long-hairs prefer to run in debt millions more to "save the people" the money that the "bloodsucking" corporations would put in their "already overflowing coffers" (quotation from a leading long-hair orator.)

It costs five times what it did seven years ago to live in Los Angeles. On top of whatever may have been added by the general rise in the cost of living, we owe five times as much, we must pay five times as much to live here, just to keep even with the debts. Put that in your pipe and smoke it, Mr. Booster! If the long-hairs are to be kept in power, what will be the cost of living in Los Angeles seven years hence? or will Los Angeles be on the map at all. Will any human being care to live here and pay the cost?

The long-hairs are industriously trying to prove that you can tax a man rich and you can tax a city rich.

The common sense of the situation L., do you wish to pay 15 cents a loaf for bread?

Every man, woman and child must pay individually a proportion of the terrific cost imposed on this city by long-haired reformers in the past seven years; and has the time not come, right now, to call a halt before Los Angeles hangs out the red flag and goes into bankruptcy?

Make no mistake, voters, in thinking that only the taxpayers will be obliged to pay the freight. It should read: Not only the taxpayers, but any man, woman and child that eats a mouthful of bread in this city—all must pay the price of this stupendous folly.

Are you a laborer? You are on the list. Up goes the cost of your living.

Are you an invalid? You must pay.

Are you a widow? You must pay?

Are you a car driver? We want your money.

Are you a student, a woman clerk, an orphan, a fireman, a policeman, a soldier, a sailor, a tourist within our gates?

None may escape. Each must help pay the score in a higher local cost of living.

The cost can no more be placed, individually, on taxpayers than it can on the South Sea Islanders, but must be met by every person in this community, whether or not he owns a foot of real estate.

The immediate effects are already seen in the increased cost of living, higher prices for shoes, stockings, silks, meats, bread, beer, washboards, soap, towels, needles, pins, hats, drugs.

The bed you sleep on, the chair you sit in, the very shoes on your feet, all these have gone up already because of the wild schemes of the long-hairs in this city, and will continue to go up as long as the long-hairs are in power.

The only thing that has escaped is the air we breathe, and that may come up next, if we don't watch out.

The great patriotic enterprise of "saving the people millions" simply means that from the newsboy on the street to the half-starved invalid—in short, every man, woman and child that eats bread in this city—is slated to have the cost of living increased.

Do not vote for the bonds at this price.

JOHN HUBERT GREUSEL,
6059 Hollywood Boulevard.

SECURE PARK LOTS.

The firm of Simoneau & Co., of this city makes the announcement that it has secured from Frank M. Barr and the Foresta Land Company, through Robert M. Shaw, 800 lots in the townsite of Foresta in the Yosemite National Park. The price is reported by the buyers at $160,000. The sites are to be put on the market.

Signs of the Times.

AUDITORIUM BECOMES PALACE FOR PICTURES.

"AUDITORIUM, Clune's Theater Beautiful," will be emblazoned against the skies by thousands of incandescent lamps on the night of the opening of the magnificent new home of film drama. The switching on of the tremendous electric sign will be the first step in the formal introduction to Los Angeles theatergoers of a permanent addition to picturedom. W. H. Clune's new policy of showing only the world's greatest filmizations of famous plays and novels will please the lovers of high-class dramatic art in this city.

Auditorium Theatre Clunes

The Temple Auditorium, which, under the Clune management, turns from grand opera to pictures.

No city in the world will boast of so large a theater devoted to the presentation of film dramas as the Auditorium of Los Angeles. New York was proud of the fact that their "Old Broadway" theater was taken by a motion-picture company. At that time New York led the world. San Francisco turned the Tivoli into a playhouse for the presentation of the silent drama. Staid Boston finds that the progress in picturedom during the past six months has been so great that the famous Boston Theater must be given over to the new work of presenting tremendous film dramatizations. Philadelphia is building a new theater with a seating capacity rivaling that of Clune's Auditorium for the express purpose of featuring many-reel pictures at higher prices.

"My new policy is the result of this same progress," said W. H. Clune yesterday. "I desire to hold the best trade in the city and for that reason must keep abreast of the times. The Auditorium Theater is the only one in the city capable of handling the monster films we intend to project. Los Angeles will have the finest house in the world as well as in the United States and we intend to give productions which will compare favorably with the building. We will play exclusively the world's greatest filmizations of famous plays and novels."

As an initial production from which the character of the plays which will make their home at the Fifth and Olive-street playhouse, may be derived, the life story of John Howard Payne, the author of the immortal song, "Home, Sweet Home," will be given together with a story far-reaching in its effect and woven around this song which reaches all hearts.

An orchestra of twenty pieces under the capable leadership of Carli Elinor will be a permanent feature of the new home of film drama. These musicians proved a delightful surprise to the Native Sons of the Golden West when they were treated to a session of music during their convention meetings.

D. A. Beats Midwick.

SWELLS AND BELLES ARE NOW BASEBALL MANIACS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THE Los Angeles Country Club team won the first game in the Country Club Baseball League at the Midwick Club yesterday by 13 to 9.

Each team had a home run to its credit, Arthur McFarland for Los Angeles, H. Ayer for Midwick. Los Angeles had nine base hits and Midwick five. Three Midwick men made two-base hits—R. Topp, H. Ayer and Forsman. Arthur McFarland scored a two-base hit for Los Angeles.

Errors were conspicuous by their absence.

Altogether this inauguration baseball game was voted a bouyant success and the gay company of aristocratic fans who filled the grand stand and the long line of motors declared it to be far and away more interesting than the first professional game of the season between Los Angeles and Oakland.

The Midwick team was composed of R. Topp, second base; T. Wigton, center field; Don McGilvary, third base; Hal Braly, shortstop; H. Ayer, first base; Leo Chandler, left field; Harold Cook, right field; Forsman, catcher, and H. Guthrie, N. M. Murray, H. Avery and Page Warden, pitchers.

The Los Angeles team enjoyed the distinction of Artie Shafer's company and he was naturally the sensation of the day. Wild yells greeted him whenever he appeared. He seemed to be thoroughly enjoying himself and could not be drawn into any controversy. There was a fearful moment when John S. Cravens of the Midwick disputed umpire's decision. "Let Shafer decide," he cried with youthful indignation. But Shafer tactfully stopped up his ears and showed his lovely teeth in a smile a yard wide. That broke the tension and parliamentary order was restored. He caused many a laugh by the facility with which he stole bases.

The umpire was so professionally perfect that the feminine fans made urgent inquiries. Forrest Stanton by name, former catcher for Stanford University. Page Warden of the Midwick, besides receiving eulogies as a pitcher, won considerable admiration for his golf legs—all the other players being be-flanneled.

Norman Murray of the Midwick also received an ovation and he gained a good deal of credit for some doubtful subtlety. When Shafer was batting he received all balls and walked to base, which was carefully explained as being superb generalship, since Shafer is such a hitter that with two men on bases, Midwick would certainly have come off worst the other way. M'yes.

Next to Shafer, who is above criticism, Arthur McFarland won most of the applause for Los Angeles, and E. H. Seaver most of the personal admiration. Nice looking boy, Seaver. Hal Braly, playing for Midwick, did not quite come up to expectations—the fact of the matter is this Adonis is getting a wee bit too plump to run.

There were many wildly exciting moments and the golf women—and particularly Mrs. Williams, the champion—rooted fiercely and forcefully. Cries of "catch it, oh catch it, man," or "please, please miss it," rang across the polo field and echoed round the golf course, repeating somewhere out at Pomona. Society turned up in encouraging force and it's most stylish clothes and there is little doubt that as a social rendezvous Country Club baseball will easily supplant all other forms of sport. The next match is at the Los Angeles Country Club, May 9, and everyone is going.

The other teams are forming rapidly—San Gabriel will be the next ready, and Earl Boothe of the Athletic Club will soon have one lined up for that. He was out at the Midwick keeping scores.

It will certainly remove one of the most severe slurs on the honorable game of baseball if it once more becomes popular as an amateur sport. The country clubs have some of the finest material, nearly all ex-college stars, and although this first game was not as swift as a Giant-Sox contest, it lacked nothing in zeal and knowledge and gave promise of great possibilities for the future. We seem to possess a whole bevy of amateur Cobbs and Shafers.

DISCUSS EDUCATION.

Instructors Talk Before Social Science Association on Problems of Higher Institutions.

At a meeting of the Southern California Social Science Association yesterday at the Polytechnic High School, Dr. Walter E. Edwards of Los Angeles High School and Dr. Weatherby of the University of Southern California discussed the problems of joining closely the work of the junior college and the university. Their talks dealt practically with conditions met in the maintenance here of a junior college that covers the first two years of university work, and helps relieve congestion in the sub-junior departments of the higher institutions.

In addition to the main addresses there were talks by Miss Anna Steward and Mr. Arthur Merrill of Los Angeles High School; Miss Edith Jordan, Dr. Klingberg of U.S.C.; A. L. Brundidge of Fullerton, Miss Grace Harnett of Long Beach and Dr. Saunders of Hollywood High.

The retiring officers were: President, Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt of U.S.C.; secretary, H. N. Greenwood of Polytechnic; treasurer, M. M. Fishback of Orange. The newly elected officers are: President, Miss Edith Jordan of Polytechnic; vice-president, Paul Gross, Alhambra; secretary, Dr. Emory S. Bogardus, U.S.C.; treasurer, M. M. Fishback, Orange.

EFFICIENCY FOR EMPLOYEES.

Business Men's Club to Hold Series of Meetings in Large Business Establishments.

Inaugurating a series of meetings in various large establishments of this city, the Business Men's Efficiency Club will meet next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the new store of the Lyon-McKinney-Smith Company at No. 737-741 South Hill street.

The topic of the evening will be "Efficiency." There will be talks by prominent business men, discussion by members and initiation of new members.

The entire personnel of the establishments where these meetings are held will be invited to attend and it is hoped by mutual discussion and cooperation of ideas to raise the standard of personal efficiency and make Los Angeles the leading city in this work.

Train Young America to Shoot.
Editorial.
By Hon. Lindley M. Garrison,
Secretary of War.

Secretary Garrison wants a systematic national schooling in marksmanship. His belief is that this will not only strengthen the manhood of our country in time of peace, but the loss of life in time of war would be vastly decreased by shortening the period of war. His views and reasons are vital and convincing.

The Power of the President.
Article.
By Ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge.

Just what is the power of the President? What does his veto power amount to? Is there a menace in his power to appoint Supreme Court judges? What about his power to declare war, to make treaties with foreign countries, to make appointments, etc., etc.? Thousands of people believe him to be too nearly absolute—Czar-like in his control. Many say that his power is gauged by the strength of his personality—others declare the extent of his power depends on his political cleverness in dealing with vital problems. Senator Beveridge's article is in no sense a criticism of the Chief Executive. His statements are unbiased, but illuminative.

The Prince of Graustark
Serial Story.
By George Barr McCutcheon.

The part of Cupid isn't exactly fitting for the portly Blithers, but Blithers is convinced that he can get away with it. If there is anything a man of his wealth and perseverance can't do, Blithers has yet to learn it. In this instalment the doting Croesus appears to be floundering. Maud, his daughter, persists in her refusal to meet Prince Robin and secures passage under an assumed name on a steamer bound for Europe. This punctures Blithers's hopes until he learns that the Prince has been advised by cable to leave immediately for the other side—and then the fertile mind of the millionaire gets busy.

END OF CRAZES IN WASHINGTON.

State Wearied to Death of So-Called Reformers.

Next U.S. Senator Sure to Be Republican.

Commonwealth to Line Up With "Safe and Sane."

BY J. T. BELCHER.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SEATTLE (Wash) April 23.—The political vagaries of the State of Washington resemble nothing so much as a crazy-quilt. If there is any freak or fad in the line of real or spurious statecraft that the people of the Evergreen State have not tasted of, the record doesn't show it. This political Washington may be noted for its numerous political branches, for there is an offshoot or upshoot of about everything political that ever came into existence, including about every known species of socialism, which is certainly going some.

It isn't apparent, at this writing at any rate, which is the craziest branch of the lot, but the so-called "reform" element and the promising "Progressives" are giving the "Reds" a close call for first place. They even have "Red" Socialists and "Yellow" Socialists here.

Washington ought to be a safe and sane commonwealth. It has most magnificent opportunities. Here is the birthplace of those favorite expressions of the pamphlet-writer and town-booster: "A place of inexhaustible resources; magnificent natural advantages; splendid climate and hospitable people."

This is really a grand country, destined as surely as the sun rises and sets to be the seat of a mighty empire in itself, and that in the not far distant future. The government's promise, thanks to Secretary of Interior Lane, to render material and deserved assistance in the development of Alaska, will unquestionably be of inestimable value to the whole Puget Sound country in particular and the entire Pacific Coast in general. And for every step in progress and development, enjoyed by Alaska, the people of the State of Washington should be benefited two-fold. And they will be if they are not everlastingly handicapped by the political parasites, sanctimonious scarecrows, peripatetic preachers and pumpkin-headed "Progressives."

Washington today has about as many nincompoops in public office as it is possible to accumulate outside of a local Brazil, the same being a place where mental nuts are cracked. It would seem to be no ordinary task for even so good a State as this is, to gather together so many varieties of infantile political paralysis. Time was when the yeomanry of this still young State would have put aside with intellectual vigor, the platitudes and promises and dreams of the idlers and theorists, and could not have been tempted from the path of upbuilding.

But another time came and with it came the discontented and, worst of all, the class of males and females who imagine notoriety to be fame, and who are happiest when they are engaged in making others unhappy and miserable. When it wasn't the Socialists, it was the Populists; when it wasn't the Pops, it was the "anti-corporation" fanatics; when it wasn't the demagogue, it was the bean-brained, numbskull, who blew himself into a daily State of intoxication listening to himself rent; and incidentally paralyzing the thinking capacities of those who were either foolish enough, or reckless enough, to listen to him. Seattle has the largest proportion of this element to deal with today, not even excepting Los Angeles. Yes, we must in all fairness award the honors, such as they are, to this "Queen City" of Puget Sound, at least in this one respect.

About the time the business men began to congratulate themselves upon their deliverance from the nuisances attending the municipal election in March last, wherein Hi Gill was recalled to the Mayoralty chair from which he had been recalled only a few short years before, along comes Meddie McCormick with his political false alarms and whinings. He spent two or three days in Seattle disturbing anybody he could reach, and indulging in predictions that would have warmed the cockles of the most assinine Socialist. Meddie was not overly-pleased with the remnants of the "Progressive" windjammers that he met. The committee meeting whereat he pretended to outline the "Progressive" battle for supremacy in 1916, was funnier than some Orpheum jokes. The enthusiasm was as inspiring as the average inscription on the average headstone in the average graveyard. The attendance was not nearly as large, and otherwise the meeting was an impressive success.

It would appear that Seattle is sick and tired of the fads and faddists who have so long interfered with the truly progressive spirit of the people here. What with the opportunities ahead in all lines of business that will, without doubt, come with the government's extensive operations in Alaska this summer, no sane citizen here feels disposed to longer listen to the harpings and warpings of the blatherskite politicians. Most of them have seen enough within the past year or so to satisfy them that whatever the failings of the Democratic party may be, they had better suffer under the emblem of the donkey rather than that of the bull moose or the fireworks of the various varieties of anarchists, who have so long howled on Seattle streets. And they have also been impressed with the fact that the protective tariff policy of the Republican party was after all is said and done, their one best political bet.

There can be no reasonable question of the statement that the people of this metropolis of the State of Washington, will be mighty glad when the day comes around, when they can once more get into line with the principles and policies of the party of Lincoln, McKinley and Taft. They have learned their lesson, unless the signs of the times here are misleading. They are proving their return to the Republican party by registering in that political faith just as their wandering brethren in California are doing. There need be no fear of the political color of the next United States Senator from Washington, who is to be chosen this fall. He will be a straight-out Republican, without strings of any sort upon him. And every man and woman on the Republican ticket is assured of election as certainly as Drow H. Drukker was recently elected to Congress in the New Jersey district, despite the previous Democratic success.

Involved in Exchange.

Residence at Adams and Ellendale.

Sightly home transferred through Giles & Kells, with Wright-Callender-Andrews Company.

ADAMS AND ELLENDALE.

Fine Home at That Corner Brings Large Consideration in Cash and Trade—Other Transfers.

Giles & Kells, managers of the house and lot department of the Wright-Callender-Andrews Company report the following recent sales of residence property totaling over $100,000: Title Insurance and Trust Company to Jacob and Anna Gold, ten-room residence, northeast corner of Adams street and Ellendale place, lot 104x140 feet, consideration, $35,000. (In the deal Gold deeds to the Title Insurance and Trust Company one acre on Washington boulevard at the Palms, at a value of $6500, and a lot on Forty-first place, valued at $2000.)

HOLLYWOOD PARK.

The Patton & Longley Company, agents for Hollywood Park, report the sale to F. H. Shewell, of Denver, Colo., of four building sites on Sycamore Point in that tract. It is said to be the intention of the buyer to build a $3500 chalet. Other buildings reported now under construction or about to be built in Hollywood Park are as follows: For John H. Rollo, bungalow, $1200; H. W. Parsons, chalet, $3250; Mrs. A. H. Nightingale, bungalow, $750; B. E. Moulton, bungalow, $1500; Charles Amrhein, bungalow, $1250; T. O. McCutcheon, chalet, $3500; W. J. Gibson, bungalow, $2000; E. E. Gifford, bungalow, $1600, and M. B. Fisher, bungalow, $1200. The agents state that the machinery is now on the ground for a new pumping plant which is about to be installed in the tract and that the contract has been let for a new 100,000-gallon reservoir. The main boulevard leading into the property will, it is announced, have the grade reduced so that it will not exceed 4 per cent. to the highest elevation.

MANY VISITORS.

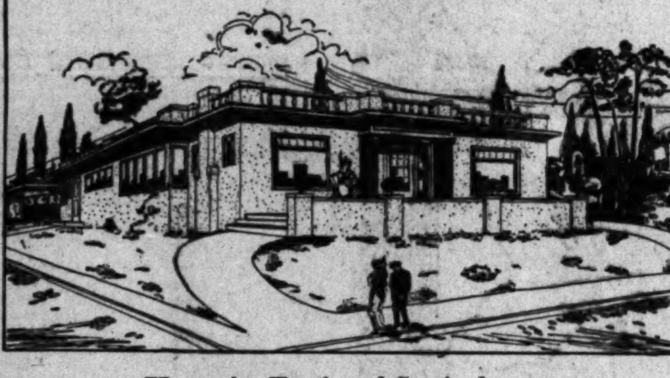
Excursionists Throng to San Fernando Valley City to Participate in Celebration of Sales Opening.

VAN NUYS, April 25.—The Western Improvement Company, which recently took over the sales agency for the undeveloped holdings in the townsite of Van Nuys, inaugurated the season with an excursion last Saturday afternoon, which was attended by nearly 1500 people. Eleven Pacific Electric cars were taken out loaded to capacity, and in addition, there were five auto truckloads of visitors, with about 100 private automobiles.

The exercises of the day began with an address by Frank D. Haddock, president and general manager of the Western Improvement Company, who outlined the wonderful story of the establishment of Van Nuys three years ago, its growth and progress up to the present time and its future prospects. The visitors were then taken in autos to all parts of the townsite, and to adjoining acreage and chicken ranches. The organ factory was then visited.

A barbecue supper was served at 6 o'clock, followed at dusk by the lighting of Sherman Way. The town was handsomely decorated, and the people turned out in force to welcome and entertain the guests of the day. The Van Nuys band of twenty-four pieces provided the day's music.

New West Side Residence.



House for Tenth and St. Andrews.

Villa-style place just started by Ramey Investment Company.

TENTH AND ST. ANDREWS.

Construction has just been begun upon a one-story residence of a modified villa type at the southeast corner of Tenth street and St. Andrews place, the Ramey Investment Company being the builder. The place, which will represent a reported investment of close to $9000, will occupy a lot 60x150 feet in size. The main rooms will be finished in mahogany.

WALNUT PARK.

BUYS WALNUT GROVE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, April 25, — Another ten-acre walnut grove in the La Habra district changed hands this week, the purchaser being George N. Weisel of Cincinnati, O. The grove was the property of Robert J. Hiatt of this city, who also made the sale. The price is given out at $11,500. The new owner will build on his newly-acquired ranch and make his home there.

PARK SETTLED FACT.

Local Assessment District to Provide Funds for New South Pasadena Improvement.

SOUTH PASADENA, April 25.—There is every indication that the new city park at Milan avenue and Leman street will soon be a reality, much to the satisfaction of the residents of the southern part of the city. All preliminaries were concluded a few days ago, when the matter of price for the ground was settled at $3750. The park includes a triangular piece of land at these corners, which will be paid for by assessment of the residents in the neighborhood. It then will be turned over to the city, which will plant it to flowers, trees and shrubbery and take care of it.

Gilbert & Co. report the sale for C. E. Rall of Detroit, Mich., to F. M. Simpson of this city of 55x140 feet on El Centro street, between Cawston and Indiana, the consideration being given at $1050.

The Hibbard Realty Company reports the sale of 55x80 feet in Ozmun court to Allison O. Blake of Pasadena. A bungalow is being erected on the property by the new owner. The seller was Mrs. Gertrude Ozmun of this city.

The City Trustees have introduced an ordinance ordering the Pacific Electric to move the curve tracks at the northwest corner of Mission street and Fair Oaks avenue, so that the Ozmun lot may be squared and the property restored to its owner. This will make the corner uniform with the others at the intersection of those streets and allow Mrs. Ozmun to go forward with her announced plans for a two-story store and office building. Mrs. Ozmun claims five feet of her property was taken off by the rounded corner.

GILLETTE'S REGENT SQUARE

Three distinct advantages possessed by Gillette's Regent Square should be considered if you are becoming interested in San Vicente-Santa Monica.

These three advantages are the most striking of many possessed by this superior offering and present conclusive argument that to buy in Gillette's Regent Square is to get the best.

First—GILLETTE'S REGENT SQUARE has the view and the altitude. It lies high, overlooking the surrounding country and controls an unequaled scenic panorama of mountains, canyons, valleys, islands and sea. Its altitude is 100 feet higher than that of Los Angeles. It overlooks the business and older residential sections of Santa Monica. Gillette's Regent Square has the view.

Second—GILLETTE'S REGENT SQUARE has 60 ft. lots. Seriously consider this fact and remember it in buying in San Vicente-Santa Monica. We have found this size to be more practical for suburban residential purposes than the 50 ft. lot. The buyer gets 10 ft. more width in Gillette's Regent Square.

Third—GILLETTE'S REGENT SQUARE has genuine Rock Macadam streets (of L. D. Loomis Co. standard.) There are streets and there are streets, of many kinds of materials and of many pretensions as to durability, but no one questions the superior wearing qualities of Genuine Rock Macadam. In Gillette's Regent Square you get Rock Macadam instead of oiled dirt streets.

GILLETTE'S REGENT SQUARE also has all of the general improvements and facilities such as sidewalks, curbs, sewers, storm drains, electricity, water, gas, telephones, etc. It is a modern tract in every respect.

A total of $570,000.00 worth of lots bought to date in GILLETTE'S REGENT SQUARE shows the extraordinary interest on the part of investors. They know its the finest in San Vicente-Santa Monica and offers the greatest profit opportunity. You can still get a choice site at opening prices, but you must hurry.

Come up to our office or phone us today. Arrange to go out in one of our autos for an inspection trip of this scenic section.

Fiesta of Flowers, with Public Maypole Dance, to be Monster Pageant Given by Children.

For the great May Day festival,

To be given by the Los Angeles Humane Society for Children and the Federated Women's Clubs at the Hooker Gardens. Upper left, Mrs. Fred Hooker Jones, chairman of the May festival, reading the story of "Wan o' the Woods" to Leola Sun, a fairy queen; Una Fleming, a forest nymph, and little Selma Blumkin, a butterfly, while Frank Goldenson, disguised as a bear, looks on; upper right, Miss Fleming being crowned Queen of the May; at her feet is Curtyne Englar as "Wan," while the Queen is attended by Rosemary Herasta. Below, Miss Fleming in the center of a Maypole dance; others in this group, from left to right, are Ursula Cheshire as "Will o' Wind," Yvette Mitchell, as "Dan o' Dreams," Dorothy Baas as "Bluebird" and Beatrice Brooks as a fairy.

IN ROMANCELAND.

Los Angeles will slip off its garb of true metropolitanism and become the romantic capital of the Never-Never-Never Land next Friday and Saturday, when two days of May Festival will be filled with the riotous, rollicking play of children, the celebration of myth and legend in settings of forests and flowers, and a great public demonstration with the traditional May pole at the center of it all.

This two-day celebration is to be a very unusual affair—unique among all the glorious public fetes for which the Southland has long been famous. And it is to be distinctly a children's affair, in which children portray the mythical characters of the legends and enact the fabled stories of the wood.

At all the parks there will be May poles; at all the playgrounds there will be programmes given by children for children, and finally, the denouement will be the setting of a wonderful Italian garden where the old folks may be permitted to come in close contact with the spirit of youth and the romance of all youthful things.

BABY BLUE AND PINK.

The popular colors of childhood—baby blue and pink—will be the holiday colors, and everywhere the city will be decorated with ribbons and flags and bunting of these two colors, while the Cecil Brunner (baby rose) will be profusely accepted as the May Festival flower.

Then, too, the homes and shop windows of Los Angeles will contain wreaths of flowers with the Cecil Brunner predominating, while pedestrians will be decorated with the special badge of the festival and its boutonniere of flowers.

All these tokens will conspire to dress Los Angeles in a gala attire. It will be the first festival of its kind ever undertaken, and the various organizations that have been arranging it for weeks are assured that this innovation will be a triumph in which the priceless youth and floral glories of the Southland will be displayed to best advantage.

FOR ALL HUMANITY.

Primarily, the May Festival is for the edification of all humanity; it is for the direct benefit of children—the children who are now under the protection, or who may later come under the protection, of the Los Angeles Humane Society for Children.

In linking the service for children with a general tribute to Flora, the Goddess of Flowers, grown-ups will a-Maying go and drift back once more into the wonderful realm of the Long Ago. May, the month when nature's gaudiest clothes adorn the earth, is one of the most attractive legendary periods in the calendar. It is especially appealing to grown-ups and has been for centuries, although the festivities are indulged in more generously by children in this modern age, than in the past.

The Romans made sacrifice to Maia, the mother of Mercury, on May Day, and on that day, too, the ancient Romans went in procession to the Grotto of Egeria. In Tudor England the men and women, accompanied by laughing troops of boys and girls, went a-Maying to the great woods and bore back to the towns and villager the branches and flowers of the season, adorned with ribbons and wreaths. Then the May pole was inevitable.

PARADE AND CROWNING.

The revival this year of the lore and legend of the festival day will find many thousands of Los Angeles children participating in the ceremonies. The two-day celebration will open at 9 o'clock next Friday morning with a floral parade that will pass in review of Mayor Rose and the Executive Committee, who will be on a stand at the Manual Arts High School. In this parade will be all the characters that later will take part in the pageant.

The parade will lead to Washington baseball park, where it is expected thousands will congregate to witness the crowning of the Queen of the May—Miss Una Fleming, a pretty girl with peachbloom cheeks and a mass of golden hair.

The May pole, an institution honored by a million celebrations stretching over more than 1000 years, will be circled and braided with vari-colorder ribbons by the dancing nymphs and fairies and elfs, the mythical wonders of the woods who attend in courtly grandeur the Queen of the May.

This May pole will then be set upon an expansive float, gorgeously decorated with flowers and baby-blue and pink ribbons, and will be taken from park to park, where the Queen of the May and her retinue of fairies, in diaphanous garb, will dance over and over again, to the delight of thousands of assembled tots and grown-ups. Her Majesty's entourage will include an orchestra.

This spectacular parade through the string of Los Angeles parks will in no way interfere with the celebrations that are to be conducted at all the playgrounds of the city. Each playground will have its May pole and each pole will be surrounded by an excited throng of lusty-lunged children, chanting the festival song, "My Cecil Brunner Rose."

Children will be conspicuously absent on the night of May 1, when the old—or older—folks engage in a charity promenade and ball at the Little Theater ballroom. This will be one of the alluring society events of spring, an occasion for the unusual in costume and effect.

IN THE GARDENS.

The second day of the May Festival will be quite as charming and entertaining as the first. The beautiful Hooker gardens at Grand and West Adams, with its wonderland of roses and famous peristyle of climbing flowers, will be the scene of a pretty outdoor play enacted by the Egan group of child artists. The Woman's Federation benefit will be held at this time, and three performances will be given during the day and evening.

At 10 o'clock "Wan of the Woods" will be given for the first time of the festival. Here is a pretty child story that brings together the fairy queen, the elfs, the wood-nymphs, the Indian boys and girls, the butterflies and bluebirds, Dan o' Dreams and Will o' Wind, not to mention a cinnamon bear. The story told in pantomime and in dialogue is the narrative of all that is wonderful and mysterious about the deepest, most impenetrable part of the forest.

The Egan players have been skilled and schooled in the presentation of the playlet, and the stage setting for such a spectacle in the center of the Italian garden is at once harmonious and effective.

This performance will be repeated afternoon and evening at the Hooker gardens, but the night performance will be singularly attractive in that the gardens will be beautifully illuminated.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

The proceeds of the two-day celebration will go to the pleasure and benefit of Los Angeles children. The enormous task of planning and executing a celebration of such magnitude has been left to scores of women who are taking active part in the work and to a group of public-spirited men whose aid seemed necessary to insure success.

Mrs. Fred Hooker-Jones, vice-president of the society, for whose direct benefit the affair is given, is chairman of the Executive Committee. Associated with her on the committee are J. C. Austin, Mrs. H. H. Rose, Frank Egan, Mrs. E. F. Kubel and M. C. Adler.

IN GENERAL CHARGE.

The General Committee is subdivided among a great many persons who have supervision over the various departments. The work is being handled as follows: E. J. Lickley, assistant chairman; General Safety, Chief Sebastian; Programme, Frank Egan; Million Club Benefit, Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz; Million Club, Mrs. Wharton; Executive Manager of Events, Harold Ryerson; Federated Clubs, Mrs. A. W. Francisco; May Morning Ride, Mr. Adler; Playgrounds, Mrs. Willoughby Rodman; Park Reception Committee, Mrs. E. K. Sibley (chairman,) Mrs. B. Warner; Child Safety, Mrs. F. E. Pay.

OF THE CLUBS.

Co-operating with Mrs. Hooker-Jones in the benefit to be given the second day of the festival at the Hooker gardens, the Federated Women's Clubs has named the following women: Mrs. Jack Thomas, treasurer; Mrs. E. J. Brent, chairman Charity Committee. Mrs. Luther G. Brown, chairman Flowers Committee; assistant, Mrs. Y. C. N. Nobles. Mrs. Harry Voorhees, chairman Transportation Committee; assistants, Miss

ALL INVITED TO COME IN.

To All Children of Los Angeles, City and County.

Dear Little People: The Los Angeles Humane Society for Children takes great pleasure in inviting you all to our May Day Festival on Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2.

May Day seems to us the real children's day, so our society is planning on that day and the following one many things for your pleasure and a few benefits for other little children perhaps not so fortunate as you are. Mayor Rose, your parents and older friends have all accepted our invitation to be present and assist, but we are sending you a special invitation to come to the parks, playgrounds and the benefit entertainments if you can, and so help to make our first May Day Children's Festival a happy one.

Very truly yours,

[Signed]

J. C. AUSTIN,
President.

MRS. F. HOOKER-JONES,
Vice-President and Chairman May Day Festival."

CITY RESPONDS.

Mrs. Hooker-Jones said yesterday: "The entire city has responded most enthusiastically to our invitation to cooperate in the May festival for the pleasure and benefit of Los Angeles children. Every organization without exception has expressed a desire to assist. That the entire affair may be carried on in as voluntary a manner as possible we are naming some things which will be for sale and other things needed for use: Ice cream, cakes, candy, peanuts, oranges and lemons, ticket printing, ribbons for badges (pink and white,) rental of chairs, autos, Cecile Brunner roses.

"If individuals, clubs or societies wish to contribute any of those or make suggestions as to how these can be obtained in the best manner possible, we would urge that the General Committee or the headquarters of the Humane Society, Nos. 629-30 California building, be notified as soon as possible."

THEY CONTRIBUTE.

Among those who already have contributed to the success of the affair are: Frank Egan, children's entertainments for benefit; Henry Berry, use of baseball park May Day morning; Katherine Hooker, Italian garden for May 2; Frank Egan, ballroom, Little Theater, for May 1, and $25 for entertaining children; Los Angeles Times, entertaining 100 children on May Day morning; Harris & Frank, $25, and Million Club, $25, for entertaining children; Baumgardt Publishing Company, furnishing ten thousand printed tickets; R. E. Wells and Elks' Club, automobiles for institutional children; Union League Club, mock trial benefit at time considered best by Committee on Arrangements; Fitzgerald Music Company, pianos for benefits; Clara Barton Hospital, $25; Cooper, Coate & Casey, ten bolts of ribbon; L. E. Behymer, 5000 ball tickets.

AT HOLLENBECK.

Arrangements have been made to have 2000 children take part in the May-Day festival at Hollenbeck Park.

The old ladies who are living at the Hollenbeck Home felt that they were being left out of the plans for the May Day festival for the benefit of the Humane Society for Children, so one of them telephoned the committee having the affair in charge asking that part of the festival be given in Hollenbeck Park in order that they might see the children at play. Most of those living at the home are so enfeebled by old age that they are unable to leave it.

The committee immediately rearranged its plans so that the old ladies of the home might again feel the rejuvenation of youth in watching the joys of the kiddies at play.

FIVE THOUSAND BADGES.

Prominent society and club women of the city gathered at the home of Mrs. Dr. H. P. Barton, No. 715 South Ardmore avenue, to put the finishing touches on 5000 of the May Day badges, which are to be used in conjunction with the festival. These are dainty affairs of baby blue and baby pink ribbon, woven around a flower to match, and will be sold to be worn on May Day at 10 cents each. A large fund will be raised by this method.

Judge Warren L. Williams announced yesterday that following the regular session of the Union League Club on the evening of May 1, a mock trial will be held, with the fines to go to the fund. This will last but a short time, and then court is to adjourn so that all may attend the grand festival promenade and ball at the Little Theater building that night.

BUYS ON ELDEN.

Investor Purchases Residence at Corner of That Avenue and Tenth Street—San Joaquin Valley Sale.

The Neiswender-La Claire Company reports having sold a fourteen-room residence at No. 1004 Elden avenue for U. S. House to C. Perrin Hewitt for a consideration of $18,000. The place is at the corner of Tenth street and occupies a lot 65x142 feet in size. It was purchased as an investment.

Through the same agency, J. F. Kent and U. S. House have just purchased from C. Perrin Hewitt a tract of 800 acres lying southwest of Firebaugh in Fresno county. The consideration is reported at $40,000.

NEWPORT ACTIVITIES.

WEST NEWPORT, April 25.—West Newport and Newport Heights are experiencing considerable real estate activity at the present time. Since the word of the 500-acre Episcopalian grounds improvement was given out and the building of the Orange County Golf Club begun, a great deal of interest has been created in local property. The first work on the property of the church people, was started a short time ago by the building of a foot bridge from the car line at Melrose, across the upper Newport Bay, and to the crest of the bluffs. A. B. Rousselle, agent for the properties in West Newport and on the Newport Mesa reports sales as follows: To Nels Swansen, two lots, $4000; L. Jones, lot, $2000; R. Wallace, lot, $2000; Dr. T. Williams, lot, $2000; Isaac Goldman, two lots, $4000; Frank Gregg, two lots, $4000, and M. Bethel, three lots, $5400.

NEW VERMONT SQUARE.

Announcement is made of the starting of six new bungalows in the Southwest Land Company's New Vermont Square during the past week. Following are the builders and the locations: Frank Bosserman of Muskogee, Oklahoma, eight-room chalet, No. 1800 West Forty-first drive, cost $3000; L. H. Sandoz, seven-room bungalow, No. 1507 West Forty-fifth street, $2000; R. E. Hatfield, six-room chalet, No. 1327 West Forty-sixth street, $2400; Paul H. Juskat, six-room bungalow, No. 1834 West Forty-third place, $1800; Birch O'Neal, seven-room bungalow, No. 1731 West Forty-third street, $2000, and the F. H. Redpath Company, six-room chalet, No. 1730 West Forty-first place, $2000.

PLAN AMPHITHEATER.

Great Open-Air Auditorium to Be Feature of New San Bernardino High School Group.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 25.—A great open-air amphitheater, with a capacity of 10,000 people, will be a feature in connection with the group of Polytechnic High School buildings now being planned for this city by Architect Norman F. Marsh of Los Angeles. It is to be located in a large quadrangle in the midst of the principal structures which will make up the school.

The classic type of school architecture has been adopted, and eight structures are to be placed in the initial group, which is to include an administration building, science hall, classic building, commercial building, home economics building, manual arts building, cafeteria and gymnasium. In the administration building there will be an auditorium seating 1500 people, a library, offices, several recitation and study rooms, music and oral expression rooms.

Architect Marsh has been here the entire week going over the preliminaries with the faculty and Board of Education. Three separate types of fireproof construction will be asked for in the bids.

An agreement has been reached with Gail Fish of San Diego, owner of a tract to the south of the school site, by which the city and Fish are to donate a strip of land for a public driveway, and Fish is to give an additional strip of twenty feet beyond for parking purposes, thus greatly beautifying the setting for the school buildings.

TO SEEK INDUSTRIES.

With the view of inaugurating a campaign of industrial development at Niland, the California Land and Water Company, which is building the new Imperial Valley town, has established a new department, devoted exclusively to the securing and fostering of business enterprises in that place. At the head of the new department will be a man acting under the direct order of President Arthur E. Hull of the company, and who will devote his entire time and attention to supplying data to merchants, fruitgrowers, shippers, agriculturists, and all others who might be interested in the valley developments.

Up and Doing!

BIG PILE DRIVER AGAIN AT WORK.

WEST BEACH PREPARING FOR SUMMER THRONGS.

Fraser Pier Scene of Activity, With Amusement Men Racing to Get Concessions in Shape—Last Vestige of Destructive Ocean Park Fire Removed.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, April 25.—Again the noisy pile driver has livened things up in the Pier-avenue district, but the music of the big hammer is welcome to the beach amusement men for it means a busy spring and a rushing summer. The piles at the north of the Fraser pier are being straightened, recapped, and a new foundation is being put on to replace the one that was burned two years ago.

The work of putting in new piles has started and all is ready for the construction of the big Ben Hur racing roller coaster, which will be ready for the summer pleasure hunters by the first of July. A large carousselle will be run in connection with the ride. The entrances will be at the north of the pier, Pier avenue, the plaza and Kinney street. The whole lot once occupied by the Casino, Hippodrome and Dragon Gorge will once more be a mecca for merry-making crowds.

Work has started on the Reed & Layne garage at Pier avenue and trolleyway, and soon the brick masons will be doing their share of the building. The garage will be put up at a cost of $30,000. There will be stores and booths along the avenue and on the car line. This was once occupied by the famous Board-walk City, which sprang up after the disastrous fire of 1912.

The Santa Monica Dairy Company will build a $7500 plant at Rose avenue and Second street, which will be quite an addition to the industrial part of the bay. The work of clearing the ground has already commenced.

The unsightly pile of bricks that for so many months has been an eyesore in the amusement section has been removed and the space once so disfigured will be paved and turned into a new band stand location in connection with the new roller coaster. The land has been leased and will be permanently used as a band stand.

PLYMOUTH ACRES.

Plymouth Acres, the latest subdivision of the Guy M. Rush Company, is being rapidly put into shape. Streets are being graded and water piped all over the property, and announcement is made that within a few days it will be open to the public. The tract lies along the new El Segundo cut-off of the Pacific Electric Railway. The company intends to develop the property as a location for chicken ranches and small garden plots.

APARTMENTS SOLD.

A new apartment-house at Los Angeles and Pico streets, known as the Jarnel Apartments, has been sold by the J. R. Lane Company to an Ogden (Utah) syndicate for a reported consideration of $90,000. The building was erected about a year ago by J. R. Lane.

Northwest Improvement.

EXTENSIVE PLANTING.

More than 8000 new trees were added during the week to the planted area of Nuevo Rancho, in the Lakeview-Hemet-Perris district by the owners of small fruit farms and the James R. H. Wagner Company, which is developing large tracts within the rancho. This according to Wagner, makes more than 84,000 trees that have been set out during the present planting season, olives and apricots prevailing. Martin L. Abbey of Glendale purchased twenty acres, within the week, in Nuevo Rancho and moved there at once to build his home. It is said that he will plant trees as quickly as possible. H. Vanden Voush, a farmer of the Antelope Valley, purchased ten acres and will put in beans and potatoes for a summer crop, setting out fruit or olive trees next winter.

NEW NORTHWEST STORES.

One of a number of business improvements recently completed in the northwestern part of Los Angeles is a two-story brick store and apartment structure built by S. G. Gaughman at Western avenue, between First and Second streets. The building occupies a ground area of 50x120 feet. The lower story is occupied by the Westlake Pharmacy and the Wilshire Picture Theater, while the second floor is divided into up-to-date apartment suites.

BIG PILE DRIVER AGAIN AT WORK.

WEST BEACH PREPARING FOR SUMMER THRONGS.

Fraser Pier Scene of Activity, With Amusement Men Racing to Get Concessions in Shape—Last Vestige of Destructive Ocean Park Fire Removed.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, April 25.—Again the noisy pile driver has livened things up in the Pier-avenue district, but the music of the big hammer is welcome to the beach amusement men for it means a busy spring and a rushing summer. The piles at the north of the Fraser pier are being straightened, recapped, and a new foundation is being put on to replace the one that was burned two years ago.

The work of putting in new piles has started and all is ready for the construction of the big Ben Hur racing roller coaster, which will be ready for the summer pleasure hunters by the first of July. A large carousselle will be run in connection with the ride. The entrances will be at the north of the pier, Pier avenue, the plaza and Kinney street. The whole lot once occupied by the Casino, Hippodrome and Dragon Gorge will once more be a mecca for merry-making crowds.

Work has started on the Reed & Layne garage at Pier avenue and trolleyway, and soon the brick masons will be doing their share of the building. The garage will be put up at a cost of $20,000. There will be stores and booths along the avenue and on the car line. This was once occupied by the famous Boardwalk City, which sprang up after the disastrous fire of 1912.

The Santa Monica Dairy Company will build a $7500 plant at Rose avenue and Second street, which will be quite an addition to the industrial part of the bay. The work of clearing the ground has already commenced.

The unsightly pile of bricks that for so many months has been an eyesore in the amusement section has been removed and the space once so disfigured will be paved and turned into a new band stand location in connection with the new roller coaster. The land has been leased and will be permanently used as a band stand.

PLYMOUTH ACRES.

Plymouth Acres, the latest subdivision of the Guy M. Rush Company, is being rapidly put into shape. Streets are being graded and water piped all over the property, and announcement is made that within a few days it will be open to the public. The tract lies along the new El Segundo cut-off of the Pacific Electric Railway. The company intends to develop the property as a location for chicken ranches and small garden plots.

APARTMENTS SOLD.

A new apartment-house at Los Angeles and Pico streets, known as the Jarnel Apartments, has been sold by the J. R. Lane Company to an Ogden (Utah) syndicate for a reported consideration of $90,000. The building was erected about a year ago by J. R. Lane.

NEW NORTHWEST STORES.

One of a number of business improvements recently completed in the northwestern part of Los Angeles is a two-story brick store and apartment structure built by S. G. Gaughman on Western avenue, between First and Second streets. The building occupies a ground area of 50x120 feet. The lower story is occupied by the Westlake Pharmacy and the Wilshire Picture Theater, while the second floor is divided into up-to-date apartment suites.

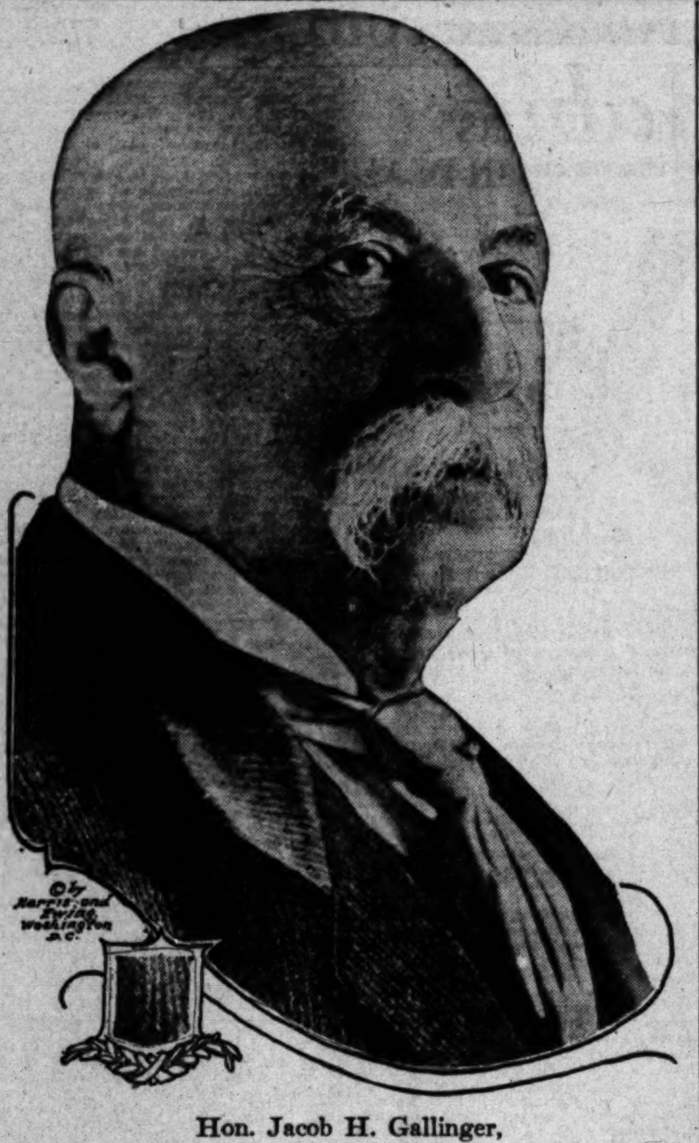
Jacob H. Gallinger.

SENATE LEADER PICKS HUGHES FOR PRESIDENT.

Veteran Republican Says Country Will Be Tired of the Present Administration by 1916—Tells for the First Time of His Break With Benjamin Harrison—Got Into Politics Through Reciting Original Poem.



Hon. Jacob H. Gallinger,

Republican floor leader in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—While practicing his profession, Jacob H. Gallinger, M.D., had patients in Concord and in twelve up and down hill townships in New Hampshire and also over the State line in Maine, to the east, and across the south boundary in Massachusetts. He was a hard-driving city and country doctor.

Rural physicians in those days had to know everything from croup to amputations. Persons still living, having tasted his medicines, say that Jacob H. Gallinger was a great natural doctor. Likewise, they add, he was a friendly doctor without cultivated mannerisms by which he planned to maintain curiosity and obtain publicity.

All men passing him in the road got a greeting. Every inhabitant of Concord knew him personally. Then one day the boys in the Fourth Ward elected him to the office of moderator. The word sounds ecclesiastical. It happens, however, to be political in New Hampshire.

"A moderator in our part of the country," Dr. Gallinger said to me, "is sort of a chief justice of elections. He serves for one day and receives $5. It is customary for him to give a dinner for the clerks and other [illegible] functionaries. The office, therefore, cannot be called remunerative. I paid for the dinner, refused the $5, and the next year courteously declined a repetition of the honor."

So Dr. Gallinger found himself in politics. Presently he was a member of the Legislature. On the heels of that service, he helped make over the Constitution of the Commonwealth. His colleagues, talking among themselves, said that he was a natural lawyer. By and by he sat in the State Senate, of which finally he became president.

The Governor of New Hampshire, about that time, made him a brigadier-general of the militia, in charge of the medical branch of the service. His comrades soon declared that he was a natural soldier. Meanwhile, the electorate of Concord were proclaiming their conviction that he was a natural politician. As far back as 1882 Gen. Gallinger was elected chairman of the New Hampshire Republican Committee.

DEBATER, DRUDGE AND MIXER.

Two years thereafter he was sent to the House of Representatives in Washington. In 1891 he became a United States Senator. Since then he has been re-elected three times without opposition. Men at the national capital say that he is a natural lawmaker. Eugene Hale of Maine once asserted that he is a natural debater. Orators who have campaigned with him will tell you that he is a natural stumper. Notorious drudges admit that he is a natural worker. Every one agrees that he is a natural mixer.

A lady at a dinner party in Paris turned to Senator Gallinger and said: "I have one peculiar accomplishment."

"I am sure," he answered, "you have a great many acomplishments."

"I have never as yet," the lady continued, smiling at the compliment, "failed correctly to guess the age of any man or woman. You are 55 years old."

"I'll be 78, madam," Senator Gallinger replied, "on the 28th of next March."

And he was 77 on the 28th of last March, though the best guesser living would swear that he is no older than 55, and would then feel that he had overshot the mark. Thus, here are persons who believe that he is a natural centenarian. Indeed, his maternal grandfather and grandmother each lived to be 100 years old.

It will be seen, therefore, that Senator Gallinger is uncommon in a number of ways. Moreover, in length of service, he is the oldest member of the Senate and likewise is the leader of the Republicans on the floor of the chamber. Not one man remains of those who, from their seats on the floor of the Upper House of Congress, saw him take the oath of office on March 4, 1891. Nearly all of them are dead.

"What has happened to the Senate?" Charles Francis Adams of Boston asked not a great while ago as he looked down from one of the galleries.

"It has been popularized," answered the man to whom the inquiry was addressed.

ALSO A NATURAL STANDFASTER.

There are those who say that Senator Gallinger is a lingering, though vigorous, standpatter, the last rose of a protracted protection summer. Coming to the House of Representatives in 1885, a physician, it should be remembered, he made a really brilliant speech on the tariff. The Republican National Committee circulated 2,000,000 copies of it through the country, East and West. Senator James McMillan, the Michigan car builder, paid for 100,000 extra copies and spread them among his own constituents. The speech made the New Hampshire doctor famous. Since then he has been looked upon as a tariff specialist—a natural standfaster.

"You ask me for a diagnosis," he said. "My answer is that the Republican party will come back. We may lose two or three Senators at the elections this year. The Senate, as I believe, will remain Democratic.

"The Democratic majority in the House of Representatives will be reduced, however. Fortunately, the Republicans will remain in the minority. President Wilson will have a free hand to carry out his policies. By 1916 the country will have had all it wants of the present administration. The new tariff law is helping no one but the foreign manufacturer. He is filling his pockets.

"If the Republicans nominate the right man for President they will win. As for myself, I cannot see the man at this time. The Progressive party is rapidly disintegrating in all directions. Only a handful of leaders will remain eventually. Mr. Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court could easily be elected, but I have supposed he would refuse to re-enter politics. The campaign year after next will center on the tariff question. Watchful, waiting and Panama Canal tolls will be interesting side issues. But the Republicans must find a candidate. The Democrats are now busily employed in writing the Republican platform. That job is off our hands. But where is our man? I do not know."

LOOKS LIKE CLEVELAND.

"Roosevelt?" I suggested.

"He has come to my mind, of course," Senator Gallinger answered, "but he broke up the Republican party in 1912, after it had nurtured him and honored him ever since his boyhood and to me, though there is no personal feeling in my judgment, he seems impossible. Whitman, the New York graft hunter, may grow nationally. So far his fame is only local."

"You have lived and worked in Washington," I said, "ever since Mr. Cleveland's first term as President?"

In repose, Senator Gallinger's face is strikingly like Mr. Cleveland's, though even then there is a liveliness in its expression which Mr. Cleveland's face never had. The noses of the two men are of the same size and structure. Their mustaches, in shape and color, minutely resemble each other.

"I had great respect for President Cleveland and much affection for President McKinley," Senator Gallinger replied. "My relations with all the Presidents but Gen. Harrison were particularly pleasant."

"And yet," I said, "you seconded the nomination of Harrison at the Chicago convention?"

"Yes, unhappily. It is one of the acts I regret. Gen. Harrison had a suspicious nature and was an ice-house in the bargain. Suspicious persons are always disagreeable. They read motives into language and conduct when no motives exist. My adventures with President Harrison are only interesting because they reveal an infirmity in his character and give a little light on the way politics are sometimes operated.

"I was a Harrison man so early as 1887. His name, I said, was of considerable politcal and sentimental value. He was an old soldier. He was competent. Indiana was a pivotal State. Thus I argued in Washington. I went to Vermont and debated Harrison's case with Redfield Proctor, who had been Governor of the State.

"My attitude became known in Indiana, and Dudley, Michener, George W. Steele, and others asked me to make a speech seconding Harrison's nomination at the national convention. I was averse to the suggestion, on the ground that the speech ought to come from a larger and more uncertain State, but yielded when the whole party called the second time and brought Gen. Lew Wallace, author of 'Ben-Hur,' along.

PAID HIS FARE TO INDIANA.

"I made the speech, praising Harrison sincerely and then mentioning the names of Republican heroes, from Lincoln and Chase to James G. Blaine. The friends of Blaine, although he was out of the fight and I knew it, began a demonstration. After the convention I was invited to visit the candidate for a conference. I paid my railway fare from Concord to Indianapolis and was cordially received by Harrison, who hinted broadly that he would give me a good appointment in the event of his election.

"But I was out of politcs and said so, adding that I had declined again to run for Congress and meant to practice medicine and enjoy my cats, dogs and horses and my rocky farm at Salsbury. Asked about the New England member of the Cabinet, I spoke of Gov. Proctor, who, as you remember was appointed Secretary of War. Harrison acted throughout our meeting exactly like a human being, and I began to challenge the stories about his being an iceberg.

"Later two politcians told him that the reference to Blaine in my convention speech was planned to create a stampede to the Maine candidate. In short, I was accused of premeditated treachery. And Harrison believed the story. So far as I heard, he never made an attempt to learn the truth. He just supposed I was a political double-dealer and let it go at that. In the meantime I had not been informed of his change in feeling toward me.

"I called on him in company with the Governor of New Hampshire the day before his inauguration. He stood in the center of the room and bowed coldly. I was greatly embarrassed because the Governor knew my speech in Chicago and my journey to Indianapolis. I was also bewildered. Well, to shorten the story, I will say that the two men I later recommended for office were turned down. In 1890 minor Federal officers in New Hampshire tried to beat me for Senator. I was elected, however, and then Harrison, which showed the cold-blooded and calculating disposition of the man, asked me to call at the White House. I ignored the message. When he repeated the invitation, I went to see him simply out of curiosity.

"There was more than a frigid bow when he saw me this time. I was now a Senator. After a word or two of introductory conversation, he said: 'Is there anything I can do for you?'

"'There is not,' I replied.

"'I have some positions in the consular service,' he went on to say, opening a drawer of his desk and pointing to a bundle of documents.

"'At this late day in your administration,' I told him, 'I have no friends or constituents who care for government jobs in cholera-ridden and yellow fever-stricken localities. I bid you good morning, Mr. President.' And that is the last time I ever spoke to him. I tell you this story, although I refused to give it to Senator Tom Platt, who wanted it for his book."

"There were many remarkable men in the Forty-ninth Congress," Senator Gallinger said, while talking about his first term as a Representative, which began in December, 1885. "John G. Carlisle was Speaker, Samuel J. Randall was chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, and Thomas B. Reed was on the Ways and Means Committee. William McKinley, William L. Wilson, Nelson Dingley, Jr., and Sereno E. Payne

TRINIDAD OIL INDUSTRY.

Island Is Assuming Importance as Fuel Station for Ships Coming from South America.

The island of Trinidad, the southernmost of the West Indies, which has for a number of years been famous for its asphalt product, is now gaining some attention as an oil-producing section, especially in view of its growing importance as a fuel station, since the advent of oil-burning ships. The island is in the path of northbound vessels from South America.

"The exploitation of oil in Trinidad has been of comparatively recent occurrence," says Frederick W. Foote in the Fuel Oil Journal in part:

"A survey made by the government disclosed a series of anticlines of tertiary strata running across the southern part of the island in an approximately east and west direction. At first the prospectors found great difficulty in getting their drill holes down, on account of a thick layer of clay from which gas issued. The gas puddled the clay and tended to fill up the holes when the drill was removed. By careful geological work with a drill the anticlines were located and the wells driven along their axes. In some cases the wells were driven on the sides, but the best results were obtained by driving them along the axes of the ridge.

"Oil has been developed in varying quantities and at various depths, depending on the thickness of the overburden. The oil is heavy and dark and is of an asphaltic base.

"An evolution of gas is present, sufficient to run a large percentage of the pumping engines required by the wells. Oil also oozes out of the sands on the beach, and there is also an oil spring about 200 yards out in the sea.

"At the present time there are thirty-one wells in operation and more are being drilled, as occasion demands. These wells represent all types. Some were gushers and produced good values of oil. Others only gave a moderate flow, but sufficient gas was present to bring the oil up to the surface. Others are relieved of their oil by bailing it out with long cylinders.

"The oil field is situated partly in an old cocoa plantation, from which the mineral right (if it could be called such) has been leased, and partly in the jungle. The land is rather low and swampy.

"Ships coming to Point Fortin for oil cannot come within two miles of the shore, but the company operating the wells has two oil barges of about 400 tons capacity to bring the oil out to the ships. These barges are operated by Diesel engines using the natural oil."

The Seaward Trend.

CLOSE-IN TRACT CHANGES HANDS.

INVESTORS BUY WASHINGTON BOULEVARD ACREAGE.

Property Near Short-Line Town Will Be Subdivided for Market. Doctor Acquires Fifteen Culver City Lots—Expects to Improve Them at Once.

An important close-in acreage transaction was negotiated during the past week through the Harry H. Culver Company when three Los Angeles business men bought fifty-six acres fronting on Washington boulevard near Culver City. The consideration was given at $154,000, or at the rate of $2750 an acre. The names of the buyers are not announced. The land purchased, it is said, will be subdivided for residence purposes and placed on the market.

Another noted realty transaction, involving a block of fifteen lots in the residence section of Culver City, is also reported by the Culver company. Dr. J. M. Ash of Los Angeles, the purchaser, paid a given consideration of $34,850 for the sites. Dr. Ash has been instrumental in the building of many fine residences in the Crenshaw-boulevard district, and according to represtatives of the company, it is his intention to erect a series of attractive homes on his newly-acquired Culver City property.

WILL AID DEVELOPMENT.

Building of Alaska Railroad Will Stimulate Exploitation of Oil Resources of Territory.

[Oil Age:] The building of a railroad by the government in Alaska will do much toward facilitating the development of the oil prospects of that vast territory, as well as of coal and copper. California drillers, who have worked on wells there, report that a great number of oil seepages are in evidence, from the mouth of the Copper River easterly through Katalla to Cape Yaktag, a distance of about seventy miles. Holes were dug in some of the seepages from ten to twenty feet deep, and the oil that seeped into these holes when tested showed from forty to forty-seven gravity, paraffine base, light amber in color.

There has been some drilling near Katalla and also near Behring Lake and to the north of Controller Bay, not far from Seward. At one point, one of the drillers found a large seepage that was oozing out of sandstone; a hole was opened up in the rock from which oil of forty-seven gravity was bailed with a hand bucket.

Geologists in the employment of the government report that a number of oil seepages are in evidence on or near the north coast of the Territory, near the Kuguru River. All oil in the Territory of Alaska, so far reported by the government geologists and others who have prospected in that field, is of a paraffine base and high in gases.

BIG PLACERS ARE IN DEAL.

Guggenheims Reported to Be Behind Purchase.

Other Large Holdings Also Change Hands.

Record of Activities in the Mining Districts.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WEAVERVILLE, April 24.—One of the most important mining deals in the history of Trinity county was virtually consummated last week when eastern engineers, said to represent the Guggenheim interests, tentatively closed negotiations for a large area of placer holdings in the vicinity of Trinity Centre. The property includes some proven dredging ground, and extends for more than four miles along the Trinity River and tributary streams. In the early days of the county considerable placer mining was done in this region, but only the surface deposits were worked.

Before acquiring the property the new owners comprehensively explored the deposits, and large bodies of profitable gravel have been intersected near bedrock.

Another important placer deal of recent date was the acquisition of 1400 acres of gravel deposits near Igo, Shasta county, by eastern people. The property includes the Russell placer mine, where considerable rich gravel has been demonstrated, and plans are being formulated to install a dredge on the ground. It is reported one of the dredges at Oroville, which has practically worked out its ground there, will be moved to Igo.

Under the management of John Nefroney of Los Angeles, the Hardscrabble mine on South Russian Creek is developing into an excellent property. The working force was recently increased and much new ground is undergoing development. It is planned to install a mill and additional mine equipment at an early date, if development continues as satisfactory as in the past few months.

The company has taken particular pains to assemble an efficient working force, and its camp is said to be the best maintained by any company in the county. Every comfort possible is provided. As a result the company has succeeded in attracting the best miners and experiences no trouble in holding its men.

The Doyle district, a new mining section in Lassen county, is winning appreciation from California and Nevada mining men, following several rich discoveries. Fifteen miles northwest of Doyle a vein of gold quartz has been developed by Orlando McNab and J. S. Trusscott, the ore running $150 to $200 per ton in gold.

Ludwig and associates of Yerrington and Rochester, Nev., have acquired the Daly & Bruce copper mine, eight miles from Doyle, for a reputed consideration of $140,000. It is understood the first payment has been made, and development work has commenced. Considerable prospecting has been done on the group and large bodies of copper ore are indicated. Several other properties are receiving attention. Silver and lead ores have been found, but copper and gold predominates.

JADE MINE.

The Californite Company of San Diego has purchased the Onyx jade mine, located near Happy Camp. The property is said to contain the only deposit of commercial jade in the country, and numerous samples of the material have found a ready market. The jade is of dark-green color, and it is stated the new owners will operate the mine on a large scale and send the product to distant markets.

The Trinity Consolidated, La Grange and other hydraulic mining companies operating in the Weaverville basin and adjacent country, are recording an excellent season, with chances excellent for an unusually long run. Late snow piled high in the mountains assured an abundance of water.

The Rainbow mine, one of the earliest locations in the Alleghany district, is again coming into prominence as a result of recent developments. A strong shoot of high-grade milling ore has been intersected by the drift from the upper east level of the mine, with occasional bunches of specimen quartz in evidence. A peculiar circumstance is that the arsenical sulphurets show a silvery-white color, and practically all the arsenical sulphurets hitherto found in the camp have been black. This distinction leads many mining men to believe the company has discovered an ore-body apart from the main lode of the camp.

So satisfactory have recent developments been that the company is planning the building of a ten-stamp amalgamating and concentrating plant, also a roaster for reduction of sulphurets. The Rainbow was originally worked for its placer deposits and was one of the first mines to demonstrate the value of the quartz veins of Alleghany.

MYSTERY SHROUDS TESTS.

Mystery, deep and dark, shrouds the future activities of the Balaklala Copper Company. Tests of the Hall desulphurizing process at the Balaklala smelter have ceased and shipments of ore to the Mason Valley smelter are no longer made. It is officially stated that tests of the process were suspended pending a conference of the directors regarding the advisability of erecting a crushing plant to replace the one destroyed last February by fire.

No word has been received from headquarters, however, since Manager Leland went East to consult with Thomas W. Lawson. A new superintendent, S. A. Holman, Jr., is in charge of the mine, where some development work continues and small shipments are going forward to the Mammoth smelter.

Installation of cyanide equipment at the Bishop Creek mine, near Bishop, will soon be under way. Heavy snow in the hills near the mine has prevented the shipment of the machinery from Denver, but as soon as the road is clear the plant will be pushed to completion. The mine is provided with a ten-stamp mill and considerable ore of milling grade is said to be developed. The property is owned by Gaylord Wilshire and associates, but thus far has failed to live up to the glowing predictions of its leading owners.

EARNINGS OF TWO SHOW DECLINE.

REPORTS OF MINOR ASSOCIATED SUBSIDIARIES.

Slight Increase in Profits of Sterling, Although Income Account of that Concern, as Well as Pioneer Midway and "Coast," Reveal Deficit for Year.

Net earnings of the minor subsidiaries of the Associated Oil Company for last year (before depreciation charges and after deducting operating expenses,) with their respective increases or decreases, as compared with the previous year, are shown to be as follows in the annual report of the corporation for 1913: California Coast, $90,269, a decrease of $43,110; Sterling Oil and Development, $53,841, an increase of $1925; Pioneer Midway, $43,459, a decrease of $12,296. In the case of each company a deficit for the year, after depreciation and dividend charges, is shown as follows: Pioneer Midway, $75,966; Sterling Oil and Development, $59,287; California Coast, $10,906.

In the income account of the California Coast Oil Company a balance for the year, applicable to dividends, of $60,194 is shown. The company paid dividends aggregating $71,100 on a capitalization of $200,000 during the year. Current assets as of December 31, 1913, are shown to be $37,391, or $20,158 less than at the end of 1912. There was a nominal increase in the small current liabilities.

The balance of the Sterling Oil and Development Company, applicable to dividends, as revealed in the income account was $15,713. The company disbursed $75,000 in dividends, or 30 per cent. on a capitalization of $250,000. Current assets as of December 31, 1913, were $59,751, or a few thousand dollars less than at the end of the previous year; liabilities were cut down to a slightly greater extent, however. The cash on hand, as of December 31 last, is shown to have been nearly $40,000.

The Pioneer Midway Oil Company paid no dividends. A considerable sum was written off for depreciation in this company.

In the case of each company gross receipts were less in 1913 than in 1912, but operating expenses were reduced during last year. The Sterling Oil and Development and the California Coast are paying dividends on their earnings for previous years, to a greater or less extent.

The two most important subsidiaries of the Associated, as far as furnishing a revenue for that company from dividends is concerned, are the Amalgamated and the West Coast. The statements of these concerns were published in The Times during the past week.

Profits for Eagle Oil Transport Company, Cowdray Concern, Furnish 6 Per Cent. Dividend.

The Eagle Oil Transport Company, Limited, for the twelve months ending December 31, last, made a profit on trading of 92,866 pounds (about $450,000) sterling, according to recent reports in English publications. After providing for contingent expenses the directors recommended transfer of 25,644 pounds to depreciation and the payment of a dividend of 6 per cent. on preferred shares. The directors state that during the year eight vessels were delivered by the builders, making a total of eleven vessels in commission on December 31, last. It is expected to add six more new vessels before the end of June.

Lord Cowdray, who presided at the annual meeting, said that it had been contended that the company was building larger tank ships than it was economical to build. His reply to that criticism was that their experience had confirmed their expectations, namely, that for vessels intended for the fuel oil trade, those carrying from 15,000 to 16,000 tons of oil were neither unmanageable nor too big, while their advantage was that they could carry freight some 10 per cent. cheaper on an average voyage than could a 9000-ton ship.

He stated that the recent very high oil freight rates showed that the demand for tank vessels was largely in excess of the supply, and notwithstanding the great amount of new tonnage for transportation of petroleum freights still remained above the normal. He was of the opinion that to keep pace with the increase in the yearly output of oil a great tonnage of tankers would have to be built.

The 15,000-tonners of this company, to which English shipping publications refer, are: The San Fraterna, 6053 net tons; the San Gregorio, 6069 net tons; the San Hilario, 6454 net tons; San Lorenzo, 6050 net tons. These tankers are able to lift from 90,000 to 100,000 barrels of petroleum according to its gravity and ranging from heavy crude to refined.

UNION TERMINAL PLAN SHAPING.

TORRANCE TO SOLVE TRAFFIC PROBLEMS NOW.

Southland's Model Industrial City Providing for Sane Future Growth by Separating Freight from Passenger Service—Large Bridge Part of Scheme.

Work will be started this week on the union terminal at Torrance, one of the most important phases of the elaborate plan of the development of this Southern California industrial city. The first step in the improvement will be the construction of a concrete bridge over El Prado, the main artery of travel into Torrance.

The new bridge will be constructed from plans prepared by Ralph Bennett, chief engineer of the Dominguez Land Corporation. It will be hurried to completion in order to accommodate the Llewellyn Iron Works in facilitating the handling of the structural steel for its new $750,000 plant at Torrance. This steel was ordered some time ago, and its arrival at the Los Angeles harbor is expected shortly. The presence of the new bridge will enable the Southern Pacific to deliver steel directly on the site of the Llewellyn plant without the necessity of hauling it to Torrance by way of the Pacific Electric passenger tracks. Its completion also will mean the permanent separation of freight from passenger service in Torrance.

Designed to take care of main-line loading, the bridge will be 150 feet long by about sixty feet high, and will be wide enough to accommodate double tracks. Architecturally, it will be an attractive structure.

The larger union terminal improvement, which will follow, will work a great convenience to the manufacturers, the general public and the railroads concerned. The terminal yards and freighthouses will be constructed at the north end of Torrance. The main yard will be 4000 feet long by eighty feet wide, and accommodations will be made for as many tracks as needed. The Southern Pacific Railroad has already made plans to enter this terminal on the east end by way of Compton and the other transcontinental roads in all probability will enter from the north and west.

The operation of the terminal will be under the direction of the State Railway Commission. To provide for the future growth of Torrance the terminal plan was laid out on an adequate scale. It provides not only for ample trackage to all the factories in the industrial district, but that the railroads must do their shipping inside the town by electric power. This was insisted upon as a measure to preserve the city's beauty and cleanliness.

ENTERS FULLERTON FIELD.

Great West Company Backed by San Diego Capitalists, Begins Work on Well Near Placentia.

FULLERTON, April 24.—The Fullerton Great West Oil Company, a new concern, this week started its first well this morning on the Fred Tuffree forty-acre tract, north of Placentia. The company gave Tuffree a good bonus, and besides agreed to turn over a reasonable percentage of all the oil that may be developed.

The new company is backed largely by the San Diego capitalists who are behind the South Fullerton Oil Company which drilled a well to a depth of about 4000 feet, near El Toro, and failed to strike oil down there, after expending over $80,000. The South Fullerton is now trying to shut the salt water out of its well.

On the Fullerton Great West property, Drillers Henry West and E. C. Hammill commenced work this morning with a force of ten men. Russell Annin, who drilled the well at El Toro, is in charge of the new venture. The company which is said to be well financed, is starting out with a pay roll of about $50 a day.

NOT BEHINDHAND.

Australian Government Offers a Bonus for Petroleum Discovery in Southern Section.

Not to be behindhand in joining in that world-wide search for petroleum which is now in progress, the Australian government has offered a bonus of 5000 pounds to the person or corporation who shall first discover a well in South Australia which will produce 100,000 gallons of oil.

Certain restrictions are set forth in the offer, one being that the Minister of Mines must also be furnished with samples of the formations passed through, as well as a certificate for the government analyst concerning the quality of the oil.

NOW OPERATING IN KERN RIVER.

C. C. Harris Interested in Road Oil Properties.

Retires as Manager of City Field Concern.

State Consolidated Well Is Again Producing.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TAFT, April 24.—Development of the holdings of the Ohio Crude [illegible] Company and the Vulcan Oil and Refining Company in Kern River field is now being carried on by the Harris & Stevens Corporation of Los Angeles, of which C. C. Harris, well known as an operator in the southern city field, is one of the principal stockholders. The holdings, which consist of forty acres, producing about [illegible] barrels a day of road oil, were taken over by the corporation early in the year.

Harris retired as secretary and general manager of the C. C. Harris Oil Company, with which he was for many years connected, the first of this month. Beside the enterprise in Kern River he has also the distribution and application of the asphalt of the Roadite Paving and Supply Company in Southern California, and maintains his office at Los Angeles.

The C. C. Harris Oil Company, which still bears the name of the operator, is being managed by E. [illegible] Snyder of Pasadena. Among the principal stockholders are the Dr. H. J. Cates estate and C. E. Donnatin and Dr. Reinhardt Vernigk. By a coincidence the property of Snyder in the city field was purchased by the C. C. Harris Company about 1900, when he began operations. Snyder subsequently became interested in Coalinga oil field and elsewhere in the [illegible] and finally drifted back to Los Angeles. He is an oil man of long experience.

Harris only had a small interest in the company and tendered his resignation in order to devote his time to his other interests.

The C. C. Harris Oil Company was organized by the late Dr. H. J. Cates and Harris, and is the most [illegible] producer in the city field.

State Well Yields.

The State Consolidated Oil Company's well at Shale, Midway field, in which the casing has been repaired, is now reported to be good for about [illegible] barrels of oil a day. The State is drilling two more wells on the [illegible] and is building the rig for a [illegible]. At the recent annual meeting of the company at San Francisco a week ago A. M. Buley was elected secretary-treasurer, vice David J. Graham, resigned. Some other changes in the personnel of the board are also being made, it is said.

The Maricopa Northern Oil Company has cemented its well to shut off water on section 32, and has resumed drilling for the oil sand.

A receiver has been appointed to take charge of the property of the Panama Oil Company on section 12-23. Two Sheriff's sales that were to have been held were called off this week. Three months ago all the workmen on the lease departed after being asked for their money on several occasions. Not long afterward creditors filed suits, which tied up the holding.

Workmen started laying the [illegible] pipe line of the Producers' Transportation Company from Olig, near Kittrick, to Junction, Monday. The distance is some twenty-nine miles.

The Madera Bank has taken a default judgment against the Twenty-Two Oil Company for $18,[illegible] result of an action brought before Judge Church this week. The bank brought suit to foreclose the [illegible] which had been given on July [illegible] 1911. It was brought out at the trial in the proof that $5096.94 had been paid as interest, covering the period from January, 1910, to July, 1911. The judgment also requires $900 attorney's fees.

Northern Exports.

Exports of crude and refined oil from the San Francisco customs district during the month of March showed a considerable increase compared with the preceding month and also as compared with March, 1913. The customhouse records show that Chile continued to be the largest buyer of liquid fuel, while British Columbia held second place on the list. With the exception of [illegible] gallons sent to British Columbia [illegible] of the refined oil sent to foreign countries during the month went to the Orient, Japan taking the [illegible] share.

The figures which follow represent bulk shipments only. [illegible] quantities of cased oil are shipped abroad every month as part of general merchandise cargoes. The shipments last month were distributed as follows:

UNION MENACE IN COLORADO.

Fierce and Bloody Struggle Seven Months Old.

Strike Marked by Violence from the Beginning.

State's Poverty the Cause of Militia's Withdrawal.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER (Colo.) April 23.—Colorado's present labor trouble began seven months ago. On September 23, 1913, the strike called by the United Mine Workers of America became effective. Of approximately 12,000 men employed in the mines the number who answered the strike call was estimated variously at from 6000 to 10,000, the operators claiming a considerable number had left the camps previously rather than become involved in the controversy.

Briefly, the demands of the miners were:

Recognition of the union.

A 10 per cent. wage advance on a tonnage basis.

Eight-hour day for all classes of labor. Check weighmen.

The right to trade and board where they pleased.

Enforcement of the Colorado mining laws and abolition of the "guard system."

The miners contended that the first, third, fifth, sixth and seventh demands were State laws, but not enforced. The operators maintained that wages in Colorado were higher than in other mining districts, excepting possibly Wyoming; that an eight-hour day had been provided; check weighmen were permitted and urged; that the men had the right to trade and board where they pleased, and that it was the duty of the State officials to enforce the mining laws.

Strenuous efforts were made by Gov. Ammons to arrange a basis for the settlement of differences, each failing because of the persistence of refusal of the strikers to waive and the operators to grant recognition of the union. Early in the controversy, Ethelbert Stewart and Secretary W. B. Wilson of the Federal Department of Labor visited Colorado, but their efforts at conciliation likewise failed.

Almost from the first the strike was marked by violence, Marshal Robert Lee of Segundo being killed, allegedly by Thomas Larius, a Greek, and three companions. Clashes between guards and strikers continued until, on October 18, Gov. Ammons called out the National Guard for strike duty.

This followed a series of battles at Ludlow, Forbes and other camps. Attempts to disarm strikers resulted in the militia gathering a small quantity of arms, mostly of antiquated pattern, and ammunition. The ban on the importation of strike breakers was raised after a few weeks and the companies were permitted to bring men from outside the State to work the mines.

Intermittent clashes continued and on February 8, 1914, a House subcommittee headed by M. D. Foster began an inquiry which continued to March 7. Hearings were held in Denver, Trinidad and Walsenburg. During the stay of the committee diplomatic relations were established between operators and union leaders.

Difficulty in meeting the expense of maintaining the militia in the field confronted the State officials from the first. The $250,000 guaranteed by Denver clearinghouse banks soon was exhausted and certificates of indebtedness were issued for supplies and pay of the troops for twice that amount. The financial situation and the apparent quiet that had prevailed for several weeks caused Gov. Ammons to withdraw practically all the militia on April 17, only small detachments remaining at strategic points.

Throughout the strike miners and their families have been cared for in tent colonies established and maintained by the United Mine Workers of America.

REMEDY FOR LOW WAGES.

Minimum Wages Do Not Make for Industrial Efficiency, but Put Premium on Poor Workmen.

[American Industries:] The remedy for low wages is not a minimum wage law, but increased industrial efficiency, so that there will be more produced and at lower prices because of the full utilization of capital and other productive forces of society. Industrial efficiency can be increased by means of industrial education—education which not only trains the worker, but prepares him or her for the work he or she is best fitted for by reason of natural talents and inclinations. The minimum wage would be of no use, but be a detriment to the increased industrial efficiency beneficial to all. After all, the question in this case, as in all cases, is one of earning power and what the worker is worth. It may be good business policy to employ unskilled common labor, if the wages paid for it are sufficiently low; and it may not be good business policy to employ the same labor if the wages for it are high. For instance, unskilled labor may be employed to deliver circulars, bills, receipts, etc., which can just as well be mailed. The employer necessarily compares the cost. If it is cheaper to use the mail, he is a very poor business man if he does not do so; and if it is cheaper to employ labor to do the same work, he will do so. The point is that there is a class of work of such character that it can be performed by young, inexperienced, unskilled or common labor which is unfitted for anything else. If the minimum wage of such labor is arbitrarily fixed at the cost of living the employer will find it unprofitable to employ them and they will be kept out of employment which they might have but for the arbitrary, uneconomic and high minimum wage. If a minimum wage is a "living wage," and wages are to be determined by the skill, experience, industry and qualifications of the worker, and the cost of his living, how is the cost of living to be determined? Workers, just as individuals vary, in industry, education, skill, experience, ability and many other things that determine the status of the individual, vary in the business world, his standing in society, and the cost of living. No way has yet been devised to determine the cost of liv-

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES AND STRIKERS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

THE futile Michigan copper strike of almost nine months' duration cost the unions over a million dollars, to say nothing of the enormous loss of wages. Did it pay? It was ended by an overwhelming vote that way of the strikers who had not previously gone back to work. The vote was 1867 for calling off the strike to 507 against. The strikers originally numbered some 13,000. The real object of the strike was for recognition of the union (Western Federation of Miners,) which was not granted, and never will be granted, by the mining companies. The W. F. of M. is an organization whose tendencies are toward lawlessness. Haywood of the I.W.W. graduated from that school.

About the conditions in the Michigan copper mines, there was much misrepresentation in the early days of the strike. Secretary of Labor Wilson made the blunder of upholding the strikers in an address which he made at the Seattle convention of the A. F. of L. But gradually the truth became known, and it was seen that the contest was not because wages were insufficient, or working conditions oppressive, or the mine owners were not willing to grant reasonable demands; but for the purpose of extending the dangerous power of the Western Federation of Miners, the same organization that has been for a long time, and still is, interrupting mining operations in Colorado.

Troops are in readiness to crush the daily-expected big general strike of Italian railway men—workers on the government-owned railways of that country. Evidently public ownership (as also municipal ownership) is no guarantee against strikes, even though both are a form of Socialism. Foreigners, including 500 Americans, have left Italy in anticipation of the strike, which is expected to become a revolution. This will be a syndicalists' strike, with violence, rioting and bloodshed as its chief features. Cases of sabotage (destruction of railway locomotives, etc.,) have already occurred. Military engineers and naval stokers will run the trains, if necessary. Many of the strikers will be compelled to work trains, being called to the colors as army reservists, as did the French reservists during the great railway strike in that country.

In May, 1913, the I.W.W. boasted that they would have 100,000 members by June of that year. In less than eight months after all this bragging they were in convention with a total membership, reported by themselves, of only 14,300 in the whole country, of whom one-fifth were in the city of Paterson, N. J., the scene of the badly-busted I.W.W. strike of silk workers. Truly, the I.W.W. drags out its existence by bragging and blustering and fooling the few men and women into paying dues so that Haywood, Flynn, Ettor & Co., may live on the fat of the land and enjoy trips to Europe. Will the day ever come when labor will use its wages for its own benefit instead of giving large sums of it to worthless labor agitators?

The Yorkshire, Eng., strike of 170,000 coal miners is over. The vote to end the strike was nearly 3 to 1. This was not a strike against owners, but really against labor leaders, so as to show defiance to their orders.

Members of the London Electrical Trades Union are on strike after only one hour's notice to employers. They demand less work and more wages.

Ten thousand more workers from forty firms have joined the London building trades strike. These men were engaged in constructional maintenance and repair work.

The striking grain elevator handlers of Buffalo have returned to work on an increase of 10 per cent. in wages.

The strike of 1800 men of the coupler works at Depew (Buffalo) New York is still on with no signs of settlement.

The shoe strike at Portsmouth, O., is still on with violence and thirty-five strikers are in jail for ignoring the Mayor's order against congregating in the shoe factory district. The police are guarding the factories.

In the Pittsburgh district, 15,000 mine workers have withdrawn from the United Mine Workers of America and have formed the Industrial Mine Workers' Union. The trouble grows out of the wage scale situation.

Brewery workers at Albany, N. Y., plan a peaceful settlement of the dispute with their employers about a new wage scale.

The first trolley car on the streets of Hazleton, Pa., since January 1, when the trolleymen's strike started, was operated on April 9.

Members of the I.W.W. are still at work on the boycott against Marysville, Cal., and that region. A general tie-up is threatened unless two men held for the Wheatland hop riots are released.

Battles are still raging between the Colorado coal strikers and the National Guard. Sixteen strikers killed and several injured this last week.

Railway strikes are still pending on the Illinois Central lines, the Pere Marquette Railroad and the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf Railway.

Twenty-one thousand German country doctors are on strike against sickness and accident insurance associations established under the imperial insurance laws. It's a case of single doctors having more than their share of patients.

NEAR ANARCHISTS.

Street Railroad Unionites Prove Their Disloyalty and Opposition to National Guard.

[American Industries:] The generally antagonistic attitude of organized labor to the National Guard was emphasized in the recent strike at Depew, near Buffalo. The professions of labor leaders, that they have no objection to their members affiliating with the guard, have little weight in the face of such dispatches as the following:

ATTITUDE OF UNION OFFICERS.

BUFFALO, March 24.—The refusal of International Railway Company employees to move street cars on which National Guardsmen were taken to the Lackawanna Station today en route to Depew created a sharp issued between the company and the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway employees to which the men belong. E. C. Connette, president of the International, confirmed the action of the Supervisors in suspending the motormen and conductors comprising the crew of the six cars. When this word was carried to the headquarters of the street car men a call was at once issued for a meeting of the Grievance Committee, and it was announced by C. F. Conroy, president of the local union, that a demand would be made upon President Connette this afternoon for the reinstatement of the men.

THE DYNAMITERS.

Final Chapter Written by the United States Supreme Court and Men Must Pay the Penalty.

[American Industries:] The final chapter in the Structural Ironworkers' campaign to destroy "open shops" with dynamite and nitroglycerin was written on March 9 by the Supreme Court in refusing to review the penitentiary sentences imposed upon Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers and twenty-three of the association's members. The men were convicted of conspiracy to carry dynamite and nitroglycerin on interstate passenger trains. In all fifty-two persons were indicted, but only twenty-four appealed to the Supreme Court. The conviction of Ryan and his associates followed the murderous dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times Building and the blowing up of other structures throughout the country. Of the men who appealed to the Supreme Court Ryan was given the longest sentence, seven years.

The National Glass Budget thus comments on the action of the Supreme Court:

"When the United States Supreme Court last Monday refused to review the conviction in the 'dynamiting cases' of Frank M. Ryan and twenty-three other members of the Structural Ironworkers' Union it nullified the activity of politicians who have been lending their support to these criminals in their effort to escape punishment for the crimes with which they were charged and found guilty in a fair trial at court, and again held up to public view a United States Senator, who, as chief counsel for the defendants, brought reproach upon his constituency and outrageously insulted all decent people who place law and order above personal interests and political ambition. The charges against these peddlers of dynamite and destroyers of human lives were so convincing that but few outside the pale of labor unionism ever questioned their guilt, and Senator Kern must have felt in his heart, when attempting to obstruct justice, that he was lending his influence to a procedure which struck at the very foundation of civilized society. Although having been found guilty, technically, of conspiracy to carry dynamite and nitroglycerin on interstate passenger trains, the liberation of Ryan and his associates from Leavenworth Penitentiary was accomplished by political means, the enormous sum of $70,000 having been pledged in order to gain freedom for Ryan, lesser sums, but in the aggregate amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, having been represented in the bail bonds of the twenty-three others who gained temporary freedom. As a result of the decision of the Supreme Court these men must be returned to Leavenworth and pay the penalty meted out by the trial judge at Indianapolis. In the long run the limited few who were unable to secure bail are best off since more than fourteen months of their sentences have been served and their absolute liberation is just that much closer at hand than is that of such as gained a temporary respite and must now satisfy the demands of justice. The securing of bondsmen cost those affected by last Monday's decision, or those who put up for them, considerable money, which has proven a wasteful expenditure. The investment no doubt was encouraged by the belief that inasmuch as Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison have been playing fast and loose with the courts for several years that they, too, would be able to keep out of Leavenworth until public sentiment against them would wane to such an extent as to pave the way for a nullification of their sentences. Now that this case has been passed upon by the Supreme Court to the satisfaction of the public generally, let us hope that the Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison matter will be brought to a speedy conclusion and in accordance with their just deserts."

Honey From a Pesthouse.

[St. Louis Globe Democrat:] Mrs. S. Demuth, Health Officer at Alton, Mo., recently discovered that someone in search of wild honey had torn the side off the Alton pesthouse and left one bedroom exposed to the weather. The sides of the building were full of openings into which the bees went and they had made honey between the walls of the building. The pesthouse had not been occupied for several weeks and in that time the outside boards on the building were torn off and carried away and a large amount of honey, which had lined the walls of the building, was removed. Yesterday there were twelve smallpox patients in the pesthouse and they complained of the cold. They had not been outside to investigate the cause and when Mrs. Demuth went to make her inspection she found that ten planks, one foot wide and ten feet long, had been torn off. She ordered a supply of lumber sent out to repair the damage done.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

Fred J. Miller, until a few days ago one of the I.W.W. Executive Committee—the committee that has charge of the funds gathered from labor's wages money—broke away from the organization because, he says, it is resorting to graft.

"I warn the public," he cried in a public address in New York, "not to donate to collections that are taken up at the meetings. The collections are supposed to go to aid the 'army.' But it is not so. They never reach them. The men who speak, the leaders, take up the collections, making the audience believe that all will be divided, or at least will be spent for the unemployed. Then these leaders go and get good meals—and what do the unemployed get? Nothing." The same complaint was heard in the I. W.W. Lawrence and Paterson strikes.

"The members of the committee live high. They pay from 75 cents to $1 for their meals. They have beds to sleep in (not river beds as the I.W.W. men slept in in Los Angeles—the writer.) Every night they go uptown and spend on themselves much of the money that has been collected for the unemployed." And deluded union labor's wages money pays for it all.

Labor Wages and Conditions in Wales.

For three years in Wales there has been continuous employment in all industries at wages which have been materially advanced. The percentage of employment—in some industries, at certain periods, not exceeding 1 per cent.—has not been so low in twelve years. Cost of living in that period has increased about 15 per cent., but the percentage of increase in wages in the coal mines of Wales has been greater than that.

The minimum wage act has now been in practical operation for one and one-half years. This law provided for the fixing of minimum wages for the different classes of employees in and about coal mines in the different coal fields of the United Kingdom. A leading trades-unionist says that in 1912, before the passage of the act, a small percentage of skilled miners in the South Wales field earned less than $1 per day, that 5 per cent. earned less than $1.20 per day, 15 per cent. less than $1.45 per day, and 34 per cent. less than $1.70 per day. After the act was in full working order, he states that every skilled miner received a minimum wage of $1.78 per day.

The act, of course, applies to such skilled miner only when working in an abnormal place, where, owing to geological conditions, he could not extract the normal daily quantity of coal. Such skilled miner, working under favorable conditions, has been able to earn throughout the whole of the year from $20 to $30 per week, but miners claim that such earnings are exceptional. Owners say that in good times the miners prefer greater leisure rather than more wages.

The minimum-wage act, however, was drafted and passed for the advantage of the lower-paid worker, for whom an average weekly wage before the passage of the act was $6.19, raised by the act to $6.91, and is now over $7.

Anticipated British Industrial Upheaval.

It is admitted by British labor leaders that the existing and anticipated quiet in labor circles is largely preparation for a coming great struggle. Labor energies are concentrated on strengthening its numerical and financial forces to meet special conditions of 1914, and in the early months of 1915.

For the first time in the history of coal mining, all agreements between labor and capital in Great Britain end at the same time. So also do the agreements between the railways and their employees. The minimum wage act, passed in 1912 for two years, expires this year by its own terms.

The Miners' Federation and the various railway unions are expected to render mutual support in securing their respective demands. Miners' representatives openly refer to the coming upheaval as a bigger industrial upheaval than the country has ever witnessed.

Silk-Making Wages in Italy.

Work.	Wages per day of 10 to 11 hours.
Carders (men)	55 to 67 cents
Combers (women)	40 to 48 cents
Fine frames (women)	40 to 58 cents
Spinning frames (women)	34 to 48 cents
Mule spinning (men)	70 to 86 cents
Spoolers (women)	32 to 48 cents
Reelers (women)	40 to 48 cents
Weavers (men)	50 to 80 cents
Weavers (women)	35 to 58 cents
Dyeing and finishing (men)	65 to 95 cents

How would the always discontented I.W.W. ridden silk workers of Paterson, N. J., or the silk workers of any other silk center in the United States like to be obliged to work here, as many of them did in Italy, for such (to us) starvation wages as those? They do not know when they are well off or they would not so readily yield themselves to the wiles of the strike agitator. It must be borne in mind that the efficiency of Italian silk operatives is inferior to that of English and American workers.

INCITING CLASS HATRED.

Raw Advice by Gifford Pinchot in Endeavor to Win Votes for Election to Senate.

[American Industries:] It was left for Gifford Pinchot, Progressive candidate for Senator for Pennsylvania, to declare at Philadelphia on March 29 that the only way workers in this country can obtain justice is to combine against big business. "The only way," he asserted, "is to line them up on one side and you on the other." To this exhortation to class formation a reply was made by James M. Beck of New York that is well worth repeating:

"There is no privileged class in this country, except the working class, which he says is being overriden by the capitalists. It is the only class that is exempt from the exactions of the Sherman anti-trust law. With the exception of the Danbury hatters' case there has never been an attempt made to check the great tyranny in this country. I speak of the labor trust which compels a man to work at its terms or not work at all.

"Class passions have been appealed to and class antagonisms have been engendered in the organized attack now being made on the doctrine of our government, which puts a limitation on the power of the majority. Where thirty years ago all was peace in this country and we were in the truest sense of the word a commonwealth, today we see men divided and fighting each other. Captains of industry, men who by their brains and their ingenuity have built up the greatest American enterprises—are being held up to public view as bandits.

"We see not only class antagonisms, but a class of meddlesome interference with the mechanism of our government which if continued cannot have only the most serious results."

SOCIALISM AND THE UNEMPLOYED.

[EDITORIAL.]

A SOCIALIST recently made the assertion that the "Eighteenth Labor Report" shows that forty-nine per cent. of the people in this country are unemployed.

The "Eighteenth Labor Report" shows nothing of this kind.

In the first place the investigations for this report covered only 2500 families out of a possible sixteen million; and, secondly, it deals with all the conditions which cause unemployment—accidents, burning of plants, etc. It is becoming a common practice for all classes of workers to take a vacation for a week or two each year. Certainly, such vacations and other similar conditions should not be used to prove that unemployment is general, yet this Socialist writer attempts to win support for the red flag cause by asserting that almost half of the working people of this country are out of employment some part of the year.

It would be just about as sensible to declare that ninety-five per cent. of the working class is unemployed part of the year, for fully this proportion do not work on Sundays and holidays.

Why do not the Socialists tell the truth about these matters? Why do they devote all their efforts to trying to prove that conditions in this country are growing worse and worse every day, while there is ample evidence to prove that, while they are still far from what they should be, they are constantly being made easier.

Of course, the Socialist does not want to admit that this is true. Karl Marx predicted the end of capitalism through the concentration of industry and wealth. Even the farmer was to be absorbed by the proprietors of the bonanza farms, but these predictions have not been realized. Instead of being thrust deeper and deeper into the mire, the condition of the wage earner has steadily improved and may logically be expected to continue to improve. All this, however, is not pleasing to the Socialist calamity howler, whose prime purpose is to make us look at life through the black glasses of discontent; so he remains silent about all the brighter aspects of social conditions and exaggerates the dark spots which are now being eliminated, even going to the extent of faking statistics or twisting them to make it appear that he is right, says Josiah Fenton of Paterson.

When we are discussing this important question we should not forget that during the past ten years we have received into this country a foreign immigration of 8,000,000 persons, yet what has this meant to us? The wildest of Socialist ranters will scarcely claim that there are more than two millions of unemployed in this land, even in the worst of times. And, if this be true—though, as a matter of fact, it isn't—it merely shows that we have not only given employment to all our own people, but have provided for not less than 5,000,000, or perhaps 6,000,000, of the foreign immigrants as well.

All will admit that there is work enough to be done in every civilized country. The fact that it is not done is due largely to two causes: (1) Lack of a systematic means of bringing the man and the job together—a defect that can be remedied without resorting to the calamitous programme which Socialism proposes, and (2) the limited capacity of many individuals to find employment for themselves. This latter lack keeps thousands upon thousands always idle. Their idleness is not the fault of our social system.

Success in life is, to a marked degree, a matter of personality. We find certain individuals born in the slums, with not even ordinary advantages, rising above their position and not only securing work in plenty, but also attaining a high position among men. On the other hand, men born under the most advantageous conditions, and blessed with a more than ordinarily good education, find it difficult to support themselves. If we were to be transported into the realm of Socialism tomorrow this defect would still exist. Socialism cannot change human nature.

"But," says the Socialist, "the trouble is that the unemployed have no money to invest in the land, the machinery and all the other things they need in order that they may take advantage of existing opportunities."

Other men do it, and what one can do more can do, but as long as the great mass of the people spend $8,000,000 a day on drink, picture shows and other unnecessaries, they are not likely to save the money they want to better their condition.

Suppose the conditions were to change, however, and we were to inaugurate Socialism, with its co-operative commonwealth, in which all men and women are to be put to work by those elected to occupy the managerial positions—would the situation as to employment and non-employment be improved?

Under the Socialist scheme of supplying employment, every one would want a soft snap—there would be plenty of applicants for the job of acting, or playing in the band, or on a football or baseball team, but mighty few would care for appointments to the mine, the field, or the factory. Then, a majority would aspire to be "boss" and would remain in the army of the unemployed unless they were starved into working. The lazy man would still be a lazy man, Socialism or no Socialism. That altruistic doctrine is not a cure-all, by any means. Whatever the character of a Socialist government might be, it would be the "state" that would own the jobs and pay the wages. All would have to work for the "state," and the payment would be made in labor checks—although it is not easy to see how this would differ materially from the present wage system, except that it would open the way for greater abuses.

We are promised that, under Socialism, no one will be permitted to own capital or conduct an industry requiring the employment of other persons. The woman may own a sewing machine, so long as she runs it herself, but she would not be allowed to employ others to operate it for her.

If, as the Socialists declare, the present wage system is "slavery," it would be infinitely worse under Socialism, for then all would be slaves. The Socialist state would fix the income of each person, and it would either have to pay all alike or pay an unequal wage, but in either case the wage system would not be abolished, even though its name were changed, and it is a grave question if the worker would not be obliged to work for less than he gets at the present time. The Socialist doctrine of "all things equal," coupled with the pressure of the always unemployed, would certainly level wages down.

Increased wealth comes only through the development of superior methods, new inventions, better organization and a general broadening of opportunities, but such as that which Socialism proposes would put a stop to all such development by largely, if not entirely, destroying the incentive (financial reward) to invent and organize.

If all workers received equal pay, whether they played on the baseball team or worked on a street car, mankind would degenerate to the level of those who had the least ambition, the least capacity, and the smallest degree of energy.

It is generally supposed that under Socialism the managers of the industries would be selected by popular vote.

What would this mean?

That the "easy boss" would always win, of course.

A glib-tongued Socialist orator would likely be the person chosen to direct a great locomotive plant and another strong-lunged agitator would become manager of the silk industry, for instance.

Under such conditions—and there is ample evidence to prove that Socialism has no better-arranged plan—the labor cost of operating the industries would be double what it is today, and the product would be smaller.

Under the present industrial system an expert who can show a comparatively few men that by the expenditure of some millions of dollars a great improvement in an industrial activity can be brought about, finds the opportunity to put his plan into operation. With Socialism operative, such an idea would have to meet (by vote) the approval of the people, initiative would be discouraged, progress would end, and the "army of unemployed" would still be with us, probably with additions to its numbers.

To repeat: Socialism is not a cure-all for laziness, incapacity or personal weakness. Human nature is a live fact—Socialism is a failed theory.

FIGHT FOR EQUAL RIGHTS.

Strenuous Efforts at Portland in Favor of the Open Shop Principle in Industrial Establishments.

[Portland Spectator:] If the unions could have their way, no man who is not a member of a union would be able to earn his living in Portland. If the unions had their way, no person not a union member would be allowed to live in Portland. If the unions had had their way six years ago or had it now, Portland would be about the size of Spokane, with her feeble industries under closed-shop regulation, socialistic in her political tendencies, and anarchistic in her utter disregard of the law.

Unionism has done some good; it has improved the conditions of a few workmen. But it has done incalculable harm by refusing to give the sons of those workmen the right to learn a trade and by denying to all but its own members an opportunity to make a living. Unionism has done some good, in that it has assisted in the passage of laws for the protection of its own members from accidents in dangerous employments, but it has beaten, mauled and murdered workmen whom it would neither admit to its close-corporation membership nor permit to work as independents.

The theory of unionism is right; its practices are ruffianly, murderous, diabolical. When workmen organize and co-operate in a just and lawful way for the benefit and advancement, they are doing a commendable thing. When this organization means the curtailment of output, the closing of the doors of opportunity to the youth of the land, the refusal to grant to non-unionists the right to labor, destruction of property, and murder, it is despicable and villainous.

Unionism in Portland is engaged in a fight to dominate the industries of the city. Although not more than 12 per cent. of our people are unionists or affiliated with unions, unionism is trying to make this a closed-shop town in which neither man nor woman who is not a union member is to be permitted to earn a livelihood.

No question more vitally affects the prosperity of Portland than this of the closed shop. No city has ever prospered under closed-shop conditions. The closed shop has practically destroyed the shipping business of Portland. You are told that the ships from the seven seas do not seek cargoes in this city because there is not sufficient water at the mouth of the Columbia to float the leviathans of the deep. The story is told by orators to air their eloquence and repeated by the press to please readers of infantile intellect.

Ships do not come to Portland because the unions have closed shop on the water front, and it costs more to load vessels here than it does on the Sound, where the argosies go for cargo. If we had fifty feet of water at low tide on the Columbia River bar, we would have no more ships sailing to Portland. It is unionism and closed shopism that have destroyed the sea commerce of the city, and every editor-man who knows that on some subjects silence is golden knows it well.

Wireless Girdling the World.

[Baltimore American:] The imperial government of Germany has planned the erection of a powerful wireless telegraph station in Togoland, German West Africa, with sufficient power to have communication directly between Togoland and Berlin, Germany, and thereby connect Germany directly with all its African colonies. Other wireless stations have been and are now constructed in Germany's other African colonies.

COMMISSIONER BACKS RULING.

More Light on Vexatious Location Law.

Decision in Barney Copper Case Sustained.

Record of Developments in Mining Districts.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) April 24.—Possibly the most vexatious legal point in mining nowadays concerns the general ruling of the Land Office that mineral must show on the surface or have been developed to an extent underground before location can be made under mineral filings. At Bisbee, for instance, some of the largest and most valuable mines have ore bodies that were found only by underground extensions, in places 1400 feet deep.

Locally the matter has had consideration as a result of the presenting of a protest against filings of the Barney Copper Company. The Phoenix Land Office declared for the company after hearing a charge that "there has been no discovery of mineral in rocks in place on any of the claims," holding that conditions were similar to those of known valuable mineral ground in the vicinity.

A telegram lately received tells that this ruling has been sustained by the Commissioner of the General Land Office. It is therefore believed that locations may now safely be made of ground with only slight surface showings, if there is a reasonable prospect for securing commercial ore at depth.

After a full test, made with an experimental fifty-ton mill, the Old Dominion has formally adopted the oil flotation process of the Minerals Separation Company, so a 600-ton machine has been ordered. This adjunct to the concentrating plant is to be in operation by September, superseding slime tables. In the smelter a remarkable record has been made by a twelve-foot Great Falls basic converter shell that has been in continuous operation since last June without relining, in that time turning out about 26,000,000 pounds of copper bullion.

At the Inspiration property work has been started on the concrete lining of the big main east shaft, starting upward from the 400 level. The lower levels will be concreted as soon as full determination has been made of the ore-delivery system.

The American Bridge Company has sublet its steel construction contract on the new Miami smelter to the Oscar Daniels Company of New York, which will start construction work soon after May 1.

A crosscut on the 1300 level of the Arizona Commercial is said to have cut at least forty feet of ore in place, with eighteen feet of bornite that runs not less than 8 per cent. copper. Water is impeding development on the 1400 level, but stringers already indicate that the same richness may be expected in the ledge at that depth.

The company has made arrangements for connecting on the 1200 level with the Grey workings of the Old Dominion. Commercial water will hereafter be lifted to the 1200 and thence will flow to the Old Dominion A shaft, where it will be raised to the surface.

P. F. Carney of Goldfield and J. R. Davis of San Francisco, main owners in the company that has taken over the Gibson property, were on the ground last week, making arrangements for the installation of an eighty-ton concentrating mill.

The new 100-ton Magma concentrator is being built about 1000 feet from the shaft, with which it is connected by tramway. The mill will first attack a "waste" dump of 20,000 tons of ore, assaying 4 per cent. copper, beside very appreciable values in silver. First-class Magma ore is that running over 50 per cent., while the second-class averages 16 per cent. copper and around twenty-five ounces of silver. The mill will be running within sixty days on power brought by wire from Roosevelt.

At a depth of about 400 feet, oxidized surface conditions are reported virtually unchanged in the Reymert mine, eight miles from Superior. The Reymert, considered a very valuable low-grade silver property as far back as thirty years ago, lately was taken over by the Thompson-Gunn interests, which is driving downward apparently in the expectation of striking something of the same richness in copper they have found at depth in the Magma, which, likewise, was a silver mine in the days of the pioneers.

The vein matter of the Reymert is highly silicious in character and is from ten to forty feet in width. Sinking has been slower than had been expected, owing to the striking of much water and to the necessity for hand drilling.

The Superior and Boston property is maintaining shipments of 8 per cent. copper ore at the rate of 2500 tons a month.

Lesson in Mining.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 24.—Without doubt the curse of the mining business in Arizona in the past has been wild speculation by people who believed that a mine necessarily was a repository of glittering wealth and that a mine owner of necessity was rich. This has been done away with in Arizona, probably for all time, by the "Blue Sky" law. Occasionally, however, an Arizonan drifts around with a gorgeously-printed certificate of stock and wants to know its value.

One most notable case of this sort, concerning an "extension" of a noted Southern Nevada mine, cropped up the other day in following an inquiry made by a little school teacher, who had invested her savings in stock of the company which was exploiting the property. Answer to query made on the ground was very much to the point, being as follows: "The work on the claims belonging to the company has not been done for five years; consequently the ground reverted to the government. All the claims are open for location. The machinery and buildings formerly on the ground have been sold and removed. Even the timber has been taken out of the shaft. In plain words, the company does not own any property at all in this district, and the stock is not worth the paper it is printed on."

Large Expenses.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) April 24.—It has been figured out by a mining statistician that the mining companies of the Warren district, around this city, pay in the neighborhood of $2000 a day in taxes alone. About the same cost is daily charged off for the expense of transportation to, and purifying the day's output of copper bullion in the East. Other figures given out in the same connection include the payment of $1,000,000 a month by the companies in wages and an estimate that $75,000,000 has been spent in the district in underground development work and surface improvements.

The "safety first" work in this district is proving very effective, showing a reduction of 40 per cent. in accidents since the system was installed, compared with a similar period before. Deaths from accident under the same comparison have been reduced from nine to three.

Late reductions of the working force of the Copper Queen, involving 175 men, already has been compensated for, as almost that number of miners have been employed in the last few days to take up work in new ground or by other companies.

After seventeen years of operation, the Spray shaft of the Copper Queen has been closed down and the pumps will soon be drawn. The work it has been doing has been taken up at the Holbrook and Gardner shafts, on either side. Once the Spray was the company's main ore outlet, but newer shafts now are better placed.

A few years ago the mines at Courtland were considered so promising that two railroads raced to reach the camp and there was deadly rivalry between townsites in the locality. Several of the Bisbee companies acquired property at Courtland and there was general expectation that it would prove a strong competitor of this camp in quantity of output. But the ore bodies proved shallow and now there is little of activity save on a few claims worked by leasers.

The Great Western Company now is pulling its pumps and dismantling its surface plants, the latter, for the greater part, to be taken to the Mammoth mine, on the San Pedro, north of Benson, a property now operated by the Young Brothers, the moving spirits in the Great Western Corporation. The old mine is to be left in good shape, however, with the lower levels bulkheaded and in condition for the immediate resumption of mining or development.

Representatives of the American Smelting and Refining Company are reported to have taken over the well-known Middlemarch mine near Pearce.

The mill of the Commonwealth Company at Pearce is handling 325 tons of ore a day. The management is preparing for driving further the 300-foot shaft of the property, below the water level that heretofore has checked deeper development.

For a stated consideration of $850,000, the Chicago Development and Exploration Company has acquired the holdings of the Spangler estate, seventeen claims, in the Whetstone Mountains. A long tunnel is to be driven to the bottom of the 800-foot shaft that now taps a high-grade body of gold-silver ore.

The Sullivan Copper Development Company of Duluth, Minn., and George H. Crosby, in the same connection, have bought out their stockholders and partners in a large number of mining claims in the Chiricahua Mountains.

Goldfield.

IDLE ONES TO RESUME WORK.

LATE DEVELOPMENTS CAUSING INCREASED ACTIVITY.

Companies Which Have Been Shut Down, Plan to Operate Again—Atlanta Still Retains a Stellar Position—Consolidated to Issue Report Soon.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) April 24.—Although devoid of sensational features, operations throughout the Goldfield district during the past week have been attended by highly encouraging results. A number of companies which have permitted their properties to lie idle for several years are preparing to resume operations, in consequence of new developments.

Notwithstanding the fact that it is more than a month since it came to the front with an excellent discovery of ore at depth, the property of the Atlanta Mines Company continues to hold a stellar position in point of interest of the mining investing public in this district. The work of exploring the ore-body revealed is making excellent headway.

Goldfield Consolidated.

The mines of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company produced their usual output of ore during the last week. Developments in the various properties were of a routine but eminently satisfactory character. It is probable that the company will issue within the next week or ten days its final statement of its operations and earnings for the month of March. The preliminary estimates of the March production, issued by A. H. Howe, secretary and treasurer, about a week ago, make it evident that the various mines are maintaining this product.

Jumbo Extension.

The results being attained in the exploration of the Velvet claim at the Jumbo Extension recently acquired from the Goldfield Merger Mines Company, are fully up to the expectations of the management of the Jumbo Extension Company. The northeast drift into the Velvet claim from the 921-foot level workings of the Jumbo Extension territory proper is now more than 160 feet in length and is revealing seven feet of ore that assays $41 a ton. The east drift into the Velvet claim, 104 feet above the northeast drift referred to on the dip of the vein, is exposing three feet of $18 ore. The big stope in the Poleverda claim above the 921-foot level is yielding a large tonnage of excellent ore. The two 125-ton ore bins, being erected alongside the spur track on the property, will be completed and ready for use within the next week or ten days.

C.O.D. Consolidated.

The ore-body recently revealed on property of the C.O.D. Consolidated, is improving in size as its exploration by the Nevada Co-operative Mining Company, a leasing concern, continues. Another ore-body has widened out from three to eight feet, the ore averaging $25 a ton for its entire width.

MARCH PROFITS SET GOOD PACE.

SHOWING OF TONOPAH CONCERNS IS IMPROVING.

West End Earnings Reveal Increase of Six Thousand Dollars for Month—Extension Is Also Forging Ahead, and Others Maintain Their Records.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) April 24.—Local mining companies are making a good showing in their earnings for the month of March. For instance the West End, which has been earning around $35,000, came to the front with an aggregate of $41,000, and next month there is every reason to expect $55,000. Tonopah Extension, which six months ago was losing steadily, is clearing $38,000 a month and is going to do better. These figures are drawn from the bullion shipments of the first half of the current month, which is a pretty safe index.

Tonopah Extension sent out this week $37,500 in bullion for the first two weeks. The company is making preparations for an extended campaign this summer, as plans are to be prepared for extensive additions to the milling plant. A new tube mill and classifier are already on the ground, and as soon as they are installed another battery of ten stamps will be added. This will raise the capacity of the mill from 160 to 275 tons daily and should double the earnings, as certain improvements will enable the company to make greater savings in all departments.

The Montana sent out this week $13,500 in bullion, which is about an average for that company. The ore is running better than formerly, owing to the high values coming from a new ore body.

Belmont showed up well this week with its semi-monthly shipment of bullion, aggregating $135,000, which is about on a par with former production. The Belmont is operating to the limit of its mill and there is a revival of reports that the tonnage will be raised from 550 to 800 tons daily, but there is no confirmation of this. The Belmont is now operating the deepest workings in Tonopah.

The branch of the huge Murray ledge in the Merger has been proved up for a width of twenty-nine feet, all in ore, with six feet running clear across, said to return at the rate of $100 a ton. Of course this is too valuable to send to the mill, which limits its ores to the neighborhood of $12 to $15. It therefore will be sent to the smelter.

The vein or ledge is one of the wonders of the camp and for the past two weeks the underground showing has attracted hundreds of visitors from adjacent camps. Managers and superintendents are interested in the phenomenal display of riches.

Midway, which has been termed the unlucky mine of Tonopah, has opened a really large body of ore which seems to be in place and is now furnishing 100 tons weekly, without having stoping ground opened. The ore comes from the drifting and preliminary work, and when stoping begins in earnest it is believed the company will be able to send out 200 tons a week. The strike is running at the rate of $22 a ton.

The Midway has had some of the finest ore in the district and at one time shipped $300 rock that took the company out of debt and enabled the directors to pay the stockholders three dividends aggregating $300,000. Then the high-grade failed. Since then the company has been trying to recover some of the large ledges which appear to surround their holdings in every one of the abutting companies. They have kept up shipments at the rate of fifty tons a week, or enough to cover expenses. By virtue of the new strike it is predicted that the Midway will get back into the dividend-paying class, however.

Reorganized Kewanas.

Preliminary operations to the development of depth of the property of the Reorganized Kewanas Mining Company were inaugurated during the week. The preliminary work consists of the repairing of the station at the 700-foot level of the Laguna shaft of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company through which the future development of the Kewanas will be prosecuted. Secretary A. H. Howe has announced that the Kewanas board of directors has extended until May 16 the time for stockholders of the old company, the Goldfield Kewanas Mining Company, to avail themselves of the privilege of exchanging their old certificates for those of its successor upon the payment of a bonus of 1¼ cents a share. Practically all of the old stockholders have already availed themselves of the privilege.

Florence Goldfield.

Thus far this month Florence Goldfield has shipped twelve carloads of ore to the Millers' sampler of the Western Ore Purchasing Company. This indicates a continuance of the splendid conditions that have prevailed in the property for some time past.

ROAD MONEY RAISED.

Last of Fund Required to Complete Road Across Sand Hills Near Calexico Ready for Use.

CALEXICO, April 17.—As the culmination of the best-attended and most enthusiastic meeting ever held here by the Farmers' and Merchants' Club, $1276.50 was raised in less than twenty minutes shortly after midnight this morning to complete a road across the sand hills east of here to Yuma. The stretch of road to be improved is about twenty-five miles long and will be the last connecting link of the Southern National Highway, which leads from San Diego to the Atlantic Coast.

This completes the $4000 necessary to corduroy the sand hills which heretofore were thought impassable. El Centro had raised $1500, Holtville $1000 and the balance had been raised by farmers east of here. San Diego road builders had offered to furnish all lumber necessary to corduroy the roads if Imperial Valley would put up the money to pay the freight and lay the lumber. The money is now available. The road will be constructed by this fund and maintained by the county.

NEW HARBOR TRACT.

"Municipal Harbor Acres," the newest harbor subdivision of the Guy M. Rush Company, was opened April 11. Several boat loads of excursionists were taken over the harbor by the company. A number of sales are reported.

A Magnificent Investment Opportunity

Placed right before YOU today is an investment opportunity unparalleled in the history of California. Never again will it come. Never again CAN it come. That opportunity is Nile-Land Farms!

Nile-Land Farms are uniquely DIFFERENT from any other farm land in the State. They comprise 47,000 acres of the richest soil in the North End of the Imperial Valley; they are located in a region already famous for its remarkable productivity; they are the LAST great area of irrigable, deeded land in this section to be offered to the public; they are now being converted into fine, fertile farms; within a short time the desert will be conquered.

The opportunity that lies in a Nile-Land Farm is a CONSTRUCTIVE one. Men who come here and buy land now will see this same country build up into an ideal farming community. Experienced tillers of the soil from all over the world are being attracted to Nile-Land Farms. Greater activity than ever before is seen in these recently-opened North-End lands. Niland and Calipatria, the two new, hustling business centers of the 47,000-acre Nile-Land Farm tract, are making wonderful strides toward business-building. And this is exactly the way that the Southern part of Imperial Valley started only a few years ago.

Growth in the North End of Imperial Valley is inevitable. It MUST come! Here is the logical direction for this great agricultural empire to spread its wealthy acres—here is the ONLY direction in which it CAN grow. Nile-Land Farms are squarely in the center of this path of progress—Nile-Land Farms comprise practically the entire area of the irrigable land in the north end—so it is Nile-Land Farms that will benefit MOST from the development that has now been started.

Farm land in the southern part of Imperial Valley that could have been bought for $50 an acre a few years ago is now held at $500 an acre. Business lots in El Centro, Imperial and Brawley that were sold for a song at that time are now fine, main street property and have sold since at as high as $10,000 for a 50-foot frontage.

This is history! And it's being repeated TODAY on Nile-Land Farms. YOU can do what the successful men and women of Brawley, El Centro, Imperial and Holtville have done. Here we offer you a 20% return from your money, small tracts at $100 an acre; large tracts at $65 to $125 an acre. Terms 20% down, balance in 4 equal annual payments, 7%. The two attractive bonus offers made to purchasers of Nile-Land Farms expire June first. See us now, arrange to go down and take a trip in automobile over Nile-Land Farms—and select the farm that you want.

afterwards became famous in the authorship of tariff laws. Bland of Missouri was debating free silver and laying the foundation for the Bryan campaign of 1896. Joseph G. Cannon had already served twelve years in Congress.

"After two terms I went home to practice medicine. My political career was closed, I thought. I could have remained in the House, I believe, indefinitely, but my family needed the money I could earn in my profession. My physician's sign still hung over a door in Concord. But the natural thing happened. There would be four patients in my reception-room and eight or ten politicians. The patients bothered the politicians and the politicians annoyed the patients. Well, in 1890, my friends said I could be elected to the United States Senate. I have never seen or heard of a man who would refuse to be a Senator. So I returned to Washington.

THE GREAT SENATE OF 1891.

"It has always been customary to look back to the good, old times that are past but history will bear me out in saying that the Senate in 1891 was filled with great men. Hoar of Massachusetts, for instance, and Sherman of Ohio, and Vest of Missouri, and Allison, Frye, Gorman, Proctor, Aldrich, Hale, Morrill, White, now Chief Justice, Voorhees, Cullom, Gray of Delaware, Hill of New York, Gen. Palmer, afterward the candidate of the Gold Democrats for President; Quay, Platt of Connecticut, Plumb of Kansas, and Cushman Davis of Minnesota. I knew them all and all became my friends. There are no party lines in friendships, at least there are none in mine."

"And now," I said, "tell me how you became a physician?"

"An uncle of mine who was a professor at the medical college in Cincinnati advised me to be a doctor. I had never thought of the matter but the suggestion was accepted. Farming hadn't suited me, up near Cornwall in Canada, where I was born. I used to think, as I walked to the log schoolhouse a mile and a half from home, where an Irishman taught me to read, write and do sums in arithmetic, that agriculture lacked in personal appeal. So I was indentured to the village editor when I reached the age of 14. There were twelve children in our family.

"My wages the first year were $8. The editor fed me and gave me a place to sleep. His table, I still remember, was lean and unusually bad. My mother I know supplied me with butter. The second year I received $24. I have a feeling that the sum was less, but I will give the editor the benefit of the doubt. During the third year of my apprenticeship I was paid $60. I was now what is called a journeyman printer. So I said good-by to the editor.

SET TYPE FOR "DEACON" SMITH.

"At Ogdensburg, in New York, sixty miles from Cornwall, I set type until I got the advice from my uncle. I had $100 when I arrived in Cincinnati, $60 of which was paid down at once for medical lectures. Two students and myself rented a room on Vine street, and there we cooked our meals and slept. Richard Smith, known everywhere as "Deacon" Smith, was editor of the Cincinnati Gazette. I set type for him, then read proof and later reported shipping news along the river and court news over in Covington, Ky.

"Medical lectures started at 8 o'clock in the morning and ended at 6 o'clock in the evening. At 7 o'clock at night I began my work in the composing-room of the Gazette, remaining on duty until 2 o'clock. By 3 o'clock I was in bed. I didn't average more than four hours sleep a day during the three years I was in Cincinnati. I was graduated in 1858. Besides I had saved about $500. In the meanwhile I had become engaged to Miss Mary A. Bailey of Salisbury, N. H., who was teaching school in Ohio.

"We were married and meant to go West, but Mrs. Gallinger broke her ankle and while we were waiting until she recovered I got to practicing medicine in New Hampshire. The affairs of life often turn on small matters. An accident, you see, kept us in New England. I actively followed my profession for twenty-three years at Concord, driving day and night. I would often be called out five times between supper and breakfast. Thus I formed the habit of going to sleep in my buggy. My horses learned to give half the road to every team they met, whether I was awake or taking a nap. I slept no more while a doctor than I did while a printer and medical student. I can lie down anywhere now and go to sleep instantly."

"How should a man live to be seventy-seven years old," I asked, "and still be competent to do a big day's work?"

"First, he must be born with a good constitution. Speaking of myself, I ought to say that I have always cultivated the virtue of being optimistic. Cheerfulness is a great help in the sickroom, as I learned when a physician, and it is a great help everywhere else. It is hard to be cheerful sometimes unless one is more or less of a philosopher. Then courtesy prolongs the life of the person who habitually practices it. It becomes a state of mind and tones up the physical body.

HE READ AN ORIGINAL POEM.

"In my youth I was a sprinter and a wrestler. In my old age I try to walk in the open air whenever I have the opportunity. I have always eaten the food I like and have eaten heartily. I don't use tobacco. I tried to smoke years ago and found it disagreeable. Many boys stick to the habit until they acquire it.

Such tenacity to me seemed foolish. I have also let liquor alone. Man, I saw as a physician, was born to die. That is a threadbare truism which has lost its force with humanity, but it should console those who are bereaved, while the inevitability of death should cause every one to live so that he will be mourned and missed when he is gone. And that sort of living in itself prolongs life. Still," Senator Gallinger said with a smile, "longevity depends a good deal on one's constitution."

"You have great skill in debate," I said, "and are famous as a rough-and-ready orator. Do you remember your first appearance in public?"

"Yes, and the recollection makes me feel like laughing and weeping simultaneously. James W. Patterson, one of our United States Senators, was coming to Concord for a great speech on war time questions. I was a very young doctor, but I was full of feeling, and one day at my desk put my thoughts into what I believed was poetry. I have since learned that it was hideous doggerel. I showed it to William E. Chandler, who was to be a Senator himself years later. Chandler said the poetry was fine and should be read at the meeting. He was older than I and ought to have known better.

"Well, the performance was arranged. The meeting was held. I was called on to recite a poem especially composed for the occasion. I recited. The audience cheered strenuously. I felt very well satisfied with myself until I caught the expression on James W. Patterson's face. Patterson had been a professor at Dartmouth and was a celebrated orator. No living man from Adam down ever looked more utterly disgusted than did Patterson when I bowed my thanks to the cheering throng. I can see him yet. From that day to this I have been deathly afraid of my own poetical compositions."

CITY PLANNING BOARDS.

All Massachusetts Towns of Over Ten Thousand Population to Adopt Definite Schemes for Growth.

[National Real Estate Journal:] City and town planning boards in Massachusetts must be created by every city and also by every town having a population of more than 10,000 at the last preceding national or State census, according to an act of the Massachusetts Legislature.

These boards are required to "make careful studies of the resources, possibilities and needs of the city or town, particularly with respect to conditions which may be injurious to the public health or otherwise injurious in and about rented dwellings."

The planning boards are also required to "make plans for the development of the municipality with special reference to the proper housing of its people."

The planning boards are to be appointed by the Mayor of cities or by the Commission in Commission-governed cities, and in towns they are to be elected by the voters at the annual town meetings. Every planning board is required to report annually to the governing body of its respective city or to the voters of its town, "giving information regarding the condition of the city or town and any plans or proposals for the development of the city or town and estimates of cost therof."

The governing bodies of cities are authorized by the act to "make suitable ordinances and towns are authorized to make suitable by-laws for carrying out the purposes of the act," and the governing bodies in each case "may appropriate money therefor."

SELLS FINE GROVE.

Lordsburg Company Purchaser of Valuable Upland Citrus Property. Other Important Deals Reported.

POMONA, April 25.—An important realty deal, involving a reported total consideration of $100,000, was consummated here this week through the J. A. Fitch agency, when J. W. Bridenbaugh of Upland sold to Williams brothers of Lordsburg a twenty-two-acre orange grove on Twenty-fourth street in the Upland foothill district. This is one of the best income-producing groves in the locality, most of it being in full-bearing Navels and Valencias. Bridenbaugh took as part payment an improved farm of 500 acres in Mason county, Illinois, Williams brothers paying the difference in cash.

Fitch also reports the sale of a nine-acre orange grove at Lincoln avenue and Foothill boulevard, north of here, for J. M. Bender to H. F. Lutter, a rich manufacturer of Chicago, who will erect a fine winter home on the property. In part payment Bender took a five-acre orange grove in Pomona. The total consideration involved is given at $30,000.

Another sale reported by the Fitch agency is that of a new residence at Long Beach for Capt. M. Dilc to Mrs. Mary A. Walcott of this city. Mrs. Walcott gave in part payment her house at the northwest corner of Park avenue and Center street, paying the difference in cash. The total consideration is reported at $10,000.

L. H. Haskins has bought a fine residence lot in the Casa Grande tract. All of these deals aggregate over $140,000.

NEW SCHOOL OPENED.

A new schoolhouse has just been completed at North Lankershim Acres in the San Fernando Valley. The tract, which was opened about a year ago, is now occupied by sixty families, and it has been necessary to provide extra educational facilities. The new building has been designed not only for present grade school needs, but to care for a larger number of children.

AT WORK ON TRACKS.

Pacific Electric Begins Lowering of Roadbed on Brand Boulevard—New Lodge Hall Completed.

GLENDALE, April 25.—After months of waiting on the part of the residents and officials of this city, the Pacific Electric Railway Company has started to lower its tracks on Brand boulevard between Second and Sixth streets. The tracks are something like two feet, in some places three feet, above the grade of the improved thoroughfare. It is said to be the company's intention to rush the work to completion.

A petition has been presented to the Board of Trustees for the improvement of Orange street, which is at this time being opened from Adams street to Verdugo road. The work will include grading, macadamizing, sidewalking and curbing.

The new Masonic Hall, which has just been finished on Brand boulevard near Sixth street at an expenditure of about $10,000, was formally opened by the Masons last Tuesday evening. The building is two stories in height and of brick construction. It occupies a ground space of 50x100 feet.

HOLLENBECK HEIGHTS.

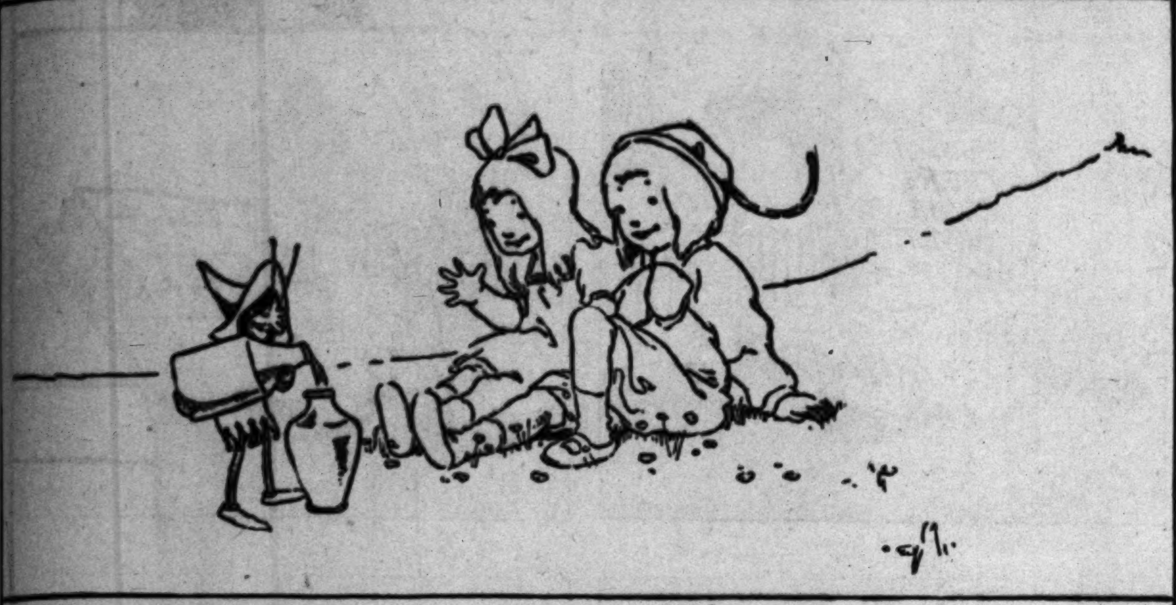
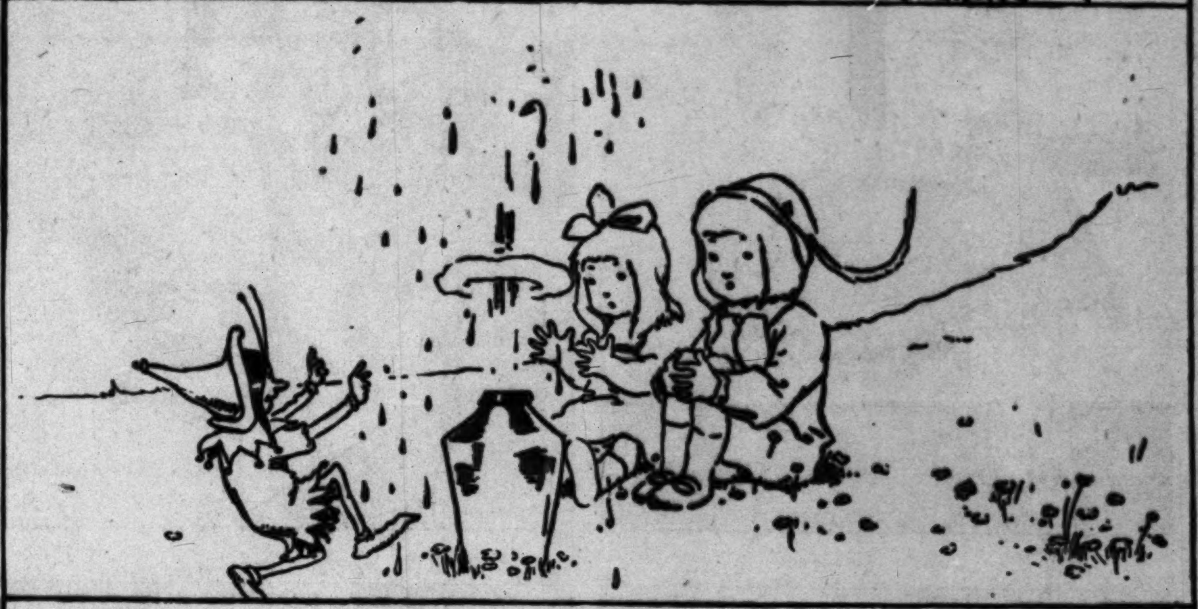
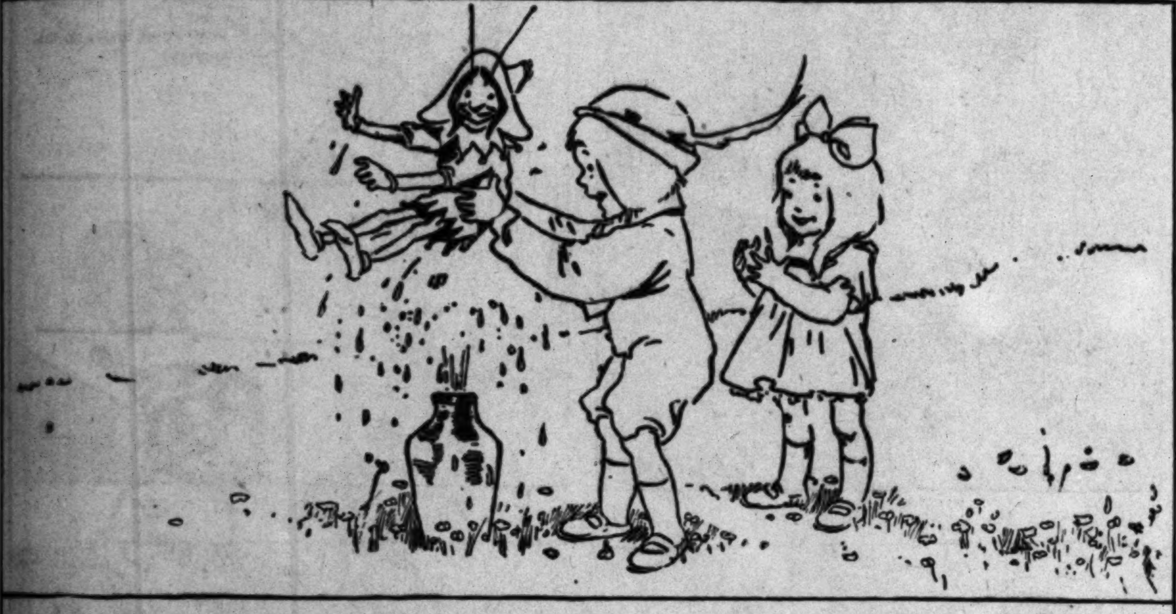
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



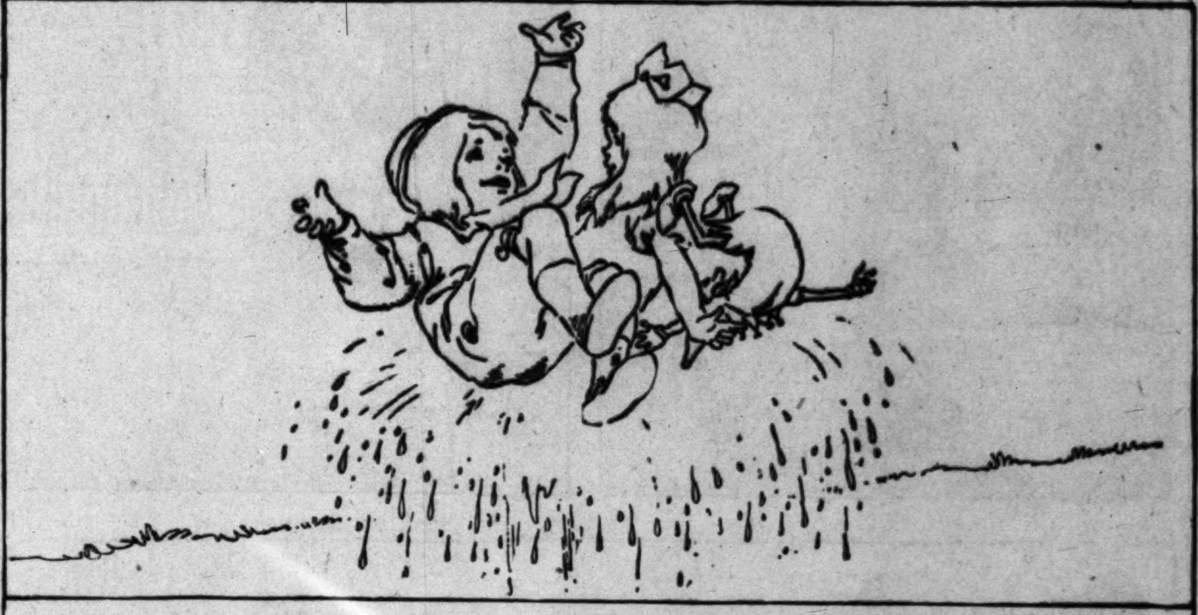
1—Mr Twee Deedle was pouring some liquid from one jug to another He told the children he was making a fountain.



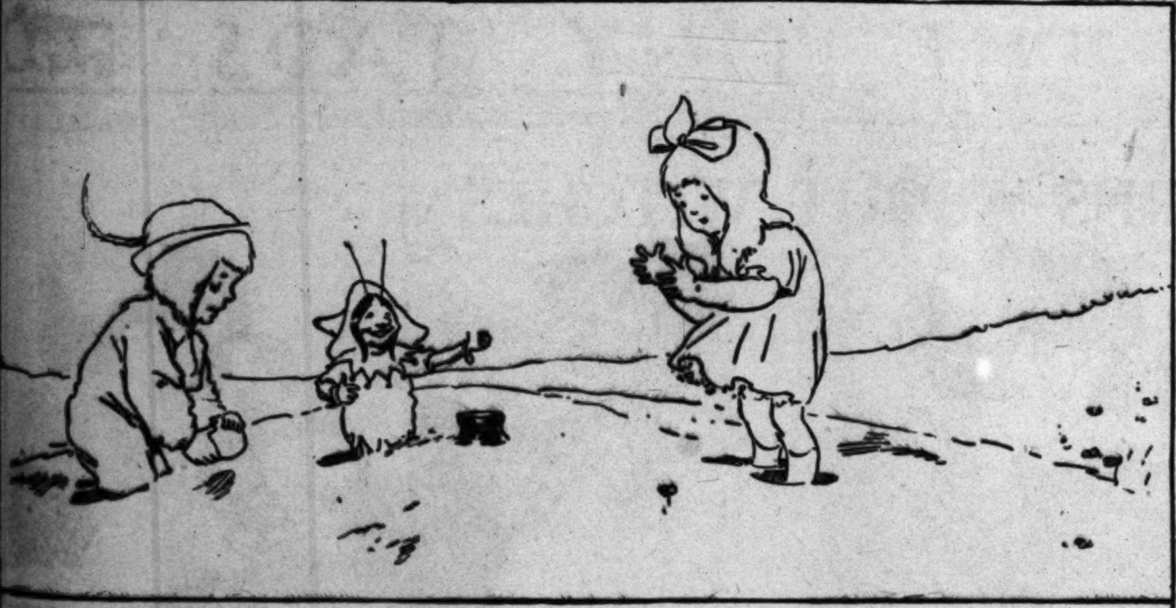
2—He said a few magic words and the liquid spouted from the jug and formed a beautiful fountain in which there were all the colors of the rainbow.



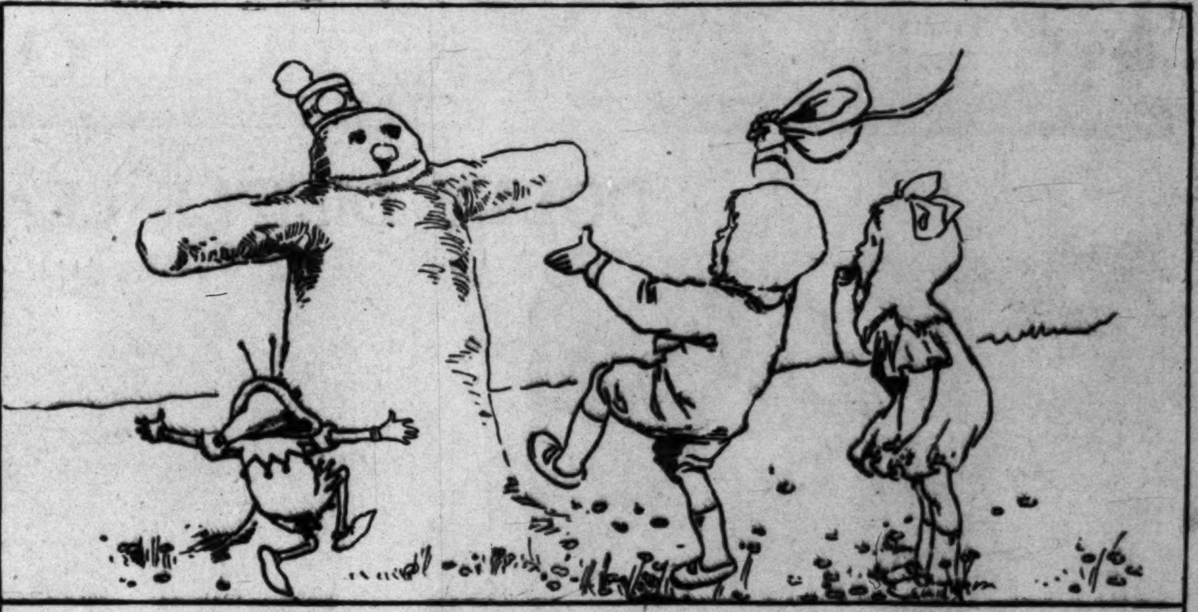
3—Dickie lifted Mr. Twee Deedle up on top of the fountain. The fountain bounced him up and down like a light rubber ball.



4—Then Mr. Twee Deedle pulled Dickie and Dolly up, and all three bounced together. It suddenly became cooler and Mr. Twee Deedle said he had turned the water into snow.



5—"Let's make a snow man," said Dickie, as he started to roll a ball of the snow.



6—The snow man was built around the jug The children placed a tin can on the man's head and made his eyes of two black pebbles.

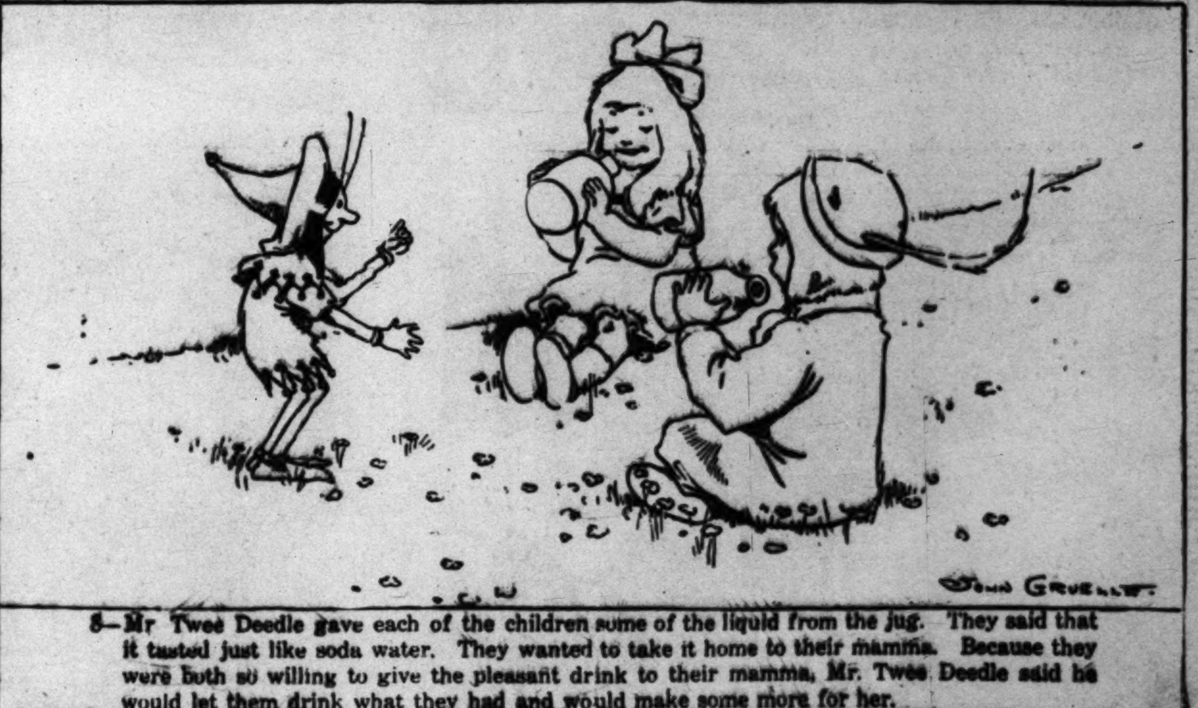
7—The sunshine melted the snow man and he finally disappeared in the jug



8—Mr Twee Deedle gave each of the children some of the liquid from the jug. They said that it tasted just like soda water. They wanted to take it home to their mamma. Because they were both so willing to give the pleasant drink to their mamma, Mr. Twee Deedle said he would let them drink what they had and would make some more for her.

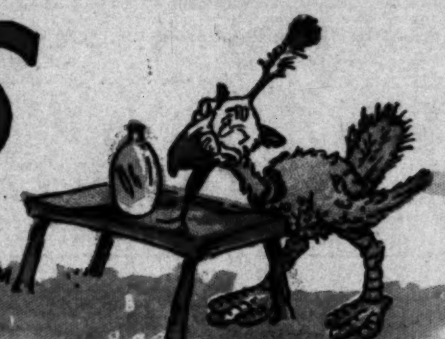
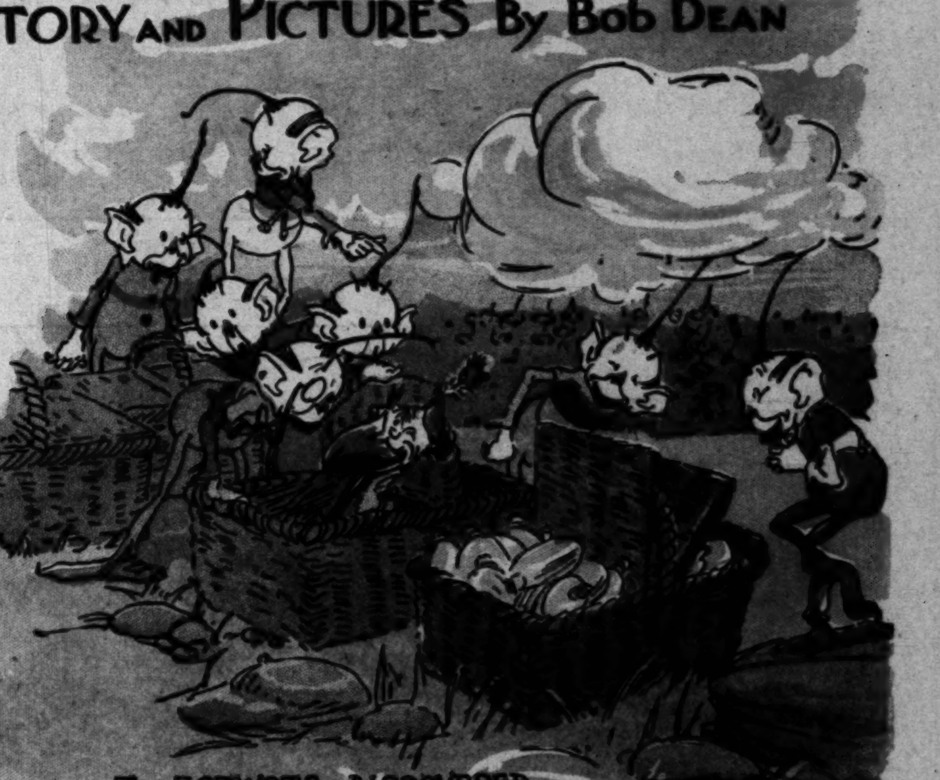
ZOTWOTS

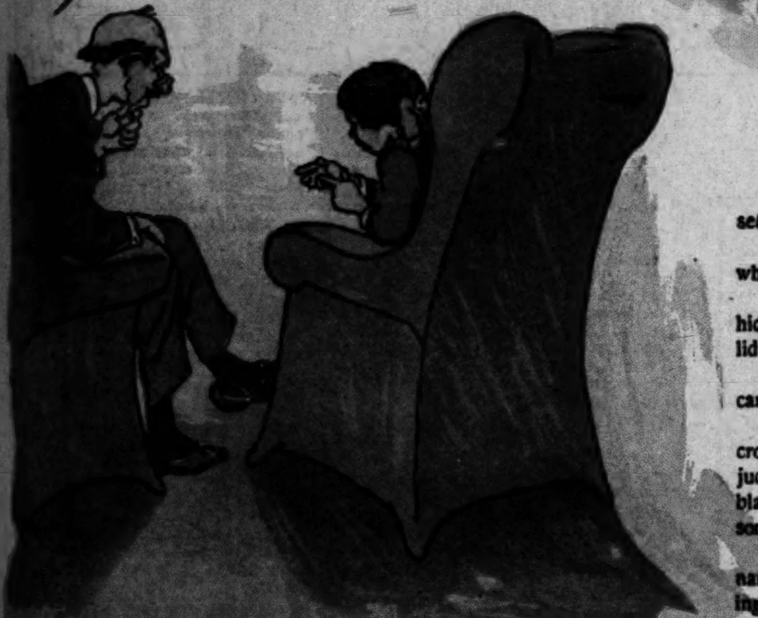
The WINKLE GAME

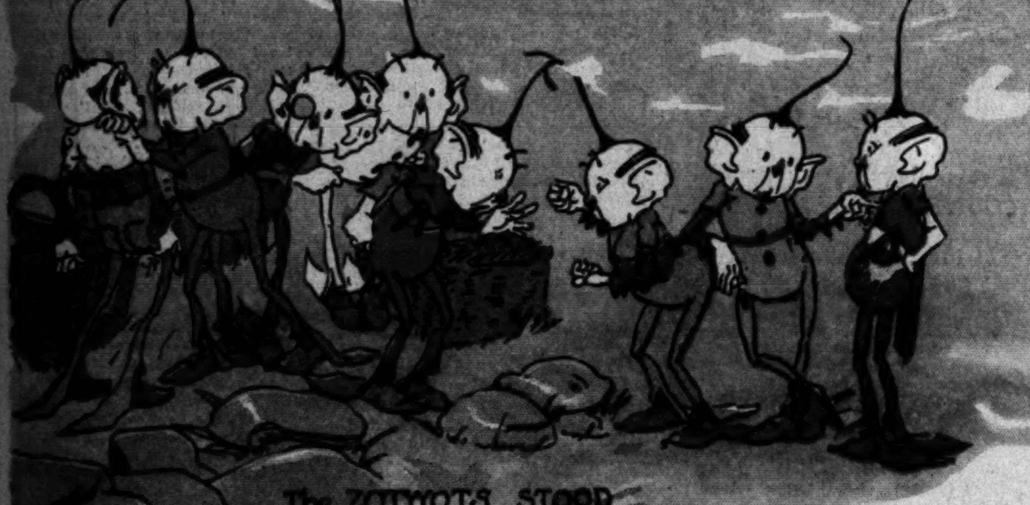
STORY AND PICTURES By Bob DEAN





The ZOTWOTS DISCOVERED THE JAY-FOWL



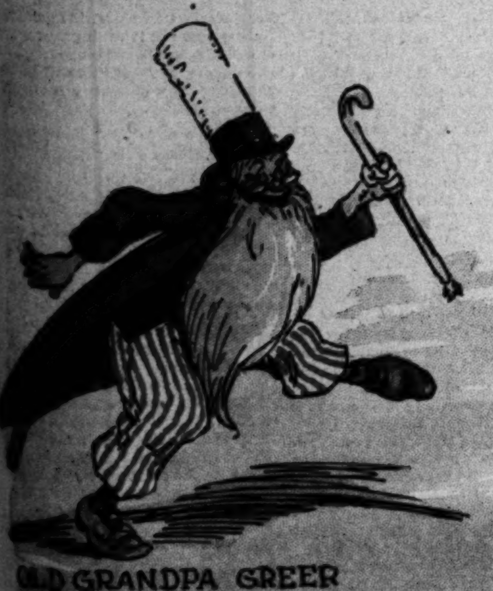


The ZOTWOTS STOOD EARNESTLY TALKING

I CALLED on my little friend at the earliest possible moment and reminded her of her promise to tell me about the Zotwot game of Bottle Winkle.

The little girl was pleased with my evident interest, but my brusque manner for a moment confused her. Finally she said, with a trace of embarrassment:—

"As soon as the Zotwots locked the Blubberingboo in his den they hurried to the Winkle grounds, but in no pleasant frame of mind, for they feared the Jay-fowl had been swallowed by the Blubberingboo. They knew their ruler, the Wot, was jealous of the Jay-fowl, who had been missing for some time, and would be as glad for an excuse to give him to the Blubberingboo as he would to make a speech. But in spite of their fears they lost no time in reaching the Winkle grounds, where they were greeted with loud cheers, for each of the four were skilled Winkle players, and entered for the game.



OLD GRANDPA GREER

"Flushed with pride, tney ran across the ground to join the other players, and for the time forgot the Jay-fowl

"The crowd was impatient for the game to commence and stamped their feet. The players, however, seemed in no hurry. They stood in a group, earnestly talking and waving their arms, yet in reality paying no attention to one another. For each was straining his ears in the hope of hearing what the crowd thought of him. Suddenly they were startled by a voice singing:—

" 'Old Grandpa Greer
Was filled with cheer,
For his beard was long and shaggy
His hat was tall
And he was small,
And he wore his trousers baggy'

"Very much puzzled, they looked anxiously about, but failed to see the singer

" 'Funny, said one. 'That voice sounds like our little pet's, yet where is he?

" 'I have it!' suddenly exclaimed another. 'I'll wager the singer's hiding in one of those baskets.' Jumping to the basket, he raised the lid and uncovered the Jay-fowl.

"Why, you blessed Jay!' they cried, dragging him out. 'How came you here? Where have you been? What has happened to you?

"But before the Jay-fowl could tell about his adventures the crowd rose to its feet, yelling, 'Commence the game! Choose the judges!' in such tones the players at once accepted two Zotwots, with black patches over their eyes, who had been standing near them for some time waiting to be chosen.

"The judges proudly put on large white aprons, with the team name painted on them, and brought out two low shelves. Then, marching to the baskets, they picked out eight empty nursing bottles and placed four on each shelf in a neat row.

"The crowd shouted and clapped and the players began to fidget with excitement. The judges spoke to each other in low tones, then stepped behind the shelves and shouted, 'The Winkle teams will now get in position to play!' The players turned right about face and bowed politely, three times to the audience, wheeled around and bowed very low to the judges, and, stepping quickly to the shelves, bent over and eyed the bottles nervously. The crowd rose to its feet, cheering madly, but instantly sat down again as the judges began to sing their final instructions to the Winkle teams:—

" 'The one that winks one eye so hard
'Twill knock a bottle 'bout a yard
Stands quite a chance this game to win;
So let each Zotwot wink like sin!

" 'To break a bottle with a wink
Is not so easy as you think,
For winking is a subtle art,
And each Zotwot must do his part.

" 'You shouldn't wink till we say three,
'Cause that's the signal, you'll agree.
Get ready now, take careful aim,
And play the Bottle Winkle game!

" 'One, two—one, two—wink, wunk, wee—
Are you ready? All together—
One! Two! Three!' "

"Do the players break the bottles by simply winking at them?" I interrupted, surprised.

"Yes, sir!" she replied. "At the word three the players wink their right eyes—with a snap, cracking the bottle at which the wink is aimed. That is, some of them wink hard enough to break a bottle—some cannot. It is quite difficult. You must wink very straight and quick with only one eye—hard, like that!" she said, snapping her fingers.

"Oh, yes, quite interesting," I replied, "and what do the judges do?"

"Why, they count the broken bottles and replace them with new ones after each volley of winks.

"When the game is ended the team that has cracked the greatest number of bottles wins the prize. There is great rivalry among the players, as the best winker is much admired.

"But I am getting away from my story.

"Just as the judges shouted 'Three!' the crowd jumped to its feet, shouting, 'Wot! Wot! Wot!'

"Startled, the players looked around and beheld the Wot circling above their heads in his flying machine, peering down at their upturned faces with a proud grin, and before they could recover from their surprise brought his machine gently to earth.

"The Zotwots turned to flee, thinking the Wot intended to deliver his usual speech, but he quickly stopped them with a commanding shout, and angrily said:—'My loyal subjects—I do not intend to address you at length to-day. I only wish to warn you to keep away from my machine, as some of you might injure a part of its delicate mechanism. Thank you.' Then, jumping out, he strutted among them, smiling and shaking hands and attracting as much attention as possible."

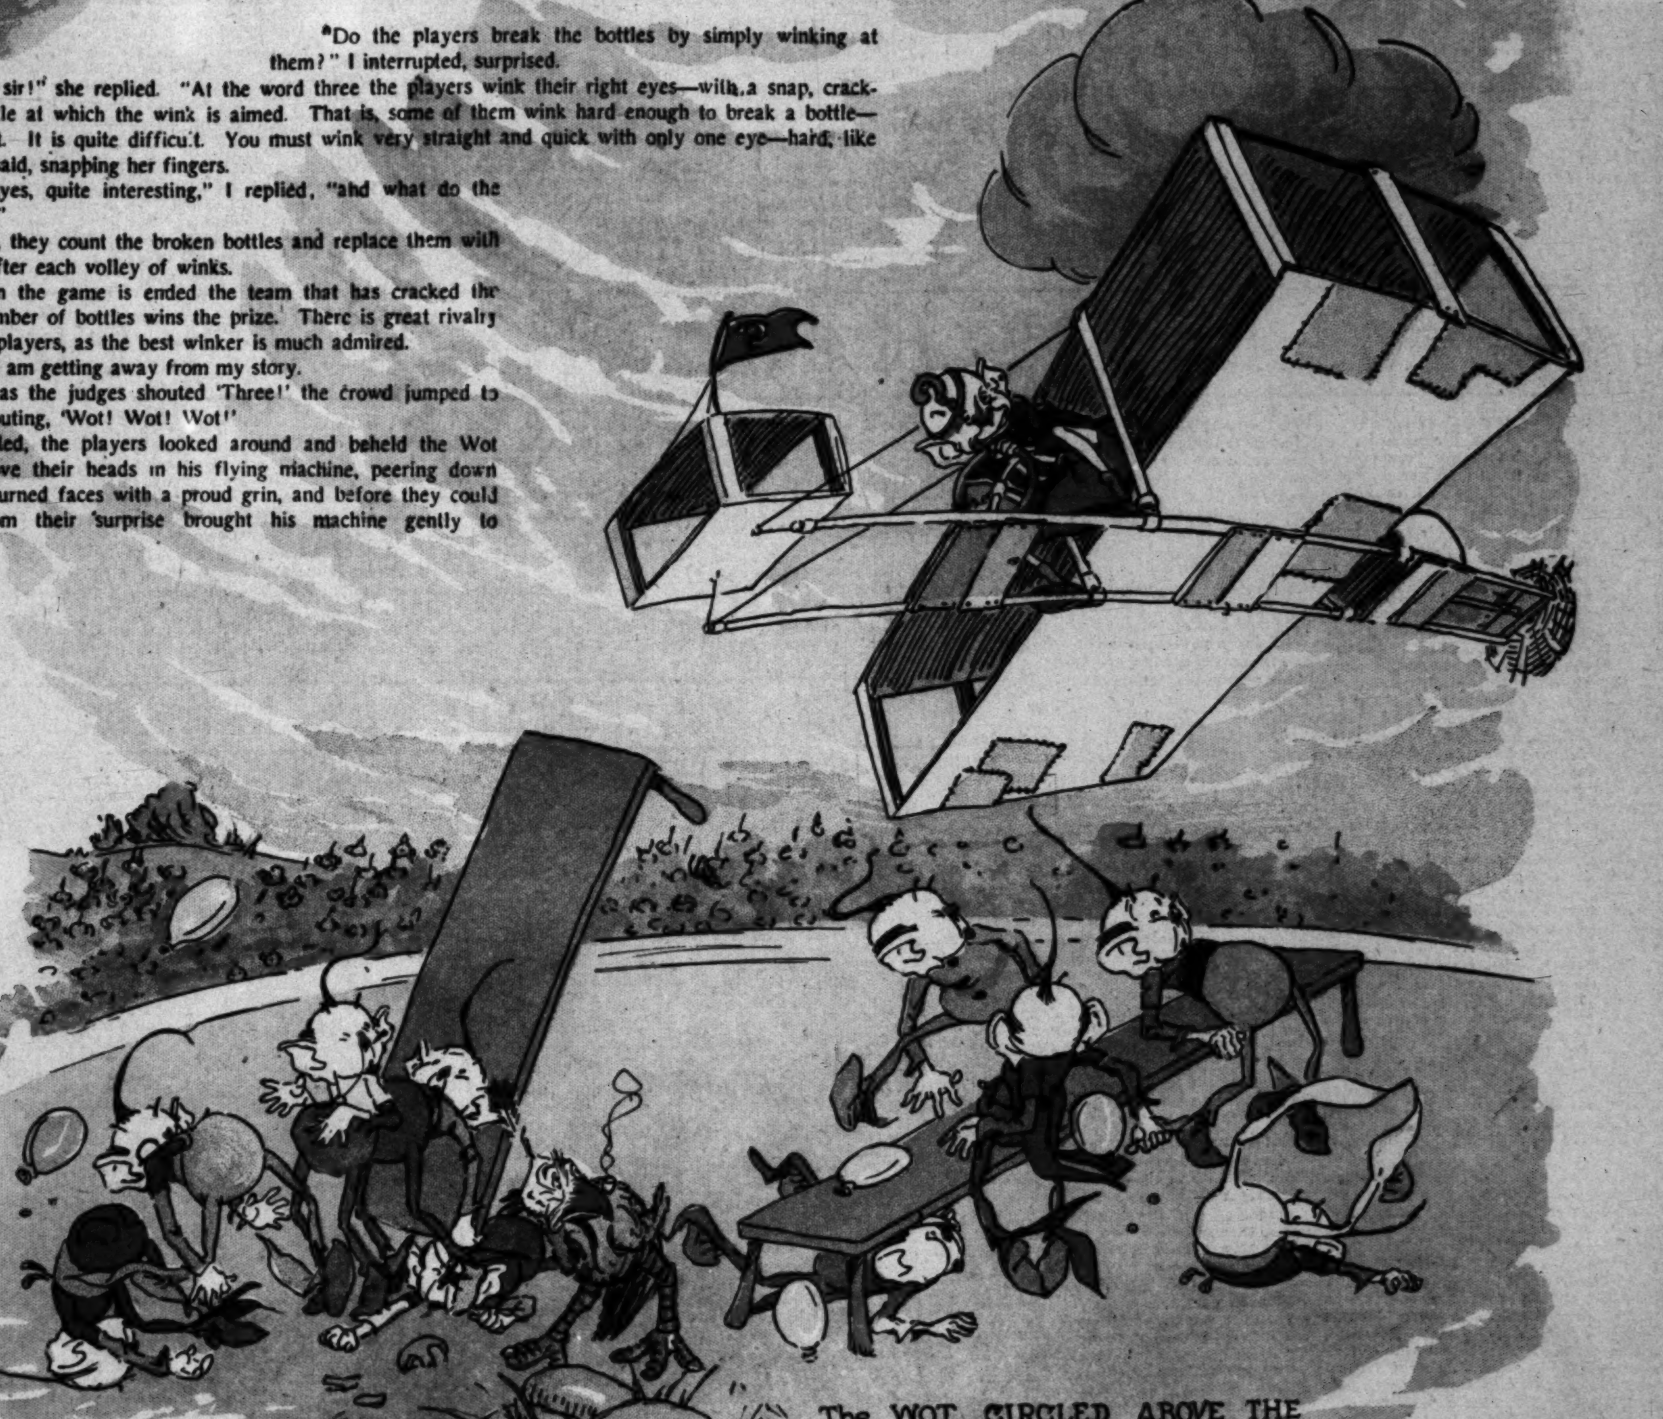
"Is that all?" I asked as the little girl paused.

"No, sir. But you are to stay to dinner and I'll tell you the rest afterward."

"Did the Zotwots finish their game of Winkle?" I persisted.

"Not that day," she replied, "for a very good reason. But I hear mother calling us." And she led the way, singing:—

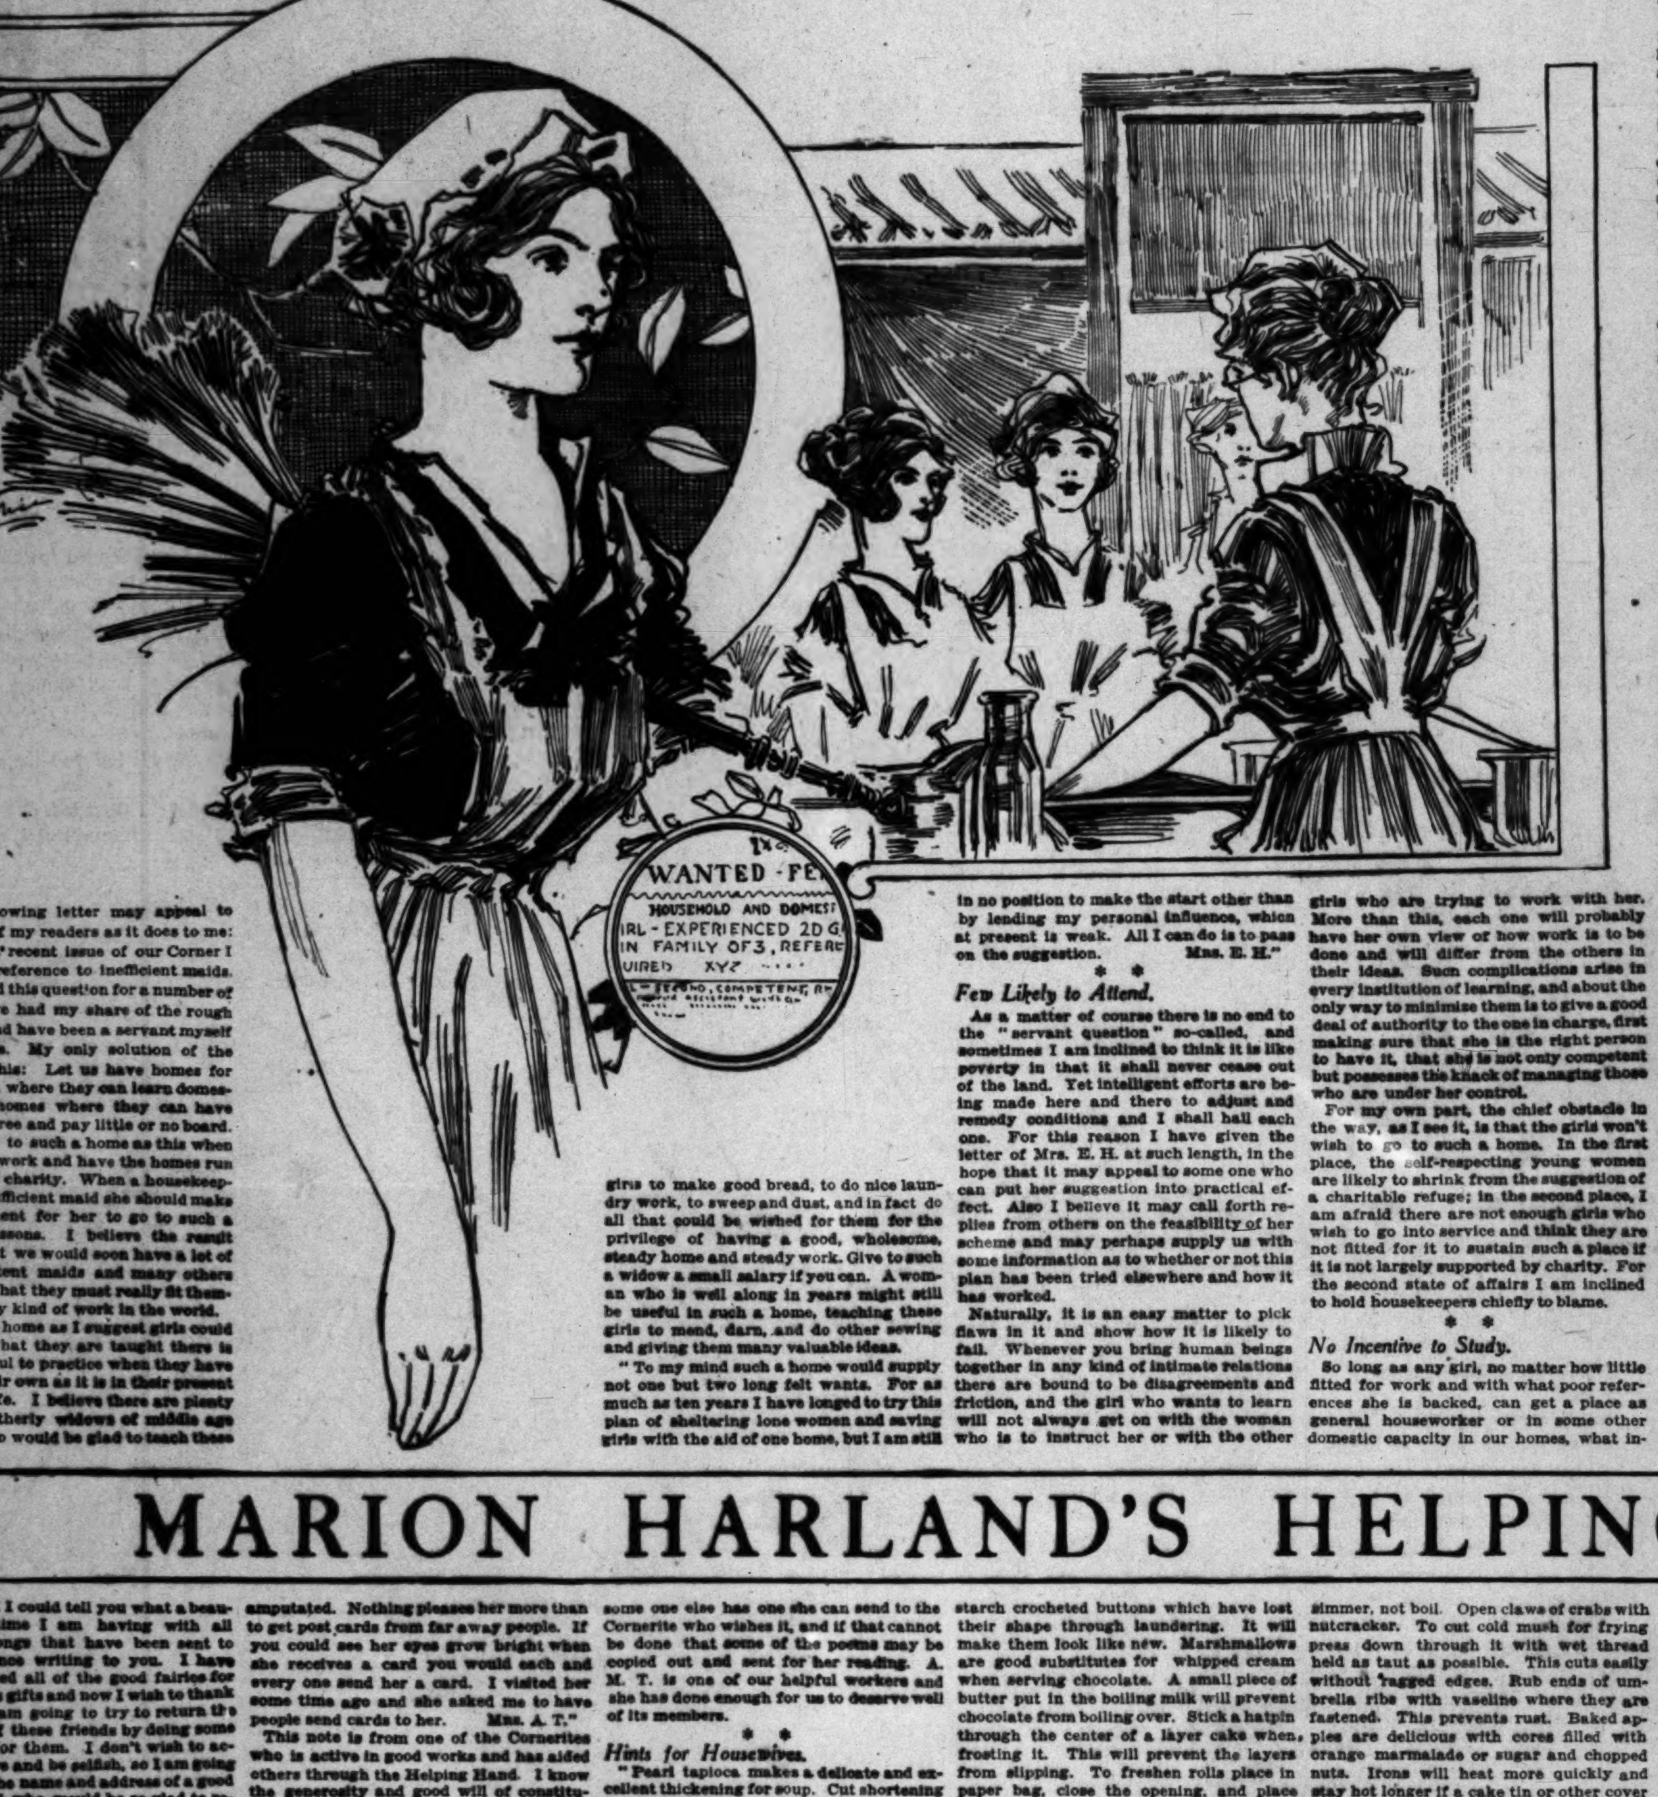
"For his beard was long and shaggy,
His hat was tall,
And he was small,
And he wore his trousers baggy."



The WOT CIRCLED ABOVE THE HEADS OF THE ZOTWOTS

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

DOMESTIC SCIENCE HOME FOR SERVANT GIRLS.



THE following letter may appeal to some of my readers as it does to me:

"In a recent issue of our Corner I find a reference to inefficient maids. I have studied this question for a number of years. I have had my share of the rough side of life and have been a servant myself several times. My only solution of the problem is this: Let us have homes for servant girls, where they can learn domestic science, homes where they can have their rooms free and pay little or no board. Let a girl go to such a home as this when she is out of work and have the homes run chiefly out of charity. When a housekeeper gets an inefficient maid she should make an arrangement for her to go to such a home for lessons. I believe the result would be that we would soon have a lot of good, competent maids and many others would learn that they must really fit themselves for any kind of work in the world.

"In such a home as I suggest girls could learn that what they are taught there is just as needful to practice when they have homes of their own as it is in their present position in life. I believe there are plenty of good, motherly widows of middle age and more who would be glad to teach these girls to make good bread, to do nice laundry work, to sweep and dust, and in fact do all that could be wished for them for the privilege of having a good, wholesome, steady home and steady work. Give to such a widow a small salary if you can. A woman who is well along in years might still be useful in such a home, teaching these girls to mend, darn, and do other sewing and giving them many valuable ideas.

"To my mind such a home would supply not one but two long felt wants. For as much as ten years I have longed to try this plan of sheltering lone women and saving girls with the aid of one home, but I am still in no position to make the start other than by lending my personal influence, which at present is weak. All I can do is to pass on the suggestion. Mrs. E. H."

Few Likely to Attend.

As a matter of course there is no end to the "servant question" so-called, and sometimes I am inclined to think it is like poverty in that it shall never cease out of the land. Yet intelligent efforts are being made here and there to adjust and remedy conditions and I shall hail each one. For this reason I have given the letter of Mrs. E. H. at such length, in the hope that it may appeal to some one who can put her suggestion into practical effect. Also I believe it may call forth replies from others on the feasibility of her scheme and may perhaps supply us with some information as to whether or not this plan has been tried elsewhere and how it has worked.

Naturally, it is an easy matter to pick flaws in it and show how it is likely to fail. Whenever you bring human beings together in any kind of intimate relations there are bound to be disagreements and friction, and the girl who wants to learn will not always get on with the woman who is to instruct her or with the other girls who are trying to work with her. More than this, each one will probably have her own view of how work is to be done and will differ from the others in their ideas. Such complications arise in every institution of learning, and about the only way to minimize them is to give a good deal of authority to the one in charge, first making sure that she is the right person to have it, that she is not only competent but possesses the knack of managing those who are under her control.

For my own part, the chief obstacle in the way, as I see it, is that the girls won't wish to go to such a home. In the first place, the self-respecting young women are likely to shrink from the suggestion of a charitable refuge; in the second place, I am afraid there are not enough girls who wish to go into service and think they are not fitted for it to sustain such a place if it is not largely supported by charity. For the second state of affairs I am inclined to hold housekeepers chiefly to blame.

No Incentive to Study.

So long as any girl, no matter how little fitted for work and with what poor references she is backed, can get a place as general houseworker or in some other domestic capacity in our homes, what incentive is there for any girl to spend money and time in studying how to make herself competent?

To illustrate one phase of the question I have only to refer to a case which was heralded in the newspapers some months ago. A young girl of about 16 or 17 years of age disappeared suddenly from her home. She went off to school in the morning as usual and was not seen again by any one who knew her. She had had to cross a vacant lot on her way to school, and there was a stable where a lot of rather rough men were employed on the edge of the lot. They were at once suspected, investigated, the police set on their track, the papers filled with accounts and descriptions and pictures of the missing girl. Her family was wild with anxiety, ugly threats were made to the men who were supposed to know the secret of her disappearance; in a less well regulated community there might have been lynchings or at least rough handling.

And suddenly the girl was found. She had left home in a fit of pique, had taken a place as a nursegirl in a neighboring town, where she apparently had no difficulty in securing a situation. Without references, with only the vaguest account to give of herself, the mother of two young children had engaged this wanderer and put her in charge of the nursery. It would have been bad enough if the girl had been given the work of cooking or of any other branch of the household, but to make her nurse, to confide to her the care of little children, seemed to me nothing short of madness.

When this sort of thing is possible why should the unconscientious girl strive to better herself in any way? She knows she can always get a situation, whether she is competent or not, even if she has no references to declare her honest or decent.

I do not deny that there are many, many conscientious girls in service. Yet how many of them feel that they are not fitted to do the work for which they are engaged? They can do it, after their fashion. If the mistress of the house is so unreasonable as not to be satisfied, so much the worse for her—not for the maid, who can get another place without difficulty.

In all my experience as housekeeper, extending now over a period of more than half a century, I think I could number on the fingers of one hand the maids in my employ who have had a desire to learn because they thought by so doing they could better themselves and secure a place with higher wages. I do not mean that they have not learned all they could from me and left me when it suited their convenience to go to a place where they would receive higher pay, but they did not appreciate the future open before really well trained servants who would improve themselves by widening their field of knowledge. Apparently they were as well content to look forward to a future of work in the line they had taken up. The only open door for which they sought led them to marriage and homes of their own.

Demand for Improvement.

While marriage is a natural goal for woman to anticipate, yet since there are many who never marry it would seem the part of prudence for a woman to render herself capable of doing better in her line of work if matrimony should not happen to come her way. Since those in domestic service so rarely see this point of view, I hold to the conclusion expressed above that such a home as my correspondent outlines would not be a shining success in the present conditions.

And still we cannot help feeling that there is a demand for improvement in our household forces. I speak as one on the outside, because I have always been exceptionally fortunate in my domestic helpers and I have found the golden rule a good working method there as in other relations of life. This does not blind me to the fact that the cry of trouble with servants is continually and continuously heard through the land; that whenever two or three housekeepers are gathered together talk over the shortcomings and sins of their maids is one of the subjects of conversation upon which every woman has something to say. If the difficulty can be cured by the establishment of such homes as our Cornerite suggests it seems a pity that it should not be done, and not in one place only but in cities and towns all over the country.

For those who wish to acquire thorough knowledge of the topic there are schools of domestic science, cooking schools, and departments in colleges and elsewhere, but these are not attended by the girls who come to do our housework. They have not the money to spend on the tuition, they have not the time to give to it, they have not the training of mind which would enable them to derive benefit from it. The women who take these courses do not come from them to our kitchens. They may study them in order that they may be better fitted to run their own homes; they may follow the course for the sake of becoming teachers in the same line as a means of self-support; they do not take up the work in order to enable themselves to do domestic service in the house of others.

There can be no doubt in our minds that there is not only room for such a study home as our correspondent describes, but also a crying need for it. Unfortunately the people who feel the need are not the persons who would go into the school and come out as employés, but the employers who would take them from the school into their own homes. It is the housekeepers who know how the average maid needs such tuition, not the maid herself.

At least not the average maid. I grant the exceptions. Some of them are on the list of my correspondents, self-respecting women who think as highly of the work of making a home as they would of the art of painting a picture or teaching a school or writing a play—and with reason. In fact, I think perhaps with more reason. For all the pictures that ever were painted or the schools that ever were taught or the plays that ever were written have not so much to do with human happiness and comfort and that which springs from them as the ability to make a home comfortable and happy for those who dwell in it.

What are we going to do about it all? How are we going to induce the girls who need the instruction to go to such institutions? Has our correspondent made a practical suggestion, and if not, why not? What have other housekeepers who have perhaps also been in service to say on the matter? Let us hear from them.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"I WISH I could tell you what a beautiful time I am having with all the songs that have been sent to me since writing to you. I have thanked all of the good fairies for their gracious gifts and now I wish to thank you, too. I am going to try to return the kindnesses of these friends by doing some embroidery for them. I don't wish to accept any more and be selfish, so I am going to give you the name and address of a good Christian girl who would be so glad to receive sacred songs, duets and solos, also violin pieces. She is teaching school and paying back money she borrowed to go to school on and therefore has little to spend on songs. She is a Sunday school worker and has a good voice, so she plays and sings in church. She will be so grateful for anything any one will send her. Another great desire of my heart is to obtain some books for my children. They are 4 and 6 years old and fond of stories, but when night comes I am too tired to make up any and would be glad to receive a few books on kindergarten work or anything to give me an idea of how to help them pass the time (especially on rainy days), yet learn something that would benefit them. On account of my husband's health I haven't been able to buy any books or magazines in the last two years and would be so glad to receive a few good books for myself. I will not only pay express or postage on them but devote all my spare time to any amount of hemstitching or embroidery the givers wish done. It will be such a blessed exchange for me and work I would enjoy doing all summer in order to have some good books to read. I only hope I can give as much as I receive. The girl to whom the songs should be sent is Miss M. P. Mrs. W. A. S."

Such a plea as this for books is one which should appeal to all who love reading for themselves and are eager to put learning in the way of their children, but when the request is accompanied by the offer of such a return as the correspondent makes there can be little doubt of a prompt reply. I trust that the books which are sent may be carefully chosen and of a sort which will be worth the exchange made for them. The songs should also be sent to the young girl in whom Mrs. W. A. S. is interested and she will surely be considered by our music lovers, particularly those who are also church and Sunday school workers. I hold both these addresses and will be glad to supply them to inquirers.

Likes to Get Postcards.

"There is a Miss M. R., who has been a cripple from birth. Last year she had a foot amputated. Nothing pleases her more than to get post cards from far away people. If you could see her eyes grow bright when she receives a card you would each and every one send her a card. I visited her some time ago and she asked me to have people send cards to her. Mrs. A. T."

This note is from one of the Cornerites who is active in good works and has aided others through the Helping Hand. I know the generosity and good will of constituents, and I am positive in advance of the calls which will come for M. R.'s address and that her eyes will "grow bright" many times over the responses to this appeal.

Spray with Gasoline.

"Pray let me tell you of an effective treatment for bedbugs which is at the same time sanitary and germ and bedbug killing. Use a spray pump with a bucket of gasoline. The pump throws a fine spray which should be used on walls, ceilings, shelves, and floor, thoroughly saturating wherever used. Use plenty of gasoline. Spray beds and springs until every crack is saturated; spray bedding, mattress, and furniture. When finished the room is clean and sanitary. Gasoline does not injure the delicate colors of upholstery or walls, and is effective in the eradication of moths in anything. Preserve carpets from moths by saturating affected parts and along edges and corners. Mrs. S. D. B."

This remedy has been commended before, and I am glad to receive its further indorsement, but be careful to have no light or fire in the room with it.

Eliza Cook's Poems.

"During the last week I mailed two old dictionaries to the persons whose names you sent to me and cheerfully paid the postage, as the books seemed of little value, though better than no books of the kind. Now I have a little favor to ask. Do you suppose any one would have a copy of Eliza Cook's poems and would be willing to part with them? An old lady, my mother, has been wishing to read again the old, old poems. You remember Eliza Cook wrote 'The Old Arm Chair?' I would not ask this kindness if I had not already learned from a large book house that the book is out of print. I do hope you can find some one through the Corner who can put me on the track of a copy. "A. M. T."

Evidently I belong to the same generation as A. M. T.'s mother, for Eliza Cook's poems were familiar to me in my youth. My own copy has disappeared, but I hope some one else has one she can send to the Cornerite who wishes it, and if that cannot be done that some of the poems may be copied out and sent for her reading. A. M. T. is one of our helpful workers and she has done enough for us to deserve well of its members.

Hints for Housewives.

"Pearl tapioca makes a delicate and excellent thickening for soup. Cut shortening into piecrust with four tined table fork. Saves time, with better results. Dip in cold starch crocheted buttons which have lost their shape through laundering. It will make them look like new. Marshmallows are good substitutes for whipped cream when serving chocolate. A small piece of butter put in the boiling milk will prevent chocolate from boiling over. Stick a hatpin through the center of a layer cake when frosting it. This will prevent the layers from slipping. To freshen rolls place in paper bag, close the opening, and place over a teakettle after removing the cover. Have only a little water in the kettle and simmer, not boil. Open claws of crabs with nutcracker. To cut cold mush for frying press down through it with wet thread held as taut as possible. This cuts easily without ragged edges. Rub ends of umbrella ribs with vaseline where they are fastened. This prevents rust. Baked apples are delicious with cores filled with orange marmalade or sugar and chopped nuts. Irons will heat more quickly and stay hot longer if a cake tin or other cover is turned upside down over them. Candied nuts—Boil together one cup brown sugar, one-fourth cup water, one tablespoon vinegar, and lump of butter until mixture threads. Set aside until it begins to cool. Then dip each nut meat into it and lay on buttered paper to harden. M. B."

These suggestions will be as gratefully received by other housekeepers as they are by me and are doubly welcome not only for the terse and clear fashion in which they are expressed but because they are done on the typewriter and there is no difficulty in deciphering them.

In Exchange for a Camera.

"I see a request in the Corner for a set of quilting frames, and although I have not a set to give away I thought perhaps an account of my way of making quilts might help some one. I use flour sacks for the backs of my quilts. They are easily washed and one always has more of them on hand than are used, so I consider it a saving to employ them in this way. I quilt them on the machine and it is a great saving of time and labor. Has any one in the Corner a camera that is no longer needed? If so I would like much to have it and would pay parcel post on it. I have two instruction books for the piano and a half dozen pieces of music for the piano that would give in exchange for the camera. I hope the following recipes may be of use to some one:

"COFFEE CAKE.—One cup brown sugar, one cup molasses, half cup butter or lard, one cup strong coffee, four cups flour, one heaping teaspoon soda, one tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one package raisins. This recipe makes one large cake or two small ones. Bake about an hour in a moderate oven.

"SNOWBALL CAKE.—One cup sugar, two-thirds cup butter, half cup sweet milk, whites of three eggs, one teaspoon baking powder, flour to make good batter; flavor with lemon. Cream butter and sugar, add milk gradually, stirring well, then the whites, beaten stiff. Sift the baking powder into one cup of flour and stir in slowly; add enough more flour to make as stiff as plain cake. A little citron sliced thin is a good addition. Mrs. C. F. H."

Although I have had to call a halt for awhile in the constant procession of pleas and demands for phonographs, graphophones, sewing machines, musical instruments of all kinds, and cameras—to mention only a few of the articles for which letters are constantly pouring in—I cannot put down Mrs. C. F. H. among those who merely ask with no apparent thought of return. She has partially paid her way by her information about the quilts and the recipes, and she is willing to go still further and give music in exchange for the camera. I hope she may get it, and I shall be glad to supply her address to any one who has a camera to offer.

Some Eggless Recipes.

"There are two secrets in cooky making which if followed will always insure success. One is to stir in flour until the spoon stands up in the dough, and the other is to stir up the dough and let it stand over night in a cold place. It will then roll out almost like pie crust without mixing in more flour.

"POVERTY MOLASSES COOKIES.—One cup molasses, one-third cup hot water, two tablespoons lard, one teaspoon each salt, soda, and cinnamon, half teaspoon ginger. Stir in flour until the spoon will stand up in the dough without falling over, and leave the dough in a cold place all night. Do not roll thin or mix in more flour on the board or the mixture will be gingerbread instead of cookies. Lay each cooky in a saucer of sugar and place in the baking pan sugar side up.

"POOR MAN'S SUGAR COOKIES.—One cup sugar, one cup sour milk or buttermilk, half cup lard, half teaspoon each salt and soda, one teaspoon vanilla; proceed with flour and directions as in foregoing recipe. These cookies are really delicious and may be varied by using different flavorings, caraway seeds, cocoanut, or raisins. Roll thin, as they rise up thick.

"GOOD GINGERBREAD.—One cup molasses, half cup boiling water, [illegible] half cups flour, one teaspoon [illegible] cinnamon, half teaspoon salt and [illegible] ginger, four tablespoons lard.

"FILLING.—One cup sugar, [illegible] spoons cornstarch, three [illegible] coa, three tablespoons milk or water [illegible] well, then heat until it boils, [illegible] stantly; remove from the fire, flavor [illegible] vanilla, beat well, and spread on the [illegible] while quite warm.

Indeed you may and you will find a welcome waiting for you! In these days of high prices any help in feeding our households acceptably without going to [illegible] expense in order to do it is most gratefully received. I hope some of the Cornerites will try the recipes at once and report to us of their success. I am glad to add them to my own list and I shall hope soon to see Mrs. A. G. T. knocking at the [illegible] again.

For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

SUNSHADES

HAVE you ever noticed that when fashion decrees small hats the sunshade is much in evidence? This is only natural, a sort of cause-and-effect affair, if one goes to the root of the matter.

One can make a much prettier sunshade at home than one can buy for a reasonable sum. The beauties usually are obtainable from the shops only at soaring prices, whereas the girl clever with her needle can make them at little cost.

It is not every woman who feels equal to cutting and fitting the cover of the parasol itself. This obstacle is quickly overcome, however, for one has but to buy a parasol ready made, along rather plain lines, and proceed to ornament it to taste. If one wishes a pale blue silk, rather fluffy sunshade it is well to buy a blue silk shade, slightly puffed and ruffled with its own material. Then buy several yards of this pretty chiffon rosebud trimming that comes by the yard, and proceed to drape it and stitch it by hand into festoons on each panel of the sunshade, just a trifle above the heading of the ruffling. The festoons, of course, are connected, one long, uncut piece of the trimming being used for the entire decoration.

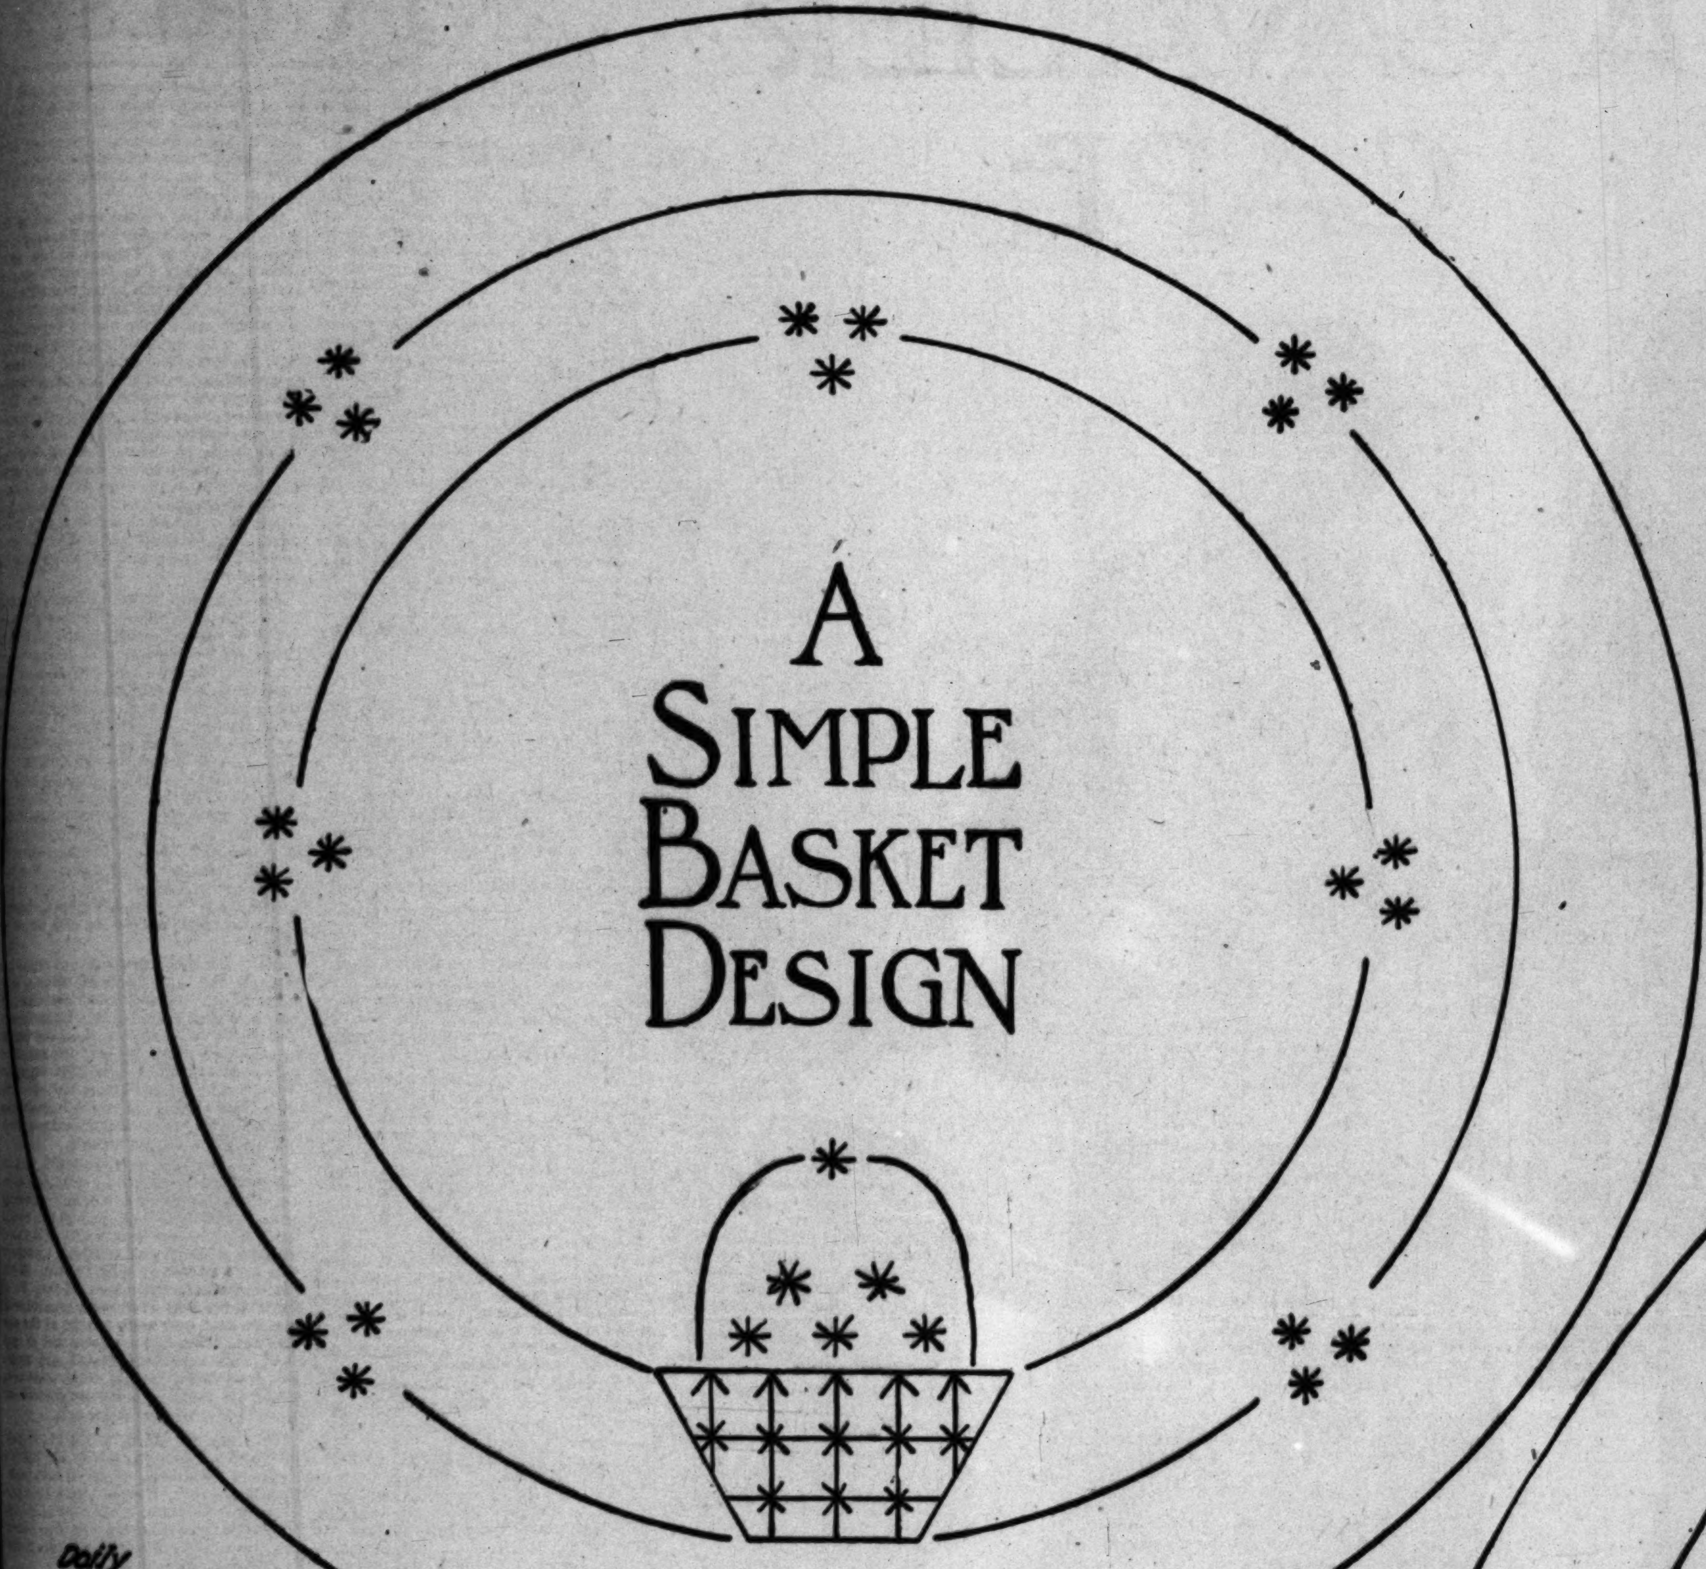
Another pretty conceit is to make small bunches of chiffon flowers and sew them to the shade, one in the center of each panel. If the flowers are made of satin or silk, they will be too heavy for the purpose. They should be light in weight and rather flat. It is necessary for them to be flat, so that when the sunshade is closed the flowers will not cause an ungraceful bulk. For this reason chiffon is preferable.

If you can embroider very neatly, it is a pretty fashion to embroider sprays or conventional designs upon the panels of the sunshade. It takes an expert needlewoman to do this, however, as the wrong side of the work must be exceedingly neat, the wrong side being bound to show. All ends must be cleverly concealed, and the embroidery must be of one color and that color the shade of the parasol itself, or the wrong side will not look well. A parasol of old-gold silk is rather unusually attractive when embroidered in dull gilt flowers. One has to work with this gilt thread most carefully, though, or the effect is spoiled.

Attractive Trimming

DID you ever try combining beads with hand embroidery in a design? It is surprising what effective trimming they make for a gown. For instance, a beautiful yoke or band trimming in black and gold may be made by stamping black material in white and in the same design as one would use for French knots. For the leaves, stems, and sometimes the petals of flowers, a solid stitch in black silk is used, more or less highly padded, and on each dot that is intended to be covered by a French knot a tiny gilt bead is sewn. Gilt crystal beads are not so good for the purpose as those of metal. There is a metal bead that is very tiny and cut much like a cut-steel bead, but which has the appearance of dull gold. Goldenrod done in this fashion is particularly beautiful.

One may, of course, use beads of all colors and design flowers of all kinds with them. For instance, wild roses could be done in pale pink beads, forget-me-nots in blue, and so on. The trimming is more or less elaborate, and one has to be careful that good taste is used in selecting both materials and colors, and also that the design of the gown is one that will be beautified by that certain kind of trimming.



A SIMPLE BASKET DESIGN

Doily

THE page for our embroidery circle is limited as to space, and I feel that the showing today will give my friends a fair idea of the simple basket design that can be reproduced in many sizes of doilies and enlarged for the luncheon cloth that will complete the set for a luncheon table that will be appreciated by a little child or by a grown-up. When you look at the finished doily and then inspect the stitches on the design, you will see that the word simple that I have applied is a very good one. The stitches are really nothing more than straight ones that radiate from a center. The frequent crossing of the thread through the one hole at the center gives the effect of an eyelet. This set is so simple that you should not have any hesitation in giving it as the first piece of fancy work to your little daughter.

The design is such that it can be duplicated on all the other pieces of the set by tracing the basket from this page and making on the doily, the inner line one inch from the outer edge and parallel with it.

All that you have to do, if you cannot have the design already stamped on the linen, is to get the different sizes and shapes of the luncheon set and by your own cleverness manipulate the design.

As for your own color scheme, it will be in one tone and in any of the staple colors that will stand the washing. Delft blue is very effective, especially if the china for breakfast or luncheon is in that delightful shade. Green is good and will carry out the shade of the green in the plain china that is used for our summer homes. Yellow is another favorite, if the china has a conventional decoration of yellow flowers.

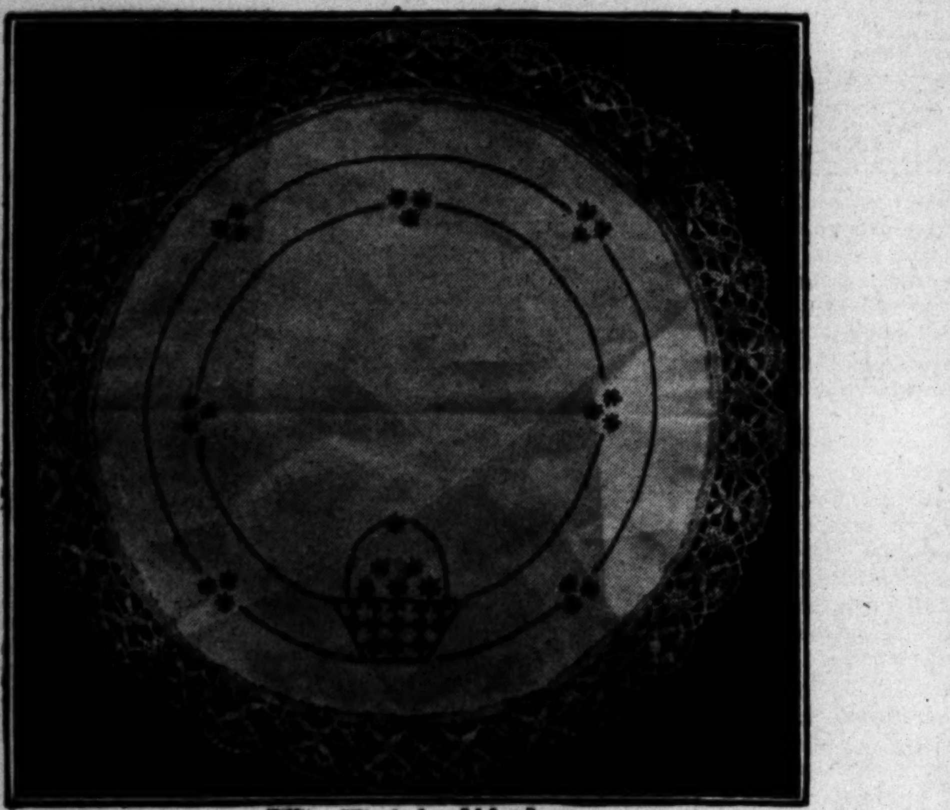
In looking at the photograph of the finished doily, you will see how attractive the idea is in a completed state, and you will also notice that the straight edge is finished with cluny lace that is sewed to the right side over the hem. This is very inexpensive and gives a dainty finish to the set. The two lines that connect the design are done in outline stitch, as is the handle of the basket.

The doily is short, but your satisfaction is long if you work this out and use it as all good, practical embroidery deserves to be used. I cannot emphasize too much the enjoyment at a table of the meal when there is attractive napery to make the artistic side of the home apparent. The furnishings of the table—and this includes the embroidery that the woman of the house can give—make it worth while for the family to linger in the beauty to which all of us are sensitive.

I hope that you will be doubly pleased with this design. That means that I hope you will not stop at just one set. Then other colors will make you glad.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the [illegible] on top. With a sharp pencil or [illegible] pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until



The Finished Work

A BOUDOIR CAP

WHAT a trousseau it was! Piles and piles of beautiful things carefully packed in a huge brass-bound cedar chest that might have been old, but which was very new—that is, but a year of residence had it enjoyed in a corner of the engaged girl's room. There were negligees, nightrobes, lingerie underwear of all descriptions, and a hundred and one other things that the girl's own skillful fingers had fashioned and various friends had labored over lovingly. Yet one article in that chest, carefully boxed so that it could not be crushed, was its chief treasure—a beautiful lace-and-pearl boudoir cap.

It was a soft little Dutch cap made of cream all-over lace in a lovely shadow pattern over another cap, a lining of cream net. The cap itself was softly gathered, and the turned-back flap, which in most Dutch caps is cut perfectly plain and straight, is of the same shape, but shirred softly in half-inch rows. White satin wire was used to wire the flap about its edges to keep it in place. The three edges of this flap, meaning the back and the two sides, were edged with pearls. Upon close examination, it was found that one long string of pearl beads was used. The beads were strung so that they had not much room to slip, and then they were basted on with whipping stitches about half an inch apart. The whipping stitches slipped between the beads and were entirely concealed. It was evident that when the cap became soiled it would be quite a simple matter to rip out the basting threads which were about the beads and the wire. After the cap was laundered it would be even a more simple matter to renew the basting threads, as, of course, the pearls would not be washable.

If pearls are not used upon the cap, some pretty colored beads, turquoise, coral, amethyst, sapphire, or any other kind of mock jewel that is preferred, can be used.

An Old Lace Collar

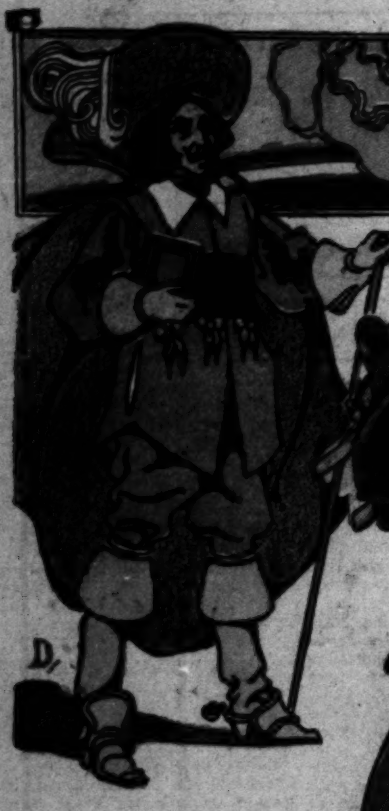
"OH!" EXCLAIMED a young mother with her first baby, "aren't those bootees the dearest things? I'd love to have them for Elaine. Yet, they're real Irish, and I really can't afford such things just now," she finished, dismally. Suddenly her face lit up. "Why, I can make them!" she exclaimed, triumphantly. "There's that old lace collar of mine that is wearing out around the edges and which I couldn't bear to throw away, because it was real lace. It's just the thing for baby's bootees."

So the young mother entered the shop and bought a little pair of pique bootees, very plain and inexpensive, but of most comfortable shape. Going home, she got out the old lace collar. Before cutting into it, however, she cut out two little paper patterns, spoiling several, until at last she had two that were perfectly satisfactory. These patterns she placed over the lace and cut the lace out accordingly. Before covering the bootees, however, the little woman ran a row of machine stitching about the cut edges of the cut-out lace, so that the lace would not ravel. The edges of the lace were then tucked under the tiniest bit, just to keep the raw edges from showing, and the lace was whipped to the pique bootees. As there is a right and wrong side to the lace, and as there is a right shoe and a left shoe, this necessitates the cutting of the lace over two different patterns, the difference not being so much in the soles of the little shoes, but in the tabs or fastenings which, as you know, come on different sides.

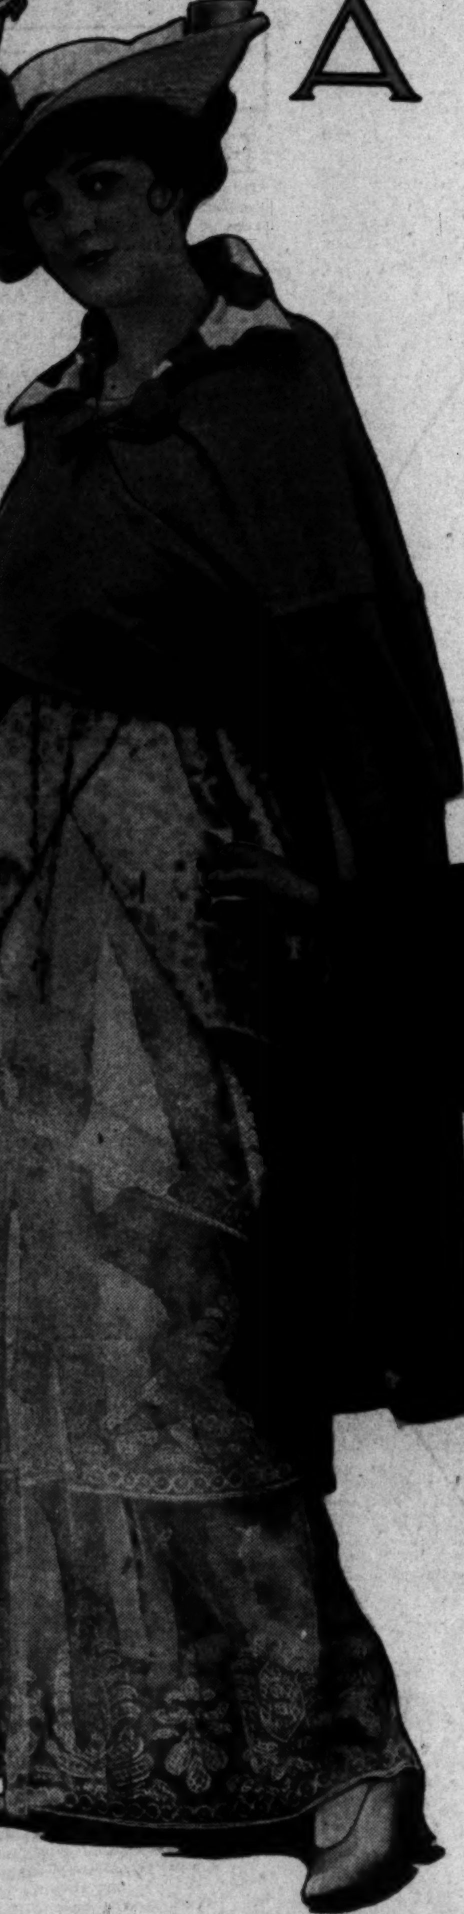
Yes, decidedly, this making of infants' bootees is a good use for old Irish lace collars. The wise will recognize in it a very economical way of giving announcement presents, too, for Irish lace never grows old so long as it is whole. Even the torn places can be so skillfully mended that they will never be recognized. If you cannot mend laces well yourself, you will find upon inquiry that any number of old ladies of your acquaintance know how to darn beautifully, and are just longing for a bit of the work to do for outsiders, so that they may add to their slender incomes occasionally.

Keeping Milk Warm

IT IS so often difficult to keep the baby's milk warm after it is put into the bottle; but this trouble is greatly helped by the neat little knitted covers which are made to fit over the bottle. These covers are never loose, but fit snugly. They are made of wool zephyr and as the zephyr is stretchable, the cover can be made somewhat smaller than the bottle, so that it will fit all the more snug when it is stretched over it. The cover is very simply made, the single crochet stitch being used. The stitches should be rather close and firm, so as to keep the heat in. It is surprising what a long time the milk will keep warm under the bottle's little woolen jacket. Either pink, blue or white wool is used, and sometimes white with a pink or blue border and edge.



SHE WEARS A CAVALIER CAPE



Wrapped Around in Graceful Line

A Circular Style

"AH, MADAME! At your service! I am honored beyond all words. I had never hoped that you would deem me fit to grace so lovely a form and to protect such beauty. May I meet all demands, give distinction to your costume and swing with you to success in all hours to the glory of the fair one who has adopted me."

If the cavalier cape could speak in plain ordinary words, it might say something like that. But it speaks for itself in eloquent line and glowing colors, and the wise woman is she who wears a cavalier cape in her imperial assurance that a thing of beauty is a joy forever. To be sure, the royalists wore these capes under Charles I and Charles II, and sometimes they were the badges of distinctly partisan feelings. Now they are the signs of elegant dressing and a quick grasp of the distinctive in style. What can be more attractive than a cavalier cape on an American queen? Roundheads, please take notice.

Any cape would be pleased into singing a charming sonnet—if it could rhapsodize—if it were wrapped around the wearer in the line of the old-rose model that has a wide-striped inner lining. There is a bolero suggestion at the front because the ends are tied around the waist and buttoned at the back under the loose folds. The sectional back further emphasizes the fact that the lines run in curves around the form. A loose collar tops the cape. Who would not fight for the good name of this wrap? Why, women will be mobbing the department in which this beauty can be purchased!

Throw the black-and-white circular cape over your shoulders, and, if you would be very dignified, hold one end up over your shoulder. Keep the head high—any woman who is fortunate enough to own a cape like this ought to hold up her head. And then, when you walk out in afternoon or evening, protected in cape beauty from the elements, keep an eye on the crowds. If you recognize admiration when you see it—why, just blame it on your cape.

On the separate coat the cape has set its stamp of style. It suggests gallant knights who were willing to protect the pretty feet of their queens from the prosaic puddles, doesn't it? It is shorter than the others, and yet long enough for the coat. The military line of a thrown-back cape will ever be charming on woman. Of course, here is the inevitable touch of the eternal feminine, for a colored silk lining gives a dash of color and turned-back plaid cuffs finish the sleeves of the coat. Yes, you can storm the fort—or your husband's pocketbook—in this.

The grace of the cape has furnished inspiration for many a painter. Some of the masterpieces of other days are hanging in great galleries and are admired for the sweeping line of the wraps. Well, take a hint and have a cape. Make a picture for any one who is clever enough to appreciate one. The wise woman of today wears a cavalier cape and knows how stunning she is in it.

Barefoot To Millionaire.

There died at Pasadena not many weeks ago a man whose life would furnish a worthy subject of study to any intelligent human being and ould prove an inspiration to all who ome acquainted with the facts. e was Frederick Weyerhaeuser as own among men. His birthplace s Germany and his birth as poverty-stricken as anything that could e easily imagined. In early boyhood e came to America, barefooted and gged, and obtained work upon a rm. It was hard work with long ily hours of application, plain living d small remuneration.

The salient facts of this man's life e these: From farm work he took ployment in a sawmill. This was out fifty years ago. The man had dustry, thrift and foresight as his e capital to begin with. From working in a sawmill he came to own one, and then seeing what was before the country he acquired by careful economy title to vast tracts of timber lands which, increasing in value and worked up in his own sawmills, made him a millionaire.

Instead of being an inspiration to many of us, Frederick Weyerhaeuser's life is made a text by many on which to found a vicious and unfair attack upon modern society, upon civilization as it is, upon the American government, and upon every American institution.

Reasonable people hold that the man's acquisitions were honest and that he deserved every cent he died possessed of. The paths he trod in life were already well-beaten ones, charted and known to all men of his time.

Those who abuse the man's memory and attack modern society because of his successes had these paths lying before their own eyes as plainly as they were before his. They preferred idleness or extravagance or both, and as they reap they have sown. Frederick Weyerhaeuser gave employment and thus furnished a comfortable living to many thousands of men during his lifetime. What have his critics ever done of benefit to their kind? Nothing. They have never developed a bit of the natural wealth of the country, never founded or carried on an industry, never given a day's employment nor paid a dollar's wages to any human being. Their place, if they were modest, would be one of retirement, and their cue in the great drama of life, if they had any sense, would be silence.

Old Things Pass Away.

Yes, and with the old things pass many old familiar faces, and old familiar names disappear from the columns of the daily press. It is a transition period in the United States in which many, indeed nearly all, of our theories and practices in politics are giving place to new conceptions.

Hon. Theodore Burton of Ohio has been a public servant for the duration of a whole generation. He has been a faithful servant, devoting great ability to the public for years and years.

He is now a Senator from the State of Ohio in the United States Congress, and his term is drawing to an end. He announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election. Senator Burton does not say it, but he knows, as scores of others of his type who have quit the public service have known it, that it is the new political practices which have induced him to quit, indeed forced him to step aside.

The interesting question is, Will the new practices give us better men than those of the Theodore Burton type?

The Garment Bespeaks the Man.

J. "Ham" Lewis hails from the Sucker State. He has been where the fierce light of publicity beats upon him with all its force for many years. He is now a Senator from Illinois, and there he is right in the very center of the spotlight. Senator Lewis's dress attracts the light to his person, or rather reflects it to the eye of the public. His whiskers are reported to be the most brilliant thing in his make-up.

It was a saying of old Polonius that "the garment oft proclaims the man." This is eminently true in the case of Senator Lewis. He delivered himself the other day in an address upon the repeal of the bill giving American ships engaged in coastwise trade free passage through the American canal built by the American people with American taxpayers' money through American soil.

Senator Lewis's whiskers may be as pink as the brightest carnation that ever blossomed under California suns, and his dress may be as bizarre as that of a showman or a Broadway dandy, but none of these things can possibly "stick so fiery off" as the production of the Senator's mind in the address referred to. To refer again to Hamlet, it is eminently a case of "words, words, words," and for a logical non sequitur it ought to have place forever as a specimen of such mental production in books on rhetoric.

Helping the Inefficient.

Let us give the modern reformer, in spite of all the shallowness of the shallowest, and in spite of all the insincerity of the most insincere politician, credit for being in earnest in his ardent advocacy of taking care of the unsuccessful in life.

Let us inquire into the wisdom rather than the honesty of his efforts. The last California Legislature passed a very extreme law for the protection of employees working in any capacity for any employer from the effects of any accident that might occur.

The practical effect of this law will be about as follows: If a painter is employed to paint your bungalow and he brings his own material of every kind, including ladders of all sorts, brushes and paint pots, and an accident occurs under these circumstances, the employer is responsible, and as we learn from the mouth of the painter himself, the law will apply almost automatically, provided the injured man cares to claim the so-called benefits.

That law is manifestly unjust to the employer, for we hold him liable, if a man brought a rotten ladder, if he came drunk, or in spite of any other carelessness or negligence on the part of the employee. In the present temper of lawmakers and reformers the employer, logically being presumed to be a man of efficiency, counts for nothing in comparison with the interest of the employee, a man of less or of no efficiency.

But how about the effect on the employee? The painter referred to above informs us that he has been accustomed to take large contracts and hire many men, a form of enterprise he has been obliged to abandon because he fears the responsibility resting upon his shoulders under this law. He is going around taking odd jobs by the day at going wages.

Who suffers most, the employer of efficiency, or the employee of less?

Thousand Tons Of Eggs.

In the wisdom of those who control the American government in these days the duty has been removed from eggs. In consequence of this removal there arrived the other day on the Pacific Coast from China a ship carrying a thousand tons of eggs. The actual number was 6,792,360. Most of these were consigned to points in the United States.

The purpose of removing the tariff in the minds of the removers was to make eggs cheaper.

Has any American breakfast table been served with an egg this year at less price than a year ago?

Women's Decorations.

[Indianapolis News:] Commenting on John Galsworthy's recent arraignment of Parliament for sins of omission and commission, in which the author decried the importation into England of the plumage of birds "to decorate our gentlewomen," G. K. Chesterton says: "This is a real wrong and a scandal. I am against gentlewomen being decorated. They have their rouge and their hair dye. Why can not they be content to be disguised?"

Let Us All Eat.

THE Californian who has ears to hear should hear the Governor's proclamation relating to Raisin Day. This is to be Wednesday of this week, namely April 30. The raisin crop of California is one of the largest in volume, most valuable in price, and most beneficial to the health of the human race. California raisins practically supply the world. They are grapes in one of the most attractive, nutritious and wholesome forms that this prince of foods is marketed under. You will be doing the raisin growers, the whole State and yourself a real favor and a great benefit by eating abundantly of this choice product of California's suns and soils.

Let Beauty Shine.

THE great moral Teacher of mankind exhorted His followers to let "their light shine." California is exhorted to let its beauty shine. The State has more beauty to the acre than any other part of the footstool of the Most High, and of all her beauties her sisterhood of flowers, if not the first certainly is among the very first. It is quite natural that Californians should have flower festivals at different points at different times of year. Pasadena has taken out a patent for the great Rose Tournament held in the very midwinter on New Year's Day. Little Hanford in the San Joaquin Valley comes to the front with a great rose carnival in the middle of April. Now all over the world, excepting in the tropics, April is known as the month of showers that simply promise flowers to come later. But the San Joaquin Valley is ablaze with bloom in mid-April. You tenderfeet, do you remember what an oleander is in your old home at the East? A little sickly plant kept in the cellar, its roots in a tub, and the rest of it in a great winter overcoat of straw, pulled out about April in favored districts, and so on until about the Fourth of July when they are taken out of the cellars up in Minnesota and get a breath of fresh air. By the end of July or August they manage to put out a few sickly blooms, a mere ghost of a flower. Did you ever see an oleander bush in the San Joaquin Valley? It sometimes is twenty feet high, with a circumference as great in measure as its height, and it is a blaze of brilliant red or spotless white flowers from the ground to the skyline. There comes from Washington a suggestion that should be taken up by many Californians. It appears that the French Floral Industry League brings up to Paris from the Riviera flowers that cost $12,000,000 a year. The French are artistic to their fingers' ends, to the backs of their brains and the cores of their hearts. A French flower shop is a poem. But Americans either know or can learn, and among the many sources of income to California there is none more fascinating than that of cultivating flowers. This State has already a number of flower-seed farms that supply the markets of the world with this product. If Paris can spend $12,000,000 a year for flowers, New York can spend $50,000,000, and California can produce them better in winter than the Riviera. It takes but little capital to go into the business, and the work can be done by women and girls about as successfully as by men, perhaps a little more so.

Preparing for the Tourists.

EVERYTHING in railroad circles is bending itself to preparations for next year. In a week the Santa Fe will move down to Redondo Junction with all its shops, where a plant has been completed at a cost of $250,000. Then the old shop buildings will be torn down and a great concrete and steel freight shed erected to cost $150,000. Though the Santa Fe has spent $250,000, its work is not done, as the original estimate is $500,000. The road is now receiving thirty-five great passenger locomotives, each of which cost $28,000. They are part of a series of 115 such machines which will cost the company $2,220,000. The roads are going to be taxed to their uttermost next year, and they are all at work now preparing for the great rush.

All Things Become New.

MANY a gray-headed man, and woman, too, now spending the ends of their days in sunshine and happiness amid the bright things of California came to the State either in a clipper ship around the Horn or via the isthmus on sidewheel steamers on two oceans, crossing Panama on mule-back, or across the plains in a "prairie schooner." A great many more remember the first transcontinental trains in 1869 and 1870 that made about fifteen miles an hour and constituted for that time a most luxurious method of travel. But these were nothing to the luxury of the transcontinental railroads of the present time. At first it took nearly a week to make the trip from San Francisco to Chicago, and now it is made in three days. The dining-cars of the early days were inconvenient things compared with the traveling palaces of today. And the best is still to come. For the manager of the tourist department of the Northwestern and Union Pacific Railroads has installed musical machines in the first-class passenger trains, and is now planning to make the dining-room tables so they can be removed and let the passengers "rag and tango" to their hearts' delight while crossing the continent. Think of the delights in store for you who are coming to see the great fair at San Francisco next year.

The Panama of Tomorrow.

W. R. GRACE & CO. of New York and San Francisco are planning a fleet of ships to ply around all the coasts of America through the canal. The superintendent of the Pacific Wharf and Storage Company at San Pedro speaks for the Luckenbach and Atlantic-Pacific lines. He says that until recently the steamers from Panama were bringing up a few hundred tons each trip. They are now bringing up 1800 tons, 2500 tons and 3500 tons a trip. The American-Hawaiian line has a fleet of twenty-six ships to be engaged in this business. Every fleet steamship line in the world has its eyes upon the canal and the Coast for business. The days of rounding the Horn are about past forever. This will make Panama the great distributing point for the whole Pacific Ocean, as the eastern end of the canal will be for all the Atlantic coasts, Europe and Africa. The lines will all center at the two ends of the canal, and from there branch out the wide world over. For example, a ship from New York or Liverpool coming down to Colon will transship there for South America, and possibly for Europe. The ship will discharge freight at Panama to ports all along South America on the Pacific, for the Antipodes and possibly for Southern Asia if not Eastern Africa. Ships coming up the Atlantic coast of South America will call at Colon and distribute freight, and those coming up from the Pacific Coast of South America will swap freight with steamers bound for points on the north coast of America on the Pacific and to points all over Northern Asia. Of course the main lines will pass their ships through the canal bound eastward to ports all around the Atlantic and westward for ports all over the Pacific. Los Angeles and San Francisco will be the great ports of call, but the transshipping done at the ends of the canal will make those points very important in the commerce of the world.

With Your Breakfast Coffee.

AT SACRAMENTO an incorporation has filed papers under the name of the Supreme Baking Company, organized in Los Angeles and capitalized for $4,000,000. The manager has already put through a deal by which he absorbs several large bakeries in Los Angeles, San Diego and other places in the State. The issue of bonds to the amount of $500,000 has been authorized, and the matter will soon be in full swing. Right on the heels of this comes the filing of incorporation papers by the Pacific Baking Company of Los Angeles, capitalized for $500,000, so there will be no monopoly of the bread business and we should all be able to get our rolls and toast at moderate cost, meantime making Los Angeles a distributing point for bread all over Southern California. We used to think home-made bread the best. We had a profound misgiving as to eating baker's bread. The baker's bread of today is better than any home-made bread and gives the housewife the staff of life cheaper than she could bake it in her own oven loaf for loaf, and no waste. Every loaf the groceryman delivers at your back door is net bread, while if you bake it you are a wonder, Mrs. Housekeeper, if you never spoil a "batch."

A Fine Inspiration.

CALIFORNIA creates more fine inspirations than any other part of the country, but Californians are not conceited, and are mighty quick to adopt a good inspiration conceived elsewhere. That was the finest of fine inspirations when Bryn Mawr, Radcliffe and other women's colleges set a low limit to the cost of graduation dresses. It has been taken up at Santa Monica, where the girls' dresses this year will be limited to a cost of $5. The French have always had clearer views of these things than we have, and their view is that a young girl is attractive enough in her own loveliness in the simplest kind of a frock the costumer can build. It is only in after years that the Frenchwomen adorn themselves to conceal the ravages of time in wrinkles around their temples and necks. The heartburning between the less wealthy pupils and the millionaire class in school commencements has been bitter. The weight of the merit for this reform must go into the millionaire side of the scales, where the girl who could spend a fortune for a Paris-built dress consents to be content with one that comes within the reach of less wealthy classmates. We would not say her less-fortunate classmate, for moderate circumstances are not always a disadvantage, nor are riches always an asset excepting in banking circles.

The California Cattle Business.

THE Tehachepi Cattle Company is a business venture recently organized by a few men of South Pasadena. It is capitalized for $600,000 and comes quite under the blue-sky law, for nearly every dollar is actually paid in. The company has 20,000 acres of mountain land near Tehachepi and a fattening ranch of 2350 acres near Bakersfield. On this latter there are 3000 head of cattle fattening for the market, and within a month 1000 were sold. Up in the San Joaquin Valley in the country around Porterville fattening beeves for the market has become a great business. About the middle of April one cattle man sold sixty steers which netted him $6000, or $100 a head. This seems to be the normal price up there, for another cattle man has contracted to deliver 800 in May for which $80,000 will be paid. It is estimated that the season's business there will bring in $1,000,000. Then we go down into the Imperial Valley country where fattening cattle is a great enterprise. Around Calexico there are 20,000 head of dairy cattle and 15,000 head of beef stock at the present time. Fattening beef for the market has about as solid a foundation under it as any of modern days. Beef will never be cheaper in the United States, and would not be even if the duty on cattle and meats remained off forever.

One Imperial Town.

WHOEVER named Imperial county had an inspiration surely. The development there within the century has surpassed anything ever known in the world. Holtville is one of the many towns in the valley, and around it are thousands of acres under cultivation, mostly in alfalfa, barley and cotton. The hay and grain are not shipped out as raw material to any extent, but go into stock mostly. It is said that where six months ago the country "was a desert waste, now 8000 acres of green crops are to be seen, with 12,000 more going under cultivation." They ship from the town 5000 pounds of butter a day, and during the year many carloads of cattle. The town is right on the southern national highway, and so confident are the people of their future that they are planning a $7000 bridge over the Alamo River, have voted $50,000 for a grammar school, and $20,000 for a sewer system. Private individuals have subscribed $3000 to build a good road across the sand hills of the Colorado Desert to Yuma. A Masonic temple is about to be built at a cost of $30,000, and two new apartment-houses are to be started at once.

SUCCESSION OF MAYORS.

IN THOSE earliest days of California under Spanish administration, affairs of government were conducted through the only two powers which had any sort of organization at the time—the church and the army. But toward the latter part of the eighteenth century, as the pueblos began to grow, the need of more direct administration of civic affairs developed, and the office of alcalde was created. There seems to be no record of the selection of an alcalde in the pueblo of Los Angeles previous to 1788. Corporal Vincente Felix had served in the capacity of adjustor and arbiter of all moot questions which arose among the settlers, and as is usually the case when the power of finality is vested in one person, the settlers were in a constant state of dissatisfaction with him. When complaint was made to the Governor, instead of bringing relief, Felix was endowed with the title of "comisionado," and extra power to enforce his rule, which continued for many years after the creation of the office of alcalde with his two "regidores" or councilmen, who were supposed to be in administrative, judicial and legislative authority.

Jose Vanegas, one of the original settlers, served as the first Alcalde, to be followed by Jose Sinova, Mariano Verdugo, Francisco Reyes, Jose Vanegas again, Manuel Arellano, Guillermo Soto, Francisco Serrano, and Joaquin Higuera, with whose administration the nineteenth century was ushered in. Sergt. Javier Alvarado became comisionado for the following decade, maintaining supremacy, and incidentally as good order as was possible to a period when gambling, drunkenness, and general disorderliness were on the increase. In the meantime, an alcalde and two rigidores continued to be elected each year, forming a town council or ayuntamiento with more dignity than official power and effectiveness.

The Spanish Cortes, on May 23, 1812, issued a decree regulating the membership of the ayuntamiento. There should be one alcalde, two regidores, and one sindico—treasurer—for all towns not having more than 200 inhabitants; in towns having between 200 and 500 inhabitants four regidores were allowed; while in those which should exceed 1000 two alcaldes—the second alcalde's services being similar to those of a vice-president—eight regidores and two sindicos were designated. The comisionado, or military despot, still remained to make a mockery of the "muy ilustre" deliberative-administrative body. When Guillermo Cota was comisionado, the Angelenos made it plain to him that his services were not wanted; an appeal to the Governor was again attempted, again without avail; whereat the "muy ilustre" devised a most ingenious plan whereby the power vested in the comisionado was undone forever. Cota was elected to the office of alcalde. Civil authority thus swallowed military dictatorship.

Besides fulfilling the duties of Mayor and presiding over the ayuntamiento, the alcalde sat as judge of the court of first instance. The sindico acted as city attorney and tax collector, as well as treasurer, taking his pay in commissions on tax collections. A secretary was also found necessary to keep the records and serve as clerk of the court of the alcalde. He was the only salaried municipal officer.

In 1837 the Mexican Congress decreed the abolishment of ayuntamientos in "capitals of departments" of less than 4000 in population, and interior towns of less than 8000. As no California town was able to show the requisite number of inhabitants, the ayuntamientos went out of existence, the towns being governed by prefects and justices of the peace, special laws being enacted by departmental assembly. In 1844, however, the ayuntamiento was re-established, having jurisdiction even beyond the town limits—that of Los Angeles over a territory as large as the State of Massachusetts.

Los Angeles was under American military rule from January, 1847, to August, 1848, a period commencing with the second American occupation of the city. It is of this period, when Fremont was enjoying his brief period of Governorship, that a most amusing story is told. Placing himself in the hands of a Mexican tailor, the "Governor" soon emerged in the glory of red, green and gold calzoneros, with "scallops of purple velvet, and silver bell buttons extending from hip to bottom. He wore Mexican drawers of delicate white muslin, with each leg a yard wide; shoes of black buckskin, with very short round toes and high heels." A Mexican bota made of leather, embroidered in gold, silk and silver hung to the knee, holding his silver-hilted knife. A gaudy Mexican sash five yards long was around his waist. A short embroidered jacket, a red vicuna hat, with gold cord and tassels, completed a costume which stood for several hundred dollars. Maj. Bell declares that one of the Dons, determined to outdo the gringo, appeared soon thereafter on the streets in a suit which, with saddle and horse trappings, represented $2000. A notable addition to his outfit was a red bandana handkerchief, tied low on his loins, with the points hanging down behind like a swallow-tail coat. The "Governor," thus appearing on the street, out-donned the Don!

Col. Stevenson, placed in military charge in Los Angeles, was instructed to "keep order and assist in the administration of the laws as they existed"—not a very easy task with questions constantly arising as between civil and military authority. However, the year 1847 saw an ayuntamiento elected entirely of native-born Californians, whose operations should not be interfered with excepting in the prohibition to sell or give away pueblo real estate. History states that an extra pomp and dignity invested the proceedings of the "muy illustre," which was very natural under the circum- which was very natural under the circumstances. But when Stevenson released an offender who had been arrested by the second alcalde, and was resented by the resignation of that official, Stevenson decided that the American element should enter into the American element should enter into the ayuntamiento, and appointed Stephen C. Foster alcalde. Of course this was not exactly a legal proceeding, and the outgoing alcalde refused to swear in his successor, whereupon the resourceful Stephenson himself performed the function. This resulted in the remaining members of the ayuntamiento resigning. Don Abel Stearns was elected sindico, and thus the government was run for the time being. In this administration the dam or headworks on the river and the irrigating ditch—both having fallen into disuse—were repaired by the newly established chain gang, a great deal of the city's filth was cleaned up, vagrants were dealt with, and an attempt was made to regulate liquor traffic.

Notice was issued in 1848 for election of new officials, but there was no response from the offended Californian contingent, and so further announcement was made that the present administration would continue until the Los Angeles voters were ready to choose their successors. In May of the following year the voters came to time, and an ayuntamiento was elected with but one American, John Temple, who served as sindico. Foster was in office until May 17, 1849.

In that same year Gov. Riley was instructed from Washington to send forth a proclamation to the people of California to elect delegates, and assemble them at Monterey on September 1, that a State constitution be formed for the purpose of correcting many ills and irregularities then existing. It is recorded that Capt. H. W. Halleck wrote to Mr. Foster urging him to awaken the people of Los Angeles to the necessity. The result was that Abel Stearns, Manuel Dominguez, Pedro Carrillo, S. C. Foster and Hugo Reid were elected, and assisted in making the constitution a fact, which brought order out of chaos, regulations being badly needed because of the mixed population attracted to the region by the gold discoveries.

Foster rendered good service to his adopted city and State as prefect, Mayor and State Senator. A proficient Spanish scholar, he became so intimately acquainted with the region's archives, and had a memory so perfect that his statements in court were accepted as final, without substantiation.

By 1850 all prejudice against the gringo seems to have disappeared, Americans and Spaniards taking equal part in governmental affairs.

In 1850, A. P. Hodges was elected Mayor. In this year a school committee was appointed from the membership of the ayuntamiento, and the school problem was wrestled with sturdily. Difficulties presented themselves because the gold fever had drawn heavily on the male portion of the population, attracting them to the mining regions. B. D. Wilson was the second Mayor of the decade, to be followed by J. G. Nichols. It was in 1851, during Wilson's mayoralty, that Los Angeles was metamorphosed from a pueblo to a cuidad. In this year also the first newspaper was born.

Antonio F. Coronel came into office in 1853. His services to the pueblo began in 1838, when but 21, as Assistant Secretary of Tribunals for Los Angeles, having come to California four years previously with his father from Mexico. He was a thoroughly educated and cultured man, and well fitted for the many positions of trust which he filled. Five years later he was appointed Judge of First Instance; in 1844 Gen. Micheltorena selected him as Captain and Inspector of the Southern Missions, and in the following year he acted as peace commissioner before Micheltorena and Castro and Alvarado. In 1846 he served as captain in opposing the American invasion. In 1847 and 1848 he was again in civic service as a member of the body of magistrates, being in charge of the regulation of irrigation; was County Assessor in 1850 and 1851, and Mayor in 1853. This did not end his public service, however. He served as member of the City Council for ten years and State Treasurer for four years, was supervisor of the State Horticultural Society, and a large factor in proving the Limantour fraud and forgery.

Stephen C. Foster became Mayor again in 1854. Himself a graduate of Yale, he took a lively interest in educational matters, urging the erection of permanent school buildings and a regular system similar to that employed in eastern cities. The Council appointed him Superintendent of Schools as well as Mayor, and our modern educational system had its beginning, the first schoolhouse being erected on the present site of the Bryson Block in 1854.

Thomas Foster was the next Mayor, serving within four months of two terms, Stephen Foster finishing this administration, when in 1856 J. G. Nichols was again elected, his popularity being emphasized by his re-election in three successive terms. It was Mayor Nichols who first projected the plans and specifications of a City Hall, and had them drawn up by a Mr. Dearlem, pressing it upon the attention of capitalists and citizens generally. "We are happy to say the building will soon be commenced, the project having been brought under the notice of John Temple, Esq., and by him adopted," declares a notice in the Star, of the date of February 5, 1859. Then follows a description, giving dimensions of the building, ending: "The street on each side of the building will be sixty feet wide." In the same administration an act was drafted and presented to the Legislature authorizing the city of Los Angeles to borrow for twenty years the sum of $200,000, to be expended in city improvements. "The proposal was unanimously adopted, and the bill ordered to be forwarded to Mr. Thom for passage through the Legislature," runs a press item. About the same time a bill providing for inspection of wines and liquors, framed by this same Capt. C. E. Thom—then a prominent attorney, later Mayor, and living today—passed the Senate. In the same administration a special committee was appointed to superintend the grading of Los Angeles street and Negro Alley, also the drainage of the Plaza, and repairs on Aliso. The contract with Mr. Temple for the construction of the City Hall and Market House was closed, the cost of building to be $30,000. It may be seen by this that Mr. Nichols was an active Mayor, and thoroughly alive to the city's best interests. At this time the Pacific and Atlantic telegraph line was nearing completion to within thirty miles of San Jose.

Marchessault was elected in 1859, being described by the current press as a "thorough business man," of enterprise and perseverance, and as having greatly developed the mining interests of the immediate neighborhood. "He will, of course, bring to the duties of the office of Mayor that attention and sterling integrity which has heretofore characterized all his transactions." He pressed the authorization for the Mayor and Common Council to contract a loan for irrigation and other purposes, to extend the city limits, to increase the salary of the City Attorney, and purchase a fire engine and its accessories. He it was who brought the pines down from Oregon, had them hollowed and bound with iron bands, and laid for water pipes. Up to this time the citizens had been supplied by the water being delivered in barrels at the houses, at the rate of 50 cents a week. The leaking pipes messed up the streets, miring teams, merchants on both Spring and Main streets hanging out signs decorated with skull and crossbones where it was not safe for teams to venture. John Gregg Nichols, son of the Mayor, was the first child born in Los Angeles of American parentage on both sides.

Henry Mellus became Mayor in 1860. One of the newspapers of that time gives an amusing account of an incident of the election. "On Tuesday last the good people of our quiet little burg were treated to quite an amusing performance, free gratis, for nothing. On that day, being next after election, a four-horse stage coach was paraded through town, filled with people inside and on the outside, a number of musicians ranged along the 'after part,' while in front, in the seat of honor, was graciously disposed

THE Eagle is not a poet. But that does not mean to confess that he is not poetical. He claims to be that in every fiber of his bronze heart and every element of his sentiments.

He knows poetry in many languages, including the Psalms written in Hebrew, the odes of Sappho, the epics of Homer and the dramas of all the four great dramatists who wrote in Greek. He knows Virgil and Horace and Juvenal, and a great many Latin poets worse than the great satirist last named. He knows Goethe and Moliere, and as for English he is acquainted with it from the miracle plays written half in Anglo-Saxon down through Percy's Reliques and on down to the latest—except Mr. Austin, who succeeded Tennyson as poet laureate in England.

Oh, no, the Eagle has not forgotten America, for he knows William Cullen Bryant and Henry W. Longfellow and James Russell Lowell and Fitz-Greene Halleck, Epes Sargent and all the others, not forgetting Edgar Allan Poe.

He sits these April days and dreams over again the Vision of Sir Launfal. You remember how it begins? "Over his keys the musing organist, beginning doubtfully and far away." And like the musing organist the Eagle muses in this loveliest of spring weather. Do you recall some other verses of the poem we have been quoting from? Do you remember the bird "atilt on a blossom among the leaves" while his mate broods over her eggs in the soft nest in the near-by thicket? Now do you recall what Lowell says about the song of that bird as the breeze sways the blossom on which he sits and pours out his song of gladness from a heart full through a throat full of song as a hydrant pours out water? "He sings to the wide world and she to her nest. In the nice ear of nature which song is the best?"

Now do you recall what the New England poet says about June weather as it is found in the vicinity of Boston? "And what is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days."

That is what the Eagle has been musing about these perfect but not rare days as he sits on his granite tower instead of among the leaves. He proposes to answer the query of the poet without criticising his conception of atmospheric conditions. Dearly beloved, you must always put yourself in the other fellow's place or you will deceive yourself and do him injustice. Recall where James Russell Lowell spent the impressionable days of his life, when his sentiments were moulded and crystallized, where nearly all his impressions of life were obtained, impressions of youth that never fade under the fiercest light of any suns in after days and are never obliterated by the eternal tread of the cruel feet of time though they trample upon him for half a century.

Lowell's youth was spent on that bleak New England shore where his Pilgrim ancestors landed in the midst of a mid-December winter, and before spring came, long before June with its perfect days rolled around again, half of the little colony borne across the stormy Atlantic on the Mayflower lay dead in the first graveyard for Europeans on that bleak coast. But ah, it was fruitful seed planted in a fertile soil, and oh, what a glorious harvest has sprung from those first graves of the Pilgrims, blessing humanity with new ideas, new aspirations, a harvest whose first and best fruits were human liberty in matters religious and governmental, independence for the individual, and the right of every man, the humblest as well as the highest, "to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

So the Eagle proposes to answer Lowell's inquiry about perfect days. And the answer is that New England and no other corner of this good green earth ever produced in June or any other month any days so full of perfection as these April days here by the Sunset Sea in the city of Los Angeles, the Eagle's city, of which he and all the rest of the people are so exceedingly proud.

This city of Los Angeles is a city of beautiful homes, owned mostly by those who inhabit them. Another English poet, Samuel Taylor Coleridge, sings of June, applying to it the phrase, "the leafy month of June." The rose is the emblematic flower of England, and in June that part of the island is aglow with the queen of flowers in its highest perfection. It is sixty days from the writing of this article to mid-June, and there never was a June whose days rose and set over the British Isles as leafy at this April month is here by the glowing sunset sea and through all the ardent pulsating Great Southwest. Nor was England in the most fruitful June that ever blew out of the heavens in that ancient land more wondrously decorated with roses than this Southland of the sun in these April days. The French are a very self-conscious people, and one of their writers who flourished nearly a hundred years ago is rather disdainful of England and all the rest of the world when comparing other countries to his native France. He says the English are great travelers and the French great stay-at-homes, because the English have to leave their native land to find anything worth looking at, while the Frenchman who leaves France—well, tant pis pour lui. That is the way Balzac looks at the question.

Now, the Eagle, as you all know, is somewhat of a traveled bird, and he can say without fear of intelligent, sincere contradiction that the most beautiful corners of the south of France, the most glorious spots in Italy, the most picturesque portions of old Spain, can be placed alongside of Los Angeles and Southern California and it will not be the country by the Sunset Sea nor that lying anywhere throughout the Great Southwest which will suffer by comparison.

This subject is so vast, so varied, so kaleidoscopic, that it is difficult for the Eagle to stick to his text. The impressions crowd upon his brain like a flood in a Los Angeles stream when the rains are coming down, and it is almost impossible for him to follow out one strain of thought, but is swirled here and there by a thousand impressions, all heart-thrilling, mind-compelling, soul-inspiring.

He began above to speak of the beautiful homes of Los Angeles. You can go in any section of the city and find the scenes that have inspired the heart of the Eagle with a wish for the divine afflatus or the poetic gift to sing worthily the subject in hand. Take a little strip of Coronado street anywhere from Fourth northward across Temple, and up the hills to the northeastward. It is a section of modern homes, nearly all bungalows, mostly of a single story, and the building restrictions are not above $250. Now remember we are only in mid-April, when in less-favored lands April showers are drenching the landscape, with a mere promise of May flowers. Well, that little stretch of modest homes along this one Los Angeles street is a succession of rosy bowers with climbing rose bushes clambering over every roof and along the windows and falling in wreaths of flowers, from white blooms as spotless as an angel's soul to pink flowers that would put to blush the rosiest cheek of the most beautiful maiden, to flowers as red as the most ardent human passions, and all the colors of the kaleidoscope or of the rainbow crowding in between. The mercury at midday ranges at about 80, and never sinks during the twenty-four hours below 60. The breeze is gentle and laden with the tang of measureless seas that lie between America and Asia.

And as this one mile of this one street, so are all the streets in this goodly city, and so are all the cities in the whole Great Southwest and all along by the Western Sea. The country! Well, the Eagle would have to have the vocabulary and the rhythm of all the poets to tell of all the glories of the mustard-strewn mesas yellow as the golden floors of heaven, of the corners where the poppy blazes with its chalices of fiery flame, or the mariposa lily that looks like a veritable butterfly. The citrus fruit orchards are greener than the greenest corner of Ireland while they are covered with blossoms like a snow shower in New England in December.

The Eagle is like the poet's river and could run on forever about the glories of his beloved California.

Yours,

The Eagle
HIS MARK

THE LANCER

MAYOR WHEALTON of Long Beach has disappointed me. I thought he was quite modern, but he is fully a century out of date. What do you think he sprung on us last week? Actually forbade amateurs to appear on the local stage—because, mark you, he considered the professionals had a corrupting influence on the amateurs!

If he had said that the amateurs had a corrupting influence on the professionals we might have understood. Any really modern person would have been aware that the stage has been elevated into the realms of culture long since, that actresses are the darlings of society, and that the stage is recruited from the daughters of clergymen.

I personally have never met a stage performer, man or woman, who was not proud of the fact that he or she was a perfect lady or gentleman. It is a religion with them. They proclaim it more often than the average church-goer proclaims himself a Christian. The most scathing rebuke one actress can offer another is that she is no lady.

Of course, in Samuel Pepys's time the stage was still regarded as socially impossible, and even twenty years ago nice suburban mamas were wont to regard it with grave misgiving. But nowadays it is the one profession to which gentlemen and ladies can turn without loss of caste and when I was in London recently Mme. Pavlova's private social entertainments were regarded as more exclusive than the court, and invitations thereto were certainly sought with greater avidity.

And I am not going to believe that the Long Beach players are behind in refinement and culture. The whole atmosphere of Long Beach controverts such a preposterous assumption. One could not remain in Long Beach for any length of time without becoming refined.

And it is to be supposed that the Long Beach amateurs reside in Long Beach. How absurd, therefore, to presume them corruptible, even assuming that there were any corruptible influences. Nay, nay, Mr. Mayor, you do your fair city injustice.

The One Blot.

I LOVE Long Beach. I go there at regular intervals when the garish charms of Los Angeles pall. And I always come back refreshed and improved in mind, body and morals. The Long Beach sand, the Long Beach ocean, the Long Beach air and the Long Beach golf impress me as being purer and more consciously above reproach than any that I know. The Hotel Virginia has achieved the miracle of making a large and beautiful hostelry fashionable and attractive without being a rendezvous for the "fast" set.

But there is one blot upon Long Beach's charms. It hurts my artistic perceptions. Stroll along the beach as far as the bath-house and gaze toward the town. A sad, sad sight. A whole jumble of dirty little broken-down shacks and hideous back views—the rear aspect of the Pike merchant's catering establishments. There is nothing more unspeakable to be found within a hundred miles of it. You feel as if you happened upon some dago slum quarter, devoid of self-respect, devoid of civic patriotism. Cleanliness is next to godliness, Mr. Mayor, and Long Beach is much too self-respecting a dame to wear a bedraggled petticoat and dirty worn-out stockings beneath its fresh white gown.

Strong Drink.

WHAT chance can we hope to have against a nation that gets drunk on dynamite? The latest Japanese scandal is to the effect that there have been wholesale thefts of dynamite which the soldiers and sailors convert into a strong intoxicant and imbibe to the point of frenzy.

Compared to which our cocktails are mere milk and water. We are interested to know how it takes them. Our strong drinks make us frenziedly amorous, frenziedly sentimental, frenziedly wishy-washy for the most part—under the influence of it we are more often apt to vow eternal friendships and weep on each other's necks.

Does dynamite perchance make them more frenziedly warlike, more frenziedly explosive, more frenziedly destructive? It seems logical. Perhaps we had better postpone that little war until we have acquired a taste for dynamite. That must be a man's drink, a soldier's drink, a hero's drink. One could order a "dynamite straight" with a sense of devastating superiority.

A Millinery Protest.

THESE simpering silly little Bo-peep hats that the women are wearing just now—was there ever such an impudent pose? Those hats remind us of the pastoral scenes in Watteau tapestry, recall the halcyon days when woman knew her place, when she held men in proper respect, when she behaved in accordance with her intellectual capacity.

Now that she is the embodiment of arrogant assumption, when the world is one whirling woman's federation, when, if she had any sense of the fitness of things she would at least emulate the aspect of Portia, behold her turning right about face and appearing before a scandalized world as little Bo-peep, who lost her sheep and didn't know where to find them. It is an outrage. She hasn't lost her sheep, but she shamefully neglects to mind them. A fraud, a shameless fraud. And with the aid of those hats they will inveigle some nice innocent little Boy Blue into blowing his horn for them, and some poor little Jack Horner into pulling out plums for them, and a nice fat impressionable Legislature into passing some more little laws for them.

It isn't playing the game. It's monstrously unsporting. It is their fraudulent intention to sit on a tuffet and eat curds and whey and pretend to be frightened at the big spider while Simple Simon negotiates with the pieman for the next course.

What are you to do with a sex that makes new rules for every game it plays and doesn't even stick to those. But do you suppose that men will have the dignity and self-respect to haughtily insist that they won't play? Certainly not. They will just swagger round in a green hat with a tan silk band and murmur: "Curly Locks, Curly Locks, wilt thou be mine? Thou shalt not wash dishes nor yet feed the swine." And she will waggle her Bo-peep hat and answer, "You bet I won't, dearie."

The High Cost of Loving.

WE WERE distinctly interested in a divorce suit last week wherein the co-respondent assured the court that he spent only $30 a month on the other woman, all the way, and he had an income of $800.

That man was a commercial genius. We would have staked our lives that it could be done at the price. His financial affairs were in perfectly good order, his solvency completely established, and the other woman answered all the description of standard make.

We are inclined to think the wife over-estimated the danger of the other woman. If she was as cheap as that she was not much of a rival. For our part we don't believe she existed. That man was simply trying to controvert the popular belief that illicit love for the married man is costly. He was speaking on a basis of theory, not practice. He was a cheap braggart.

The other woman is the most expensive thing in the world if she knows her business. If she doesn't know her business she is not dangerous. No man prizes what he can get cheap.

The Day of Adventure. By Neeta Marquis.

IN BLOSSOM TIME.

ONE of the delights of going anywhere in the world is that one never can foretell what may happen before he back. The knowledge that adventure always lurks just around the corner from the commonplace gives piquancy to the ordinary journey.

A good deal depends on the state of mind, it must be conceded. I presume there such blase people, living, say, in India, that they can start out on a shopping expedition, and not be particularly excited if an elephant chases them off the main street every now and then during the afternoon. But with me, an encounter with a good butcherbird, and the thwarting of his designs on a fledgling linnet, can furnish thrills enough to keep me going for a couple of days.

It makes life ceaselessly interesting to have the nerves of perception hung on a hair trigger.

It was early afternoon of a warm still day in early March that Pepin and I left the Hollywood car and directed our way toward Cahuenga Canyon. I call him Pepin because he was not short. I trust you get the connection, gentle reader? If not, ring me up and I will elucidate.

The road was bordered on one side with blooming acacia trees, on the other with the blue-green sea of a carnation plantation. And we had the way all to ourselves in the hot March sunshine.

Higher up, the mountain growths of sumach and buckthorn multiplied around us, the latter covered with the delicate white lilac blossoms which usually choose April as the time when they shall powder the hillsides of Southern California with their feathery beauty and emit their elusive fragrance. Baby-blue-eyes, the color of turquoise ear-drops, enameled the side of the road, and white forget-me-nots six or eight inches tall grew in abundant patches, delicately lovely. White chilicothe flowers, on their peculiar snaky green vines, twisted themselves among the sage and sumach bushes. In still higher places, the rich purple-blue of Canterbury bells contrasted with the strong yellow of the gravelly soil. The hot spring sun, following upon the warm, drenching rains of a little earlier, had lured all the mountainside into a premature florescence. Blossomtime for the wild things had been set forward a full month. By the hurried preparations which went on beneath the surface of the soil, when Mother Nature announced in her dressmaking parlors that the wardrobe of Spring would be ready four weeks ahead of the original date! What a threading of needles with beams of sunshine! What a running-up of green silk seams, and a working of lace and embroideries! And it wasn't all over yet—a galloping haste; for the hum of fairy machines, sped by silent industrious forces, was still quite plainly to be detected under the palpitating ground.

When we turned to look behind us the sun was shining on the distant sea in a golden dazzle, while the sloping mountainsides on either hand were dim with heat and the lavender blur of the blooming buckthorn.

The whole character of both mountain and vista changed when we had passed over the summit of the range, at a point just below Mt. Hollywood, and started downward on the cool north side. The colors became vividly blue on the far mountains beyond Burbank, above which we now stood, and all about us was the lush bright green of grasses and plants which love shaded places.

It had been a long, hot climb. We seated ourselves on some broken boulders to rest, beneath a bank which was seeping moisture, and Pepin the Not-Short took a package of chocolate from his coat pocket to divide with me.

As proof of the temperature on the south side of the range, I will state that the chocolate was in a liquid condition. It isn't everybody who can have hot chocolate served to him on such short notice at the top of an uninhabited mountain.

The first beautiful discovery occurred just beyond this refreshment station. We had started on down the grade, when I cast my eyes upon the bank which stood six feet above the road, and there stood not only a company of white and lavender and shooting stars, but clusters of the rare chocolate lilies—fritillaria, by family name—such as I had not seen on the hillsides in years. They swung like glistening bronze bells upon their gracefully-curving green stems. The mere sight was enough to repay me for making pilgrimage through the unseasonable heat to the place of their blooming.

ON MT. HOLLYWOOD.

But we were still within the prohibitory limits of Griffith Park, and I can never tell how I summoned the sheer heroism to refrain from plucking a single stem, or to refuse to let Pepin, who cheerfully volunteered to sacrifice his conscience for me, gather them in my stead.

"No," I said, with the slow sadness of renunciation in my voice. "But maybe we shall find some more when we have escaped the confines of the park."

Wasn't it noble?

And just to show how infallibly virtue is rewarded, let me add that beyond another turn or two we came plump upon a man who worked in the park. Imagine my guilt-stricken condition if I had had the goods on me! As it was, however, we high-mindedly stated the case to the man, and asked if it would be any harm for us to gather just a few of those lilies, seeing that I wanted them so much, and that they were where so few people would see them before they died.

And he was a man with a heart in his bosom. He said it wouldn't be any harm. So Pepin went back, to return to me with a modest handful, having left enough of both kinds of flowers to seed the bank for next year. And I was very happy.

To feel the personality of each distinct variety of flower one knows is one of the purest pleasures in the world. Each stands for a different thing, in some delicate spiritual way, just as each human friend appeals to one's heart in his own individual fashion, commanding a different degree of affection. And the presence of these flowers, on that spring afternoon, somehow seemed to bring near certain friends who are lovers of wild-flower ways whose bodily forms were distant by many miles.

Those friends whose hearts are linked to ours by a mutual love for beautiful things are the ones to whom we turn instinctively for sympathy and understanding in those deep things of our lives which are unutterable to the frankly practical friend, however kind.

Not far from here we forsook the road for a steep mountainside, and literally dropped out of Griffith Park into the great canyon which we had come a-seeking.

That was a wonderful mountainside, apparently unbroken by a trail. But Pepin knew that the canyon below was the one upon which he had stumbled from a slightly different angle two years before, and that any mode of descent into it would be repaid by the beauties in store.

There was a rocky ravine which we decided to follow first, and to my joyful surprise we found at the very head of it a meadowy place growing thick with more shooting stars and chocolate lilies. If virtue wasn't receiving all the encouragement she could expect that day, I don't know what was!

The dark lilies are never very abundant, so we gathered the shooting stars in the largest quantities. The fluttering little petals of lavender were like long, silky ears framing piquant little dark velvety faces. And with the shock of removal from the stem, each star gave off pollen in a tiny golden cloud, like pulverized sunshine.

Then we plunged down the ravine, and with a few feet of descent found ourselves in a green jungle of poison oak, which formed an arbor above our heads, and tumbled rocks wet with moss and moisture beneath our feet. And as we swung, dropped, stooped, and wriggled in our continued descent, we discovered that our way was being carpeted with maidenhair.

The luxuriance of those ferns! One could make a fortune if he knew the hair tonic they used! They were a foot long, with large, delicate leaves and the exquisite stems of ebony which are not the least of their charm. And the quantities of them! I plucked my hands full, then as the frail stems became broken in our further passage of rought chaparral, there were more and ever more to take their place.

Every now and then we would come out on an open slope, where the lilac was blooming like mad, and the wild gooseberry, more dark and glistening as to foliage, more richly crimson as to flower than a month earlier, was decorating the wilderness as if it were a Japanese screen.

Then at intervals more little gardens of shooting stars appeared, until the whole mountainside was like a wonderful floral cake—a layer of fern, a layer of shooting stars, a layer of lilac and gooseberry, then a layer of fern again, until we finally reached the little stream, flowing through sedgy grasses, at the bottom.

It was a wide canyon, well open to the sky, and from the heights above we had observed a flock of strange white roofs away toward the mouth of it. But here there were only the flower-covered slopes, which opened before us as we went into lush meadows, dotted with sycamores and sown with yellow violets and wild sweet peas. Sunset time was approaching now, and the air held that lovely solemn stillness which presages dusk.

Suddenly, against a green slope, a tiny peach tree, blushing with bloom to every twig-tip, introduced a new note into the landscape. Probably the result of a chance seed dropped long ago, it stood forth against the canyon background lovely as a celestial visitant poised for a moment with its heavenly feet sunk deep in the earthly grass. We could not resist the appeal of its beauty, and broke off three twigs to carry home.

My hands were already filled to overflowing with ferns and shooting stars, chocolate lilies and a few wild peonies, while Pepin was heavily laden with lilac and gooseberry branches. I am always obsessed with the desire, when on an expedition like this, to take the whole outdoors home with me. The grasses were beginning to grow cool around our feet, and our meadows became bordered with dark oak trees.

We came to a farmhouse, set deep in the oaks, and when we had passed through the gate which barred the road into which our trail had now developed, we entered into the shadowy silence of those oaks ourselves.

There were great companies of them, ponderous and swarthy, and—miracle of miracles!—beneath them, running like white flame over the dusk of the slopes and meadows, were unnumbered hosts of the fluttering shooting stars. The prodigal beauty, the untutored grace of those acres of bloom, spreading in a milky way against the green, as if literal stars in a firmament, made me ache with a delicious greed to gather every flower, to look into each separate little face and love it. Oh, to be able to sing the innocent, childish loveliness of them, as Wordsworth sang of his daffodils! Where is the Southern California poet who will accomplish the blessed task?

When we emerged from the oak grove, we found that dusk was farther away than we had supposed. The widened valley was spread out in generous lines before us, and in the near distance loomed the white buildings we had seen from above.

We followed along the arroyo instead of going all the way by the road, for Pepin had it in mind to show me the remains of two ancient furnaces, probably used by the padres of old in their brick-making, which he had noted there two years ago. A golden light filled the western sky, with the sun just below the mountain rim, and delicate sycamores were etched artistically against it.

And then it happened—the adventure I spoke of at the beginning as being always on the wait just around the corner.

Absorbed in my enjoyment of that great valley scene, with the dark oaks receding from the canyon floor like breakers from the sand, with the pale sycamores in a leafless group against the light, I suddenly realized the presence of a shape beneath the sycamores which before had been merged in with the pearly gray of gathering twilight—an incongruous, fantastical thing which made me feel as if walking in a midsummer night's dream.

My knees weakened under me. I staggered and gasped. I began to laugh wildly. I seemed divided between a disposition to drop dead and stay alive under the conviction that I was Alice in Wonderland.

And what was it beneath those sycamores in a California canyon?—a rattlesnake—a mountain lion—a wild cat?

Cross my heart and hope to die if it wasn't an elephant—a live, flabby, gray, swaying, trunk-squirming ELEPHANT! He was as big as a barn, looking right at us, and apparently roving at will.

It was like meeting a ghost risen from the Brea pit. Only, a decidedly substantial ghost.

Pepin, two steps ahead of me, did not see the beast until my incoherent articulations made him look around. We were then only about twenty feet from him. He was as noiseless as death, watching us with his wise little eyes. And he had a litter of broken straws all over his huge, wrinkled, infinitely old-looking back.

I was not for going a foot farther, for fear of being stepped on by one of those great cushiony feet, or embraced by that squirming proboscis. But Pepin looked more closely, and saw that the creature was chained by one hind foot. He would have to pull up the whole clump of sycamores before he could take after us.

So, still gasping with the dazed laughter of one awaking from an amazing and ludicrous dream, I followed Pepin. We chose a little path edging the arroyo and lying back of the houses, which we had now closely approached. Another small shed just in front of us overhung the arroyo.

We were gazing back fascinatedly upon the elephant, as we passed this shed, and when we turned the corner of it, we received our next shock. We came face to face with a brown bear. Honest to goodness, this is a true story I'm telling! But he was on a chain. And a bear produces only a mild shock after an elephant, anyway.

Then a collie dog came to meet us in friendly fashion, and he conducted us into the very midst of the jungle. There were silver wolves and coyotes and Eskimo dogs on one side of us, Indian and African leopards on the other—caged, to be sure, but still there. In short, we were in the menagerie of a motion-picture outfit, having innocently entered by the back door a domain whose front door does not open to the public except by special permission.

Well, we were there, and they couldn't do more than put us out again, so we looked around all we could. It being after hours, the place was almost deserted by humankind. We saw two keepers watering more beasts farther on, and asked their permission to watch, which was pleasantly granted.

These were the lions—a great shaggy Nubian lion and three or four lionesses. Each was being handed a drink of water in a sheet-iron frying-pan pushed under the edge of the cage bars. The lion came up to drink out of turn, in his lordly masculine way, and when the keeper sharply ordered him back, he merely stood there and petulantly wrinkled up his nose at him, and produced deep rumbling leonine swear words from some central part of his anatomy, the meaning of which was so clear it made me shudder. I'm thankful it wasn't Leo that we surprised under the sycamores! I fear there would have been no tale to tell, if it had been, or rather, no teller for the tale.

We crossed the yard to look upon the Siberian camels. This brought us within view of the elephant—"Bill"—again. He was placidly consuming a bale of hay, after having snapped the wires around it as if they had been twine. I'm glad I don't look like a bale of hay.

The camels were all—six of them—lying with their legs folded under them, as if they had been camp stools, their noses haughtily snuffing our presence, their long necks swaying like the bodies of serpents. We were, indeed, in a literal wonderland.

But it was rapidly growing dark now, and we had miles ahead of us before we could

A Look at Arequipa.

From Our Own Correspondent.

AREQUIPA (Peru.)—I am in the metropolis of Southern Peru. It is the city of Arequipa, situated 100 miles back from the Pacific Ocean, and perhaps 1600 miles south of the Panama Canal. The town is built in an oasis, made by the Chile River in the arid Andes of this Pacific Coast desert. It is surrounded by ragged dry mountains, but bedded in a valley of perpetual green. The city is a mile and a half higher than Philadelphia, Boston or Baltimore. It is about 7600 feet above the sea, and some of the mountains about it are four miles in height. Just behind it is the great volcano, Mt. Misti, which has a crater a half mile in diameter, and on the top of which Harvard College has established a sort of an automatic meteorological station which is more than three miles above Mt. Weather, Va. To the left of the Misti is Chachacani, over 20,000 feet high, and there are other Andean giants behind.

Indeed, there is no more beautifully located city anywhere in South America, and you will go far before you find one which is so fresh, so bright and so quaint. The houses of Arequipa look as though they had just come out of a bandbox. The most of them are of only one story. Their walls stand close to the streets, and these walls are of all colors of the rainbow. I bought my postage stamps today in a building that was the color of ashes of roses, I ate my breakfast in a restaurant painted sky-blue, and next door was a house of rose-pink. This morning I visited the new market of Arequipa. It consists of great walls of Spanish architecture surrounding a court roofed by the sun. The front of the market is as yellow as gold, and its inside as blue as the Andean skies that form a part of its roof. The surrounding buildings are of the same bright colors, and the whole seems to fit in with the gorgeous air of Southern Peru.

A Remarkable Market.

But come with me into the market. This will show us something of why the city of Arequipa has been built where it is. The wares all come from the valley of the Chile River, in which the city is situated. This valley has something like fifty square miles of cultivated land. It is a great oasis in the heart of the Andean Desert, and that on the road that leads from the sea to the mountains. The oasis makes Arequipa a great agricultural and fruit center, and also one for the raising of grain, alfalfa and cattle and sheep. As you go through the market you see everywhere evidences of the fertility of the soil and the wonderful climate. Nearly every fruit that can be raised in the United States is sold here. There are apricots, peaches, apples and plums and strawberries as big as walnuts. There are oranges and lemons, bananas and figs and bushels of paltas or alligator pears. There are green watermelons, as big around as the waist of your sweetheart, some of which have as red a flesh as any that ever made a darky's mouth water, and others with a flesh as yellow as gold, althought the seeds are jet black.

In the vegetable quarters you find fully as great a variety. They are selling new potatoes and green corn. They have bright red tomatoes, white cauliflowers and great quantities of cabbage. They have also the yucca, sweet potatoes and yams. Peru is the home of the potato, and I understand that our Department of Agriculture has recently sent men here to get new varieties.

The valley in which Arequipa is situated raises great quantities of very fine barley. It has fields of alfalfa and pastures upon which are fed cattle and sheep. The city is the chief wool market of Peru. It imports vast quantities of alpaca and sheep's wool from Bolivia and the Peruvian plateau, and ships it to Europe and the United States. These shipments amount to more than 10,000,000 pounds weight every year, and they have a value perhaps of $2,500,000. The leading exporting houses of the city have their agents in all parts of the Andean plateau, and the wool is bought from the Indians and haciendados and sent to Lake Titicaca, from where it comes over the railroad to Arequipa. Some of it is consumed in the woolen mills here, but the majority of the product is sent abroad. Nearly all of the vicuna and alpaca wool passes through Arequipa.

Many Manufacturers.

Returning to the city itself, Arequipa is quite a manufacturing center. It makes harness and saddlery, boots and shoes, and it has large cotton mills. It has also the railroad shops of the Southern Railroad of Peru, which makes this place its headquarters. There are about 500 men employed there; they are now making their own passenger and freight cars, as well as all the repairs for the rolling stock.

The town also manufactures chocolate. It has a flour mill and it does a great deal of exporting and importing, being the center of trade for Southern Peru and also for a great part of Bolivia. The Southern Railway is the chief gateway to La Paz, and it will always compete with the other roads that go to and from Bolivia and the seacoast. It is on this account that Arequipa will probably be improved by the Panama Canal. The city is 100 miles from Mollendo, the chief port of the south for this part of the world. The landing is poor, however. The ships have to anchor far out from the shore and the swell is worse than that of Jaffa, which tossed Jonah's ship so that the sailors threw him out to the whale. The Mollendo landing is often so rough that passengers have to be taken up by steam cranes from the boats that bring them to the port from the steamer, and goods have to be put on and off of the launches by cranes. The ocean was tamer than usual when I came into port; but my boat went up and down eight or ten feet, and I had to make a flying leap, when it was on the up grade, to get to the steps that led to the custom-house.

When I visited Arequipa in 1898 it was lighted by coal oil, and I do not remember that it had a car line. It has now an electric light plant from turbines run by water power and also an excellent system of tramways, which it is extending into the country. It is well equipped as to telephones, both local and long distance, and the telephone companies will accept long distance messages at telegraph rates, which are only 16 cents for ten words. For [illegible] cents you may talk for five minutes between Arequipa and Mollendo, a distance of more than 100 miles. I venture the rate is less than one-half that of the United States.

With the completion of the canal Arequipa will become a tourist resort. It is a place for breaking the journey on the long ride up the Andes Mountains from the ocean to Lake Titicaca and Cusco, and it ought to have good hotels. The best of those it has now is kept by an Italian named Morosini, who quarters his guests on one side of the plaza and feeds them on the other side in a long, low, cave-like [illegible] which is known as the comedor, or dining room. The food is good and the bedrooms are large, but there are no modern improvements and the sanitary arrangements are poor.

The Plaza and Environs.

From a sightseeing point I find Arequipa quite as interesting as Lima. It has a great cathedral, built of white stone, which must cover an acre or so of space. It faces on the plaza, filling the whole of one side of the square. The three other sides are occupied by stores, more quaint than any in Europe. The buildings are of only one story, and in front of them extend [illegible] portales or corridors with huge [illegible]

Blanketing the World With Wireless.

By William Atherton Du Puy.

WONDERFUL WORK.

THE Federal government, through the Navy Department, is just now busy with the task of unrolling upon the earth its blanket of wireless communication which will enable the President, as commander-in-chief of the fleet, to sit at his desk in Washington and chat with the captains of his ships on all the seas of the world, and to move those ships in war emergencies as a chess player would shift his pawns.

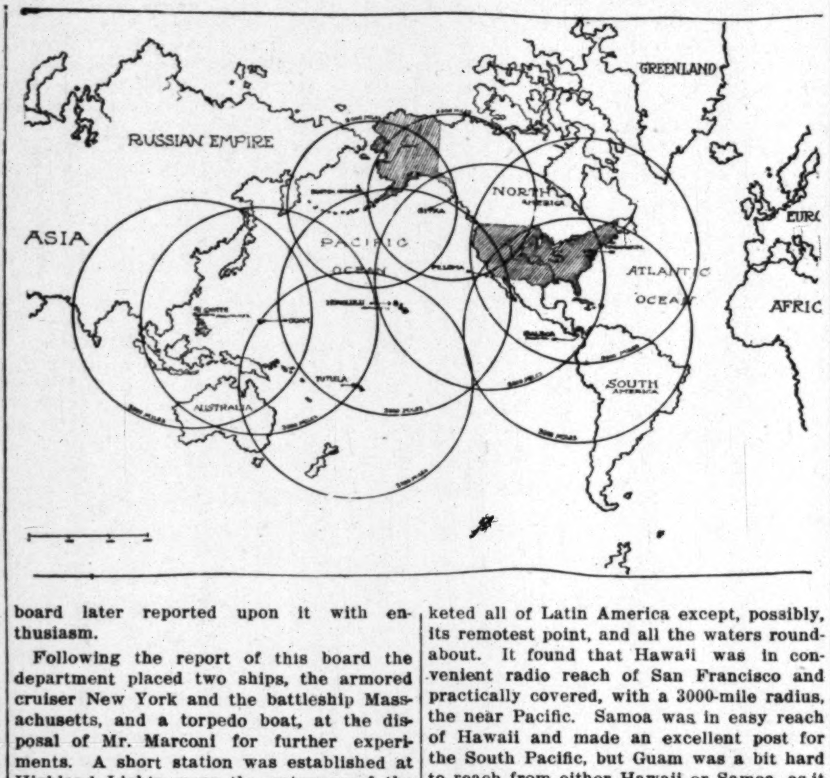
While the Navy Department is doing this, primarily, as a part of its work in preparedness for war, the benefits derived are largely those of peace and humanity. For, when the system is done, the great station at Arlington may pound out the warnings of storms at sea to ships of the Atlantic as far toward Europe as the Azores, may sift its warnings down upon all the tumultuous Caribbean, and reach the stations of the Pacific that its information may be relayed. The station at Panama may again send forth air messages that reach to Buenos Ayres and to Newfoundland. Hawaii may pick up the messages from the American mainland and reach out with them to the Aleutian Islands at Alaska's tip, and to Fiji, south of the equator. Samoa may drive forth the announcements of the epoch-making events of the world and these may be picked off at any of the palm-studded islands of the South Pacific and read by those expatriates of all the nations of the world who are lolling their lives away in these lazy lands of romance. Guam may send forth her call to Japan and Australia and all that sprinkling of islands that lies between, including 2000 of the Philippine group that rest beneath the Stars and Stripes. Finally the station at Manila may take up the call and reach out with it to Bombay and to Vladivostok and give it the possibility of informing a billion men of the East.

This great network of stations may not merely hurl forth its messages of those events that are happening in the marts of the world. It will play, also, a listening part. It may pick up today the call for help of the ship that is stuck on some reef and may be able to direct other ships to the rescue. It may tell the story of some volcanic cataclysm that has brought starvation to an isolated people. It may direct a rescue party in its search for Arctic explorers walled into a world of ice.

For, since the world began, there has never been anything like radio for the sending of messages broadcast, nor for gathering in calls from the ends of the earth. Heretofore telegraph wires and cables have had their messages along single lines for great distances. Other wires may have plugged into the circuit and picked off messages. These may have straggled out and burst lines of communication that streaked a continent as a lightning flash does the sky. But always were they dependent upon given, man-made wires that stretched from point to point.

But here is set up a system that may have a single station as its center. One man may sit in this station and operate a key that brings together the electric poles that launch a message into the void. That message hurls itself instantaneously from this center as a ripple spreads from the point where a stone falls into a placid pool. For 3000 miles it reaches in every direction, making a circle with a diameter twice as great. It covers one-fourth of the surface of the entire globe. There is not an acre in all that stretch where the message might not be received were an instrument set up that is suited to the task. Radio pours forth its flashes as impartially as the sun its floods of light.

The development of this remarkable method of communication has come about since the year 1900. Europe had been busy with experiments during the closing years of the past century but it was not until 1899 that wireless was demonstrated in America. In that year Marconi brought several sets of his apparatus to this country and it was first used in reporting international yacht races for a metropolitan newspaper. The Navy Department was asked to observe this demonstration of the possibilities of wireless telegraphy, and its specially appointed board later reported upon it with enthusiasm.



Following the report of this board the department placed two ships, the armored cruiser New York and the battleship Massachusetts, and a torpedo boat, at the disposal of Mr. Marconi for further experiments. A short station was established at Highland Lights, near the entrance of the harbor of New York. This was the first station on American soil and these vessels of the navy were the first to string wires among their masts for the launching of this sort of message.

The torpedo station at Newport installed a system the same year. Studies of the various systems continued through 1902 and in 1903 twenty sets of the arc system of apparatus were purchased and installed. So successful were they that in the following year it was decided that the entire coastline should be covered with stations. The great stations at Pensacola and Key West were established. So rapid was the growth of the new method of communication in this country that by June, 1906, despite its late start, the United States had in operation more than half of the radio installations of the world.

As the ability to reach greater distances was developed many of the stations on the Atlantic Coast were abandoned. Stations were established on the Pacific Coast at Point Loma, Mare Island, Puget Sound and other points. It was at about this time that the Point Loma station picked up messages that were being sent between the U.S.S. Connecticut, in Cuba, and the Pensacola station, and the ultimate possibilities began to dawn. The small station at Juniper, Fla., one day picked up a message that had originated in Alaska. Likewise did a torpedo boat, cruising in the Pacific, listen to the send of a station on an office building on Broadway.

At about this time, also, stations were being established along the Alaskan coast and were displacing the cable. From Sitka and Cordova and Kodiak the blanket came to be unrolled and through the long night of the northern winter these stations sent forth bulletins that were picked up by those towns of the inland that had long suffered a half year isolation. Circle City, a thousand miles in the interior, put up its receiving apparatus and learned of the happenings of the outside world. Fairbanks, on the Yukon, listened for the glimmers of news; Rampart, and St. Michaels and Nome, became news oases of the north.

It was at about this time that the government began to see the possibilities of a series of great stations that should enable Washington to keep in touch with its fleet at any point in the world where there was any probability of its being sent. It looked over the map with the idea of seeing how its accidental possessions would fit into a scheme of station arrangement that would reach all the seas.

It found that Key West and Panama extended its reach far to the south and blanketed all of Latin America except, possibly, its remotest point, and all the waters roundabout. It found that Hawaii was in convenient radio reach of San Francisco and practically covered, with a 3000-mile radius, the near Pacific. Samoa was in easy reach of Hawaii and made an excellent post for the South Pacific, but Guam was a bit hard to reach from either Hawaii or Samoa, as it was at a distance that was without the circle of easy communication under all conditions. With the prospective increases in distance that might be covered, the gap between Hawaii and Guam was not taken as over long and it was figured that a scout ship might cruise between and act as relay if necessary. Guam to the Philippines was an easy step and these two stations took care of all the Far East. In fact the United States was particularly fortunate in possessing territory so well distributed.

It was with these stations in mind that the contracts were let in 1909 for the erection of the first great station at Arlington, just across the Potomac from Washington. In building this station the government refused to follow the designs of any of the commercial companies that were making similar installations at various points. One of these companies constructs a tower with antenna extending from it in the form of an umbrella. Another builds a network of wires that cover twenty and thirty acres from low towers. The navy design determined on for Arlington called for three towers, one 600 feet high and the others 450 feet, with the antenna extending from one to the other.

When this great station was completed, in 1912, it was found to be possible to communicate with all points between Cuba and Newfoundland with certainty equal to that of the telegraph. Under most conditions San Diego and Mare Island, on the Pacific Coast, were in ready reach. Panama chatted freely, Manaos, Brazil, soon reported that it picked up the Arlington signals every night. On certain occasions Arlington was able to catch the sending of the station at Hawaii, in the mid-Pacific. French scientists, during 1913-1914, came to Arlington and each night signals were interchanged with Eiffel tower, in Paris. Twice a day, time signals were sent out from Washington and it was shown that these might be picked up by ships on more than half the North Atlantic. Soon the amateurs inland began picking off these time signals and setting their clocks by them. Then a cheap receiving set was put on the market and these were purchased by individuals and corporations interested in the correct time and the Arlington station found itself regulating half the clocks in the nation. So did new opportunities for usefulness present themselves where they were least expected.

The construction of high-powered radio stations was an art so new at the time that the Arlington plant was installed that there is little surprise that some material defects were found. Chief among these was the discovery that the towers had been placed too close together. They were but 350 and 400 feet apart. The discovery of the advantage of a greater distance between these towers led to a change in the plans for the great station at Panama which is the next to be built. Here the distances settled upon are from 850 feet to 915 feet. From the beginning the government determined to build one station at a time that it might profit each time by the experience previously gained. So will the Panama, the San Diego, the Hawaii, the Guam and the Philippine stations, each be better than its predecessor.

The World's Most Famous Dancing School.

[Havelock Ellis, in February Atlantic:] There can scarcely be a doubt that Egypt has been for many thousands of years, as indeed it still remains, a great dancing center, the most influential dancing school the world has ever seen, radiating its influence to south and east and north. We may perhaps even agree with the historian of the dance, who terms it "the mother-country of all civilized dancing." We are not entirely dependent on the ancient wall-pictures of Egypt for our knowledge of Egyptian skill in the art. Sacred mysteries, it is known, were danced in the temples, and queens and princesses took part in the orchestras that accompanied them. It is significant that the musical instruments still peculiarly associated with the dance were originated or developed in Egypt; the guitar is an Egyptian instrument, and its name was a hieroglyphic already used when the Pyramids were being built; the cymbal, the tambourine, triangles and castanets, in one form or another, were all familiar to the ancient Egyptians, and with the Egyptian art of dancing they must have spread all round the shores of the Mediterranean, the great focus of our civilization, at a very early date. Even beyond the Mediterranean, at Cadiz, dancing that was essentially Egyptian in character was established, and Cadiz became the dancing school of Spain. The Nile and Cadiz were thus the two great centers of ancient dancing, and Martial mentions them both together, for each supplied its dancers to Rome.

In Stock.

[Philadelphia Ledger:] There is a proprietor of a shop in the city, a man of most excitable temperament, who is forever scolding his clerks for their indifference in the matter of possible sales.

One day, hearing a clerk say to a customer: "No, we have not had any for a long time," the proprietor, unable to countenance such an admission, began to work himself into the usual rage. Fixing a glassy eye on the clerk, he said to the customer:

"We have plenty in reserve, ma'am; plenty downstairs."

Whereupon the customer looked dazed; and then to the amazement of the proprietor burst into hysterical laughter and quit the shop.

"What did she say to you?" demanded the proprietor to the clerk.

"We haven't had any rain lately."

Only a Slight Reduction Desired.

[Lippincott's:] A surgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital is fond of stories in which the joke is on the doctor. He tells this one.

One patient fancied there was something the matter with his heart. His physician made a cursory examination which disclosed a large swelling in the patient's cardiac region.

"There certainly appears to be an extraordinary swelling right here," said the doctor, tapping with his finger on the patient's side. "We must reduce this at once."

Whereupon a faint smile appeared on the patient's worried countenance. "Oh, doctor," he exclaimed, "that swelling is my pocketbook. Please don't reduce it too much!"

England's Land Question.

[Indianapolis News:] It is stated that there is not a member of the House of Lords who does not own one thousand or more acres. None of the landowners is a real farmer, but all rent their land in small lots, generally on long leases, to men who make the most of it. It is not uncommon for one family to live on a rented farm for more than a hundred years.

Stories the Children Hear in Ireland.

By Amanda Mathews.

IRISH FOLK TALES.

THE stories here given had to be coaxed for. It was summer when I was in Donegal. The last rays of weird yellow sunlight lingered in my room until half past nine in the evening and I could read without a candle till nearly ten. The neighbors worked late in their fields. It is when winter darkness causes families to gather about their peat fires at four in the afternoon that the old tales are brought forth. My begging for them in summer time was most unseasonable. Irish hearts are warm, however, and my pleading was not in vain; so that I had "the-full-of-me-arms" of tales before I left.

These narrations vary greatly and yet fall into certain rather distinct types. One well-marked class is that centering about a clash of wits. And if there is a landlord in the story, he is sure to be worsted in the encounter. Here is the famous "Rafferty" instance.

"A very rich landlord come over from England to make himself known to his tenants. Hearin' that one of them was very witty, he was thinkin' to play a trick on this man. So he goes to Rafferty's house.

" 'Some of your neighbors do be tellin' me ye are witty,' he says.

" 'It's not for me to contradict them,' says Rafferty.

" 'If ye answer me three questions, I'll be givin' ye a farm of land as long as water runs and grass grows."

" 'That's a very good offer,' says Rafferty.

" 'I'll be back tomorra at this time and if ye cannot answer, your wit is in vain.'

" 'May I have the pleasure of knowin' the questions now?' asks Rafferty.

"So the landlord tells him.

" 'What is the weight of the moon?'

" 'How many leaves in yonder forest?'

" 'What do I be thinkin'?'

" 'Very good, your honor,' says Rafferty, 'I will do me best.'

"Rafferty had a neighbor who was a tinsmith and they put their two heads together. They resembled each other like twin brothers. So the landlord was comin' about the house the next mornin' askin' his questions.

" 'What be's the weight of the moon?'

" 'A hundred weight, your honor.'

" 'Nonsense, man," says the landlord.

" 'There be's four quarters in it and that equals a hundred weight.'

" 'Grantin' that, how about the leaves of yon forest?'

" 'One billion six hundred trillion forty-four millions and an odd leaf.'

" 'I've been to college,' says the landlord, 'and never was studyin' such figures.'

" 'More shame to your head master,' says Rafferty. 'If he does not believe, let him be countin' them.'

" 'It's no matter for ye cannot answer me third,' says the landlord.

" 'I can just. Ye do be thinkin' ye are talkin' to Rafferty and it's to the tinker, begorra.' Then Rafferty walks in sayin' his thanks for the land which he had fairly won off the landlord."

Here is another in which the wit of a woman is eulogized:

"There was once a great builder of palaces and castles who had a son almost as smart as himself. He was wantin' to see this son married before his own time come to die, knowin' what a blessin' is a good woman. Some people do be choosin' a wife for her riches and some for her beauty, but this man wanted one that was wise.

"The old man had a servant kill and skin a sheep. Then he told his son to take the skin to the fair and bring back the skin and the price of it. So the son done that same and everybody at the fair was laughin' at him.

"At last a young girl come who offered to buy the hide on these terms. She got a pair of shears and cut off all the wool, paid him for the wool and give him back the skin.

"When he come home to his father, the old man was that delighted he sent for the girl to come to his house only she must not come in the day nor in the night, and she must not come by the road nor across the fields and not to come alone nor to have anyone with her. This seemed a hard message but the girl was equal for it. She come in the twilight when it was nayther day nor night. She walked nayther on the roads nor in the fields, but on the tops of fences that ran along the roads. And she had no person with her, but she took a dog so that she was not alone.

"The old man was very pleased, for he seen what a clever girl she was. The son married her and they lived very happy until they died."

The next story is the exact opposite, being a narrative of woman's folly. Every folklore has its accounts of foolish wives; but what can exceed the aggravating depths of simplicity herein revealed?

"There was a miller's apprentice who was paid only with some of the meal they ground in the mill. He was very poor and he married a young woman who was very foolish. They rented a small cottage and garden. They were not long married when one night the apprentice brought home a bag of meal sufficient to do them many weeks. Next morning the woman went to the bag for some meal, when she happened to drop a pin into the bag, and as she could not find it, she took the bag up to the top of a little hill near by and began to sift till she let all the meal away with the wind and did not find the pin.

"When her husband come home at night he observed the ground all white and thought it must have been snowin' but his wife was soon tellin' him what had happened.

" 'Oh, unfortunate cratur,' says he, 'we have nothin' now for the gray shade of winter except a gold brooch left me by my mother.'

"Next day when the apprentice was workin' at the mill, an old gray beggar happened to call at the house. The wife asked him—'Was he the gray shade of winter?'

" 'I'm gray enough, begorra,' says he.

" 'Well, if ye are, I have somethin' good for ye,' says she, and with that she gives him the gold brooch.

"When her husband come home she was tellin' him the story.

" 'Oh, unfortunate cratur,' says he, 'now we can only live so long as we have the meat of the calf along with the cabbages in the garden.'

"Next day when the apprentice went to his work, the wife killed the calf and put a small piece of its flesh on every cabbage head in the garden but she did not tell her husband. That night he was wakened by a turrible noise. We went out and found a great number of dogs was fightin' over the meat which they devoured and also destroyed the cabbages by rollin' on them. When he come in, his wife was awake and told him what she had done.

"In the morning he was for going away by himself to be rid of her, but she followed him. They come to a place where three women was tryin' to put a cow up on the roof of a house to eat the long grass which was growing on it. The miller's apprentice was watchin' them for long and at last asked them could they not cut the grass and give it to the cow below. They said, 'We never was thinkin' of that, begorra.'

"The husband saw there was women in the world far foolisher than his wife, so he went back home. It is said this little travel did learn the woman a lesson and she had more sense afterward."

Sometimes the stories are merely wonder tales like the old nursery classics. Here is one which has some points in common with "Hop-o-my-thumb:"

"Once three sisters was goin' on a visit to their friend's house. They had another sister, too, whose name was Kitty, but they did not want her to go. She would not stay at home for them. When they were a bit from the house, they saw Kitty coming along behind them. They stopped and tied poor Kitty to a tree with a rope.

"They went on again. When they were off a good piece, they looked back and saw Kitty and the tree coming behind them. They stopped and this time they tied her to a very big stone. When they traveled on, what was their wonder to see Kitty and the big stone coming after them, so this time they agreed to her company and all went on together till night overtook them.

"They had to take lodgings in a house with two old women who had three young daughters. The old women put Kitty's three sisters and their own three daughters into one room and Kitty by herself in another. She heard the old women plan to kill her sisters and they was to know them from their daughters by them having no bracelets like their daughters.

"Kitty slipped in and changed the bracelets so the old women killed their own daughters. Then she waked the sisters and they went off that place. They came to a river where ducks was swimmin'. Kitty had saved her supper and gave it to the ducks to help them across the river.

"When they was crossed over, they met a big house with a man living his lone in it who was promising Kitty a bag of gold if she would return and steal a golden hen off the wicked old women. So the ducks was helping her back and she got the hen from the hen-house. The old women saw her and cried: 'The death of our three daughters and the stealing of our golden hen on you!' But Kitty cared little for them and made off with the hen and got her bag of gold.

"After that she was stealin' their golden rooster to please the man and be earning another bag of gold for herself. The last time she went back was for a golden quilt. This time they caught her and shut her up in the wood-box and went for a flail to thrash her good. The two hags had their little old mother, a wee, aged woman, and Kitty was putting her into the wood-box and running off with the quilt. So the old women found they was thrashing their mother and pulled out of the wood-box in a terrible state."

The fairy story, of course, has a large place in Irish folklore. The tales of encounter between the fairies and the people run into hundreds and thousands. Sometimes the human beings are better off for the adventure and sometimes worse. The entirely freakish nature of the fairies in bestowing favor or harm is charmingly illustrated in the following:

"There lived in the parish of Rosses a man named Jack who had a hump on his back, poor cratur. He was always wishin' to be meetin' the fairies, thinkin' he might induce them to be takin' the hump off him. Many times was he hearin' the fairy music but never was they revealin' themselves to poor Jack.

"It come to pass that two women of the parish died the same day. That night Jack went for the cows and half way across the field who did he meet, picture, but the two women! They was movin' away but he followed them till they vanished out of his sight altogether. He went on till he heard the fairy music louder than ever before. He followed it to a spink (steep rock.)

"Jack listened at the spink and the fairies inside was singin':

" 'Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.'

" 'Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.'

" 'Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.'

"From the outside Jack called in 'And Thursday, too.'

"The fairies inside heard him and said, 'Who is helping us to make our song longer?'

"A little man with a red cap came out and led Jack into the spink. The fairies was dancing and singing until you would be tired lookin' at them and the two women who had died was knittin' in a corner. The little red man who had took Jack in come up and hit him with a wee rod and the hump was gone off him and he was a fine young man as anybody would want to see. The little man told him to shut his eyes. When he opened them he was at home. The neighbors was all askin' how the hump come off him. He would tell none of them except a man with a hump like his own in the other time. Him he told, thinkin' to get him rid of it.

"The poor man was very glad. He run to the spink and heard the fairies singin'.

" 'Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.'

" 'Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.'

"The man outside shouted 'And Friday, too.'

" 'Who is makin' our song too long?' cried the fairies inside. He was fetched in but he saw nothin' only big seas, rivers and lakes. He was thrown into the seas and tossed every way till he was worn out. Then they clapped Jack's hump on top of his own and sent him home, the unfortunate cratur of the world."

This next story has no great wit nor point if read alone and with a critical mind. But imagine it being rattled off by the story-teller beside the peat fire with the whole circle rocking in laughter at each fresh discomfiture of the greedy, stupid, untruthful smith, and thus sauced it becomes a manual of wit.

"There was once a smith who had a wife and two old women was livin' with them. One day a fairy come into the forge and asked the smith would he let him work on his anvil and the smith said he would. The fairy led in his horse and took off its feet and throwed them into the fire and when they was burned, he took them out and made new ones of them and put them on the horse again. The fairy told the smith to do nothin' he seen him do and the smith said he wouldn't.

"When the fairy went away the smith led his own horse into the forge and throwed his feet into the fire, but when he took them out, he was not able to put them on again—so he was in a turrible state.

"The fairy stood in the door and he said, says he, 'I thought I told you to do nothing I would do, but I will mend the matter for you this time.' Then he threw the horse's feet again into the fire and took them out and put them back on the horse.

"Another day the fairy came with two old women. He asked the smith would he let him work in the forge a while and the smith said he would. The fairy threw the two old women into the fire and made two young women of them. He told the smith to do nothing he would do and the smith said he wouldn't.

"When the fairy went away the smith threw the two old women of his family into the fire and when they was burned he could make nothin' of them at all at all.

"The fairy comes again and scolded him as before but throwed the women back into the fire and drawed them out young and beautiful.

"Next day the fairy come and said if the smith would go with him he might have all the gold the fairy got for doctorin' a sick lady. They went to the house and the fairy had them bringin' a pot of [illegible] water and all leavin' the room except the smith. Then the fairy throwed the lady's head into the pot, drawed it out, put it on again and she was cured entirely. When they was going away, the fairy asked to be keepin' out enough of the gold to buy shoes for himself, but the smith was wantin' it all.

"Some time after, the smith heard of a lady bein' sick, so he went to the house and done like he seen the fairy do, but he could not get her head back on and was thinkin' to be hanged. He called to the fairy that he might have the shoes but the fairy was not comin'. He called that he would be givin' him all the gold and the horse and the two young women. Then the fairy come laughin' and sayin' he wanted nothin' but for the smith to learn sense and never do as he did any more and the smith said he wouldn't."

Ireland is as well populated with ghosts as with fairies. Usually these ghost stories are sufficiently eerie and lugubrious but the one I am giving here has a jovial ring and this ghost proved to be a good fellow after all:

"An old man had three of a family, sons. One of them was crippled. The brothers was mockin' him and tellin' him he was no use but to burn his feet at the fire all day. The crippled man said to them all to go out and gather money, and he would be leggin' it home with the [illegible]

"'Stop makin' your faces with me,' says the cripple, or I will come down and break your neck!'

"The ghost began to gibber like to scare you dead but the cripple was not afraid.

"'If ye give me more of your old chat,' says he, 'I'll go down to ye and put ye out! Come up here and smoke a pipe by the fire,' and the cripple give him a pipe out of his pocket.

"So the ghost was smokin' like a Christian, only he would be puttin' lights out of his mouth between draws. The black men came for him and he had to go. In the mornin' the cripple got his gold and went home rich while his brothers traveled far and far, comin' home poorer than they went."

The Irish peasants believe that terrible monsters inhabit lonely lakes and bays. One of these is known as a "water hound." It has a horn on its nose and with this horn it can split rocks. About eighty years ago, they will tell you at Bunbeg, a man named Dubgeon was herding cattle on a lonely island off the Gweedore Coast. He lived in a little sod house without a door. He had no one with him except his good dog. One night a "water hound" came and for hours his dog fought it away from him until at dawn both dog and monster lay dead.

Among the comparatively modern tales, one gets occasional fragments of the old Gaelic mythology. This concluding tale did not, however, come from the memories of the old folks. It was told me by dear little Mary Anne Duffy, my dearest child chum in Ireland and the heroine of my Donegal stories. And she read it in Gaelic at the National School. It is a familiar classic, one of the most delightful and beautiful of Gaelic myths. There is an artless charm in Mary Anne's version, which is my excuse for repeating it here as my concluding tale.

"One time there was a man named Lir who wanted a wife, so he thought about going to the home of a friend. When he came in there were three young daughters sitting on three chairs.

"Lir said he was wanting a wife and the father asked which would he take. Lir said he would take the oldest, so the next day they got married, and lived together. They were not long married till they had four of a family, three sons and one daughter. So Lir and his wife loved these four and were very fond of them.

"The mother died and Lir was very sorry. He went back for another daughter and brought the second and they were married. They were not long married until the wife took a hatred to the children because she thought her husband loved them better than her.

"One day she led them to the bank of the river and told the boatman to kill them, but he would not; so she touched the four of them with a magic rod and they turned into four white swans. The oldest of them asked how long would they spend on the waters. She said they would spend 900 years. They went out on the sea. Some nights they thought they would be lost.

"Then when the 900 years were up, the church bells were ringing and their suffering was over. A saint touched them and turned them into three old men and an old woman. Soon the four died and went to Heaven."

Memories of Many Genuses.

BOHEMIA.

THERE are no stupid people in Bohemia, the only place in this world where they are not very plentiful. There are no laws in Bohemia, because laws are not needed there. Every last Bohemian of them does as he pleases, and they are the only inhabitants on this whizzing terrestrial that can be trusted to do so.

Bohemians are all geniuses, without exception all geniuses; and if their fates steer them clear of various lunatic asylums they may ultimately achieve fame. Some land the laurel wreath while they are still living, and some do not obtain it till long after they are dead. And this is the firm boundary line dividing common folk and geniuses; the genius can raise a rumpus when he is materially no more, the others of us can't peep even when once we've passed the undertaker.

There used to be a lot of Bohemians in the youthful magazine days, those late seventies and early eighties, when the only illustrated magazines were Harper's, Scribner's, and St. Nicholas. Then the pictured monthlies were a treat to be looked for. Then, startling as it may sound in this self-satisfied twentieth century, the illustrations were frequently better than the best of today. The work of Edwin A. Abbey was an "event" in those years, and awaited with an interest now quite inconceivable. Abbey as an illustrator will in final estimation eclipse Abbey the mural decorator, or even Abbey the court painter to His Majesty of Great Britain. Charles S. Rhinehart, a contemporary of Abbey's, was another of the giants; and the work of these two made old Harper's famous.

I was only a boy when I met Abbey in his studio, and yet my strongest impression of that well-remembered first visit is his pointing out to me the pains he took with his work. Indeed studio gossip had it that he spent more for costumes and model hire than he received for his pictures, and this is easily quite believable when one studies his drawings.

Abbey as a Bohemian was second to none in popularity, and this popularity crossed the ocean with him to England. When Edward VII commissioned him to paint the official coronation picture, it might easily have caused heartburnings among his many confreres in London; that it did not in the slightest, attests vividly to the good fellowship of this talented and charming American. The last I saw of Abbey was in his studio in Kensington—I think it was in Kensington—where he was busily pen-and-inking the finale of his famous ballad series.

Those were the days, too, of William Hamilton Gibson, that virile citizen of Brooklyn, one of the first "nature" contributors to the magazines, and the very first of the pictorial "nature" contributors. He was the father of the modern popular "nature" writer, the creator, I might say, of the present-day enthusiasm for nature study. One of the hardest of workers, he was one of the most genuine lovers of fun I have ever met with anywhere. Indeed he seemed eternally on a frolic, and I have known him to fool away an entire day with his nonsense, and then to make up for it by working all night. He was a large, portly, dignified man, and the last person in the world one would suspect of being a "cut up." That first blow-gun of his! That three-foot length of glass tubing he purchased somewhere down on Bleeker street! For a week our windows were open, and if Gibson or some other occupant of the studio was not peppering the truck drivers on Broadway for the whole of that time I fail to remember it. When Gibson discovered a hollow length of bamboo in which to conceal his glass tube, his joy was complete. Then the dignified portly gentleman would sally forth with this shining walking cane loaded always with a pellet, a hard little clay pellet! "Biff!" something would strike a citizen's back hairs. Only the stout gentleman to be seen walking behind; where in the world could it have come from? "Biff!" Probably a Wall street broker got it this time, and threatened savagely to "lambaste" some wicked little messenger boys. "Biff!" A driver of a truck would haul up and swear as his horses at the pole turned at imperiling right angles. The gentleman with the cane sucked the head of it serenely, and looked wonderingly at the disturbance so wholly unaccounted for.

One Sunday afternoon I ran across Gibson as he was walking out to the park. Just ahead of us was a woman of aristocratic bearing with her two beautifully dressed youngsters. "Ouch!" suddenly yelled one of them; "something hit me on the leg!" And it turned down its little sock to find the black and blue place. "Gerald" was at last comforted, and the aristocratic Brooklynite resumed her stately stroll. "Ouch!" cried the other youngster; "something hit me, too, mamma!" Nobody in sight but two well behaved beings, one of whom carried a cane of shiny bamboo.

On another occasion, in Prospect Park, this same Gibson spied a fine bird's nest which was "just what I need for that illustration for Harper's." Now to pluck even the smallest wild flower in Prospect Park was a crime for which the park cop pounced on one quickly. To steal a bird's nest—well, the penalty in my youthful days seemed awfully like a capital punishment. Anyway Gibson "swiped" it, and the cop didn't see him either. But Gibson well knew that before he could get that bird's nest out of the park some cop would surely see that he was mightily in possession of it. So Gibson redoubled the offense. He picked a huge bouquet of buttercups, daisies and other wild flowers, added a sprinkling of leaves artistically arranged, and placed the stolen bird's nest right in the center of this. Then the large portly gentleman so scrupulously dressed in black, marched with great dignity by all the police without once attracting suspicion.

About this time reproductions of Gabriel Max's celebrated picture of Christ appeared in the shop windows. The chief interest of this picture—entitled "Life in Death"—is the well painted illusion of closed eyes seeming as if opened. The material eyes really are closed, and in death; but the spiritual eyes look at you through the remains of the lifeless ones, with a tenderness of beauty belonging only to the divine. Gibson bought one of these reproductions, for he admired the picture greatly; not so much as a work of art as for the ingenuity of its conception. Then during one of his hilarious outbursts—which were so many lulls from hard work—Gibson placed a looking-glass on his work table and rather excitedly sat down before it. We knew instinctively every one of us, that Gibson had an idea, and when Gibson had an idea the result was worth waiting for. Closing one of his eyes tightly Gibson painted an eye on the shut lid with water color. Then he closed the other eyelid and painted an eye on that also. When Gibson opened his eyes wide not the faintest line could be seen of the water color optics. Gibson waited—strenuously waited, I might say, for he was all of a quiver—for the next caller. Within a very few minutes the much-wished-for caller knocked at the door—one of the naturalists from the Smithsonian Institution if I remember rightly—and Gibson and he were soon engaged in earnest conversation. Then suddenly, and without veering from the subject of his talk in the slightest, Gibson closed both his eyes. Not if I should live for 10,000 years will I ever forget that naturalist's expression when again he looked at Gibson. With a half-startled gasp he convulsively grasped Gibson's hands, thinking his friend was taken ill, and there is no imagining what he would have done further had Gibson not roared exultingly over the success of his joke.

For some time Gibson fed his humor with this startling apparition of those painted eyes. He'd close his real eyes on the cars as he was riding up town to the horror of the passengers opposite. He'd drive an editor into fits and temporarily cause the suspension of the making of a magazine with his water-color optics. He surely scared the negro janitor so that he nearly gave up his job.

When Gibson and James Beard, the animal artist, occupied a studio together, nonsense reached its zenith. What Gibson could not think of, Beard could, and vice versa. Beard liked to draw his animals from nature if he could get nature, and he liked whenever possible to get that nature in the studio. But sometimes these models escaped, and sometimes they were permitted to escape. The cub bear stole into the hallway one afternoon and held up the top flight of stairs, besides causing a panic on the others. A three-foot alligator waddled down among the law offices on another occasion, not a very terrifying animal at all to one familiar with wild life, but to the patent-leathered occupants of what was then a Broadway skyscraper, quite a formidable reptile indeed.

Had both men not been so very well known they would undoubtedly have been evicted from the premises. As it was their skylarkings were overlooked by the various tenants as necessary offshootings of the genus "contributor." The Irish policeman on Broadway, where Dey and John intersect it, was not so kindly lenient. He objec to the paper parachutes whizzing down from our high windows, and to one mechanism especially, a contrivance of Gibson's. It was a little hard on the Italian lemonade vender immediately below us, I'll admit that. The big bowl of yellow juice centered with a floating iceberg did not appreciate in value when our aeroplanes dropped into it. The appearance of the beverage was apt to be marred by a wreckage of sinking newspaper. Passengers on buses did not altogether like us either, and drivers of numerous vehicles forgot there were "women present" when an airship of the daily news grazed the noses of their skittish horses.

Gibson and Henry Ward Beecher were very warm friends, and on occasions that are memorable, the great preacher strolled in. And this calls to mind a Beecher story Gibson told me which I have never seen in print. One fine summer morning Beecher told his new coachman to drive down to the railroad station and bring home Mrs. Beecher, who was expected on the next train. After a while the coachman returned, and without Mrs. Beecher. "Why, where is Mrs. Beecher?" said the surprised Henry Ward.

"She wasn't there!" said the coachman.

"She wasn't there!"

"No, sir!" with emphasized positiveness.

"Who got off the train?"

"Nobody got off, sir!"

"Didn't anybody get off the train at all?"

"No, sir, nobody got off!" And then as proof of this statement "James" surlily added: "Nobody got off but a little old woman!"

"Well, you just drive down and bring that little old woman right up here!" said Mr. Beecher with considerable warmth, and before very long, Mrs. Beecher, tired and dusty, had reached her summer home again.

In the early magazine days nearly all of the illustrators were congregated within a stone's throw of historic St. Paul's church. Those were the days, too, when illustrations were drawn altogether on boxwood blocks to be afterward engraved by wood engravers, or should I say murdered by wood engravers. If the illustration was a large one—a double page, for instance—the drawing was made on a "block" composed of a number of smaller ones securely bolted together. Then if this were needed in a hurry, the great "block" was unbolted apart, and the much-divided drawing distributed among wood engravers of divers and awful talents. The result? All I can say is, God be thanked there are no such results nowadays.

Of course Paris was—and is more or less so today—the great stronghold of Bohemia—Paris of the Latin Quarter. There Bohemia is a necessity, and not simply an excuse for ludicrous behavings. Genius somehow takes a shine to the possessors of flat pocketbooks, as if she would seek her destruction rather than her full flowering. Adversity is the soil on which she least thrives, and yet how frequently she lights on this soil where her lot is the hardest. Riches she must have, and leisure, a whole life of leisure; and Bohemianism at its base is the sublime renunciation of all the material things of life in order that this leisure may be obtained. The Bohemian is an aristocrat of aristocrats, he needs must be. Who more independent than he? Who more scornful of the moneylust, or of the mere creature comforts of life?

"Ninety-nine per cent. perspiration and 1 per cent. inspiration." The man who made this remark concerning genius, whoever that man may be, has himself just 1 per cent. inspiration and not one bit more; or if more fortunately blessed, is, in the words of Nietzsche, "Guilty of a noble hypocrisy." Genius is love. The soul feels itself filled

In the Wake of Sinbad the Sailor.

UP ANCIENT TIGRIS.

BASSORAH, the odd Moslem town that stands knee-deep in the mud of the Tigris delta, may be called the back-door of the Turkish Empire. Through it surges each year thousands of Sunni Moslems of India, on their way to pray at the famous shrines of Kerbela and Nedjef.

After the day's quarantine at Mohammerah you take a "bellum," a long narrow skiff manned by naked Arabs, for the run through the winding delta to Bassorah. At nightfall a soft wind blows in from the sea, and the moonlit sail upstream, between dense forests of date palms is like a ride through fairyland. You are swept past countless high-pooped "baggalas"—the very type of junk-like craft that old Sinbad sailed when he roved this same great stream from Bagdad, so long ago.

Marco Polo, too, found the Tigris a beautiful stream, but thought it the river Volga. Alexander the Great, with his 10,000 Greeks and herds of elephants, passed up this river on his return from a conquered East. "Zandar," the Arabs pronounce his name, and he still lives in their traditions at a first-class fighting man. Tradition says that Alexander also visited the famous "Abbre Sec" near Khudran, Persia, described by Marco Polo as the "Speaking Trees;" and that Alexander kissed these trees and asked them what his future luck might be, and the Sun Tree replied, "Thou shalt be the King of the world, but thou shalt never revisit Macedonia." And he did not, for he died at Babylon. Early writers seem to have mixed this historical tree up with the accursed fig tree of Biblical times.

City Without Hotels.

Bassorah has no hotels; though a city of 75,000, so few travelers have visited it, till lately, that there has been no need for a hotel. So I put up for the night with the American Consular Agent—an Englishman whose main business was to buy dates for a New York firm. A few years ago this same American firm introduced the "cornering" custom into Bassorah, to the profound consternation of competing firms, and now each year it fixes the price which shall be paid the Arabs for their dates.

Bassorah, like Manila, is sometimes styled the "Venice of the East," by reason of its numerous canals and the graceful craft which singing boatmen pole about. Most people own a boat, and go from place to place by water; few carriages are seen, as no good roads exist.

Fever, insidious and persistent, is the scourge of all these gulf cities; no white men remain for long at a time in Bassorah. One writer says: "This city is one of the hottest and most unhealthy in the whole Turkish Empire. The population is almost exclusively Mohammedan. The few European merchants and representatives of foreign governments who live as a small colony by themselves along the west bank of the Shat-el-Arab, outside the city proper, suffer more or less from fever and the enervating influence of the oppressive climate. An occasional ride into the desert, with its bracing air, and the hunting of the wild boar, francolin and bustard are the general means by which the members of the European colony try to keep up their energy and vitality in the hothouse atmosphere of this tropical region."

Wealth in Dates.

The United States buys about $600,000 worth of dates from Bassorah each year, while some $50,000 worth of licorice root is shipped to New York, for use in making "plug" tobacco. From August till November—the "date season"—everyone is busy. The natives have money to spend, and life is intense. Any petty crimes committed then are usually judged leniently, the excuse being that the excitement of the date season moved the wrongdoer to his unseemly act. Even cows eat dates at Bassorah, and when there are no dates they feed them dried fish. Camels eat dates sometimes, too, though I have seen them resist and bawl indignantly as Arab drivers tried to force a sticky wad of dates into their drooping mouths. In the fall special "date boats" leave Bassorah for New York, piled full of dates in boxes and sometimes in goatskins. Bassorah is also a port of entry for all goods coming from Europe to Bagdad, and for much freight destined for Persia, via caravan from Bagdad. Three lines of steamers run into Bassorah regularly, the Hamburg-Amerika Line, the British India, and the Strick Line.

The Tigris was a busy stream when Babylon was at her zenith. Ships from all over the then known world sailed up the Shat-el-Arab, via Bassorah for Babylon, Bagdad, etc. Trade flourished, and the great irrigation system told of by Herodotus watered all Babylonia, the "granary of the world and cradle of humanity." About the ninth century prosperity reached its height, and the cities on the Tigris, like Bagdad, became very rich. It was the opulence and extravagance of this period which no doubt gave rise to the golden tales of the "Arabian Nights." And it was right in this neighborhood, too, according to old traditions, that the human race got its start; either in the Island of Bahrein, or at some point between the lower Tigris and Euphrates, the early Phoenicians started as a race. Earthquakes, the story says, drove them westward to the Mediterranean country.

Home of Haroun.

Five hundred miles north of Bassorah—by the winding Tigris—in the heart of a desert plain, lies the historic city of Bagdad, the old home of Haroun-al-Raschid. The flat-bottom, sluggish side-wheelers which ply the Tigris take five days to make the ascent. An English company runs three boats, and the Turkish government keeps seven more in service. The voyage is saved from monotony by the odd and unnatural twisting of the river's course, and by the glimpses of nomad Arab life and river villages enjoyed from the steamer's deck. I went up on an English boat, called the "Kalipha." "I've read Mark Twain's 'Life on the Mississippi,'" said the captain to me one day, "and all he says is so true about this river, too, that I almost feel he was talking about the Tigris when he described boating on the American stream."

Arabs shoot at the Tigris boats, sometimes, this of course adding thrills to the trip. At one time an English captain was shot and killed while defending his ship. We saw several war-dances on shore, but no hostile attention was paid to us as we steamed upstream.

Where Adam and Eve Lived.

The old Garden of Eden, according to early writers, lay some sixty miles above Bassorah, at the junction of the Tigris and the Euphrates. The apple trees are gone now, however; only nomad desecrators digging licorice root—and a few prowling jackals—roam about the scene of the first love affair. The fig-leaf theory, incidentally, is still supported by the local climate; it was 108 in the shade of the river-boat's awning when we passed.

Sir William Willcocks, the English engineer and explorer, has since "moved" the Garden of Eden to a point on the Euphrates. Half-way to Bagdad, on the left bank as one goes upstream, stands the picturesque tomb of the prophet Ezra. A great grove of stately date palms surround the good man's last resting-place. In this grove I saw camped a large caravan of Bagdad Jews, who make an annual pilgrimage to the tomb of the distinguished Hebrew, and keep it in repair. Above the tomb towers a blue porcelain dome, visible for many miles across the barren desert through which the Tigris flows.

Wild boar abound in the frequent marshes which form from the river's spring overflow, and from the boat we counted no less than thirty in one herd. Lions were once numerous, but of late few have been seen. Mohammed Pasha has two in a cage at his city home in Bagdad, which were captured young a few years ago, along the Tigris marshes. Many troops of gazelle scampered from the river's edge as we rounded sharp curves, and the nimble jackals seemed everywhere. Long strings of laden camel, unmindful of man or his puffing steamboats, marched leisurely along the banks. From time to time we passed the clustered tents of Turkish troops, picturesque in fezzes and red-topped trousers. They are scattered along the stream as a show of strength against warring Arab tribes. Fighting goes on along the lower Tigris during almost all the year—or except when it's too hot for troops to move. If the Arabs are not fighting among themselves, they have joined forces against their common enemy, the Turkish troops. As I write these lines news of the latest outbreak has just come in. One Raghban, an Arab Sheik from the Persian frontier districts, who sallied down for a pot shot at the Tigris river boats, was met at daybreak by a force of Beni Lam, from near Amarah. While a few went forward to engage Raghban the greater number remained behind; and, obscured by the faint light of early dawn, dug shallow holes for themselves in the sand. Then the first party, feigning defeat, retreated in seeming confusion, leading Raghban's force headlong onto the armed men hiding in their sand holes. The Beni Lams say they killed about 500 of Raghban's men.

Arms and Ammunition Plenty.

All these desert folk as far north as Mossoul have good rifles now, and ammunition in plenty. Smuggling arms into Arabia is a profitable industry, and various and crafty are the means employed. Some of the guns have American makers' names stamped on them; others have English marks, though local Britishers stoutly declare all the rifles were made in Belgium. It is generally believed that most of these guns come in via Maskat, and brought around overland by camel caravans.

Small wars go on all the time among the Arab tribes, who fight over wells, pasture rights, etc., or over stolen camels, blood feuds or other quarrels of obscure or forgotten origin. They fight the Turks to avoid paying taxes levied on them. Hundreds are slain each year, of which no tidling ever reaches the outside world.

The morning of the fifth day upstream from Bassorah we passed the ruins of ancient Ctesiphon, standing out in bold profile on the east bank of the Tigris. A sea of mysterious mounds, hiding the history of centuries ago, sweeps the desert about the one lone, vast ruin—the sole surviving remnant of a mighty city vanished from the earth. It was here that old Diogenes lived, and looked for an honest man, seeking him with a lantern in mid-day. Al-standing for centuries, the great "Arch of Ctesiphon," as it is generally called, has only lately commenced to decay and the The arch itself is nearly 100 feet high; the walls are over twenty feet thick in places and even as the fragment stands today it is an example of splendid masonry which few modern buildings can equal. So far, I believe no antiquarians have excavated the ruins of Ctesiphon, or Seleucia, just across the Tigris from it; what antique treasures or hidden mysteries of Diogenes's day the classic ruins may contain!

"Bagdad" at daylight, was the glad news on the night of the fifth day upstream! At last I was to see the famous city of the Arabian Nights, the home of Haroun-al-Raschid—the town that even Cook's agents had not found out about!

The Day of Adventure.

reach either a Van Nuys or a Hollywood car. So we tore ourselves reluctantly away.

When we emerged from the canyon we found one more surprise awaiting us. Our road had been washed completely away by the recently-flooded river. The bed of the river was filled with uprooted trees and tumbled rocks.

This was but a trifle, however, after what had gone before. We edged our way to safety by means of a six-inch trail half-way up the river bank, balancing our handfuls of floral spoils out over the turgid tide below.

Beyond here the oak groves swallowed us up again—enormous specimens of trees, as fine as any I have ever seen in Southern California. Their splendid dark bulk loomed against the fading yellow sky of the west as in landscapes by Innes.

Then twilight had gone, and moonlight was irradiating the spaces between the trees. We had gained the high road leading to Cahuenga Pass. As it turned out, we had to walk all the way through the pass, so it was fortunate the walking was good.

The night was beautiful and full of mystery, the shadows of oaks, then of great sycamores and eucalypts, tracing arabesques on the smooth moonlit mountain road. It was just 7:30 when we caught our car for town.

I felt as made-over and happy as Mrs. Browning must have been when she sang:

"The little cares that fretted me,
  I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea,
  Among the winds at play—
Among the husking of the corn
  Where drowsy poppies nod,
Where ill thoughts die and good are born,
  Out in the fields with God."

But my thoughts were an incongruous mixture of the beautiful and the grotesque, for they kept turning back to the stupendous and staggering fact that I had that day met a living, breathing elephant in a California canyon.

New York vs. Jersey City.

[George Jean Nathan, in Smart Set:] New York may well and righteously giggle at little Jersey City. In Jersey City, the population actually lives in houses—imagine!—instead of in flats bounded on the north window by the elevated, on the east window by a brunette court, on the west by no window at all and on the south by an entrancing view of the back wall of another flat disguised under the alias of Hetherblossom Hall—or something elegant like that. In Jersey City, you can't get a highball after midnight. Think of that! In Jersey City, I repeat, you can't get a highball after midnight. Imagine having to go six whole hours—from midnight until 6 in the morning—without a highball! In Jersey City, it is so quiet you can hear the crickets. Isn't that funny? A jay town! Think of going to sleep at night to the chip-chip-chip-chip of crickets instead of to the pacific sound of the elevator out in the hallway or the piano across the court. In Jersey City, there isn't a restaurant that is called a lobster palace; there isn't a cabaret show from one end of the town to the other; there aren't any hat-check boys; the head waiters are crude and vulgar enough to give you a table if you wish one; nobody gives a darn whether Mrs. Vanderbilt wore crepe de chine or charmeuse or nothing at all last night; nobody gives a hang whether Ludwig Woxleslopper wears a white waistcoat with his dinner jacket or—whether he has a dinner jacket or—having one—whether he calls it a "Tuxedo." Ha, ha, ha! Mirth and merriment!

[Chicago Record-Herald:] "Why are you so pensive?" he asked.

"I'm not pensive," she replied.

"But you haven't said a word for two minutes."

"Well, I didn't have anything to say."

"Don't you ever say anything when you have nothing to say?"

"No."

"Will you be my wife?"

have joined forces against their common enemy, the Turkish troops. As I write these lines news of the latest outbreak has just come in. One Raghban, an Arab Sheik from the Persian frontier districts, who sallied down for a pot shot at the Tigris river boats, was met at daybreak by a force of Beni Lam, from near Amarah. While a few went forward to engage Raghban the greater number remained behind; and, obscured by the faint light of early dawn, dug shallow holes for themselves in the sand. Then the first party, feigning defeat, retreated in seeming confusion, leading Raghban's force headlong onto the armed men hiding in their sand holes. The Beni Lams say they killed about 500 of Raghban's men.

Shyness Quickly Cured.

A SHY young man had been calling on the sweetest girl in the world for many moons, but, being bashful, his suit progressed slowly. Finally she decided it was up to her to start something, so the next time he called she pointed to the rose in his buttonhole and said: "I'll give you a kiss for that rose."

A crimson flush overspread his countenance, but the exchange was made after some hesitation on his part. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.

"Why, where are you going?" she asked, in surprise.

"To the—er—florist for more roses," he called from the front door.—[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Gallery's Verdict.

IN THE old days the proprietor of a music hall always used to walk up and down the center gangway during the performance and restrain the exuberance of his patrons. One night a lady singer began a doleful ballad in a still more doleful voice and at once received "the bird" from the gallery.

"That'll do, boys," said the proprietor. "Order, please! Give the artists a chance."

But when the performance was finished he took off his hat, bowed to the gallery and remarked: "I beg pardon. You were right."—[London Express.

Force of Habit.

THEY were speaking of force of habit, and Henry C. Hall, recently made a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was reminded of a pretty little telephone girl named Miss Marie.

One night Miss Marie went to church and, being somewhat tired, she fell asleep during the rather protracted sermon. Finally the sermon was concluded, and after the usual prayer the minister picked up the hymnal.

"Brethren and sisters," he announced, glancing first at the choir and then at the congregation, "we shall sing hymn three forty-three. Hymn three forty-three."

"The line is busy," cried Miss Marie, suddenly waking and hearing the dominie's last words. "Please call again."—[Philadelphia Telegraph.

Uncle Knows Everything.

LITTLE Jimmy came to Toronto from his northern Ontario home, where negroes are hardly ever seen. One day when he was out walking with his Uncle Bob they happened to pass a negro woman, and the following conversation took place:

"Say, uncle, why did that woman black her face?" said Jimmy.

"Why, she hasn't blacked her face—that's her natural color," said uncle.

"Is she black like that all over?" asked Jimmy.

"Why, yes."

"Gosh, uncle, you know everything, don't you?"—[Ideal Power.

What He Would Have Done.

BEN FOSTER was noted for his shiftlessness. If it had not been for his wife, he would not have done a stroke of work on his little farm and garden. It was all his wife could do to get him to work, for he preferred to sit and read all day.

One evening, after he had been reading French history with deep interest, he closed the book and said to his wife: "Do you know, Maria, what I'd 'a' done if I had been Napoleon?"

"Oh, yes, I know well enough," his wife responded. "You'd have settled right down on a farm in Corsica and let it run to ruin, while you grumbled about your hard luck."—[Youth's Companion.

Hard to Miss.

"I OVERSAW and overheard this delightful little thing in an alley running north from Payne avenue yesterday," says a more or less cryptic correspondent. "Two boys were fighting. One was a very fat boy and the other was very skinny. The thin one had a backer, however, who seemed to be very wise to all the technicalities of the manly art of self-defense.

"'Hit him in the solar plexus, Kid,' shouted the second. 'Hit him in the solar plexus, an' you'll put th' big tub out!'

"'Where's his solar plexus at?' panted the thin one.

"'Aw, hit him anywhere—you can't miss it!' answered the backer."—[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

About the Parson.

"AND what, my dear boy," asked the minister, "do you intend to be when you grow up?"

"A farmer, sir."

"Very good, indeed—to supply the natural food—most good."

"And you?" turning to the second.

"Please, sir, a schoolmaster."

"Even better. Filling the mind of the rising generation with mental food—yes, even better."

"And you?" turning to the third.

"A preacher, sir."

"The best of all, my dear little boy; for filling the soul with spiritual food is far worthier than either filling the mind or body. And why do you wish to become a minister?"

"'Cos we always have duck for dinner when the parson comes," replied the boy.—[Grit.

French Courtesy.

A BOSTON woman was talking of Paris. The question of the relative courtesy of nations came up.

"Well, it would take a very good illustration to persuade me that any people beat the French," she remarked. "I'll give you an example. I was walking down the Champs Elysees and wanted to find a particular street called the Rue de la Clochee. Not knowing just where to turn off into the side streets, I asked a young Frenchman who passed me if he could direct me to it. He assured me with a thousand pardons he did not know.

"A few minutes later I heard hurrying feet behind me and there was my Frenchman.

"'Madame,' he said, sweeping off his hat and bowing profoundly, 'did you not ask me the way to the Rue de la Clochee? I was sorry that I did not know, but I have seen my brother and asked him, and I am sorry to inform you, madame, he did not know, either.'"—[Boston Traveler.

The Best Course.

AT THE Lambs Club one night a player whose conceit is in inverse ratio to his ability was complaining to William Collier that, by reason of the curious hostility of the critics, he was unable to obtain a lucrative engagement.

"What do they say?" asked Collier.

"That's just it—they don't say anything about me. I tell you there is a conspiracy of silence against me. What would you do?"

"Join it," advised Collier.—[Lippincott's Magazine.

None Too Proud.

SECRETARY OF WAR GARRISON, apropos of the revival in navy and army of vice-admirals and lieutenant-generals, said at a luncheon:

"This is largely a matter of diplomatic etiquette, a matter of elegance.

"Much goes by elegance nowadays, you know. I said recently to a multimillionaire who had risen from a plumber's apprentice to I don't know how many bank presidencies and interlocking directorates:

"'Your woman folks must be proud of you, since you are self-made.'

"'Yes,' he answered, grimly. 'Yes, they're about as proud of me as they'd be of a home-made dress.'"—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

They Understood.

A BOSTON teacher had carefully explained to her class the meaning of the word "happens." "Now," he said, "if there is anything you do not understand in what I have been telling you, just raise your hand."

Not a hand was raised. "If you understand how it should be used, who can give me a sentence with this word 'happens' in it?"

Quickly a hand was raised and an eager voice called out: "My mother wears happens in her head."—[Minneapolis Journal.

His Revenge.

NORMAN HAPGOOD was condemning in New York a certain type of politician.

"These fellows," he went on, "instead of fighting for the people they represent, act very much like Jones.

"Jones sat in a barroom one Saturday night with a party of cronies when one of them, Billy Croft, was called away by his wife. Billy rose hurriedly, leaving his glass of beer on the table.

"A few minutes afterward Jones's little boy ran into the bar, crying:

"'Father, mother's bin a-jawin' with Billy Croft's wife and Billy has hit mother on the nose!'

"Jones jumped up, but, then, on second thought, he resumed his seat and muttered, savagely:

"'The coward! Hit mother on the nose, did he? Then I'll drink his beer.'"—[Washington Star.

A Matter of Initials.

AN ENGINEER who was repairing a railway line in South Africa found a cosy farmhouse, which he proceeded to occupy.

Promptly came a telegram which read:

"G. T. M. wants house."

The engineer wondered who "G. T. M." might be. On inquiry he found it referred to the general traffic manager.

"All right," he murmured. So he wired back.:

"G. T. M. can G. T. H."

Two days later there came a very indignant and self-important gentleman. It was the general traffic manager. In coldly polite tones he asked the engineer what he meant by sending such an insolent message.

The engineer said innocently:

"Why, it wasn't insolent."

"What do you mean, then, by saying I can G. T. H.?"

"Simply an abbreviation," explained the engineer. "I wired that the G. T. M.—the general traffic manager—can G. T. H.—get the house."—[Boston Advertiser.

SPRINGTIDE.

HLANDS, May 7.—Such a beautiful springtime earth as it is, dear Polly mine, up here in this top-bough country right under the open sky. Everywhere, new-feathered with spic-and-span The country roads skirted in lupin, creamy mountain iris, red Indian paint-brush. Yellow daffo-ly chicks just budded out of the A baby-blue-eyes kitten clinging to skirts like an amiable burr. incidentally, I am visiting Camille— Lathrop's cousin, you know. You ber her, of course, and the jolly six we all spent at Laura's when the were living in Santa Barbara. Dickie Lathrop crazy about her? was every other man whom Camille and dimpled at. That was seven ago, and Camille is smiling and dim- —even now when she speaks of as "an old married woman."

shall I forget that endless night of and waiting, for the doctor had called to the bedside of a dying man Lone Ridge, his return uncertain. the dawn stole softly into the sick- Camille had run over to the ranch a few minutes. Peters gone after wood. Joey's mother tiptoed about the kitchen refilling a hot-water bag. I was alone, seated beside the child, a hot little hand held in mine, when the door opened and the doctor came in—with a flood of the new morning sunshine.

You cannot understand. To understand that moment's sense of radiance you had first to pass through the night with its fears, its helplessness. And as he bent over the child there was an indescribable something —the gentleness of his touch, the tenderness of his voice—that made you know it was no mere case to him. He cared. The blood leaped in my veins. I was thrilled—uplifted. You cannot understand. To understand you had first to pass through the night with its fears, its helplessness—and the tightening hold of a child's hot little hand.

May 12.

Dear Polly: Joey is convalescent. The operation that we dreaded will not be necessary. Were the child heir to a throne he could not be more carefully watched.

By Camille's urgent invitation the doctor is spending his nights at the ranch house until the end of the week.

Some evenings he comes in from the cottage as we are sitting down to supper. On others, at the candle-light hour, after the dishes are washed. For Camille always turns out the lamp and stands lighted candles on the piano when I play. She says my tortoiseshell hair and the golden-brown gowns I wear go with candle light and that half the charm of music is its setting. I play every night because Camille insists that the piano needs "exercising" and that it is up to me who have no responsibilities of husband or prunes on my care-free hands to put it through its paces.

After the music, we blow out even the candles and gather round the open fire with its happy-hearted crackling blaze, and talk far into the night—which means till 9:30, a wildly dissipated hour when Diogenes never fails to get up at 5.

May 18.

Every Eden has its snake in the grass, my Polly. Hidden in the beauty and promise of the May orchard the slimy fear of insect pests. Each individual tree of our sixty acres of prunes must be sprayed.

Peters drives the wagon with the tank, and Diogenes, his long hose in hand, squirts a shower-bath of Paris green insecticide into the topmost boughs, a large sombrero shielding his face, a pair of goggles protecting his eyes from any chance splatter.

The sleight-of-hand wonders of every-day life! A green marble transformed into a purple plum. A professor of Greek changed into a practical rancher. And the son of plain farmer folk—with a tow-headed, freckle-faced little boy beginning like Joey Peters—working his way through a medical college, winning a scholarship for a year's study in Europe, becoming a physician and surgeon whose skill is the talk of the whole mountainside.

I wish I could give you an idea of what the doctor is like. He is so different from the type of man you and I are accustomed to. As different as a rugged mountain pine from a carefully-trimmed little box-tree in an ornamental pot. But you mustn't hang up any daredevil, cowboy picture of him in your mind. He is very quiet and reserved—in his manner, in his speech, in his neckties. A gentleman to his finger tips—and yet he might be "fussed" as to which fork came next at a dinner.

With his country neighbors he is perfectly at ease, but I embarrass him almost as much as the forks. Dear knows on what ridiculous pinnacle of family, old mahogany, and social prestige Camille has set me! It is only too evident that he regards me as a being that belongs to a world apart from his own. A sort of hot-house orchid to be put in the best vase. By no human possibility one of the comfortable flowers of the field that a man would enjoy wearing in friendly fashion in his buttonhole.

May 23.

My Dear Polly: Who says that a woman cannot keep a secret? The chicken-house quiver being full of little chicks, Camille has been frowning down all setting activities among her hens. But lo and behold, this morning Hedda Gabler suddenly appears with thirteen animated fuzzy balls stepping on her proud heels. Three weeks on a stolen nest and not a chirp about it to anyone!

While Camille and I were fixing a coop to set the family up at housekeeping, from down the road came the sound of a Klaxton horn.

"Talk of angels," laughed Camille, who had been chattering about the doctor for the past hour," and you hear the honk-honk of their automobiles!"

But how did she know it was the doctor? Several of the neighbors have Klaxton machines. I cannot tell you why, but as I watched Camille turn her flushed face smiling and dimpling with pleasure toward the road, a little somebody-stepped-on-my-grave shiver ran through me.

May 25.

I can tell you the "why" now, Polly, though it almost breaks my heart to write it out.

This afternoon as I came up the short-cut path with a bunch of wild flowers from the other side of the ridge I was surprised to see the doctor and Camille standing together in the shelter of the vine-hung porch.

They were too absorbed in each other to notice my approach, and I never thought of running out a danger signal.

"Do not regret that you have told me"—it was the caressing sweetness of Camille's voice that first startled me. "And oh, my dear friend," she continued, lifting shining eyes to his, "believe me, such a love as yours honors any woman, and——"

They heard the crunch of gravel on the path and looked guiltily up.

I do not know what awkward words were said. Not many on anyone's part. For the doctor snatched out his watch, mumbled something about having stayed too long already, and was gone.

Camille followed me into the house.

"You heard?" she asked.

"Yes."

"And you are angry? You had not guessed? You did not see from the first that he——"

"Stop!" I cried. "Don't say it! Don't you dare!"

The flush on Camille's face blazed crimson.

"I am disappointed in you," she said coldly. "I thought you were big enough to understand."

"To understand?"

"Yes," she answered scathingly, "to understand that when a woman has won the love of a man like the doctor, little things, the petty, conventional little things that it is evident you set such store by, simply do not exist!"

In my astonishment I stood and stared.

"I do not want—I cannot talk about it, Camille." My voice shook with anger and scorn and tears. "And of course since I know, I cannot stay here. I shall go home—Monday. I wish it were not too late to go today."

May 27.

My Dear Polly: Let me hurry and tell you a secret—the secret that belongs to the spring and this dear top-bough country right under the open sky.

Yesterday to get away from Camille I went to church—little hypocrite that I was with hate and anger and all uncharitableness in my heart.

During the singing of the first hymn I heard a step in the open doorway, and, although I did not turn, although the doctor rarely came to service, I knew that he had entered, that he was coming up the aisle, that he would sit down beside me.

As he took his seat, his eyes met mine in a smiling glance—and what I had seen, what Camille had told me, the hundred little dark things that had come to me in the night between, meant nothing. For the eyes had said that black was white. I believed them. No power in heaven or earth could shake my faith.

After service was over, we took the path through the fields to the ranch house.

We walked together in silence, then I fumbled out the first absurd commonplace that came into my head—the last thing I wanted to say.

"Your coming over today will be a surprise to Camille."

His face slowly reddened and his eyes shifted.

"It is a surprise to myself." His voice was almost a whisper. "I did not intend to come again. In spite of what kind-hearted little Camille said to encourage me, I felt it was too hopeless. But I—I couldn't keep away. You know why I came, don't you, dear?"

"Yes," I whispered back.

For I knew—at last.

And that is the secret that belongs to the spring and this dear top-bough country right under the open sky.

"It's hard," I replied sympathetically. Of course I said just the wrong thing. Anything I might have replied would have been wrong to one in Mrs. Farleigh's mood.

"Hard! Hard!" she shouted in disgust. "I wasn't thinking of the cow's digestion. It's my glory-de-John rose that worries me. I've tended it all winter, like a mother, and it was just coming into bloom. Them Mexicans have no right to keep cows in a respectable neighborhood."

The Mexican was a bete noir to the neighbors. He had arrived recently, and bought four lots. On these he was keeping half a dozen cows, and running a small dairy farm. He seemed to be circumventing the city ordinance, which prohibited one person keeping more than one cow, by distributing the ownership of the animals among his children. The bad feature about the affair was that the family were casual about letting the cows roam off the premises. They had owned a large ranch in Mexico, before the revolution, and did not understand being confined to four city lots.

"It's too bad. Why don't you go over and see them about it?" I suggested mischieviously, for I knew the Mexicans understood little or no English.

"I will," Mrs. Farleigh said decidedly. "I have just cause for complaint."

"You surely have," I agreed. "It's the proper thing to do."

Mrs. Farleigh trotted across the street, her anger rising as she went, and pushed the button beside the Mexican's front door.

I was bad enough to take up a point of vantage behind a large leptospermum, to watch the burlesque, for I imagined my neighbor had not the Spanish.

The Mexican woman appeared, and my neighbor started the attack. "Your old cow has been and et my glory-de-John rose," Mrs. Farleigh shouted.

"Gloria de Juan, Senora!" the Mexican woman exclaimed, in surprise. Juan was her eldest son.

"De waun seniora nothing. Your cow, cow, cow," each time she spoke the word, Mrs. Farleigh pointed a finger viciously at the offending animal, which was contentedly ruminating over the flavor of rose bushes near by, "your cow has been et my glory-de-John rose."

The Mexican woman was clearly puzzled. "La vaca gloria de Juan! No, no. Ordena la vaca."

"Can't you savy English?" Mrs. Farleigh asked indignantly.

"No hablo ingles."

"You have no English, eh?" Mrs. Farleigh resorted to pigeon English. Tapping the Mexican woman on the chest with a finger, Mrs. Farleigh demanded: "You no savy?"

" No sabo."

"For the land's sake. And I've been and left my housework to come over here and give you a bit of my mind." The humor of the situation dawned on Mrs. Farleigh. She placed her hands on her hips, and, with arms akimbo, laughed uproariously.

The Mexican woman stared in astonishment; then she caught the infection, and joined in the laugh. There, on the Mexican's porch, the two women stood, each seeming to try to outdo the other in her hilariousness. After a time, they became weak-kneed from the effort, and sat on the top step and continued to laugh, wiping the tears that ran down their cheeks with the corners of their aprons. They had found a common language.

Dutch Bulbs.

CONDITIONS THAT ARE ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS.

THE permanency of Dutch bulbs for flower crops in Southern California has been a subject for much controversy and doubtless little argument on either side has been based on reasonable use of or experiment with this class of bulbs. Planting these bulbs in any sort of soil and but an inch or two below the surface certainly does not give them a fair trial, for even in Holland they would prove well-nigh a failure under such hard conditions. Give them as near the Dutch treatment as is possible and we may nearly approach the results obtained by the Dutch. A very large part of the bulb-growing territory in Holland has been reclaimed from the ocean; dikes built around an area and the water pumped out. This leaves a soil that is largely sand. On this soil are placed large quantities of manure from the dairy districts and all manner of nitrogenous material is incorporated with the soil. When the process of decay has added humus to the sand, enriched by liberal quantities of the animal manure, we find a soil closely approaching the ideal so far as the demands of bulb-growing are concerned. Further, this soil holds moisture splendidly yet quickly and easily releases an excess of water. If similar conditions are given in local gardens the results will prove satisfactory, for the writer has tried the experiment.

In the autumn of 1911 the writer prepared several small beds for bulbs with a view to testing their flowering capacity under reasonably good garden conditions. The soil was mixed with a goodly portion of sand so that drainage was good for about eighteen inches. The soil to the depth of one foot was taken out and, being of a heavy, clayey nature, was mixed with one-third its bulk of clear sand. Six inches of this was replaced in the beds and settled with water. This left the surface six inches below that of the garden. A slight sprinkling of sand was given and on top of this bulbs were placed. On top of the bulbs was placed a soil composed of one-half of the local material, one-fourth sand and one-fourth of high-grade, thoroughly-decayed stable manure. This left the tops of bulbs five inches below the surface. A little dike was built around the beds to insure an abundance of water. After the plants were showing above the soil the latter was kept rather wet at all times.

The flower crops were all that one could wish; none finer were to be found in the city. All bulbs were left in the soil throughout the next two seasons following, and though no fertilizer has been given since planting in 1911 the flowers are as fine as they were the first season but are each year somewhat reduced in number. No doubt this is partly accounted for by the fact that some bulbs rot each year, for other plants surround the beds and the soil is in constant use. The per cent. of bulbs flowering in 1914 warrants a still further continuance of the beds. In this lot were several hundred tulip bulbs and these are generally considered as temporary and inconstant as any Dutch bulbs grown in Southern California. The beds noted are not exposed to full sunshine all day as in our arid clime partial shade, but full light, are desirable. The main point to be noted is that deep planting is believed to be the chief factor contributing to success. A light, well-drained soil with some fertilizer completes the necessities. In the beds herein described were grown tulips and narcissi with as large flowers on long, stout stems as any the writer has ever grown.

The Japan Cedar.

THE most important ornamental tree in Japan is Cryptomeria Japonica, commonly known here as Japanese Cedar. In its native country it is held in almost sacred esteem, but in the dry climate of California its use is limited to coastal sections. In Los Angeles it does fairly well if given good soil and an abundance of water, the better specimens standing in well-drained lawns. The one we illustrate is growing in Prospect Park, Brooklyn Heights, Los Angeles, and is among the larger and better of local trees of this species. With neglect this tree becomes too sparse in foliage to be accounted beautiful, and when surrounded by hot, dry soil the foliage "burns" to a rusty color. Some atmospheric humidity is desirable.

Asparagus for Decoration.

AMONG decorative sprays for mixing with cut flowers none stand higher than those of the various species of asparagus. They are all of finely cut leaves, a pleasing tint of green, tough and unharmed by rough treatment, and for lasting quality are unsurpassed. Then, too, all are easily grown. Someone may ask: "What species would you recommend?" And experience and observation answer: Any sort you choose or easily obtain or happen to have in pot or garden; for all are of nearly equal value. That of the edible garden asparagus is equally as valuable as the most pampered greenhouse plant. Such is the variability or perversity of human taste that nearly every one who has one will want some other. This range of preferment is what makes the spice of life; but the fundamental fact remains that all asparagus tops are highly decorative.

Desirable Deutzias.

DEUTZIA candidissima crenulata may look and sound rather forbidding but that is the only name found in the plant catalogues for one of the daintiest, most graceful free-flowering deciduous shrubs found in local gardens. The flowers are white, very, very double, a rosy-pink on the outer side of the encasing petals and are borne in profusion along slender, graceful stems. This shrub appears to thrive in the south, for aside from those in the writer's garden several have been found, in various localities, and all are much valued by their possessors. This is but one of several species and varieties of deutzias of good value; shrubs which should find freer use over all of California.

Inclosed Gardens.

WE DO not have enough strictly private gardens in California, without which no real home life is to be had. In song and story we have heard of the charms of the "cottage homes of England," likewise the praises of private gardens of other lands. None have been so bold as to put forward any claims for American gardens and the only ones worthy of note are inclosed by hedge, fence, or wall. Nor will it ever be otherwise; neither has it ever been otherwise. We should sharply distinguish between a mere "yard" or lawn and a garden. The front lawn or front yard may, where surrounding conditions demand, be left uninclosed, but this need not deter one from having a strictly private garden. Of course if one has nothing worthy of preservation from a public noted among all civilized nations for its trespass and vandalism, fences and walls are not necessary; but gardens really worth while cannot be maintained without protecting inclosures.

Clean-up Week.

NOW that "clean-up week" has passed, are there not still some places in your neighborhood uncared for? It is not enough that all is now neat and tidy; we must have such conditions prevail for all time. Having attained a little higher standard of civic cleanliness than ever before let us remain proud enough to raise it still higher, for next year we are to be on dress parade for 365 days and the remaining months of the present year are for practice drills in civic beautification. Manifestations of a high standard of citizenship will aid the State much in the accretion of population and wealth during and following the year 1915.

Cut-Worms Active.

COMPLAINTS begin to reach us of extensive depredations of cut-worms, for they have been growing active for a month past. A warning and remedies were given in this department but four weeks ago and yet inquiries are now coming in asking for just such information. Inquirers are referred to past issues for remedies, for they cannot be reprinted for the enlightenment of a careless few.

A Time for Pruning.

THE best time for pruning of nearly all plants is immediately after flowering. For example, the acacias form new wood and set buds for the next year's flowers soon after the present season's blossoms have passed away. If pruned now you will get flowers in abundance next year, but if pruning is long delayed you will cut away next year's crop almost in its entirety. This rule holds good with nearly all spring-flowering material and therefore autumnal pruning is almost vandalism for we all are desirous of retaining and protecting our good name as "a land of sunshine and flowers."

To clean the irons if starch sticks rub them over fine emery paper, then with a little paraffin wrapped in muslin. If an iron becomes rusty scrub it with hot water and soap, then rub it very lightly with lard. Wipe it carefully with absorbent cotton to remove all traces of the lard.

Avoid Red Heat.

Never allow irons to get red hot, as it takes the temper out. Do not put a hot iron in water to cool it; stand it on one side for a few minutes.

It is unwise to put irons directly over the gas flame, as it spoils the iron. In the absence of a special device for holding them use an asbestos mat.

When possible colored goods should be ironed on the wrong side, then pressed on the right. This brings out the coloring. All wool underwear ought not to be ironed, as ironing causes it to shrink.

CLEANSING PROBLEMS.

Infallible for Gloves.

[Washington Star:] And now for soiled gloves. The best way to clean them is to make a naphtha soapsuds—which is no different from a water soapsuds, save that the naphtha is not warmed as the water generally is. But rub a cake of soap about in naphtha until a foamy suds results, and in this suds wash the gloves. Rinse them in clear naphtha. The professional cleaners use chloroform in a third rinsing naphtha, but it is troublesome for most of us to go to that trouble, and gloves washed first in soap and naphtha, then in clear naphtha, will be spotless, if anything can make them so.

Wood Ashes and Lemon Juice.

Here is a southern housewife's method of cleaning brass. She mixes fine wood ashes with lemon juice to make a paste, just thin enough to handle on a soft flannel cloth. With this paste she rubs the stained brass until it shines clean and untarnished. She then rubs it with a chamois or another flannel cloth, and the work is finished.

KINKS IN THE KITCHEN.

Some Dont's.

[Philadelphia Press:] Don't throw out fat after frying or boiling pork or bacon, but keep until there is a quart or more, then simmer over slow fire till fat ceases to bubble. Turn off clear fat from the sediment. The fat makes excellent shortening.

Don't forget, a dirty oven is liable to spoil the flavor of anything cooked in it.

Don't put pastry into slow oven; the fat will melt out and the pastry will be hard.

Don't throw away sour milk; it will make sweet light bread, griddle cakes, tea cakes and pastry.

Don't waste cold vegetables; fritters, purees and salads can be excellently made from them.

When Boiling Ham.

[Philadelphia Telegraph:] When boiling a ham or piece of bacon put in the saucepan any bones which you may have, and the liquor when cold sets in a jelly which is very useful and nourishing for making soup or gravy. It is surprising how much goodness can be boiled out of bones, and cooking them with the ham saves extra trouble and fuel.

FOR THE LARDER.

Outdoor Cupboard.

[Ladies' Home Journal:] An outdoor cupboardwill be found especially useful and economical before and after the regular season for buying ice. Indeed, it may save one from taking ice for a good while. Such a cupboard should be set up outside a kitchen window. It may be made of boards a foot wide, with lighter boards inserted for shelves. The window will serve as the door of the cupboard.

To Preserve Butter.

For packing butter for keeping the following plan is a very reliable one, says a contributor to the Commoner: To every twenty pounds of butter take three pounds of salt, one pound of loaf sugar, one-fourth pounds of pulverized saltpeter, and mix thoroughly. Put a layer of butter, about eight inches thick, then sprinkle on a light covering of the mixture, then a layer of butter, then the mixture, alternating in this way until your cask is full. Pack the butter tightly in air-tight casks. Butter put up in this way will last a year, retaining its sweetness.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

[Dallas News:] Nowadays, physicians advise a good bedtime meal for people who are nervous and emaciated.

In cooking very sour fruits, put in a very little salt, and much less sugar will be necessary.

To make fudge smooth and creamy, add to it (while making) a level teaspoonful of cornstarch.

Each child should possess a laundry bag and put its soiled clothes in it as soon as they are taken off.

Fountain Pen.—Rub paraffin on the thread of a fountain pen before screwing on the head and it will prevent leaking.

Toast.—Use a sheet of asbestos laid over the top of the stove if you wish to make a large quantity of toast at once.

A galvanized tub should be cleaned with gasoline or kerosene and then scrubbed with hot water and soap.

To remove coffee stains, stretch the napkin or the tablecloth over a basin and pour hot water through the cloth.

If you are mixing a cake with a wooden spoon, beat the mixture with the back of the spoon. It is far easier and becomes beautifully light in half the time.

If bright saucepans and kettles have to be used over a smoky fire, smearing a little grease over the bright part will prevent the smoke from blackening the metal. If washed after use in hot water, the pan will be as bright as ever.

HEARTSEASE.

Direct Healing.

[Nautilus:] Why do New Thought healers and metaphysicians generally object to the use of medicine in its other phase—as a chemical stimulant to vital reaction? For a multitude of reasons, but one will suffice; the only cause of disease is abnormal thought or emotion—back of every attack, acute or chronic, lies a false belief of an intense and wrongly directed desire or emotion. As long as these corrosive vibrations are turned into the organism it is impossible for permanent health to exist; and on the other hand, as soon as they are reversed, the life power which originally built the body is perfectly capable of rebuilding and setting it to rights. To strive to force it to do so by the use of chemical irritants, while at the same time destructive thought is allowed to continue its work, is absurd.

Friend Trouble.

We try to shy trouble and duck when it comes,
Friend Trouble, that's always on hand;
But I've learned that to meet him face front is the best,
So he'll feel the first blow where you land.
It's so much more human and honest and true
To stand to the strife, if you can,
And in spite of the things that you may have to rue—
It brings out the stuff in a man.

It brings out the stuff that is finest and best,
It brings out life's courage and zeal;
A new-born devotion and service and zest
For the things that are righteous and real.
Friend Trouble knows it before you have learned,
And he'll weaken and waver and run,
And you'll rise from the struggle so glad that you've earned
A right to such manhoods of fun.

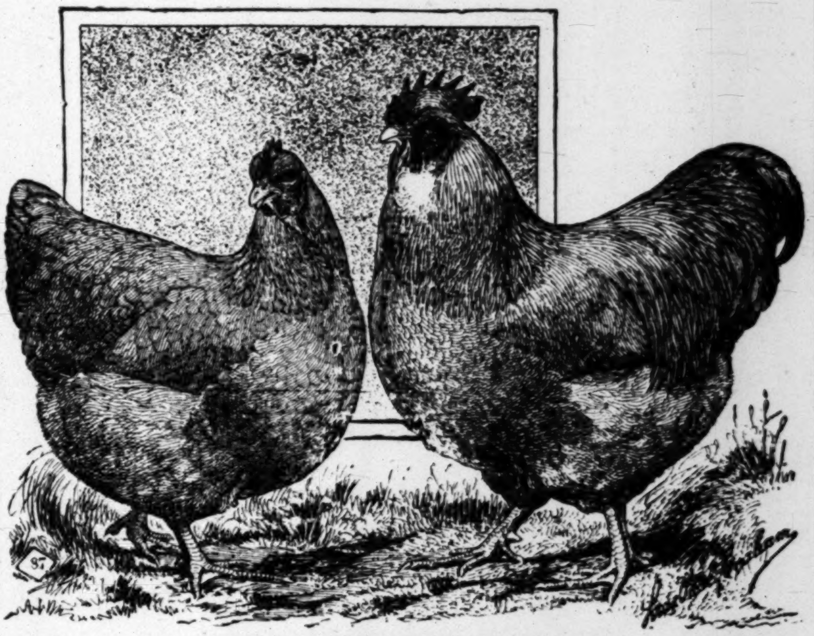
Exploded Notions on Poultry Raising.

By Michael K. Boyer.

The Great English Utility Fowl.



SINGLE COMB BUFF ORPINGTONS.

There are twelve varieties of Orpingtons, a breed that can be called the first really general-purpose fowl, noted for its laying qualities even in winter and for developing early into hardy chickens particularly suited as a table fowl.

The single-comb varieties were popular from the start and were widely bred in England and in the American colonies. They lay brown eggs. The hens become broody, sit and rear chicks. Matured males weigh from eight to ten pounds and females from six to seven pounds. They have white skin and flesh, and excepting the blacks and blues, which have dark shanks and toes, the rest of the breed have pinkish-white legs and toes.

The feathers are of a rich, soft, golden buff in color. The lines of the body are beautiful and their size is notable.

The Buffs were the first to be given recognition by the American Poultry Association. They are adaptable to back-yard flocks as well as to large poultry farms.

Scientific Methods.

THOSE OF TODAY HAVE UPSET ANTIQUATED IDEAS.

[Hundreds of pet theories of old have been exploded by recent years of experimentation and research. Many poultry raisers recall the beliefs that the position of the egg during setting or the shape of the egg had a direct connection with sex.

Such ideas date back to Roman days, but through all the centuries Nature has guarded her secrets jealously, and not even today is one iota more known about the subject than 2000 years ago, except that man cannot influence or foretell sex.

The writer of the following article has compiled some highly interesting matter on the subject.

The illustration shows the beautifully feathered Single Comb Buff Orpingtons.]

DURING the thirty or more years that I have been engaged in poultry culture as a business, I have witnessed the death of hundreds of pet theories, such as the egg type, the nest egg, controlling sex in eggs, thunder storms destroying hatches, the presence of the male for egg production, etc. In those days nothing could have destroyed those theories, but subsequent experimenting and investigation have turned the pet ideas of our forefathers into jokes.

I well remember a theory my father held firmly to regarding the cause of the gape worm. He was engaged in poultry work on quite an extensive scale, about 1870. He contended that lice produced gapes. When a chick was infested with vermin they gradually crawled up to the head of the bird, entered its nostrils and got down into the throat! This caused the chick to gape—hence the name!

Another theory that is even hard to down at the present day is the nest egg. It has been contended for years, and, as I said, still upheld by certain classes, that unless there are eggs in a nest the hen will not lay. One old lady once told me that the way she induces her hens to lay plentifully is to put a half-dozen china nest eggs in the nest. Old Biddy, seeing the collection, grows enthusiastic and adds another, and so on. It was not until the trap nest came into general use that this theory began to totter. Nest eggs are not used in trap nests, and our phenomenal records all come from trap-nested stock.

Males Don't Help Egg Laying.

An equally popular theory was that the presence of the male is necessary in the pen to encourage egg production. On some of the largest poultry egg farms in the country no males are kept, except in the breeding pens. If the attentions of the male are necessary for egg laying, these large farms would have failed. The mission of the male is to fertilize and not make eggs.

We have a theory today that is equally as bad as any just mentioned, namely, the theory that the color of the shell indicates the richness of the contents of the egg. In some sections the demand is heavy for brown eggs, and in others for white eggs. Each champion will declare his choice is one of fine flavor. The truth is, nothing flavors the egg but food. Would a brown egg laid by a hen that had been feasting heavily on fish, or onions, be superior to a white egg laid by a hen that was given pure, sound grain, and vice versa?

The egg-type theory received a severe knock-out when the trap nest gave the phenomenal record to a Brahma hen, and subsequently to birds of the American class, and yet the famous "egg type" was a hen in shape and style much of the Leghorn order.

For years there existed a theory that in case a heavy thunder storm arose toward the end of a hatch, all life in those eggs would be destroyed. Repeated experiments proved that such ideas were without foundation, and one of the best tests I ever knew happened while I was one year visiting poultry farms in New England. A very heavy thunder and lightning storm came up one afternoon. The thunder fairly shook the buildings. Up in the hay loft a hen had stolen a nest, and being very determined to set, the farmer had given her some eggs. The hatch was about due when this storm arose. The lightning came down and struck the barn, and within a short distance of her tore off the weather boarding, but, fortunately, did not set fire to the building. After the storm was over the farmer crept up to the loft, expecting to find Biddy dead. Instead she was peacefully setting on her eggs, and in a day or two afterward brought out a good hatch.

As to Broody Mated Hens.

There are still many who believe that mated hens will become broody before unmated ones. I have had occasion to watch this theory for the past ten years, and have found that there is nothing to it. Each year we have quite a number of hens unmated, selling these eggs for table purposes. Carefully-kept records show that we get as many broodies from our unmated flocks as we do from our breeding pens. We have also learned (we use trap nests) that the early broodies are those that have given us the heaviest egg production during the winter months.

Another old theory is that the small, or "pigeon"-sized egg, is the last of the litter. It was generally believed that that particular hen had wound up her laying for the season. On the contrary, our records show that two days after laying these eggs the normal size is again produced. I remember how some of the farmers looked upon such eggs with suspicion. They were declared "unlucky" and must not be brought into the house. In order to break the spell the command was to throw them over the house chimney.

Another theory was that when the egg is smooth on the end it will produce a pullet, and when it had a zig-zag mark or quirl on one end it was sure to produce a rooster. Repeated experiments have proved that there is nothing whatever in such a belief.

No Way to Foretell Sex.

There is no method known to foretell the sex of eggs, and yet this theory dates back to the early ages. Even Columella, the grand source of poultry antiquity, wrote: "If all males are desired, set only the pointed eggs; if all females, set the rounded ones."

Another version was that eggs long and thin will produce cockerels, while the short, dumpy ones pullets. Again, it used to be claimed that eggs produced before noon are responsible for a certain sex, while those laid after noon will be of the opposite gender. Also, many formerly believed if the newly-laid egg is at once placed under incubation it will hatch a cockerel; but if held for four or five days the result will be pullet.

Also the position of the eggs in the nest determines the sex, according to old notions. Should the end of the egg point south the result will be a pullet, and if to the north, a cockerel, was another old-fashioned idea.

Ancient Roman writers asserted that the males, but Aristotle believed the co

AT THE PICTURESQUE YET PRACTICAL
"Foothill Feather Farm"
7069 W. Franklin Avenue,
Hollywood District, Los Angeles,
A rare spot, with a surpassing equipment—various breeds of fine fowls are grown; but the far-sighted poultryman in charge specializes, when it comes to numbers, on the proven UTILITY BREED—the Single-Comb White Leghorns—keeping hundreds of laying hens of the best California and other approved strains, and supplying eggs in quantities for hatching as well as for the table.
F. F. F. HATCHING EGGS
Veteran and sagacious California poultry growers are coming to recognize the paramount necessity for introducing new blood into their White Leghorn and other flocks; and the Foothill Feather Farm is prepared to do its part by guaranteeing the class and quality of stock sold here.
"There are others" also—Crystal White Orpingtons, selected Barred Rocks, White-faced Black Spanish (Rowan's sweeping prize winners,) Black Minorcas (ribbon getters,) and SILVER
CAMPINES
The Poultry of the Distant Past (this breed having been known on the Plain of La Campine, Belgium, in the time of Julius Caesar,) and the Fowl of the Future—long established and highly prized in Belgium, England and Canada, but comparatively rare in the United States. the august person of the newly-elected guardian of our civic interests, Mr. H. Mellus, the Lord Mayor. Around were the less dignitaries of the body corporate, whose 'ineffectual fire' paled before the effulgence of the great lord of the day. Thus in majesty triumphant—" and so on, with all of the humorous irony of political pea-shooting, finishing with, "We did not observe the cap and bells, but the character was successfully maintained without the dress and decoration." It was in this administration that the telegraph line between San Francisco and the East was extended to Los Angeles, and $100 a month subscribed by citizens for daily dispatches to keep in touch with the war news.

Marchessault was again elected Mayor in 1861 to 1864, Jose Mascarel in 1865, followed by C. Aguilar, D. Marchessault, C. Aguilar—two years—Joel Turner, at which point the specified term of one year was lengthened to two. A considerable amount of building was now under way, there having been up to this time no three-story structures, and only a few of two stories. The first bank was instituted, the manufacture of gas was begun, and the building of railroads agitated, the railway going into operation between Los Angeles and San Pedro in November, 1869.

C. Aguilar was again elected in 1868, and succeeded by Maj. J. R. Toberman, a man whose position of trust in this region, as United States Revenue Assessor under Lincoln, agent of Wells Fargo & Co. Express, secretary of the newly organized gas company, one of the organizers of the first bank, Councilman from his ward—had proven him the man for the place. He was twice reelected, serving from 1879 through 1882, in his third administration materially reducing taxes, and signing a contract with a St. Louis man for our first electric light plant. He was a strong advocate of the Southern Pacific Railroad, securing its admission by voting a tax of $500,000.

Prudent Beaudry went into office, after a sharp skirmish, in 1875. He had previously served as Councilman, and had performed wonders in developing the northwestern hill section of the city, perfecting a high-water service system, and thereby making a charming residence section of the previously barren hills. He inaugurated the canal and reservoir system, and his real estate operations gave to the public at least fifty miles of street. He graded the hill west of New High street, and constructed a retaining wall 565 feet long and fifty feet high at a cost of $100,000. He blockaded the diversion of the public funds to private uses, and it was he who drove the gold spike that completed the first railroad connection between San Francisco and Los Angeles. Later he started the Temple street cable road. He made and lost several fortunes in his operations, being a venturesome spirit, and sparing nothing in his zeal for the city's development.

A. F. McDougall, J. B. Toberman, C. E. Thom, and E. F. Spence successively held the office of Mayor, the first telephones being installed in Spence's administration. Then came the administration of W. H. Workman during 1887 and 1888. Workman has done for the Boyle Heights section what Beaudry did for the west hills—transformed them from a barren, unirrigated, tenantless tract to what they have become now—popular, fertile residence sections. Mayor Workman made a sturdy fight against every manner of graft, with the great representative daily behind him. He discovered that protection money was being received from gamblers by officials, and kept at this, and other violations, finally breaking them up before he went out of office. He initiated the paving of the Los Angeles streets. He tells how upon a trip to Portland he was near when some denizens of Los Angeles met some friends who were thinking of going thither. "Don't!" shouted the Angeleno; "for the town is nothing but mud—mud several feet deep everywhere!" And this is one of the things that "Uncle Billy" cleaned up. He brought about the building of the City Hall, at an expenditure of $280,000. "And not a cent of graft!" declares Uncle Billy proudly. Viaducts were built across the river at very small cost to the city, the Santa Fe contributing $30,000, the cable road $25,000, the Salt Lake Road $10,000, leaving but $20,000 for the city to assume. Mr. Workman also applied to the Council for the cleaning up of the pesthouses, making great reforms in this direction. In his capacity of ex-officio police judge, at the same time he was Mayor, a vagrant was brought before him. Looking at the man closely he saw that he was afflicted with smallpox. Uncle Billy's first thought was to isolate the poor wretch. He had him conveyed hastily to the big cellar scooped out where the Bryson block now stands, and placed in a far corner by himself while the ambulance was sent for.

Mr. Workman donated Hollenbeck Park to the city, and was instrumental in founding Westlake Park. When property in the northwest section was selling for $8 to $10 an acre, the section of thirty-five acres comprising the present park was put up at auction. The auctioneer tried to start the bidding at $10 per acre, gradually coming down without a single bid, until it was finally offered for 25 cents! But no one would have the land even at that figure. Add that is the reason that the city retained it. He persuaded the city to put up half and the members of the Council half of the expense to make a park of the discouraging little alkali hollow, with what result the present Westlake Park bears evidence.

Henry T. Hazard, elected in 1889, continued the work of paving so well commenced. He also made Elysian Park accessible to the public, turning the laugh at "Hazard's burro trail" into admiration.

T. E. Rowan, Frank Rader, M. P. Snyder, Fred Eaton, M. P. Snyder again, Owen McAleer, A. C. Harper, W. D. Stephens, George Alexander, Mayor Rose—and we are down to the present date. It would be impossible to tell outside of a volume of the important work done in each and every administration toward the city's development. The Mayor may be but the servant of the people, but he is in a position of great power for good or ill in a city's development; and Los Angeles has been fortunate.

Altitude and Energy.

[Youth's Companion:] Two members of the Academie des Sciences have made an interesting study of the effect of high altitude upon muscular effort. By repeated observations, they found that at sea level a squirrel confined in a rotary cage made 6700 turns of the wheel a day. They then took the animal to the summit of Mont Blanc, at which height (15,782 feet) it made only 900 turns. When they brought it down to sea level again, it made 5000 turns. The experiment shows that the fatigue felt by mountain climbers is not caused wholly by the exertion of climbing, although that is important. The case of the squirrel, which was carried without any exertion of its own to the summit of a lofty mountain, shows that the lessened atmospheric pressure and the smaller supply of oxygen are enough in themselves to diminish muscular energy. Observations on men, horses and mules in the Cordilleras of the Andes support this conclusion.

Eve's Daughter.

I waited in the little sunny room;
The cool breeze waved the window lace at play;
The white rose on the porch was all in bloom,
And out upon the bay
I watched the wheeling sea birds go and come.

"Such an old friend, she would not make me stay
While she bound up her hair." I turned, and lo,
Danae in her shower! And fit to slay
All a man's hoarded prudence at a blow;
Gold hair that streamed away.

As round a nymph a sunlit fountain's flow,
"She would not make me wait!" But well I know
She took a good half-hour to loose and lay
Those locks in dazzling disarrangement so!
—[E. R. Sill, in Kansas City Star.

"Prunella."

I shall drink starlight for one night,
One perfect night of bliss, and dream
In sleeping gardens of delight,
Where moonshine falls and lilies gleam;
Where the red rose tells passion's birth,
And love is mystical and high,
Enfolding all the somber earth,
Illumining the farthest sky.
Oh, lyric voice that sobs and sings
Life's fullest rapture and regret,
You bid me leave the lesser things—
I hear you—and forget!
—[Leolyn Louise Everett, in Life.

Plain Truths and Simple.

Drug Versus Drugless Healing.

THE JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, like the members of the medical school it represents, does not like the new methods of drugless healing, and in this respect the Journal is not up to date. It does not represent modern conditions. The fact is that the people are becoming tired of drugs, and more thorough study of the human system has developed the methods now practiced by the numerous representatives of the drugless systems, whereby nature is given a chance to effect a cure. The "regular" physicians seek to cure disease by treating symptoms, using such drugs as will neutralize the symptoms exhibited by the patient. The recuperative powers of nature are practically ignored. The drugless healers recognize nature, and by removing the impingement of nerves, the contracted condition of muscles, etc., give nature the opportunity to cure without having to overcome the additional effect of drugs poured into the system to neutralize the symptoms of disease. "Chiropractic is a freak offshoot from osteopathy," says the Journal. "Its followers assert that disease is caused by pressure on spinal nerves and can be eradicated by adjusting the vertebrae. It is the sheerest kind of quackery." The same thing used to be said of osteopathy by the Journal of the American Medical Association, but the allopaths have been compelled to recognize the drugless system practiced by the followers of Dr. Still and the men who were associated with him in the development of osteopathy. The same conditions existed when homeopathy came into the field as a competitor with the allopathic system. The same snub is given Christian Science. The time is coming when the Journal and its followers will have to recognize the superior advantages of drugless-healing methods. In fact, they exist today because of the backwardness of the allopathic physicians in recognizing that there could be other ways of helping nature than by the use of drugs.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association of August 23, 1913, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur of San Francisco, in speaking of the teaching of therapeutics, said students should be given to understand "that the osteopath, the masseur, the hydrotherapeutist, all may obtain therapeutic results even if their knowledge is crude, their logic poor, their theory unscientific," and he warns physicians that "they will find their superior knowledge is not a sufficient magnet to draw patients to them from the hands of the drugless healer and the faddist. Drugless healing," he continues, "is a reproach to medicine." Drugs are nauseating, and the people are becoming tired of being nauseated, and once having experienced the greater pleasure of the drugless methods they are done with drugs forever.

The "Blind Spot" in Diagnosis.

[Chicago Tribune:] There is a certain area of the retina called the blind spot. Any image thrown by the lens on that spot alone is unseen. Cabot says that most doctors develop retinal blind spotism when they get a notion that a person is neurasthenic or hysteric. At once they become unseeing.

To prove it he cites the details in six cases. A girl had pain scattered throughout her body and a lot of miscellaneous feelings and oppressions. She had diabetes. A hard-working Irish woman had all the signs of nervousness from overwork and nothing more. She had consumption in an early stage.

A hysterical telephone girl had hysterics all right enough, but she also had a fatal suppurative inflammation of the kidney. Another had a tumor in the chest. The sixth case who felt "all smashed up" had insomnia due to nervousness, and was found to have Bright's disease.

Do We Need to Eat Meat?

The high cost of meat, and the probability that it will remain high, naturally raises the question of the actual need of meat for the preservation of our health and strength. There are advocates both for and against the use of meat, but neither one is conclusive. In Health Culture for April human beings are compared with the ape which has the same blood characteristic and possesses the same organs we do; sees, tastes, feels as we do, and under civilized conditions is affected by drugs the same way as we are. The conclusion is that food suited to the ape should be also suited to his higher neighbor, man. The ape is not an eater of flesh; his diet is grains, nuts, green plants, birds' eggs, etc. The enormous physical strength of the ape family proves the efficiency of his diet.

It is of little use to say that we have always eaten meat, and cannot do without it. It is by consideration of all points bearing upon human welfare and improvement that we are to arrive at normal diet conditions, and while we have made improvements there are many subjects in which we are still lacking, one of which is diet. In Brain and Brawn we are told that "one of the absurd claims put forth in behalf of flesh food by those who are ignorant of food values—including many physicians—is that it is necessary to furnish the protein or muscle-forming element of food. Let us see: Here are the average amounts, in ounces, of protein contained in one pound of various foods. Beefsteak, 3¼; dried beans, 5; cream cheese, 4½; peanuts, 3; oatmeal, 2. So you see that even oatmeal contains two-thirds as much, and beans 50 per cent. more protein than beefsteak."

The Journal of the American Medical Association commenting on the availability of nutrients from plant sources says it has long been believed that it may be possible to utilize green vegetables so as to make them more available for digestion and assimilation by man. In Germany it has been found that bean powder fed to man in the form of a puree contains far more nourishment than beans served in the usual form. Spinach, carrots and cabbage, similarly prepared, were enjoyed with singular freedom from the troublesome intestinal symptoms which so often follow their use. The usefulness of these plant products appears to have been augmented by their preliminary treatment. A group of vegetable products has thus been converted into a source of nutriment. The report of the Altona clinic shows that ten ounces a day of vegetable powder, equivalent to six pounds of fresh plant, may easily be assimilated—an amount which in the natural state could not be tolerated. Without discussing the advantages and disadvantages of the use of foods of animal and vegetable origin, we are bound to admit that man and animal alike are dependent on plants for nutrition, and with improved processes of preparing plants as food there will be less demand for meat, as it is just as well to absorb food values of plants directly as indirectly after they have been turned into meat by animals.

Look Out for Ptomaine Poisoning.

As the warm weather comes on it is necessary that care be taken to avoid ptomaine poisoning. This danger is supposed to come from eating meat of diseased animals, but it may come from canned goods that have been imperfectly sealed. It is impossible to detect the poisonous bacteria without bacteriological examination, owing to the fact that they do not cause putrefaction. In the great majority of cases cooking renders such articles of food harmless, but there are many articles of canned food that are eaten without cooking beyond what is done when they are put up at the factory; then again, there are cases on record where the bacteria have survived though the food has been cooked after taken from its receptacle, and illness and death have resulted. A few don'ts are therefore in order:

Don't keep meat in the refrigerator unless it is properly iced.

Don't omit to clean the refrigerator frequently, using strong hot soda solution.

Don't use meat unless it is absolutely fresh; never attempt to freshen it by washing with salt, soda, etc.

Don't buy chopped meats or sausage unless absolutely sure that it is fresh.

Finally, don't buy from any butcher unless sure that his meats are fresh and handled in a sanitary manner.

Symptoms of ptomaine poisoning are vomiting, severe abdominal pains, diarrhoea, fever, and prostration, oftentimes resulting in death. Canned foods are more universally used in summer than at any other time of the year, though here in Southern California they are much used at all seasons, and it is well to keep in mind the importance of looking at the can before opening it to see if it has bulged any at the ends, indicating the presence of gas in the can. Unless absolutely sure that the food is good it is better to throw it away, as a few cents lost in that way might save many dollars from illness.

If any of the symptoms of ptomaine poisoning should be felt, a prompt emetic should be taken that the stomach may be emptied of its contents. Do not wait to call the doctor. Swallow a spoonful of salt and at the same time mix a spoonful of mustard in either hot or cold water, and swallow it as soon as possible. Don't wait upon the order of doing it, but do it at once. Then if you want to send for the doctor to have him end up the case, it may be done, but don't forget that there are things to do before he can get there.

Some Uses of Sugar.

There are many more uses for sugar than as food for man. It has been used for many years as a component of high-grade cement, giving it additional strength. It is a good fattening substance for cattle. It is of value in many industries because of the fact that it is a cheap carbohydrate containing a large proportion of carbon and has properties analogous to those of the acids in forming definite and soluble compounds with some bases. Old-fashioned blacking containing sugar is regarded by many people as superior in its properties of polishing and preserving leather to the modern wax and fluid polishes. Sugar finds extended application in the printing industry, entering into the composition of printers' ink and printers' rollers are made of a mixture of glue and glycerin or sugar. As a cheap substitute for glycerin or alcohol, it enters into the composition of transparent soaps, and a combination with nitric acid yields a series of explosives. In leather manufacture it is said to be used to remove the lime "used as a scourer of the hides."

As a component of chewing tobacco the American Tobacco Company is said to be contracting for a large proportion of the maple sugar produced in Northern New York the present season.

A Good Physical Condition.

When the back muscles and the abdominal muscles are in good tone, when there is just enough fat and not too much, when the abdomen measures less than the chest, the organs of the abdomen are in the position where they were placed when Nature started us out. The stomach is above the navel and on the left side. The emptying end of the stomach is in the middle line above the navel, and the small and large intestines are properly coiled up below it. The liver is on the right side, the spleen on the left side, and behind and below are the kidneys and the organs of generation. The organs are held in position by three structures, firm holding ligaments, muscles and fat. As the result of flabby muscles, of being too thin, of being too fat and then suddenly becoming thin, of insufficient chewing of the food, of improper eating, of wearing corsets and perhaps of other causes, the organs sometimes get out of position and do not work right. The stomach may have slouched down until it reaches well into the pelvis, or the large intestine, instead of crossing the abdomen above the navel, sags down three or four inches below the navel. The stomach tires itself out trying to lift food from the pelvis back up to the region of the liver; the large intestine does not do its work properly, and there is constipation.

The first thing to do is to arrange for some setting-up process to develop both tissue and muscle tone. A good developer of both the abdominal and back muscles is to lie on the floor, and practice raising the feet to a vertical position and then raising the body to a vertical position. Rolling on the floor so as to twist the abdominal muscles is a good exerciser for them, and as the muscles recover their strength the organs of the body will be drawn back into position. There is not much hope for a person with a sagged abdomen. He is to complain of one thing after long as he lives. When such an condition is discovered it is time for him to change his habits, and change a thorough one.

Vocal Physiology.

THROAT AND LUNGS STRENGTHENED BY PROPER USE.

By Edward B. Warman. A. M.

It is an acknowledged fact and one in which our leading physicians will concur, that ignorance of the right use of the lungs and larynx is the cause of much of the bronchitis and pulmonary consumption among students, teachers, clergymen, vocalists and other public and professional men and women.

The difficulty arises not in using the voice too much, but in not using it correctly. Under a skilful teacher there is no danger of the most delicate and sensitive throat being injured, but on the contrary, all of the vocal organs will be strengthened, and weak lungs will become strong and healthful in their action. I speak of a skilful teacher because many voices have been seriously injured through the ignorance of persons undertaking to teach vocal training, while they themselves know little or nothing of the mechanism of the human voice, of its wonderful possibilities, and of the anatomy and physiology of the vocal apparatus.

It will always be found that a little showing—personal work — is worth volumes of written instruction, but there are thousands who may be reached by the pen who cannot avail themselves of the advantages gained by coming under the direct supervision of the teacher.

The training of the voice is a health proposition.

Some years ago a young lady came to me for physical exercises. The doctor pronounced her condition tubercular and decreed that she would "pass over when the leaves fall," unless some means other than medicine were employed. At this juncture she came to me and I realized that immediate attention was necessary, but I was impressed that in her case vocal treatment was indicated. Anyhow, the basis of all physical and vocal work is identical: viz: the correct position and carriage of the body and the necessity of correct breathing. Acting on this hypothesis, I began. At the end of five weeks—taking three lessons a week—she had gained twenty-five pounds in weight, and every vestige of the cough had disappeared; in fact she had obtained a new lease on life. When I saw her again "the leaves had fallen" for eight consecutive seasons and she was the very picture of health.

This, and hundreds of other cases, furnish conclusive proof that no better exercise can be given for throat, bronchia and lungs than proper voice training.

As a rule avoid the various nostrums for the voice—troches, cough drops, expectorants, etc.—they may appear to improve the voice but they will ultimately prove a detriment, the tone of the mucus membrane becoming more or less affected; in fact, so perverted that serious results may follow. Keep the throat, especially the pharyngeal cavity, as clear and clean as possible, as its lining requires the same care in the matter of cleanliness as does the lining of a flute. Gargle the throat night and morning with salt and water, and there will be no need of nostrums of any kind and no fear of throat trouble. As it is not always convenient to have fresh water the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night, I would suggest that a pint or quart bottle of a saturated solution (of salt and water)—or nearly so—be kept on hand, otherwise you are likely to neglect it. While you are gargling give the vocal organs exercise by singing "Ah" through all the variations—now high, now low, now loud, now soft.

Avoid tight collars, tight neckties or tight neckbands of any kind, as they interfere with the free circulation of the blood, also causing headache and vertigo. Avoid clearing(?) the throat and coughing. Continued coughing is like trying to heal a wound by scratching it. When tempted to cough, draw a long breath (through the nostrils) and check it a moment—until it warms and soothes every cell, then emit it slowly through the mouth. The nitrogen, which is held momentarily, acts as an anodyne to the irritated mucous membrane, allaying the desire to cough, thus giving the throat and bronchia a chance to heal.

In case of hoarseness resulting from a "cold," if it makes itself felt at the very inopportune time of just before speaking or singing, immediate relief may be had by allowing a little crumb of muriate of ammonia to slowly dissolve in the mouth. This may be had in convenient tablet form at druggists, or you can get a lump of it for a nickel—enough to last you a lifetime. It is not intended that you should make a meal of it—nor will you want to after you have tasted it. I have known it to restore the voice in a few minutes in case of one who could not speak above a whisper; but it should be used in the manner designated—only an occasional nibble from the lump or an occasional tablet. There is no danger, you understand, but you can have too much of a good thing. Any unpleasantness in the stomach will affect the voice.

As "prevention is better than cure," I would suggest that you do not "catch cold," and then you will escape the unpleasant concomitants—sore throat, hoarseness, swollen tonsils, elongated uvula, etc., etc. But how? Five things observe with care—what you eat, how you eat, when you eat, what you breathe and what you wear.

The health of the speaker or singer may be more or less impaired by insufficient ventilation of the church or hall. This, as well as the acoustics, is of the utmost importance. It is a well-known fact that sound is audible, in a greater or lesser degree, according to the density or resistance of the aerial fluid. When that fluid is thin the sound of the voice is diminished; whereas, if that fluid be wholly removed—as in an empty receiver—no sound whatever will result. This explains why the voice is more easily heard in a room when it is empty than when it is full. Another cause is that the clothing of the audience and the carpets and upholstering have a tendency to deaden the sound. Churches and all public halls should be thoroughly ventilated not only previous to their use, but during the time, as the internal heat rarefies the air, thereby forming an obstruction to the voice and interfering with its carrying power.

Be careful regarding the pitch of the voice if you wish to preserve a healthful condition of the throat and vocal chords. Because today you speak to an audience of 500 and on the morrow to 5000, it is not necessary to raise the pitch to reach the multitude. This is a very common error. I could cite you cases in my own experience in which I have been heard by indoor and outdoor audiences ranging from 5000 to 25,000. This should be done without either hoarseness, weariness or effort, but with voice and manner that will command attention. The physiological principle that is involved is: first, the voice must be well placed against the hard palate; second, it must be sustained by the correct use of the diaphragm and the waist muscles; third, the words must be carved (not clipped,) firm and well rounded, giving to every element its due quantity and quality.

The vowels, naturally, are full and open and when properly given will carry a great distance without effort. Distinctness, however, is due to the consonants—the hinges, joints, articulations between the vowels. Special care should be given to the final consonants; that is, the voice should be projected beyond the shut positions without opening the position—thus avoiding the explosive voice and puff of breath so frequently heard in speaking and singing. Ninety-nine out of every 100 speakers and singers swallow, so to speak, the final consonants, and even the final syllables, instead of projecting them.

Instead of raising the pitch the words should be magnified in proportion to the distance they are to cover. The great difficulty, physiologically speaking, is the rasping of the throat—too great contraction for the volume of voice sent through it.

A good rule to follow in addressing very large audiences is to speak to those in the last row of seats in such a tone of voice, quantity and quality, as will not be unpleasant to those who are near. Be distinct without being pedantic. In the most impassioned discourse the same rule holds good, and the orator in his flights of eloquence gets what is termed a "swing to his sentences." There should be a continuity of the flow of words together with that of the voice.

Avoid monotony (except when singing a baby to sleep.) Choose the best tone for ease and strength, then play above and below it. Do not begin on a high key, do not strain the vocal organs, do not attempt that which you are unprepared to give. For health-sake study the voice from a physical viewpoint as a basis, and then add the soul element as a capstone to the structure.

Cocky Youth.

Young scientists are inclined to be arrogant, and to think they know it all. As they grow older—if they are not altogether hopeless, but are able to think—they begin to find out how little they really know, like Sir Isaac Newton, who, on his deathbed, when congratulated by a student on his attainments, replied: "I feel like a child picking up shells on the shore of the Ocean of Knowledge."

Too Much Talk.

Constant talking exhausts the vitality. Meaningless society phrases are an unnecessary tax on the nervous system. Constant talking prevents one from thinking. Some cannot, or will not, think. They are lost and miserable without someone to talk to. You, my reader, I presume are not one of these. Talk less and think more. Do not "make talk." Talk when you have something to say.

No Use Thinking a Lie.

It is foolish and futile to affirm that you are healthy and wealthy and happy, when you know that you are sick, and poor, and miserable. As I have said, I do not see how anyone with a sense of humor can do this and look in the mirror without laughing at himself. On the other hand, it is well to affirm not that you are, but that you will be healthy, wealthy and happy, provided you follow up that affirmation by taking rational steps to secure what you desire, for there is scarcely any limit to what may be accomplished by determination and perseverance, backed by a strong will. Do not, however, permit yourself to be deluded into the belief that by taking "thot," new or old, you may either "add a cubit to your stature," or sit down and have things brought to you.

separating them from the plaza. On the other side of the corridors is a wall of cave-like vaults, lighted only from the front and the roof. The stores are fifteen or twenty feet wide and twenty or thirty or more feet deep, and their ceilings are arched, so that the whole looks like one long vault. The goods are hung from the ceilings and piled up on the floors. The market seems to be a good one, and I saw many American articles.

Nearly all the houses of Arequipa have vaulted roofs and on some of the one-story structures the roofs extend up in oval domes or hoods. The city is under the shadow of the volcano Mt. Misti and in the past has had serious earthquakes. For this reason the skyscraper will never be known, and today a five-story building would be the talk of the town.

The city is one of the oldest towns in America and it dates back almost to the days of Pizarro. It is a place of old families, and of considerable culture. It is an ecclesiastical and political center. It has a university and several colleges, and also a school of arts and an agricultural institute. Moreover, it boasts of having the finest hospital in all South America, and that although its climate is one of the finest on earth.

In fact, I doubt whether you will find many places that have finer weather all the year around than Arequipa. The sky is almost always blue, and the sun almost always shines. At least this has been the case until lately. The people tell me there are more clouds in the sky now than ever before, and I understand that this cloudy condition is so increasing that Harvard University is seriously considering the removal of its observatory from here to some other place.

I doubt not, many of you have heard of the Harvard Observatory. It is one of the most noted astronomical stations of the whole world. It is situated on the slope of Mt. Misti, 500 feet above Arequipa, at such a place that its telescropes have an unobstructed view of the heavens. The institution has a fine plant, and it is equipped with great telescopes, one of which has a lens two feet in diameter enabling them to take photographs on plates fourteen by seventeen inches in size. The tube of that instrument must weigh a ton, but it is so delicately hung that a child could move it. There are other telescopes for taking the portraits of the stars, and for the past two or three decades these scientists of Harvard have been making heavenly records of this southern hemisphere. They have taken as many as fifty a night and thousands a year. The negatives after having been developed are shipped to Cambridge, where they are kept on file for scientific work. There is no such collection anywhere else and astronomers have to go there if they would make certain classes of study.

The Southern Cross.

There is, I am told, nothing duplicated in the sky. Each half of the world has its own stars and constellations, and there are some here that we never see in the north. One of these is the Southern Cross, but it seems to me that its beauty has been greatly exaggerated. There are only four stars in it, and they are so small that you have to look hard to find them. They do not compare with the Great Dipper. Many of the other stars are far more brilliant than in the north. This is so of the Milky Way, and of the most of the planets. I have been on the equator when the path of a planet on the still waters of the ocean was almost as well marked as that of the moon; and in riding at night up the Amazon River the stars were so close it seemed as though I could almost reach out and grasp them. Another reason for moving the Harvard Observatory is that its work has resulted in the southern heavens having been pretty thoroughly studied and mapped, and that reason for its existence has to some extent passed away.

The story of the establishment of this observatory is interesting. It is now about thirty-five years since Uriah H. Borden died and left $200,000 to Harvard University, with the understanding that the money was to be used to build an observatory at the best place upon earth for the study of the stars. The college authorities first tried Colorado and California, and then came to South America. Their first work was done back of Lima, at an altitude of about that of Mt. Washington on what is now called Mt. Harvard; but in 1890 they changed their station to Arequipa. The change was made because this place was thought to have more clear days and clear nights than any other locality on earth. Since then the astronomers of the university have been working here right along, and that not only at the observatory, but at the automatic meteorological station, which they have placed on the top of Mt. Misti.

Mt. Misti is 19,200 feet high, and this station is said to be the highest of its kind in the world. It is higher than any point in America outside Alaska, and it is fully a mile higher than our observatory on the top of Pike's Peak. The site of the station is on the edge of a huge crater, which until lately has been sending out clouds of yellow sulphurous vapor a thousand feet into the air. These clouds have now stopped and I am told that the volcano has been spitting out water and steam. No one knows what this may portend. The automatic instruments on the mountain are keeping a record of meteorological movements and the scientists visit them at intervals and bring back the results. The machines work with great regularity, but sometimes the mountain is so covered with snow and at other times visited by terrible winds, so that there may now and then be a break. Prof. Bailey, who established the stations, had great trouble in getting the Indians to help him up the volcano with the instruments, and it took a large number of mules to carry the material. At the top he found an iron cross standing and at this the Indians fell down and worshiped.

From Mollendo to Arequipa.

I wish I could take you over the trip I made up the Andes from Mollendo to Arequipa. The country is more dreary and wilder in aspect than that above Lima. We rode for miles without seeing a blade of grass or anything green. We passed over great beds of sand, walled with bluffs that had been ground so smooth by the winds that the strata showed forth. We passed traveling sand hills, great crescents or dunes, made by the grains of sand rolling over and over up the hill until they reached the top of the crest and rolled down the inside. Further on the sand had cut into the rock of the mountains, making great cracks in it like the wrinkles on an old woman's face. All the erosion here comes from the winds. There is no rain whatever and nevertheless the rocks in many places are ground to a powder.

Further on up the railroad the Andes grew wilder, and we seemed to have reached the very heart of old Mother Earth. Everything was rock, and there was not a bit of green to be seen. There was no soil. Indeed, it seemed as though the skin of vegetation and life had been peeled from the earth, and that we had our great rocky ball before us as it was before plant life or animal life had sprung into being.

At the same time, the scenery was magnificent. The air is so clear here that you can see for miles, and the clouds painted velvet spots on the hills. Toward evening the sun tinted the mountains with the most delicate blues, pinks, lavenders and mauves, and the whole looked like a mighty picture in colors, instantaneously sketched by the hands of the gods. As we started out we could see the ocean rolling its spray high on the beach, and at the close of our journey the moon was just rising over the snow of the mountains above old Arequipa. The whole formed a panorama such as I have seen nowhere else, and such as I venture can be seen nowhere else in the world.

Our Manner of Speech.

[Indianapolis News:] Wu Ting-Fang, who was Minister to this country from China, has written a book about us. His observations, like himself, are interesting, and will be instructive to those who can receive them. But here, as in so many things, there will be much that we cannot receive, simply because we cannot. We are not able to recognize their truth and oppositeness. One may be illustrated in his criticism of our drawling speech. He recognizes with acuteness that we speak with directness, and this makes him wonder the more that we should drawl our words and sentences to such a degree sometimes as to allow a story to grow "cold." He thinks we would much improve our speech if we would speed it up.

We are the folk that drawl, we and the southerners, far more than the easterners. Speech on the Atlantic Coast, at least from New York north, is noticeably faster than with us. Speech in Canada is still faster. It is there given with a jerk and rush that is not agreeable to us drawling folk; but as to its speed there is no doubt. We all of us drawl our speech, but more in the West than in the East; we give full force to every syllable, and in the last syllable generally give it more than full value by "sitting down on it," as the descriptive saying is. We drawl out Mi-lan and Ber-lin with a long rest on the last syllable, while the true accent is on the first syllable, quickly given, with the last slurred. So we tend generally to throw accents toward the end of words, whereas the genius of the language is to throw them at the beginning. It was by this means that the English gained two hours a day in their speech, as Voltaire said.

Thus we call the great English playwright Pi-nee-ro, with the accent on the second syllable, instead of Pin-e-ro, accent first. But how much of all this shall we be able to recognize? Not a great deal. Otherwise we should correct our speech, while the patent fact is that our common schools go on year after year, teaching our drawl, as well as our flattened vowels. Climate is supposed to be the great factor in things of this kind. It educates ear, as well as vocal organs, and this is one of the reasons that reformation is so difficult. People of the region of Philadelphia, for example, often cannot distinguish an "h," saying "wy" for "why," and not being able to aspirate the word when it is called for, because their ears do not guide them. The whole subject is an interesting one.

Wood Oil for Varnish.

[Indianapolis News:] Five million gallons of wood oil (also known as tung oil,) made from the seeds of the wood oil tree, was imported from China last year, and the product is said to have had a revolutionary effect on the varnish industry of the United States. It has largely taken the place of kauri gum and has made possible the manufacture of a quicker drying varnish, which is less liable to crack than that made from kauri gum, and has been found of special value in waterproof priming for cement. The tree is climatically adapted for cultivation in the Southern States, and the Department of Agriculture is distributing one-year-old specimens to bona fide experimenters.

Italy's Telephone Service.

[Indianapolis News:] Under an act of the Italian Parliament of July 15, 1907, the telephone service in the larger cities of the kingdom was taken over by the government through the purchase of the plants of the largest two operating companies. Several smaller companies were allowed to continue operations for ten years before being taken over. The government operates the principal long-distance lines and has exchanges in sixty-nine cities. On June 30, 1913, the number of government subscribers was 51,828, and of subscribers to private lines 24,233.

Bertillon's Heavy Brain.

[Indianapolis News:] Dr. Alphonse Bertillon, head of the criminal identification bureau of the Paris prefecture of police, left his skull by will to the Academy of Medicine. Dr. Manouvrier has dissected the bequest and finds that the brain weighs 1525 grams, as against the weight of the normal brain of 1300 grams. The weight is regarded as all the more remarkable when it is remembered that Dr. Bertillon had for a long time suffered from pernicious anaemia.

down the ocean surges with hull and towering mast;
in the sail, gilding lavished
the rail,
decks upon the ocean 'neath the flag of Spain;
splashed with smiles and tears,
decks and buccaneers;
of the long-dead voyages that never go again.

there or did we dream? Does ant fancy scheme? really see her flying on that wan-
mer day?
ded to the mast, while we led her fast, shot stormed hard behind her backed her yard and lay.
memory serve us clear, that we her stark and drear—yards a sheet of flame against darkened western sky?
ted of their gold, cargo gutted her hold,
godly crew that manned her all

The Old Tract Gang.

'Twas just an ould photograph, faded an' yellow,
Long treasured in somebody's album, Oi know,
But from it came mimories, sacred an' mellow,
Thot gave me back fri'nds av a glad long ago.

It brought to me moind th' ould thrack gang, begorra,
Thim b'ys as well knew how a rail should be laid;
Thim lads as could work all tonoight an' tomorrow,
Thin shpit on their hands an' go livel a grade.

Though humble an' poor, they were min, let me tell ye,
Wid gintlemen's proide in their sinew an' bone;
Their hearts were as babes if a sorrow befell ye,
But pity they'd not for a blackgyard or drone.

Down there on th' thrack wid their shovels an' gauges,
Their picks an' their crowbars av hefty desoign.
Ye heard not a word about history's pages,
But: "Squint at thot rail, lads, an' get it in loine."

Shure they had no derricks or fancy invintions
For liftin' the rails from th' top av th' car;
They used Oirish muscles av Trojan diminsions
An' tumbled thim off wid th' aid av a bar.

They tamped ties an' laughed av their own youthful glory
Whin they wint a-sparkin' on Erin's ould sod;
They paused now an' thin for th' joke av a shtory
An' pitied poor divils thot carried th' hod.

At noon, whin th' boss sounded truce for an hour,
Their dinner pails filled iv'ry innermost nade;
Thin, peaceful an' calm as a midsummer shower,
They smoked their dudeens in th' cool av th' shade.

But thim was th' ould days, days sacred an' mellow,
Whin thracklayin' shkill was a virtue, begob,
So take off yer hat to ould ganius, young fellow;
Thim b'ys could build railroad—an' loaf on th' job!

The Sea.

In you are all the little streams
That came so far to reach your breast.
You were the center of their dreams,
Where now they lie at rest.

They lie like chords across your heart,
Invisible to mortal eye,
But the wind knows them all apart,
And as he passes by

He touches them with careful hands,
He plays the harp of the great sea,
An instrument none understands
Nor loves so well as he.

II.

At midnight when on land the dead arise,
Creeping through the long grass like fireflies,

The drowned come up and walk upon the sea,
And live a little while in memory.

And it is strange to see them walking there,
With shells and seaweed tangled in their hair.

I heard one speak in that immensity.
He said: "The sea does not seem strange to me,

"But as a friend that I have known for years
Its salt is like the savor of my tears."

HUMOR.

[Judge:] Hostess: I am glad you children decided to come for dinner.

Little Josie: We didn't tum for dinner; we tum to hear Willie's grandpa eat his soup.

[Boston Transcript:] Mrs. Youngbride: I'd like some fish, please. What are these in the barrel?

Clerk: Salt mackerel, ma'am.

Mrs. Youngbride: Are they quite fresh?

[Yonkers Statesman:] Professor: Now, have I proved anything to you by these statistics?"

Student: Yes, professor, you have proved to me that statistics are a bore.

[Chicago News:] Reporter: I hear a wild man was seen roaming about in a swamp here.

Native: Yes; he was a city man, trying to locate a choice building lot he's just bought!

[Madrid Blanco y Negro:] "Have no doubt about it; where there is most danger in case of accident is in the rear cars."

"Then why do you put such cars on the trains?"

[Philadelphia Record:] She: Don't you think secrets are lots of fun?

He: Sure. A man gets almost as much pleasure out of keeping a secret as a woman gets from telling one.

[London Opinion:] Grannie: Why should I take another chair, Gerald? Don't you think I'm comfortable here?

Gerald: Yes, gran'ma; but I'm afraid my little kitten isn't—she's there, too.

[London Tit-Bits:] The young man, leading a dog by a string, lounged up to the ticket office of a railway station and inquired: "Must I—aw—take a ticket for a puppy?"

"No; you can travel as an ordinary passenger," was the reply.

[Detroit Free Press:] "She's head over heels in love with him."

"That so?"

"Yes, she's got to the point where she can't see how she can possibly live without the automobile he owns.

[Washington Star:] "With telephones and automobiles," said the economist, "the farmer will soon be entirely independent of the city."

"Never," replied Mrs. Corntossel. "We'll always have to be going to town—unless they discover some way of sending moving pictures by mail."

[Florida Times Union:] "Oh, Clara, we will have to say good-by. I am called out of town on urgent business."

"Oh, George——"

"But before I go, dear, I want to take a lock of your hair with me."

"Why, of course, George—here is a lock from my new green wig."

[Louisville Courier-Journal:] "Here's a critic says the drama is in its second childhood."

"I notice it has taken to playing in the mud."

[Boston Transcript:] "Bobbie, why did you take your little sister's candy and eat it? Why didn't you ask her if you could have it?"

"Why, I did, mamma, and she said I couldn't."

[Judge:] "What are you making such a fuss about? I thought being executor of an estate was a soft thing."

"Perhaps it is sometimes. But I have to wind up the affairs of a clockmaker."

[Puck:] "Why won't Miss Wombat dance with you? She seems to avoid you. Is she angry with you?"

"No; but I'm trying to get a chance to propose and it looks as if she knows it.'

[Yonkers Statesman:] Bill: I see a Philadelphia scientist is on his way to the Hawaiian Islands to spend three months studying the habits, evolution and variations of tree snails.

Jill: Oh, well, they'll wait for him.

[Kansas City Journal:] "Then your Arctic expedition was a fizzle?"

"Not absolutely. I didn't get enough material for a two-hour lecture, it is true. But I think I can break into vaudeville with a twenty-minute talk."

[Detroit Free Press:] "I thought you women met to study history, not to gossip."

"Well, after discussing Henry VIII and his numerous divorces, it seemed squeamish to balk at the details of a few divorces in our more immediate circle."
